Motion to Print Letter in Journal.

On motion of Mr. Heisinger, the following letter was ordered printed in the Journal:

AMERICAN ASSOCIATION OF SOCIAL WORKERS.
SEQUOIA CHAPTER.
(Chapter Pending.)

M and San Joaquin,
Fresno, California, February 20, 1940.

Assemblyman S. L. Heisinger, Fresno County.

State Capitol, Sacramento, California.

DEAR SIR: The Sequoia Chapter of the American Association of Social Workers covers San Joaquin Valley counties from Kern to Madera County, and this letter is addressed to you as one of the members of the Legislature representing the districts in which our members reside. As your constituents we wish you to know that social workers are thinking of the problem of relief at the present time in California.

We feel a very keen interest in the people because of our training and experience in actually working with these very people who are affected by unemployment. Work toward the solution of the economic problem which makes these people unemployed seems to us to be of paramount importance. Until the economic situation is resolved, assistance is necessary for the unemployed. We, as social workers, feel that the lawmakers at Sacramento should be utilizing their intelligence and experience in working out the economic problem.

A ceiling on budgets, the extension of residence laws, exclusion of aliens, and tightening of eligibility requirements that will lower already existing inadequate relief assistance, appear to have been accepted as major points to solve the present unemployment relief problem. Experience and facts of social work show that the unemployed must have support in order to keep them mentally and physically fit for employment when this is made available.

In Fresno County alone a ceiling on budgets at $60.00 relief per month would affect 593 families or 4575 persons. With the present relief budgets the average assistance per month per person is $8.95 to cover food, rent and utilities. In this group, the families average 8 persons with an average budget of $71.67 representing approximately one-sixth of the Fresno County case load. Should a ceiling be placed at $60.00 per family per month each person in these families affected would receive $7.53 for food, rent and utilities, instead of the already low figure of $8.95. To exclude aliens would exclude a large percentage of native born citizens. A survey made by SRA in February of 1939 revealed that only 6.3 per cent of those on relief are foreign born aliens and 93.7 per cent of such dependents are citizens. We feel we have no right to deliberately set up a plan to discriminate against citizens.

All those receiving assistance with varying years of residence in California are citizens in search of employment and are persons essential to seasonal labor demands.

The members of the Sequoia Chapter of the American Association of Social Workers feel that energies should all be combined to build up a more adequate and efficient administration of unemployment relief utilizing all the excellent achievements in the State Relief Administration.

We should improve the organization already in effect instead of regressing in social work experience. We should care for the unemployed as adequately as is possible in California and work toward a solution of the basic economic factors.

Sincerely,

MYRA SHELTON.

Chairman, Legislative Committee.

Motion to Print Remarks in Journal.

On motion of Mr. Atkinson the remarks of Miss Miller re Assembly Bill No. 7 were ordered printed in the Journal.

Mr. Speaker and Members of the Assembly:

Those of you who have served with me during the years of my service here may have observed that I have endeavored to use discretion in the matter of sponsoring bills, in that they must be measures that I deem of unusual importance. Such a bill, this one under discussion, the Fire Bill, seems to me to be important.

When the bill was being considered in the Ways and Means Committee I did not raise my voice in its favor, because I believed no further argument was needed to bring it out. But such was not the case.

That night I went to my hotel room, and conscience "that doth make cowards of us all" troubled me until the clock on the cathedral tolled the midnight hour—"when o'er the one-half world Nature seems dead." Then the bell continued to sound the hours of one, and two, and three and four as I lay there contemplating scenes which I had witnessed in a tour of inspection of our State institutions.

In one four-story building of an institution that I recalled, on the fourth floor, I saw mattresses piled high at intervals in the large dormitory and on the outside porch that at night are placed on the floor row on row, so close together that one can scarcely go between them. These mark the so-called resting places of those "whose noble and most sovereign reason, like sweet bells jangled, harsh and out of tune" lie and woo that "sleep which knits up the ravelled sleeve of care."

I have heard some men in this House speak today of these persons as "those poor devils." I could not so denominate them. They are somebody's loved ones, who have been placed there "in double trust." First a court has assigned them there; and second, the State has received these persons with the understanding by their families that they will be protected.

I never saw, and may it please God that I shall never again behold so deplorable a spectacle.

Their sad eyes appealed to me as I passed by and some of them made bold to catch the hem of our garments and plead that they should be released. As I think of them when I am safely ensconced on my bed of ease, with comparative safeguards, I seem to hear them in the voice of that prisoner in the tower in "Il Trovatore"—"Non ti scor dar, Non ti scor dar de mi."—"Dost thou not remember, Dost thou not remember me?"

So we come today with this bill which would provide, even though it may be inadequately, with some measure of fire protection.

Some have suggested that the element of politics has entered into the promotion of this measure. Others claim that there are no funds for this provision.

Neither of these objections affects me. So far as I am concerned there is no politics in this bill. Since January, we heard last night, seventeen million dollars have been appropriated for relief of sane people, many of them able bodied. This is well. But I am pleading for a much less sum, seventy-five thousand dollars only, which will last over an entire year, for more adequate fire protection for those physically and mentally unfit inmates of our institutions who are incapable of caring for themselves.

This action should have been taken many years before. But "Tomorrow and tomorrow, and tomorrow creeps in this petty pace from day to day," and we procrastinate. We fail to do that which in our thoughtful moments we know we should put into action. Even our "present fears" concerning the fate of these our charges "are less than horrible imaginings." If a fire should break out in the wild night "I could a tale unfold whose lightest word would harrow up thy soul." Let us act now.

I recall the true story of a young man named Spencer of Northwestern University life-saving crew, who, when a ship was sinking, swam out and in, and out and in bringing each time with him a drowning man, until he had saved the majority of the imperiled passengers. Then he lapsed into delirium crying out, "Did I do my best? Did I do my best? Did I do my best?"

I have tried to do my best to save human lives. Will you withdraw the bill from committee and act upon it?

Communication.

On motion of Mr. Thurman, the following communication was ordered printed in the Journal.

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, OFFICE OF LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL,
SACRAMENTO, CALIFORNIA, February 23, 1940.

Memorandum of Opinion as to Interpretation of Section 4 of Assembly Bill No. 44.

Some question has been raised as to the meaning of the word "other" as used in section 4 of this bill as amended February 22, 1940. This word was inserted merely to indicate that it is not the intent of the bill to "validate" for all purposes the election or appointment of each and every officer of a county, city or district; that is, to limit the scope of such validation to its bearing upon or relation to matters which the bill seeks to validate.

The "validation" to be effected by section 4 relates to matters other than the mere election or appointment itself.

Thus, so far as concerns such an officer's participation in proceedings for a bond issue mentioned in section 5, he is to be deemed as the lawful holder of the office. But in case of a contest over the office itself, section 4 is not intended to confirm or validate his election or appointment but is designed to leave him in the same status as if no bill such as Assembly Bill No. 44 had been introduced or enacted into law.

FRED B. WOOD,
Legislative Counsel.

Senate Messages.

SENATE CHAMBER, SACRAMENTO, February 23, 1940.

MR. SPEAKER: I am directed to inform your honorable body that the Senate on this day refused to sustain the Governor's veto to:

Senate Bill No. 81—An act making an appropriation for the relief of hardship and destitution due to and caused by unemployment, providing the conditions and terms upon which any expenditure for such relief may be made and declaring that this act shall take effect immediately.

J. A. BEEK, Secretary of Senate.

Veto Message of the Governor.

(Copy.)

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, GOVERNOR'S OFFICE.

SACRAMENTO, February 23, 1940.

To the Honorable Members of the Senate,
Sacramento, California.

GREETINGS: I am returning herewith, without my signature, Senate Bill No. 81, entitled "An act making an appropriation for the relief of hardship and destitution due to and caused by unemployment, providing the conditions and terms upon which any expenditure for such relief may be made and declaring that this act shall take effect immediately." My objections are:

As I pointed out in my message to this special session of the Legislature, the curtailment of WPA employment since June 1, 1939, and the operation of other uncontrollable factors have greatly increased the number of cases entitled to State relief. Regardless of this fact, the amount of the appropriation made in this bill of $12,200,000 for the relief of hardship and destitution due to and caused by unemployment and the administration thereof until June 1, 1940, is about 19 per cent below actual expenditures for the same period of 1939. According to the estimates of the State Relief Administrator it will be necessary, if this bill becomes a law, to cut the relief allowances to those now on relief approximately 40 per cent below present budgetary allowances.

Present budget allowances now provide for relief on a mere subsistence basis. I can not approve a bill that will cut those allowances approximately 40 per cent and deny those dependent upon relief—some 369,000 persons, many of whom are women and children—the minimum necessities of existence.

I point out also that sufficient consideration appears not to have been given to the problems facing the State Relief Administration in the period between now and March 31. Under this bill the State Relief Administration is faced with the problem of not only carrying on relief, but of liquidating approximately 40 per cent of its program. According to the figures of the Relief Administrator, the administrative costs of direct relief in December was 15.1 per cent of about $5,500,000. Without the drastic reductions in the normal relief requirements, which this bill would impose, I would agree, as I recommended in my message, to a 15 per cent limitation on administrative costs. Under the provisions of Senate Bill 81 an increase in the percentage of administrative costs is made necessary although a 15 per cent limitation thereon is made. There are certain costs which can not be eliminated or reduced. In order to keep within that limit it may be necessary to reduce rents and personnel by as much as 50 per cent. Thirty days notice must be given on the cancellation of leases. Property and equipment must be moved in order to contract the program and reduce operating costs.

It may be necessary to serve notices of dismissal on half of the employees. Those who have been with the organization for six months or more are entitled to two weeks notice and accrued vacation time. It will be necessary to give notices of dismissal so that all accrued vacation time will have been paid out of the March pay roll.

The serving of notices of dismissal on 30 or 40 or 50 per cent of the personnel will inevitably cause great confusion. During this confusion and while offices and equipment are being moved, it will be necessary to go through 116,000 case files and adjust them to the new provisions of this act; such as provisions dealing with family budgets, aliens and the ownership of automobiles. It will not only be necessary to make adjustments based on changes in the present law, but it may be necessary to materially reduce the case load as well as to make horizontal cuts in relief budgets of as much as 40 per cent.

Another fundamental objection that I have to this bill is that it would, as intended by its sponsors, defeat this administration's efforts to carry forward a program for the re-employment of persons on relief in public works projects in the establishment of production projects and the development of self-help cooperatives, a program voted for by an overwhelming majority of the people as a sound, constructive method of solving the problem of unemployment relief and eventually doing away with the cash dole system, which places a heavy burden on the State and its tax resources.

As to other provisions of the act that are not related to the amount of the appropriation, sufficient consideration does not seem to have been given to families from other States who have lost their legal residence there, acquired legal residence here, and can not be returned to their State of origin.

Transportation costs may be provided to return those who have not lost their residence elsewhere but no provision is made for subsistence costs en route or subsistence costs while such families are awaiting the result of California's efforts to establish legal residence. The time required by other States to verify residence is a matter over which the relief administration has no control. It sometimes takes over 45 days to obtain verification of residence and consent to return.

It seems to me that any extension of the period of residence requirements should be effective at some future date and as a warning to the unemployed of other States that relief can not be obtained by establishing residence in California for less than the period fixed. Any such provision should be so qualified as not to deny relief to residents and citizens of this State who have become citizens and have been thrown out of employment, or have lost their investments since becoming California residents.

There are provisions in section 15 of the bill which I would strongly approve in any set, particularly subdivisions a, b, d, and 4. Such provisions are now being enforced as administrative policy. But provision c, and particularly provision f, impose restrictions on the rights and civil liberties of employees of the State Relief Administration that are not imposed upon employees of any other branch of the State Government and constitute, it seems to me, a serious interference with their fundamental civil liberties. Subdivision f, for instance, says that it shall be unlawful for any person employed in the relief administration to be an "active" member of political organization, or take an "active" part in political campaigns.

Is it "active" for any employee to attend a meeting of an organization to discuss economic or social questions that are involved in political campaigns? Is it "active" to discuss public issues or otherwise exercise the ordinary political rights of any citizen?

The word "active" is a relative term and may be interpreted to prevent the activity of attending any public meeting at which any public issue is discussed. What is "activity" as used in this bill? Do you know? Does anybody know?

It seems to me that this provision, whatever its purpose, should not be enacted without a definition of the words "active" and "activity."

I would overlook these latter objections in the face of the present relief crisis, but the pronounced inadequacy for cash dole relief and the destruction of hope for reemployment, the loss to the State and to society, in terms of undernourished children, ill health, frustration, demoralization and crime, that this Senate Bill No. 81 would cause, are considerations so serious that I can not bring myself to a decision to approve it, however much I would like to be in accord with the final determination of a two-thirds vote of the Legislature on this or on any other matter.

Respectfully submitted,

(Signed) CULBERT L. OLSON,

Governor.

Consideration of Governor's Veto to Senate Bill No. 81.

Senate Bill No. 81—An act making an appropriation for the relief of hardship and destitution due to and caused by unemployment, providing the conditions and terms upon which any expenditure for such relief may be made and declaring that this act shall take effect immediately.

The question being put: Shall Senate Bill No. 81 become a law notwithstanding the veto of the Governor?

The roll was called.

Call of the Assembly.

Pending the announcement of the vote, Mr. Kepple moved a call of the Assembly.

Motion carried. Time, ten o'clock and twenty-five minutes p.m.

The Speaker directed the Sergeant-at-Arms to lock the doors, and to bring in all absent members.

Further Proceedings Under Call of the Assembly Dispensed With.

At eleven o'clock and thirty minutes p.m., on motion of Mr. Kepple, further proceedings under the call of the Assembly were dispensed with.

The roll of absentees was called, and Senate Bill No. 81 became a law notwithstanding the veto of the Governor, by the following vote:

AYES—Allen, Andreas, Bashore, Burns, Hugh M., Burns, Michael J., Call, Carlson, Clarke, Corwin, Cronin, Crowley, Daley, Desmond, Dilworth, Doyle, Field, Fulcher, Gallagher, Gannon, Gilmore, Green, Houser, Johnson, Kellems, Kepple, Knight, Kuchel, Leonard, Lyon, Maloney, Miller, Eleanor; Millington, O'Day, O'Donnell, Phillips, Poulson, Robertson, Salsman, Sawatsch, Scudder, Sheridan, Stream, Tenney, Thorp, Thurman, Turner, Voigt, Walker, Waters, Watson, Weber, Weybret, Williamson, Wollenberg, Yorty, and Mr. Speaker—56.

NOES—Atkinson, Bennett, Cassidy, Collins, Del Mutolo, Dills, Donnelly, Evans, Gilbert, Hawkins, Heisinger, Kilpatrick, King, Lore, Massion, Meehan, Miller, George P., Peek, Pelletier, Reaves, Richie, and Rosenthal—22.

Senate Bill No. 81 ordered transmitted to the Senate.

Explanation of Vote by Godfrey A. Andreas on Senate Bill No. 81.

I voted against all restrictions and the small amount contained in the bill continuously. However, I realized that unless Governor Olson's veto was overridden tonight, thousands of families, many with infants and minor children, would have faced want and privation. I continue now, as always, to favor adequate relief for the poor and destitute.

GODFREY A. ANDREAS,

Seventy-second District.

Explanation of Vote.

I am voting "no" on this bill because I believe it will entail malnutrition, suffering and disease. It takes civil liberties away from Americans because they are poor. It will increase private and county relief costs. It will cause a scarcity of farm workers and thereby increase farm wages.

S. L. HEISINGER.

Explanation of Vote by Assemblyman Thomas J. Doyle.

The reason I voted to override the Governor's veto of Senate Bill No. 81 is that I do not want to see anyone without relief for 24 hours. I am in favor of appropriating a hundred million dollars for making the poor and unfortunate people of this State comfortable.

Explanation of Vote.

We voted to override the Governor's veto on Senate Bill No. 81, not because we approved of the bill, nor disagreed with the Governor's veto measure, but because the SRA informed us today that unless the bill becomes law the people will receive no money and many are now without food for themselves and their children.

EDWARD F. O'DAY.
DAN GALLAGHER.
JOSEPH P. GILMORE.

Second Reading of Senate Bills (Out of Order).

Senate Bill No. 50—An act making an appropriation for the relief of hardship and destitution due to and caused by unemployment, and providing for the disbursement thereof.

Committee Amendments to Senate Bill No. 50.

The following amendments were submitted by the committee:

Amendment No. 1.

On page 3 of the printed bill, as amended, strike out lines 29 to 36, inclusive, and insert in lieu thereof the following:

"SEC. 5. Notwithstanding sections 5 and 6 of the Relief Expenditure Act of 1940 and the references therein to rules and regulations of the Relief Commission established under section 8 of the California Unemployment Relief Act of 1935, the Relief Commission may establish rules and regulations in accordance with the other provisions of the Relief Expenditure Act of 1940 (i) for the expenditure of the appropriation made by this act and (ii) for the determination of eligibility for relief from the appropriation made by this act, within which rules and regulations, the counties may establish their own standards of relief.

Rules and regulations, when established by the Relief Commission under this act for the expenditure of the appropriation made by this act, prevail over rules and regulations established by the Relief Commission under section 8 of the California Unemployment Relief Act of 1935. References in the Relief Expenditure Act of 1940 to rules and regulations of the Relief Commission established under section 8 of the California Unemployment Relief Act of 1935 do not prevent the Relief Commission from establishing rules and regulations under this act for the expenditure pursuant to the Relief Expenditure Act of 1940 of the appropriation made by this act.

Rules and regulations when established by the Relief Commission under this act, apply to all persons and circumstances for the purposes of expending the appropriation made by this act in lieu and instead of the rules and regulations established under section 8 of the California Unemployment Relief Act of 1935.

SEC. 5.3. Notwithstanding section 6 of the Relief Expenditure Act of 1940, none of the money from the appropriation made by this act shall be expended to or used for the relief of persons who on February 18, 1940, were receiving aid from any of the several counties as indigents.

SEC. 5.6. Notwithstanding section 7 of the Relief Expenditure Act of 1940, relief, in addition to the maximum of $58.00 per month allowance fixed by section 7, may be granted from the appropriation made by this act (i) only in the form of commodities, services or other forms of relief in kind and (ii) only in extraordinary cases, which term "extraordinary cases" shall include within its scope families of extraordinary size.

SEC. 5.9. If any reduction in relief expenditures is necessary in order to abide by the appropriation made by this act, such reduction shall be effected by reducing the amount of allowance for each relief case in lieu of denying relief entirely to cases otherwise eligible, under the Relief Expenditure Act of 1940, for relief from the appropriation made by this act."

Amendment No. 2.

On page 3 of the printed bill, as amended, between lines 11 and 12, insert the following:

"If any county receives more money from the appropriation made by this act than the amount necessary for the direct and administrative costs of unemployment relief imposed upon it under the Relief Expenditure Act of 1940, the surplus shall be impounded by it and held in trust for the State, subject to any disposition which may hereafter be provided by law."

Amendments adopted.

Bill read second time, ordered to reprint, and third reading.

Our Heavenly Father, we thank Thee this day for the manifold blessing bestowed upon us as citizens of this great Nation. May we ever strive to show our gratitude to Thee and to each other by helping to preserve the peace and liberty which has been ours for so many years. Help us to realize where much has been given much will be required.

Bless, we pray Thee, the members of this Assembly. In the perplexing problems of our social system endow them with wisdom from on high. Grant to them direction in every time of need and help us all to understand that "except the Lord build the house, they labor in vain who build it."

As we face the duties of this day, may we do so by Thy guidance, with malice toward none, with charity for all, until that period to which hope looks forward with ardent joy, until misfortune has no wants to relieve, and sorrow no tears to dry. This we ask with the forgiveness of our sins.

Amen.

Message from the Governor.

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, GOVERNOR'S OFFICE.

SACRAMENTO, February 24, 1940.

To the Honorable Members of the Assembly, State of California, Sacramento, California.

GREETINGS: I am returning herewith without my signature Assembly Bill No. 105 entitled "An act providing for the expenditure by the Relief Administrator and the Relief Commission through the counties of money appropriated for the relief of hardship and destitution due to and caused by unemployment, establishing the conditions and procedure for the expenditure thereof, specifying the purposes for which the expenditures may be made, defining the persons eligible for relief therefrom, and prohibiting any political activities in connection therewith."

My objections to this bill are as follows:

I am convinced that widespread unemployment has now become a permanent, not a temporary, relief problem, the solution of which must be undertaken by the State with a comprehensive reemployment program for placing the employable unemployed at useful and productive work for their own maintenance.

Within the past year the tendency of the Federal Government has been to further and further curtail Federal works programs for the unemployed, leaving it to the several States to meet their respective unemployment problems.

It would seem obvious to anyone that a works program instead of cash dole relief for the unemployed can not be instituted if the State turns over to the several counties the administration of unemployment relief with each of the counties adopting its own separate methods, programs and practices, with no State regulation, supervision or coordination. The problem of unemployment relief has no regard for county lines. It can not possibly be solved by the individual counties or by any one of them. Only the State as a whole can attack the unemployment relief problem and effectively carry forward a works program.

Yet in this bill there is no provision whatsoever for supervision of county administration of unemployment relief by a central State agency.

There should be no such thing as competition in relief, which would exist if this bill were to become a law. A man eligible for relief in Sacramento County should also be eligible in Los Angeles County, in Kings County or Imperial County. The standard of relief received should be uniform throughout California. If such is not the case, and it need not be under this bill, there would be an inevitable tendency for recipients of relief to leave the counties where low standards prevailed and go where relief allowances are more liberal.

Not all counties have low relief standards for their unemployable indigents. Those counties, however, which do have low relief standards for their unemployable indigents would probably adopt similar low standards for unemployment relief cases. This would result in a shifting of relief population to the counties maintaining the higher standards.

Assembly Bill No. 105 not only does not provide for uniform eligibility rules, but invites discrepancies in the standards of relief between the various counties. Section 5 of the bill provides that, subject to certain rules and regulations, the counties may establish their own relief standards.

The State Relief Administration and the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation are now cooperating under contract for the distribution of surplus commodities purchased by the Federal Government to families on relief and to indigent unemployables who are assisted by the counties. The Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation requires a continuance of a central State distribution agency and the coordination of this surplus commodity distribution can be accomplished only through a centralized State agency.

The several counties have reached the limit of their tax resources for indigent support and for the social welfare aids. In fact, the counties are asking aid from the State to assist them in carrying their part of old age assistance. They can not carry the load for unemployment relief which this bill would inevitably place upon the counties because they can not expect to receive from the State adequate appropriations for them to expend in carrying that load.

At the instigation and under the powerful influence of large financial interests and owners of resources which can only be reached by the State's power of taxation to provide for social welfare needs, this Legislature has already determined to reduce to a level of serfdom existence, those who are compelled to depend upon governmental provision for the relief of hardship and distress caused by unemployment.

With responsibility of the administration of relief being turned over to the counties there would naturally follow additional reductions in State appropriations for unemployment relief until the respective counties would be faced with conditions of want and distress on the part of large portions of their population which they could only attempt to alleviate by increasing the burden of taxation on the home owners and local taxpayers who are now carrying all the tax burden that should be placed upon them.

Respectfully,

CULBERT L. OLSON,

Governor.

Assembly Bill No. 105 ordered on unfinished business calendar.

Introduction and Reference of Bills (Resumed).

Motion to Print Letter in Journal.

On motion of Mrs. Daley, the following letter was ordered printed in the Journal:

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, OFFICE OF LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL,

SACRAMENTO, CALIFORNIA, February 24, 1940.

Honorable Jeanette E. Daley,

Assembly Chambers, State Capitol,

Sacramento, California.

Subject: Relief Administration Sewing Projects.

Request: No. 7777.

DEAR MRS. DALEY: In answer to your inquiry, this is to inform you that in our opinion the provisions of section 5 of Senate Bill No. 81, as finally enacted into law, permit the expenditure for sewing projects of the money appropriated for the relief of hardship and destitution due to and caused by unemployment.

In section 5 of the bill, there are two classifications expressly provided for the use of the money appropriated, one for 82 per cent and the other for 3 per cent.

Expenditures by way of sponsorship contributions to the Works Projects Administration are chargeable against the 82 per cent classification, so that it is legally possible for the Relief Administrator to use money chargeable against this 82 per cent classification as a sponsorship contribution to the Works Projects Administration for the support of sewing projects maintained by the Works Projects Administration.

If, however, a sewing project is maintained independent of and not in cooperation with the Works Projects Administration, the expenditures therefor are chargeable to the 3 per cent classification. In so far as the 3 per cent classification is concerned, subdivision (c) of section 5 authorizes but does not require the expenditure of one-third of the money therein for production for use projects. This one-third provision is a limitation upon the amount which may be spent for production for use projects. If the total amount permitted to be spent for production for use projects is so expended, there is still remaining within the 3 per cent classification a sum equal to 2 per cent of the total appropriation legally available for the sewing projects when such projects are sponsored solely by the Relief Administrator.

In any event, it is legally possible for the Relief Administrator to expend funds for sewing projects either as a sponsorship contribution to the Works Projects Administration or as a direct State Relief Administration project.

Yours very truly,

FRED B. WOOD, Legislative Counsel.
By ARTHUR McHENRY, Deputy.

Resolved, That in addition to the powers and duties heretofore expressly conferred upon the Assembly Relief Investigating Committee, it shall have the power to investigate and report upon the extent to which the activities of groups, and organizations, which include among their members persons who are either employees of the State Relief Administration or who are receiving relief, affect the cost of the administration of unemployment relief, and to recommend such legislation in connection therewith as the committee may deem necessary or advisable; and, be it further

Resolved, That the sum of three thousand dollars, or so much thereof as may be necessary, in addition to any other funds heretofore made available to the committee, is hereby made available from the contingent fund of the Assembly for the expenses of the committee, its subcommittees and its members, and for any charges, expenses, or claims that the committee may incur under this resolution or under House Resolution No. 9, such funds to be disbursed after certification by the chairman of the committee upon warrants drawn by the Controller upon the Treasurer; and, be it further

Resolved, That no witness summoned to appear before the committee shall be entitled to receive either witness fees or mileage in advance, but any such witness who appears before the said committee at the time and place designated in the subpoena and testifies shall be entitled to receive witness fees and mileage in accordance with the provisions of Standing Rule No. 97 of the Assembly; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of any transcript of the meeting of the committee held in Los Angeles, February 5, 1940, which the committee may order to be prepared and paid for with any of the funds made available to it, shall be transmitted to the Attorney General of the State of California by the chairman of the committee with the request that he prosecute to the full extent permitted by law any witnesses who testified before the committee and who appear to have perjured themselves in their testimony before the committee; and, be it further

Resolved, That if the Attorney General determines, after investigation, that it is necessary or advisable to have the district attorney of Los Angeles County prosecute any such witness for any perjury he may have committed before the committee, he is hereby expressly authorized to certify the facts concerning each such witness to the district attorney of Los Angeles County, in order that the district attorney may take appropriate action in relation thereto.

Motion to Print Prayer in Journal.

On motion of Mr. Turner, the following remarks and prayer by Miss Miller were ordered printed in the Journal:

A few years ago, while traveling in the Holy Land I was taken down to a lovely spot called Ain Farah, which is only a short distance from Jerusalem and which is thought to be the place that may have inspired David to write the Twenty-third Psalm.

There are few running streams in Palestine, but here a narrow stream has run through the ages past, between very high rocky banks on either side. To this place the shepherds have led their sheep. At the present time they have harnessed the water in the stream and taken it to Jerusalem as a part of their water supply. Now, at noon of each day, they let the water run through the little stream bed for an hour or so, and the shepherds bring their flocks down across the rocky heights to drink as of old.

Afterward, each shepherd calls his sheep and leads them away to the "green pastures" that spread out as "a table" before them.

I should like to repeat to you this Twenty-third Psalm, which we have known from our childhood, and follow it with the reading of the American Indian's interpretation of the Psalm.

"The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want.

He maketh me to lie down in green pastures;

He leadeth me beside the still waters,

He restoreth my soul;

He leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for His name's sake.

Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death,

I will fear no evil; for Thou art with me;

Thy rod and Thy staff, they comfort me.

Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies;

Thou anointest my head with oil;

My cup runneth over.

Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life;

And I shall dwell in the house of the Lord forever."

The Indian's Twenty-third Psalm.

The various tribes use sign language, more or less universal, which they have evolved, and the Twenty-third Psalm can easily be interpreted by sign language.

"The Great Father above is a Shepherd Chief. I am His and with Him I want not.

He throws out to me a rope, and the name of rope is love.

And He draws me, and He draws me where the grass is green and water not dangerous, and I eat and lie down satisfied.

Sometimes my heart is very weak and falls down, but He lifts it up again and draws me to a good road.

His name is wonderful.

Sometime, it may be very soon, it may be longer, it may be a long, long time—He will draw me into a place between mountains. It's dark there, but I'll draw back not. I'll be afraid not, for it's between these mountains that the Shepherd Chief will meet me and the hunger I have felt all my life will be satisfied.

Sometimes He makes love rope into a whip but afterward He gives me a staff to lean on.

He spreads a table before me with all kinds of food.

He puts His hands on my head and all "tired" is gone.

My cup He fills till it runs over.

What I tell is true. I lie not.

These roads that are 'away ahead' will stay with me through this life, and afterward I will go live in 'Big Teepee' and sit down with the Shepherd Chief forever."

Prayer.

Great Shepherd of us all, we pray that Thou wilt lead us,

"Much we need Thy tend'rest care,

In Thy pleasant pastures feed us,

For our use Thy folds prepare."

And may we be of those who shall dwell in Thy presence forever.

— Amen.

Letter Ordered Printed in the Journal.

On motion of Mr. Peek, the following letter was ordered printed in the Journal:

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, OFFICE OF LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL,
SACRAMENTO, CALIFORNIA, February 25, 1940.

*Honorable Hugh P. Donnelly,
Assembly Chamber, State Capitol,
Sacramento, California.*

Subject: Consideration of bills on daily calendar.

DEAR MR. DONNELLY: You have asked our opinion whether when the consideration of business on the daily calendar is reached in the order of business of the Assembly it is necessary to make an affirmative motion in order to take up a bill on that calendar.

In our opinion it is not.

Assembly Rule 16 provides in part:

"All bills on the Daily Calendar shall be called for consideration in the order of their listing, unless otherwise ordered by unanimous consent or an affirmative vote of two-thirds of the members present."

As we interpret this rule the bill is the property of the House and must be taken up for consideration without further action when reached on the calendar unless a motion is made and adopted to continue the matter on the calendar until the next legislative day as provided by the portion of Rule 16 just quoted.

Very truly yours,

FRED B. WOOD, Legislative Counsel.
By LAWRENCE G. ALLYN, Deputy.

Request to Print Opinions in the Journal.

On request of Mrs. Daley the following opinions were ordered printed in the Journal:

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, OFFICE OF LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL.

SACRAMENTO, CALIFORNIA, February 24, 1940.

Honorable Jeanette E. Daley,

*Assembly Chamber, State Capitol,
Sacramento, California.*

Subject: Special Session within a Special Session.

DEAR MRS. DALEY: This is to confirm my oral statement to the effect that if the Governor calls the Legislature to meet in special session during a recess of the current special session, none of the business thus far transacted and none of the business that may yet be transacted at and during the current session will or can be, from a legal standpoint, affected in any way by the fact of the calling and convening of the second special session.

For example, if the Legislature on February 25, 1940, recesses until some day in May, 1940, each bill, constitutional amendment, and resolution, heretofore introduced during the current session will, upon the day of reconvening in May, be in exactly the same situation and have the same status that it had on February 25th immediately preceding the beginning of such recess.

Thus, if at the time of the commencement of such recess a bill heretofore introduced is still in the Assembly Committee to which originally referred, that bill will still be in the custody of that committee when the Assembly reconvenes in May.

Similarly, if a bill which has passed both houses and has been vetoed, has been returned to the house of origin, and is there waiting action upon the question of whether or not the veto should be sustained, that question will be available for consideration by the house of origin when the Legislature convenes in May, just the same as if the recess were merely from one day to the next, or from Friday to Monday.

For a second Special Session (a session within the current session) there will have to be a new proclamation (which may, but need not, be the same in its terms and contents as the proclamation issued January 29, 1940). None of the bills, constitutional amendments, or resolutions thus far introduced at this session will, or can, be bills of the second session. The latter will have its own bills, constitutional amendments, and resolutions, just as distinctly and separately as the present special session has legislative measures which are distinct and separate from those which were introduced during the 1939 regular session.

The power of the Legislature to take a recess and the power of the Governor to convene the Legislature during the recess are discussed in our Memorandum of Opinion of February 5, 1940, entitled "Special Session; Power to Recess and Effect Thereof," a copy of which is enclosed herewith.

Yours very truly,

FBW: maw.

FRED B. WOOD, Legislative Counsel.

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, OFFICE OF LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL.

February 5, 1940.

Special Session: Power to Recess and Effect Thereof.

The question has been asked whether the Legislature while convened in extraordinary session may recess for more than three days. The further question has been asked whether, during such a recess, the Governor may call the Legislature to meet in a new extraordinary session.

It is our opinion that both of these questions must be answered in the affirmative. Once the Legislature has been convened in special session pursuant to the Governor's proclamation, we believe it has inherent and unqualified power to consider and act upon the matters within the scope of the call in whatever manner it deems appropriate and to the extent as if sitting at a regular session. It may take such time as it deems proper for the full consideration of the measures before the Legislature. The Constitution places no limit upon the length of the special session nor is there any provision which even implies that such a session must necessarily be continuous. The questions involved here have never been considered by the courts of this State and seldom by the courts of any other State. However, the cases discussed below fully support our conclusion and we have not found any case which conflicts therewith.

The case of State v. Olson (N. D.) 176 N. W. 528 is authority for the proposition that a "special session of the legislative assembly" pursuant to the Constitution is a "session of the legislative assembly" and that all of the provisions of the Constitution relating to regular sessions are equally applicable to special sessions.

Obviously, the constitutional provisions relating to the vote required for the passage of various measures, the printing and reading of bills, etc., are applicable to special sessions. We perceive no reason for concluding that section 14 of Article IV is not applicable, and the above case is authority for the proposition that it is applicable. This section provides:

"Neither House shall, without the consent of the other, adjourn for more than three days, nor to any place other than that in which they may be sitting."

The only constitutional limitations which appear to be imposed upon special sessions are contained in section 23a of Article IV which limits expenditures for attaches and in section 9 of Article V which limits the power to legislate to subjects specified in the proclamation.

The following quotation from Hughes' American Parliamentary Guide at page 202, in discussing the powers of the Ohio legislature is equally applicable to the Legislature of this State:

"There is neither constitutional, statutory nor parliamentary law that governs or abridges the right of the assembly to bring to a close its sittings, or session. It may recess, adjourn or dissolve, and in the first two instances it may at its pleasure terminate such recess or adjournment by fixing a time and way for a future convening. It may legally recess five minutes, five months or more, so long as the day fixed is within the constitutional life of the assembly. The constitutions of all the states expressly grant authority to each house of the legislature to make its own rules, as does the national constitution. The laws further fix a time when the assembly shall meet, but nowhere in the Ohio laws (as in a few other states) is the time or manner of suspending business enjoined upon the legislature. It is supposed to be an inherent right of the legislature to decide this matter for itself. We have been unable to find a single instance where any court has passed upon this question, and this fact of itself is a strong argument that the court will not concern itself with deciding purely legislative or parliamentary questions except when the constitution is involved."

Immediately following this quotation Hughes cites the case of United States v. Ballin, 144 U. S. 5, a leading case sustaining the absolute power of legislative bodies to make their own rules within constitutional limitations. The discussion of this case is followed on page 203 of the American Parliamentary Guide by the following statement:

"From the foregoing decision of the highest tribunal in the nation, in defining substantially the same provision in our state constitution, it would seem fair to conclude that it lies within the constitutional guarantee for an assembly to prevent its own death by adjournment or recess to a definite fixed time."

Both Houses of this State took an extended recess during the 1933 session, and lengthy recesses of one or both Houses are quite common in Congress.

In case of In re Opinions of the Justices in re Regular and Extra Sessions of the Legislature (Ala. 1931), 132 So. 311 is direct authority for the proposition that the Governor may call the Legislature into special session while it is in recess pending reconvening.

Section 9 of Article V of our Constitution provides that the Governor "may, on extraordinary occasions, convene the Legislature by a proclamation, stating the purposes for which he has convened it * * *".

We find nothing in the Constitution which implies that an "extraordinary occasion" may not arise during the time when the Legislature is in recess or at any other time when the Legislature is not in session. On the contrary, it is perfectly possible to conceive of circumstances under which it may be imperative to convene the Legislature in extraordinary session, while it is in recess either during a regular or extraordinary session. It is inconceivable that the power of the Governor to act under such circumstances or of the Legislature to convene pursuant to his proclamation could be in any way suspended so as to make it impossible for it to meet.

The question of the existence of an "extraordinary occasion" is to be determined by the Governor alone in the exercise of his discretion, and this discretion is not subject to challenge or review by the courts. Farrelly v. Cole (Kan. 1899) 56

On request of Messrs. Poulson and Waters the following article was ordered printed in the Journal:

AMERICAN WEEKLY MAGAZINE—February 25, 1940.

RUIN IN TAXES BARED.

Wisconsin Industries Crippled.

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKYSEK.

The growing tendency of American government—local, State and National—to confiscate in the form of taxes an increasing proportion of the fruits of ownership raises the question of how private is so called private enterprise in the United States.

Following basic bookkeeping studies of how the tax garnerer is changing the economic setup in Indiana and in New Hampshire, Wisconsin has completed a noteworthy study of the growing partnership stake of government in the net receipts of business enterprises.

Inherent in the figures collected is a dramatic and vastly important story of the gradual transformation of free American enterprise into a hybrid form combining State Socialism with private business.

Former Under Secretary of the Treasury John Wesley Hanes recently was quoted as saying that government is about a 20 per cent partner in all business, but the probing in Wisconsin indicates that this estimate was a gross understatement.

The over-all picture, as it affects companies operating in Wisconsin, was recently sketched by the Income Tax Division of the Wisconsin Tax Commission in a "special statistical report prepared at the request of Governor Julius P. Heil relative to operations of corporations doing business in Wisconsin."

Taxed Into Operating at Loss.

In the business year 1938, which the study covers, the divvy of the residue after all expenses had been met other than taxes was somewhat as follows:

From the standpoint of the aggregate results for the 6845 corporations that operate solely within the commonwealth, taxes taken by local, State and National governments absorbed all residue from operations, and ran the corporations into an operating loss.

On the other hand, in the case of the 961 corporations that did business within and without the State, these companies retained a net gain of only 1.1 per cent on their assets.

The Wisconsin survey gives a sample insight into the extent to which business profits have been seized and diverted from their true uses by spendthrifts on the payroll of government.

While the owners of the 6845 corporations operating solely within Wisconsin are left holding the bag, government in the aggregate has taken in taxes from these companies a sum equal to 5.54 per cent on the invested capital. But the capital was furnished by the owners, not by government. And the risk of loss is assumed by the owners, not by the government.

These corporations, plus the 961 which operate both within and outside of Wisconsin, after meeting all expenses before taxes, paid out in taxes to various units of government $112,158,743, which was $20,606,913 more than they earned on operations. There was, therefore, an operating loss after taxes of $20,606,913. Some of these companies had a nonoperating income from outside investments.

355,440 Jobs at Stake.

All of these same companies, including the paper companies of the Fox and Wisconsin River Valleys, the breweries of Milwaukee, the farm implement companies, and the steel converter enterprises, brought into the State in the aggregate jobs for 355,440 wage earners supporting 930,000 persons.

Business analysts, in summing up the situation, drew from the Wisconsin tax figures, three main conclusions: (1) corporations can not be milked for further taxes; (2) other sources for taxation must be found, and (3) the share of government must be substantially shrunken.

The factual data prepared by the Wisconsin Tax Commission has been reclassified to show the extent to which the modern corporation has become primarily an agency for making more and better goods and for distributing the financial proceeds mainly to workers as wages and to government as taxes, keeping only a small fraction for owners, or as a wage payment for the use of the tools and other assets provided by the investors.

The tabulated figures below are based on combined figures for both State and National corporations operating within the State of Wisconsin. They are well worth your study, as they illustrate what is going on in every State and affect all types of industry and business.

Survey Shows Taxes Leave Firms Little.

This table shows government's share in total income of 6845 corporations operating "solely in Wisconsin" and 961 "within and without" Wisconsin. Note that government's "tax take" is $20,606,913 more than the corporations' total net operating income of $91,551,830.

Report.

On motion of Mrs. Daley, the following report was received and ordered printed in the Journal:

REPORT OF THE JOINT LEGISLATIVE FACT-FINDING COMMITTEE ON EMPLOYMENT.

May 13, 1940.

To the members of the California Legislature.

Your Joint Fact-Finding Committee on Employment, appointed under the terms of Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 10, of the special session, submits herewith the first two parts of its report.

The committee has in its hands a great mass of material, some of the most important of which has only recently been received, and some of which will be supported by statements and figures not yet ready. If we were to wait and submit all parts at one time, it is doubtful if the report could be ready this week.

The committee has decided instead to issue the report in parts, as these are ready. Part I contains the general recommendations of the committee, and Part II contains the general statement. Other parts will follow.

The committee finds that the Legislature faces four alternatives in acting upon employment, unemployment, and relief, in this reconvened special session. These alternatives are as follows:

1. Enactment of a permanent plan for administration and financing of all public assistance. This would include the basic principles of complete integration of all welfare and relief activities into one consolidated program, with county administration under limited State supervision, and with joint State-county financing of costs. Enactment of such legislation requires closer cooperation than now prevails between the legislative and executive branches of the State government, the first step of which must be a broadening of the official "call" to permit consideration of this type of legislation. This plan was contemplated when the Legislature adjourned in June 1939, to reconvene in special session.

2. Passage of Assembly Bill 105 over the Executive veto.

3. Enactment of a new bill also based on the county supervision of relief, with such changes as the interim investigation has found desirable.

4. Enactment of a new bill, based upon and extending the main provisions of Senate Bill 81, continuing the present program, together with an appropriation until the Legislature next convenes.

Alternatives 1, 2 and 3 also require a supplemental appropriation bill.

The undersigned members of the committee approve the findings and the recommendations in Parts I and II.

PART I.

Recommendations.

In presenting its recommendations for a coordinated program, the Joint Legislative Fact-finding Committee on Employment to which was assigned the study of the relief situation in California—makes this preliminary observation:

The complexity of the situation and the rapidity with which it has grown to be the major problem in California, have resulted in what can only be called muddled thinking. We have lost sight of basic principles. Constant reiteration of the gravity of the relief situation has obscured the fact that relief is a single phase of the problem of unemployment.

Removing the now recognized relief difficulties would leave the unemployment problem still unsolved. Removing unemployment, on the other hand, would eliminate much of the need for relief, except for indigency due to old age; the loss of one or both parents; disease, and similar conditions preventing self support.

The committee emphasizes that the major question with which the Legislature has to deal is the problem of unemployment.

The committee offers the following recommendations:

I.

Reorganization Program.

The committee advocates the complete reorganization of all functions of State government dealing with employment, unemployment, and State aid of every type. Under this program, a director of a new Department of Employment would correlate and direct all these affiliated activities. Responsible to him would be division heads in charge of the following divisions:

- (a) Division of Aid to the Aged, Blind and Dependent Children;
- (b) Division of Employment, including or coordinating the work of the State Employment Service;
- (c) Division of Unemployment Insurance, taking over or coordinating the functions of the present California Employment Commission;
- (d) Division of Direct Relief, supervising and coordinating the activities of the County Welfare departments if the administration of relief is returned to the counties, or conducting State administration if the State government retains direct relief, and carrying on, in either case, such functions (for example, single men's camps), as may be placed with the department by legislative action.
- (e) Division of Cooperatives, supervising all self-help organizations.

Director of Employment.

The Director of Employment must be the most capable man obtainable, and his compensation should be fixed by the Legislature commensurate with the importance of the job he is given to do. The committee emphasizes the necessity of finding an executive of exceptional ability and special qualifications. He should be appointed by the Governor, subject to a two-thirds approval by the Senate.

The appointment of a competent Director of Employment would bring the good business management essential in the solution of the unemployment problem.

Elimination of Certain Existing Commissions.

With the creation of a Department of Employment, the State Relief Commission, the State Social Welfare Commission and the Unemployment Reserves Commission will go out of existence and their functions, jurisdictions and powers will be transferred to the Director of Employment.

Detailed Recommendations Should Be Unnecessary.

The committee could make detailed recommendations relative to changes and improvements in almost every function and division of the State Relief Administration. It is apparent, however, that abolishing the present SRA, which was created as an emergency agency of State government, and placing its functions under regularly established departments, or the creation of the Department of Employment, already recommended, would cure most of these minor difficulties. The Legislature has the power to effect such a reorganization. It can be done at the next regular session, or with the cooperation of the Administration, it could be done when the Legislature reconvenes on May 13th.

Extension of Public Works.

The committee suggests that it should be possible for the State and the counties to create work at a wage fair to the unemployed but not so attractive as wages in private employment.

Projects undertaken on this basis would (1) permit the State and counties to acquire physical improvements; (2) benefit the unemployed by providing them with work at wages higher than the dole; (3) benefit private enterprise by stimulating private employment through large scale purchases of material and increased purchasing power of those employed on these projects.

State work should be handled, the committee believes, under the Department of Public Works, the Department of Natural Resources, the Department of Education, the Department of Agriculture, or any regularly constituted department capable of supplying work of this kind. County work should be handled by such county agencies as are provided by law. Such work should not be confused with, nor designated as, "relief work."

II.

Mobilization for Employment.

The major factor in solving California's relief problem must be a "Mobilization for Employment."

Mobilization for Employment can be made a reality in California. Business will support such a plan on tangible and practical grounds. Research to develop new products, new markets, and consequently new jobs must be expanded, and in this the State, which hitherto has done little or nothing, must become an aggressive leader.

Business must be made to understand the choice is between cooperation and taxation; between mobilization to meet an emergency as serious as war, and moral and financial bankruptcy.

Mobilization for employment can be California's contribution to the solution of an aggravated national problem.

Successful in Another State.

Reports have come to the committee that such a mobilization, started recently in Pennsylvania, is showing successful results. Under the direction of the president of one of the State's most successful businesses, the drive to provide jobs, and to interest business men, is reaching into every part of the State. No emotional plea, no appeal to sympathies, has been made; it is a cold business-like solution to the problem. The committee recommends that the Legislature keep constantly in touch with the Pennsylvania mobilization.

III.

Return Relief Administration to the Counties.

The local supervision of direct relief must, under any business-like reorganization, be placed in the hands of the local agencies of government. The committee recommends supervision by the county welfare departments. These departments already handle the categorical aids, under general coordination rules established by the State. Logic suggests that the only phase of individual or family aid now administered by the State, direct relief, also should be turned over to the counties. They are equipped to handle it. The California School System, operating under a similar system, has a national reputation.

In making this recommendation the first consideration must be the welfare of the unemployed, who benefit from local knowledge and interest, but the saving in dollars and cents is important. It is increasingly apparent to the committee also, that only by local supervision will the subversive trends, fostered by the present system, and discussed elsewhere in this report, be halted.

In the bill now awaiting action on the Governor's veto, provision is made for local supervision of the administration of relief by the counties. Whether the transfer is made by passing Assembly Bill No. 105 over the executive veto or by enactment of a redrafted measure, local supervision should replace centralized administration.

Present Regulations Unsatisfactory.

The statement has been frequently made by those who oppose the idea of local supervision of relief, that this would result in "58 different kinds of relief administration." The committee finds that there is no hard and fast regulation at the present time. The SRA administration imposes its regulations upon its county directors, many of whom interpret these to suit themselves. On the other hand, the committee has heard complaints that the present regulations, as imposed upon case workers, are too severe. In the past a case worker was given a reasonable power of decision in individual cases. Thus cases in different areas of the State, could be handled according to conditions in those areas, and some distinction could be made between families accustomed to lower or higher standards of living.

Today, rigorous and inelastic regulations appear to apply at this point, while on the other hand, regulations which might justly be expected to be observed, are administered with great elasticity by directors, district supervisors, and case workers. This confirms the feeling of the committee that local supervision will bring advantages.

"Employables and Unemployables."

In the opinions of the members of the committee, there is no more meaningless distinction, nor any better evidence of the impracticality of present methods in relief, than the attempt to set an arbitrary line between those who are "unemployable unemployed" and those who are "employable unemployed." Admitting that the distinction grew from the desire of the counties to protect themselves against the responsibility for cases which the State should accept, and thus against increasing taxation, under a permanent plan of meeting the problem of unemployment, this distinction must go.

An unemployed farmer in the metropolitan area may be as "unemployable" as the inexperienced citizen of the city would be on the farm, and the measures of employability must be, first, the physical condition, age, and similar characteristics of the unemployed applicant for help, and second, the availability of work of any kind which the applicant can do. Under a reconstructed system, all unemployed men and women would pass through a well organized intake point, and be assigned or cared for on the factors mentioned above. A simplification of the handling of applicants at the intake is recommended by the committee. Under such a system, not only would all forms of State aid be considered in setting up the standards and limitations of aid to any one family, but the division of costs between county and State would be made on some formula, established by legislative action, and after preliminary trial.

Subvention by the State.

All bills so far discussed in regular or special sessions have contemplated increased State aid to the counties. The percentage division between State and county has not been settled, nor can it be settled by this committee. Assurance has always been given that the cost of direct relief, under any plan contemplating local supervision, will not be more than the amount paid by the counties for the present indigent and categorical aids. Adjustments may be necessary; the plan expects economy and good business management in the counties, but certainly, if the committee's suggestions are adopted, employment can be increased, and relief given in California to all who are honestly entitled to public assistance, at materially less cost than at present, and with greater thought for those in need. The committee suggests an experimental period, during which the State will make outright subventions to the counties, with the later adoption of a plan based on the experiences of this experimental period.

The committee recommends that in the adoption of any integrated plan, a definite time limit be set, within which supervision must be returned to the local units.

Limitations of the Proclamation.

The recommendations of this report cover integration, or reorganization of the handling of the employment problem, at both State and county levels. A complete plan is impossible under the terms of the Governor's proclamation of January 29th. It is urged that the administration, realizing the seriousness of the situation, will issue a new proclamation so as to make the more complete reorganization possible. If this is not done, the committee recommends the passage of a bill embodying as many features of the complete plan as can be passed under the present proclamation, with the understanding that the plan will be completed in the next regular session.

An Alternative Plan.

If the Legislature decides that the administration of relief shall remain with the State, even temporarily, the necessary appropriation should be passed and further restrictions placed upon the administration of direct relief by the State, so that the money appropriated for "the relief of destitution due to unemployment" shall reach those for whom it is intended. Some of these restrictions are suggested in the supplement to the committee's report.

IV.

Civil Service.

Under a reorganization program, civil service would apply in the Department of Employment and its divisions.

This does not imply endorsement by the committee of the so-called merit system which the Federal Government, under doubtful authority, is attempting to impose upon the counties at the present time.

The committee subscribes to the principles of local government, under proper State regulation, but recommends extreme caution on the part of the Legislature against being led astray by an argument that State subventions necessarily carry with them State control, or that uniformity can only be secured through strict State "supervision."

A stand must be made against "legislation by regulations," which is contrary to the intent of the State and Federal Constitutions, and against increasing bureaucracy.

The committee recommends legislation authorizing the courts to prevent unwarranted and illegal State interference with local authority.

V.

Committee's Work Must Be Continued.

The work of the committee remains unfinished.

Numerous questions have not been investigated, because of insufficient time. These are referred to in a separate appendix. The committee should be continued or another similar committee appointed to help complete a practical employment program.

Legislation is the function of the Senate and the Assembly, not of the Governor, nor of any of his department heads. The Legislature should, through its own members keep in touch with the developments of this program, and be advised by its own committees regarding legislative changes and additions.

The committee also places before both houses of the Legislature, the statement that should this committee be discharged, and no similar committee be created, we can expect, from experience, nothing less than unjust demotion and dismissal of many State employees who gave aid in any way to the committee in making the investigation.

The Legislature could also expect the same campaign against the members of both Senate and Assembly who have not accepted the administration's dictatorial program, as was recorded in the Orange County transcript (H-13) and in public addresses by the administration. Unsigned campaign material was issued by the SRA office in Orange County containing entirely erroneous statements, directed against the representatives from that county. The reply of the witness when shown the errors, that he was still of the same opinion, is evidence of what the Legislature may expect.

Prior to the passage of Senate Bill No. 81, a public relations division in the SRA had for its purpose a propaganda program of bulletins, circulars, radio speeches and newspaper releases at a monthly cost of thousands of dollars of the taxpayers' money which had been appropriated by the Legislature for the unemployed men and women of California.

Suggestions Considered by Committee.

Citizens and organizations have suggested to the committee various additions to the regulations to be placed in relief bills. These have included publishing or posting the names of recipients of relief, and finger-printing all recipients of relief as a routine matter and for the protection of the applicant as well as for cooperation between the State and its peace authorities.

The plan of requiring relief recipients to turn in their automobile license plates except under extraordinary circumstances, presumably in connection with employment, has also been recommended.

The committee recognizes that these would be severe methods of controlling relief. The committee does not make them as recommendations. It does, however, ask the Legislature to think of the historical fact that no nation has reached the unemployment situation already reached in California, and has attempted to solve it, without eventually taking stronger steps, and in most instances taking the vote from its unfortunate citizens. The committee prefers to believe that the proper administration of relief would make such recommendations unnecessary.

VI.

Continue Study of Alien Problem.

We recommend that the restrictions written into Senate Bill No. 81 regarding aliens be written into subsequent bills passed by the Legislature and that the problem have further study. The seriousness of the problem is indicated by the fact that in January, 1940, 15,508 aliens were on relief, and that in April, 1940, as a result of the restrictions in Senate Bill No. 81 this number had been reduced to 13,447 which represents approximately 16 per cent of the relief case load. The Legislature, in 1937, called attention to the fact that California taxpayers paid $5,000,000 per year for the relief of aliens. It is the belief of the committee that the alien problem is essentially a Federal problem. It has become a State problem largely because of the failure of the Federal Government to assume its responsibility. We need Federal cooperation.

Establish Five-Year Residential Requirements.

Under an integral program, we recommend that the present rule requiring three years residence in California before direct relief may be granted, be raised to five years. This regulation would then conform to the residence requirements for aged aid which has been approved by the Federal Government. Residential requirements for all categorical aids should receive consideration and study in an integral program because we find many instances of abuse and discrepancies.

VIII.

Clear Relief Applications Through Credit Agency.

We recommend to the SRA or to the counties the clearing of accepted applications through private credit agencies in the same manner as commercial or financial credit applications are cleared.

PART TWO.*Explanatory Report.

The members of the Joint Legislative Committee on Employment offer no panacea for unemployment.

Two months work on the part of seventeen legislators in all parts of California emphasizes the complexity of the problem.

There is no easy way out of the difficulty. The problem is shared in varying degrees by every State, but affects California peculiarly because of a proportionately large population of indigent migrants and because California is a proving ground of radical and subversive plans to make political use of unemployed. While the problem is complex, it can and will be solved, not in a day, but more rapidly than had hitherto been believed.

Problem Will Be Solved.

The unemployment problem of California can be solved by a determination to solve it. The solution will not come from those who preach cynical defeatism to further class hatreds, nor from pessimists who view Democracy with despair.

There is little if any indication that a proper solution will come from the present State Administration.

The Administration is using the State Relief Administration for the creation of a partisan political machine. The SRA is being administered under conditions of incompetency, with internal disruption and discord, by men and women in executive positions who are unsuited to the duties assigned them. These officials, many of whom have neither the background nor the ability to administer the positions held, are hampered by political dictation, and morale is low. Political considerations are controlling factors in decisions on SRA policy and personnel.

A Start Has Been Made.

The solution will be founded upon fundamental American traditions of economy, honesty, individual effort, and sincere cooperation in working out a problem of the commonwealth. The Legislature made a start through enactment last February of Senate Bill No. 81.

The Committee's belief that emphasis should be placed on employment rather than on relief is supported from a source which the majority of the members of the Legislature have on occasion sharply criticized, the Workers Alliance.

Workers Alliance Confirms Analysis.

Testifying before the subcommittee headed by Assemblyman A. C. Wollenberg, in Monterey, on March 20, 1940, J. W. Patterson, chairman of the grievance committee of the local Workers Alliance, in response to a request made the following general statement: (W-2 page 11, official transcript)

"We have studied this problem from every angle and we feel that the biggest mistake they (the State Relief Administration) made is the fact that they are dealing with it as a social problem. We don't feel that it is a social problem—it is an unemployment problem. I think that ninety per cent of all our trouble is the fact that some of the people try to deal strictly on the basis of a social problem, and it is not.

"If it was approached from that angle * * * there would never be any necessity to have a grievance from any organization."

Again, Mr. Patterson said: (page 12 of transcript)

"It is a problem of unemployment, and they approach it from the social angle, and they are supposed to go into the home and try to rehabilitate a man who has lost a job, and all that kind of stuff * * *."

"This is not a social problem, it is an unemployment problem, and we feel that if they would try to spend time to work it out, it wouldn't be necessary to have this namby-pamby social idea—that is never going to settle the problem of relief."

Mr. Patterson's statement quite evidently does not represent the general viewpoint of the Workers Alliance as an organization, but the Committee submits that volumes could not state the problem more succinctly.

New Approach Is Needed.

Unemployment is a relatively new problem in the United States. Yet no American is unaffected by it. No American interested in the welfare of his government and the preservation of American liberties can ignore its involvements. No American can tolerate the suggestion that the problem is too big to be solved in the American way by the absorption of unemployed men and women into a revitalized American economy.

The committee offers no apologies for its refusal to join those who blandly offer guaranteed "cures" for unemployment. Such schemes are worse than the condition they would fail to correct, because they tend to array class against class.

Subversive Influences at Work.

Proponents of these schemes are deliberately working, more or less openly, toward a revolution. Others, less vicious in their purposes but equally dangerous because of ignorance, unwittingly are lending the cause of revolution their names and reputations. Despite repeated statements to the contrary from the Administration, the SRA is being used for the development of the Communist program.

Under pressure from the Legislature, the SRA has been rid of a few Communists and fellow-travelers, but more remain. The Legislature and the public have been misled into believing that this clean-up was drastic and far-reaching.

Communists, fellow-travelers and the so-called "intelligentsia" still hold responsible positions in the SRA, and exert a disrupting influence that permeates the entire structure.

Through the State, County and Municipal Workers Association of America within, and the Workers Alliance without, the SRA has been subjected to intensive radical pressure. Such pressure has no place in a democracy. These two organizations, sympathetic in viewpoint and objective, enable relief recipient members to obtain preferred treatment, and assist SRA employees who are members to obtain promotions, higher pay and immunity from administrative regulation.

In general, conditions resulting from unemployment have been seized upon by subversive forces to further their cause. The weak handling of the SRA has made this a fertile field.

An Administration Smoke Screen.

Lack of sincerity of the State administration has been shown by its response to the public demand that communistic and subversive influences be eliminated from the SRA. Dismissals have been made with a reluctance that leaves no doubt as to where the sympathies of the Administration actually lie, and even those dropped from one department when the spotlight of publicity makes this necessary, sometimes find themselves comfortably placed in another department.

It is illuminating to read the transcript of the hearings of the Committee on Subversive Activities in the SRA, of which Assemblyman Yorty is the chairman. The testimony of certain radically inclined State employees not only establishes their arrogance and insolence but also their contempt for our form of government and for legislative procedure. No such attitude would have been found on the part of employees who knew that they were responsible to an administration committed to the elimination of radical and subversive activities. The committee members do not like termites in their houses, nor in their government.

Relief Is a Palliative.

Like any medicine which does not remove the cause of the illness, relief is dangerous in itself. Bromides administered over long periods may produce rashes on the patient's body. In the same way, relief is producing red rashes on the body politic. As quickly as possible, and with complete coordination of effort, the cause of the trouble must be attacked and the palliative tapered off.

Relief must continue until the mobilization for employment has proved itself successful. It should be repeated that the dole, which is the form in which relief is extended in California, is not a cure for unemployment. Opinions are sharply divided as to the respective merits of outright grants of cash to those in need and payment only in exchange for work done.

Testimony by informed persons before the committee substantiates the contention that the morale of unemployed men and women is best maintained when they are given a chance to work. Public works projects should be supported as a part of the reemployment program, although the committee has found that immediate costs are often higher than the dole. The burden of financing relief has already brought hardship to taxpayers and has impeded the revival of business. California taxpayers are also in need of relief. The financial costs of these projects must be weighed in light of the ultimate beneficial returns to the State as a whole.

Works Projects Considered.

The State should give maximum cooperation to the Works Progress Administration and urge extension of its activities in California. Every effort must be made to obtain sponsorship for projects to the end that the full WPA quota for the State may be utilized. The committee was astounded to learn, from testimony by the WPA Administrator for Southern California (P-2, pages 46 and 47), that his agency had had an average of over 2,000 jobs monthly which were open to the unemployed, but of which the SRA had never availed itself.

Refusal to Accept Work Condemned.

There can be no difference of opinion as to the gross dishonesty of any SRA official who condones and abets relief recipients in refusing to take work on WPA or similar projects. No relief recipient should be permitted to refuse suitable employment or to delay the acceptance of work. Any relief recipient refusing suitable employment should forthwith be removed permanently from the relief rolls.

Production-For-Use Criticized.

As to the other forms of relief which are loosely grouped under the misleading title of "Production-for-use," the committee offers these observations:

The true cooperatives serve a useful purpose. They merit encouragement, but only as a supplementing part of an employment program.

"Production-for-use" as described in the recommendations of the Governor's Commission on Reemployment, involves setting up "economic islands" within our general economy, to be inhabited by relief recipients and financed by the State.

There should be no such futile experiments in California because they would leave the relief recipient in the same predicament, an outcast from private employment and dependent on the ability of taxpayers to continue his support.

Long Range Outlook Urged.

This committee, as a result of its work, has arrived at certain conclusions in respect to the problem of unemployment in California.

(A) This problem will prevail, in greater or less degree, until "Mobilization for Employment" has won its objective. While the trend of private business and employment is upward at present, the fact that this is due, in part, to the European war should not be overlooked. Recent reports show a 17 per cent improvement in business over a year ago.

(B) Neither the dole nor any of the other methods now employed will overcome unemployment, but the cash dole must remain as the least expensive defense against hardship and destitution until unemployment is overcome. Thus every "public works project" must be subjected to scrutiny, and its values for maintaining morale must be balanced against its cost, its competition with private industry and its ultimate benefit to the State. The administration of relief must be conducted with maximum efficiency, utterly divorced from politics, and with no opportunity afforded communistic and other subversive elements to capitalize on the current economic dislocation.

(C) The State should do all within its power to foster increased employment in private enterprise.

(D) Efficiency, economy and freedom from subversive encroachment will best be served by county administration of direct relief.

Welfare workers, county supervisors and other representative citizens interviewed testified to the advantages of county administration. The committee believes that this reflects the opinion of a majority of citizens throughout the State.

(E) The State Relief Administration is so top-heavy, complicated and unwieldy that the only possibility for restoration of good management is to be found in decentralized administration. A department that does not know the details of its own actions until two months after the action has taken place is in need of simplification, in either business or government.

Evidence obtained by the committee definitely demonstrates that justice both to the citizen who pays for relief and to the citizen who must ask for relief will be accomplished by liquidation of the State Relief Administration. The SRA has permitted social service theorists and wishful-thinkers to run riot in California for years with resultant wastefulness, chiseling and inequities. Social service, as evidenced in the SRA in recent months, has presumed that unemployment is permanent and that relief recipients are a permanent class. The SRA social service workers have disregarded the possibilities of reemployment, and have done no good to their own profession.

The committee has respect for altruism, but contends that genuine altruism means employment for every citizen who would work. To this end, social service, as practiced in local and private relief organizations, has performed a noteworthy service.

Social service in the SRA has encouraged a tendency to look to the State for everything and to regard relief as a vested right. This is demonstrated by the attitude which terms the relief recipient a "client," and upon this artificial foundation, some recipients are today asking for credit as "State employees."

Common sense, not a formula, controls effective social service work. In the SRA, social service has been characterized by an exaggerated professional attitude, has been administered by remote control, subject to political manipulation and responsible to subversive influence.

(F) Relief budgets should take standards of living into account, as well as the number of members of a family, and should consider total income from all sources, especially all State aids.

On the one hand families of large size have received more in relief than the bread-winner might earn in private employment. To a considerable extent these are families in which one or more members, usually the parents, are of low standard backgrounds. Many are aliens. Their living habits are usually below the American scale. On the other hand, individuals with smaller families, of native born stock and accustomed to American living standards, are actually getting less than they require for maintenance, when these standards are considered.

This latter group contains many long-time taxpayers in California. Under professionalized social service these Americans find themselves at a disadvantage when compared with alien low-standard groups.

By placing a cash ceiling of $58 a month on the budget of any family, regardless of size, the Legislature made a start toward correcting this inequity.

Despite the obvious intention of the Legislature to place a definite limit on the amount of relief that might be paid to any one family, the SRA apparently has devised a means of circumventing that act through its social service memorandum No. 131 (see Appendix) issued on April 10, 1940. Ever ready to take advantage of the social service attitude prevailing throughout the SRA, the Workers Alliance is reported to be pressuring Emergency Relief Orders for the families of four or more and for Emergency Relief Orders to duplicate rent allowances already made in their budgets.

The committee feels that some method must be devised by which the size of the family is not the principal gauge of the relief budget. If the United States is to follow the leadership of the dictators, and subsidize large families, then let us do it openly and honestly, not through the back door of "relief," opened by some catch-all formula from a professionalized social service manual.

(G) The problem of youth is one of the greatest problems of unemployment.

Young people today are getting married on relief and their children are being born on relief. Little is being done to foster a spirit of initiative and independence characteristic of so many generations of self-reliant American families. This is a problem for both the Legislature and groups responsible for methods of education. Further study is being given this subject and the committee expects to submit a report. There is hope of solution because American youth still wants work, still seeks to be self-reliant.

(H) The California State Employment Service must be built to a place of real importance.

The personnel and activities of the California Employment Insurance Commission have been directed toward paying unemployment benefit checks rather than obtaining employment for the unemployed.

The effort of the Administration to convince the people that the California State Employment Service is functioning efficiently either is an attempt to mislead or is a demonstration of ignorance of the failure of the service to perform its function.

(I) The unemployment problem has been aggravated because thousands, having gained the comparative security of relief, have been reluctant to accept even temporary employment because of having again to qualify for future assistance. Some effort should be made to encourage relief recipients to accept employment even though it may be temporary. This result will be gained by reducing the amount of red tape necessary for readmittance of the deserving to the relief rolls.

(J) Sincerity must prevail in the administration of relief.

The committee affirms that there have been few episodes more shameless, more contemptuous of the rights of the unemployed, than the 40 per cent cut in the relief budgets ordered by the present State Administration following the passage of Senate Bill No. 81.

The Legislature passed Senate Bill No. 81 over the Governor's veto. The law was written to reduce SRA inefficiency and extravagance, but if enforced in a spirit of cooperation the provisions of the act were such as to cause no hardship to any deserving relief recipient.

Arbitrarily the SRA ordered a 40 per cent reduction in all relief allowances. An analysis of the SRA's financial condition at that time, made by Price, Waterhouse & Co., appears as an appendix to the report.

The analysis confirms the earlier charges that this reduction was ordered for one of the two following reasons: First, it was a political move by the State Administration in the hope of embarrassing the economy-minded majority of the Legislature by arousing pressure groups against individual members.

Second, the centralized methods of the SRA are so cumbersome, slow and unworkable that it was difficult for executives of the SRA to know that the restrictions of Senate Bill No. 81 would require no reduction, or even to know the condition of its own balance sheet on that date.

In this connection the committee calls attention to the reduction in SRA rolls following the effective date of this legislation. An anticipated maximum of 122,000 relief cases actually proved to be 116,000 at the time the bill went into effect on February 24, 1940, and quickly dropped to less than 100,000 and by the middle of April to 86,000. The case load as of May 6, 1940, was approximately 81,000.

Elimination of ineligible, the decision of out-of-state recipients to return home rather than to face scrutiny, and the action of chiselers in dropping themselves from the rolls have already demonstrated the correctness of the Legislature's action in passing Senate Bill No. 81.

(K) Politics has no part in efficient administration of relief.

The State Administration has given the SRA into the hands of politicians, making this important department of government an agency for pay-offs and a dumping ground for those who had to be "taken care of."

Many appointees picked for SRA posts for political reasons have proved themselves incompetent or worse. The SRA contains many honest, sincere and capable people who are helpless to correct abuses that have followed the advent of the spoils system in the SRA.

(L) Federal cooperation is essential to the solution of California's migrant problem.

Thousands of migrants who are now a charge on California taxpayers came here at the implied invitation of the present Governor. He publicly expressed sentiments which could be construed in no other way than as an invitation to indigents in other states to throw themselves on the bounty of California.

Not only has the situation in California been misrepresented to the migrants themselves, but the people of the entire nation have been given a distorted picture. Sentimentality has been substituted for facts.

The Federal Administration, by its encouragement of migrants already in California, and its refusal to accept its obligation for the care of these dust-bowl refugees so encouraged, has apparently determined to make California the poorhouse of the United States. Unless this obligation is assumed by the Federal Government, California will have no choice but to consider legislation to bar from entry into the State those people who are likely to become public charges.

Federal migratory camps, instead of being temporary havens for unfortunate people, actually have developed into "islands" over which neither State nor local authorities have control. They are not used as temporary housing facilities, as they were intended, but as cheap housing accommodations provided to migrants for whom there is no work and for some who are unwilling to work, on a semi-permanent basis.

The absorption of work-desiring migrants into the economy of California would necessarily be part of any long term planning by the State. The problem requires study, a desire to help find a solution, and the immediate ending of the encouragement given subversive and agitating elements by the Federal authorities in charge of this program. It is no proper function of the Federal Government to set up such "islands" and to countenance strike agitation in a State already paying the highest farm wages, to the extent that the sign "Strike Headquarters" was placed at the entrance to at least one of these Federal camps.

(M) The Federal Government must be made to realize that indigent aliens in California constitute a Federal problem.

Until the enactment of Senate Bill No. 81, relief checks to aliens were in the majority of cases more than these families have averaged as earnings during comparable periods. These payments were in addition to medical and dental aid and surplus commodities.

Under Senate Bill No. 81 the State may not provide relief to aliens illegally in this country, but even with this restriction, aliens continue to constitute an important part of the relief load.

The Legislature is asked to set up immediately the machinery to get the necessary cooperation of the Federal Government.

(N) If a State camp program is to be operated, existing evils with attendant waste and inefficiency must be corrected. SRA camps, properly administered, and with the requirement that all single men, with certain exceptions, go to them to receive aid, can be constructive factors in rehabilitation and reemployment.

It has been observed that the Workers Alliance opposes the operation of camps because it removes the relief recipient from the sphere of subversive influence.

How Committee Functioned.

The Joint Fact-finding Committee which submits this report was appointed in the closing days of the February, 1940, special session. It was charged with several functions. One was to continue the investigation, begun more than a year ago, into widespread abuses within the SRA. Another was to submit recommendations for improving California's handling of the entire employment problem. Still another function was to observe the operation of Senate Bill No. 81 with a view to future legislation.

These duties have been performed by the committee to the best of its abilities within the allowed time. Whatever may be the shortcomings of this report, they are due to physical limitations, not to lack of effort. The members of the committee have conducted hearings in every part of California; personally examined documents, inventories, books and records; and have heard scores of witnesses who testified under oath and whose testimony is embodied in official transcripts.

Special Sub-Committee Appointed.

To facilitate the work of investigation, the nine assemblymen and eight senators on the committee arranged for the appointment of sub-committees. Four such sub-committees were designated. They worked on a geographical basis; sub-committees headed by Senators Mixter and Nielsen, and by Assemblymen Houser and Wollenberg, conducted hearings, respectively, in the Central Valley, in Northern California, in Southern California, and in the San Francisco Bay-Central Coast area.

Committee members were designated to prepare special reports to be submitted to the Joint Committee as follows:

Assemblyman Elmer E. Lore, Surplus Commodities;
Senator Frank W. Mixter, The Cooperatives;
Assemblyman Edward O'Day, The Youth Problem;
Assemblyman Norris Poulson, Accounting Procedure in the SRA;
Senator J. I. Wagy, The Migrant Problem;
Assemblyman Clyde A. Watson, The Alien Problem.

The committee also arranged for two independent investigations into vital phases of the employment problem.

The national firm of Price, Waterhouse & Co., certified public accountants, was retained by the committee in an advisory capacity. In addition to advising the committee on general phases of SRA accounting, it was asked to establish, from the SRA records, without making a complete audit, the approximate balances in the funds of that department as of February 15, 1940, and March 31, 1940. The firm was also asked to indicate changes in the financial position of the SRA during this period, with certain expenditures segregated. It has furnished this information, and other information and comments, which the committee submits as a separate part of this report.

The committee received the cooperation of the State Controller, the Director of Agriculture and the State Relief Administrator.

Credit Agencies Investigate Cases.

To ascertain the truth of reports that chiseling is still rife, the Controller, under authority of the Legislature and with the approval of the Director of Finance arranged with private credit agencies to investigate more than 10,000 cases on the SRA rolls. The results of this so-called social audit will be made available to the Legislature in a separate part of this report.

Sampling Method.

The committee, handicapped for time, has made free use of the "sampling" method now in general use by political polls, and by financial, economic and statistical fact-gathering agencies. Obviously the committee could not check every relief case, every transportation order, every reported instance of waste, extravagance, and incompetency. By methods it did use, the committee believes that it secured a true picture of the relief situation.

The previously submitted "Atherton Report" (Senate Journal, January 30, 1940) was submitted officially to the committee (testimony of E. D. Hall, Transcript P-3, pages 1-3), and reference has been made to its findings. The same Senate Journal contained the letter of resignation of Dr. H. Dewey Anderson and reference has also been made to that.

Attention is called to the significant Report and Recommendations of the Legislative Committee of SRA Los Angeles Chapter No. 65, of the California State Employees Association which was printed in the Senate Journal February 6, 1940, pages 136, 137, 138 and 139.

To keep this part of the report within reasonable length, the committee decided not to encumber it with references to the official record, nor to repeat detailed matter set forth in Part III.

We have endeavored to present general findings in respect to the more important phases of employment, together with conclusions which we believe will be helpful to the Legislature.

Minority Report.

On motion of Mr. Lore, the following minority report was received and ordered printed in the Journal:

PART I.

Minority Report of Joint Legislative Fact-Finding Committee on Unemployment.

I concur completely in the statement of the majority members of this committee that emphasis should in the future be placed on the broad subject of unemployment rather than on the single confusing, controversial and annoying aspect of relief.

I am in substantial agreement with the recommendation for consolidation and integration of the present State Department of Social Welfare, Employment and the State Relief Administration. This, however, is a far reaching step and many problems are involved which can not be given adequate consideration at a short special session of the Legislature. The proposed reorganization should be considered as an ultimate goal toward which to work and is worthy of serious consideration by the Governor, members of the Legislature, taxpayers, and all citizens interested in working out a solution of the unemployment problem.

The single suggestion in this connection with which I disagree is the recommendation that the appointment of the proposed Director of Employment must be approved by two-thirds of the Senate, after his appointment by the Governor. Even the violent opposition of committee members to the present Chief Executive does not in my opinion warrant this unprecedented proposal. The State Senate has no monopoly on good judgment. Committee members who so strongly disapprove of what they call dictatorship in the executive branch place themselves in an inconsistent position when they advocate dictatorship by a single house of the Legislature.

I concur in the recommendations of the committee for the extension of a public works program. In this connection, however, I regret that the committee did not see fit to recommend employment for a part of our relief recipients on production projects.

I shall be glad to cooperate in what the committee has seen fit to call "Mobilization for Employment." I will be inclined to back this proposal with fingers crossed, however, as I fear that the "mobilization" will consist chiefly of conversation and oratory.

Research can unquestionably develop new products, new markets and, eventually, new jobs. Until more jobs are, however, actually developed we should not try to fool ourselves into believing we can make progress by reshuffling old jobs. As long as there are twelve or fourteen workers for every ten jobs, we can make no progress by finding work for those presently unemployed if their employment is to have the ultimate effect of throwing others on relief rolls. Many fundamental economic adjustments may yet be necessary before we can provide employment at reasonably adequate wages for all who are seeking jobs. Mobilization for employment, however, can be effective if the program calls first for serious study of the forces that cause unemployment, and second for dissemination of accurate and unbiased information on the problem.

Although concurring in the committee recommendations for an integrated employment, welfare and relief agency, I am at this time unalterably opposed to the recommendation that unemployment relief be decentralized and administered by the counties. I believe that every authority on the subject will agree that state-wide uniformity in the administration of unemployment relief is vitally necessary. A man who is eligible for relief in Sacramento County should be eligible in Imperial County, Los Angeles County, Tulare County and Siskiyou County. Standards of relief should also be uniform. This does not necessarily mean that exactly the same monetary aid should be paid in each of the several counties. It does mean, however, that the money granted will provide comparable standards of living in every section of the State.

Minimum standards of competency should also be established for all employees engaged in the administration of relief.

Under centralized State control the maintenance of uniform standards is comparatively simple. Such uniformity can not be expected under county administration without the most rigid State supervision.

The committee report can be minutely scrutinized from end to end without finding any proposal for adequate control of the county welfare departments that would provide uniform rules of eligibility, uniform relief standards, or minimum personnel standards. Comment in the report on this problem of uniformity appears to be inconsistent and contradictory. Typical of the committee's tendency to assail the State Relief Administration if it does or if it does not are observations on this matter. The report states: " * * * the committee has heard complaints that the present regulations, as imposed upon case workers, are too severe. In the past a case worker was given a reasonable power of decision in individual cases, thus, cases in different areas of the State could be handled according to conditions in those areas, and some distinction could be made between families accustomed to lower or higher standards of living

"Today rigorous and inelastic regulations appear to apply at this point while, on the other hand, regulations which might justly be expected to be observed are administered with great elasticity by directors, district supervisors and case workers." This statement, according to the committee's report, "confirms the feeling * * * that local supervision will bring advantages." Most students of the relief problem will demand more substantial confirmation of the committee's conclusions than this contradictory statement.

It is true that absolute uniformity of administration does not today exist in SRA. There are minor variations just as there are probably minor variations in the enforcement of the liquor law, which is handled by another State agency.

In a centralized organization, however, operating under a single administrator and State staff, with field representatives constantly in touch with the counties to interpret policies and see that those policies are observed, the tendency is toward uniformity. With relief administered by fifty-eight different sets of supervisors, however, and with only the superficial and half-hearted State control proposed by the committee the natural trend will be toward a lack of uniformity.

It would be interesting to know to what extent the committee would give either the case worker or a board of county supervisors the power to make decisions in individual cases. It might also be pertinent to ask what the committee has in mind when it suggests that conditions in different areas of the State be handled according to conditions in those areas. This sounds too much like an open invitation to each board of supervisors to establish standards based on the views, idiosyncrasies and prejudices of its individual members.

Lack of uniformity would almost inevitably cause considerable shifting of population from districts with low relief standards to counties where such standards are higher. Since urban districts will usually be more generous than the rural areas, we would probably accelerate the undesirable movement of farm labor into cities now crowded with industrial unemployed.

I completely agree with the majority opinion that the purely artificial distinction between employables and unemployables should be eliminated. Before this step can be taken, however, some definite agreement should be reached as to a formula of financial responsibility between county and State. This is a matter which should receive grave consideration from all interests involved, and it would be unwise to take snap judgment during the short term of a special legislative session.

An interesting insight into the views of the committee is revealed in the section of its report dealing with Civil Service. I believe that whatever agency administers relief should be either under civil service or under some comparable merit system. The committee, however, appears to be very careful not to endorse the principles of civil service for county employees. Its report states that under the proposed reorganized program, civil service would apply in the State Department of Employment. The report, however, is entirely silent on civil service of county employees who would administer the program. The report, in fact, goes out of its way to specify that the committee does not endorse the merit system which the Federal Government is now trying to impose on county welfare departments.

The report subscribes to the principle of local government under "proper" State regulation. The committee's recommendation of caution on the part of the Legislature, "against being led astray by an argument that state subventions necessarily carry with them state control or that uniformity can only be secured through 'strict supervision,'" would appear to imply that "proper" supervision means innocuous supervision.

I have no objection to the committee's recommendation to perpetuate itself. I believe that it has served, and can continue to serve, some useful purposes. I take exception, however, to some of the reasons given in the majority report for its continuance.

I challenge the statement that unless it continues to function, employees of the SRA who testified before it as witnesses face danger of discharge or demotion. In so far as my own knowledge goes nothing has been heard of reprisals against any employee who appeared before the committee. I would call attention to the fact that the present relief administrator immediately reinstated, during the last special session, employees who had been discharged by a county director for appearing before the Yorty committee.

The committee, in my opinion, is to be highly commended for refusing to recommend such harsh proposals as posting or publishing names of recipients of relief, fingerprinting of applicants, and impounding automobile license plates. Although disagreeing with the majority that restrictions relative to aliens in Senate Bill No. 81 be written into subsequent bills, I do concur in the recommendation for further study in this connection. According to the report there were 15,508 aliens on relief in January. This number, it is said, was reduced to 13,447 in April as a result of the provisions of Senate Bill No. 81. Certainly no study of this subject will be complete until it is ascertained what became of the 2,061 individuals who were removed from the relief rolls for the lone reason that they were not born within the territorial limits of the United States. In my opinion it is highly important to determine how these people are existing today. Are they being cared for by private welfare agencies? Have they been driven to panhandling or crime? Are they being cared for by kind neighbors? Are they hungry? Certainly the committee's report can not be considered as complete until it answers these questions.

I must also disagree with the recommendation that five years California residence be required to make an applicant eligible for relief. To attempt to justify this regulation on the ground that it would conform to the residence requirements for aged aid is ridiculous. Those not having the residence requirements for aged aid are cared for by SRA or county on indigent rolls. According to most state laws, a citizen loses residence after an absence of one year from his home State. A five-year residence law would have the effect of making many needy people ineligible for assistance from any quarter whatsoever. The Legislature can only proceed on one of two theories. It can establish the policy of giving aid to those in distress, or it can say that it is interested only in saving money.

If we are to distribute aid on the basis of need, we should grant assistance to applicants whether they have been in the State one year or fifty years. If the only objective is the saving of money, aid might be limited to white, protestant, Nordic, Native Sons, or if relief for those within this classification is still considered too costly it could be limited to albino Negroes. This, of course, would completely eliminate relief rolls and should appeal to those whose only thought on the subject is, "economy."

I can not concur in the committee's recommendation that applications for relief be cleared through private credit agencies. I am fundamentally opposed to the delegation of the administrative functions of any department of government to any private agency.

Respectfully submitted.

ELMER E. LORE.

PART TWO.

Minority Report of Joint Legislative Fact-Finding Committee on Unemployment.

Part Two of the majority committee report is almost pure and unadulterated propaganda. It appears to have been designed to prejudice the public against the present State administration rather than to provide a factual guide for those seriously interested in the problem of unemployment and relief.

There are few sections of this part of the report in which I can concur. For several years, I have been a severe critic of the relief administration. I have condemned practices and policies existing under both the Merriam and the Olson regimes. I would be the last to maintain that the organization is today being operated with uniform efficiency. I would be glad to join with the majority of my colleagues on the committee in signing a report of constructive criticism. Their document, however, does not fall within that category.

Since the majority of the committee is determined to go to almost any length to transfer administration of relief to the counties, they start with the premise that "There is little, if any, indication that a proper solution will come from the present State administration." The report, following the pattern of a typical propaganda document, then recites what it calls conditions of incompetence, internal disruption and discord, and would lead readers to believe that the few competent administrators in SRA are completely thwarted by political dictation.

Since the majority report appears to be based on nothing more substantial than the opinions of those who wish to hamper and harass the present administration, I have no hesitancy in expressing my own opinions on the subject. I believe I am safe in stating that I am personally acquainted with more officials and employees in the State Relief Administration than any other member of the Legislature. It is my conviction based on broad knowledge of their operations that practically all of the personnel of the State Relief Administration are making an honest and conscientious effort to operate an efficient program. I believe that incompetence is the exception and not the rule.

I know from two months' experience in touring the State as a member of this committee that efforts of its members have been devoted primarily to unearthing scandal, isolated instances of incompetence and what the committee report terms evidence of "subversive influences."

No effort has been made to interview and commend any of the thousands of employees in high and low positions who are working long hours to efficiently serve the State of California. Since it was apparently the function of this committee to find sufficient fault with the present State Relief Administration to enable it to turn relief over to the counties, it is not surprising that Part Two of the report deals with glaring exceptions to the general rule of competent administration.

Much is made of the "subversive influences" alleged to be at work within SRA and the report directly charges that "Despite repeated statements to the contrary from the Administration, the SRA is being used for the development of the Communist program."

This charge made by an ordinary citizen, without the cloak of legislative immunity, against another citizen would represent criminal libel. No such fantastic charge can be substantiated by the most biased testimony contained in committee transcripts.

The report has much to say about the State, County, and Municipal Workers of America and the Workers Alliance. It is charged that these two organizations, one working from without and one from within have subjected SRA to radical pressure and the statement is made that "Such pressure has no place in a democracy." It should first be cited that these two organizations are nothing new in SRA. Both of them have been exerting their pressures on this organization for several years prior to the advent of the present administration.

Many other groups active in bringing pressure on SRA have also been in existence and still operate. No investigation of "pressure" on SRA would be complete that did not also consider those organizations. The SRA has been, is, and will be under continuous pressure from taxpayers' organizations, from farm groups, from county supervisors, from private welfare agencies, from employers, and even at times from the Legislature. Would the committee deny that pressure from these latter groups has no place in a democracy? To me, it would seem inconsistent to deny organized recipients of relief the right to bring pressure on the relief administration but to permit the same pressure from taxpayers' organizations. Democracy would appear to me to be in serious danger if the Legislature were to decide that one category of citizens can bring pressure on any agency of government and that this right is denied to another category.

In so far as my knowledge of the committee transcript goes, there is no evidence that Workers Alliance pressure has been effective in loading relief rolls with any substantial number of ineligible. The cases in which Workers Alliance has been able to have persons of doubtful eligibility accepted for relief are extremely rare. Here again the committee tries to prove a general rule by citing isolated exceptions.

I would not deny the right of the State, County, and Municipal Workers of America to organize employees of the State Relief Administration. There is ample precedent for a union of public employees. For many years, the Railway Mail Clerks have had an organized union in the United States Postal Service. It is without doubt true that in certain instances, SCMWA has overstepped the limits of propriety in their zeal to obtain advantages for their members. If the committee would confine its condemnation to these specific instances, I would be glad to join with them in criticism of SCMWA. I am convinced that a preponderant percentage of the members of this organization, however, are efficient and sincere workers, interested primarily in operating a good program.

The State administration is charged with lack of sincerity in its response to the public demand that "Communist influences" be eliminated from SRA. Since the committee has not seen fit to define the term "Communist" as it is used in this report, it would be an idle gesture to attempt an answer to this charge. What is a Communist? How can one distinguish with certainty between a Democrat, a Prohibitionist, a Communist, and a Republican. I do not know. I do not believe that the committee knows. I believe the test for every employee should be his loyalty to the organization which employs him and competent performance of his duties. No employee who is giving the time and attention necessary to do a good job has any time for the advocacy of revolution.

The transcript of the committee can be searched from end to end without finding any evidence of revolutionary, Communist control within the State Relief Administration that would be accepted as legal evidence in any court in the land.

The majority report criticizes SRA for not providing a full quota of WPA workers and states that an average of 2000 jobs per month were available for the unemployed in southern California "but of which SRA has never availed itself." No effort in so far as I know was made by the committee to determine whether these jobs were not filled because of failure of local governmental units to provide sufficient funds for sponsorship; whether SRA was unable to provide from its rolls men of the proper classifications and skills or whether it was simply lax in referring eligible clients. Without definite knowledge of the facts in this particular case, I consider the last contingency unlikely.

I agree with the committee that no relief recipient should be permitted to refuse "suitable" employment. I might not, however, agree with them on their definition of the word "suitable." Certainly I cannot concur in their recommendation that any relief recipient refusing suitable employment be permanently barred from relief rolls. A relief recipient might have many good reasons for refusing employment deemed suitable by an inexperienced or incompetent social worker.

The committee's objection to employment of relief recipients on production projects is based, in my opinion, on the false premise that the unemployed are supporting trade and industry. As soon as the Legislature realizes that trade and industry supports the unemployed and not the reverse, I believe opposition to placing relief recipients in a position to support themselves will disappear.

Under the heading "Long Range Outlook Urged" the committee indulges in a hodgepodge of inanities. I offer this section of the majority report with items labeled A to N, inclusive, as evidence of the committee's muddled thinking on the subject of unemployment and relief.

The Social Service Department of SRA is severely criticized for terming a relief recipient a "client." To correct this situation, the committee would turn the administration of relief over to county welfare departments who invented the term some years before the organization of the State Relief Administration and who still so designate the people on their rolls.

Social Service is also condemned for taking into consideration the size of families in establishing budgets. It is claimed that to a considerable extent the large families are of low standard backgrounds. It is inferentially stated that native-born Americans are getting less than required for maintenance and the committee boasts that the Legislature has partially solved this problem by putting a $58 ceiling on family budgets regardless of size; and they should have added, regardless of the nativity or economic background of the families involved.

In another section of the report, SRA is flayed for the 40 per cent budget cuts inaugurated immediately after the passage of Senate Bill 81. On the basis of present knowledge, this reduction may appear to have been unjustified. This, however, is a case in which hind-sight is much better than foresight.

During the first 47 days of 1940—January 1 to February 16, inclusive—relief funds were expended at the rate of $210,000 a day. Under the provisions of Senate Bill 81 expenditures for the following 44 days from February 17 to March 31 were limited to $125,000 per day. This was a 40 per cent reduction in appropriations. The Relief Administration could not possibly foresee the rapid reduction of case load which took place.

Case load does not normally start to decline until the second or third week in March. The drop is then usually rather gradual. This year, the case load started to decline during the latter part of February and the decline was much sharper than usual. To reinforce its contention that the cut was unnecessary, reference is made to a report by Price, Waterhouse & Co., showing funds available in excess of the claims of SRA on February 16. Not being an accountant, I do not want to become involved in any controversy between the auditors of Price, Waterhouse and SRA. It should be stated, however, that half a million dollars in assets claimed by Price, Waterhouse were in inventories of materials and supplies which included $10,000 worth of labels. Certainly the position of the committee and its financial experts is not strengthened by the inference that these labels might have been issued to relief clients as a part of their subsistence.

Contentions that the centralized accounting methods of SRA are cumbersome, slow, and unworkable may to some extent be justified. SRA however, uses the same accounting methods required by the Finance Department of all divisions of State government. These regulations were inaugurated by and placed in force and effect years before the present administration arrived on the scene. I would join with the committee in advocating constructive improvements, but not in unqualified condemnation.

The report charges that "Thousands of migrants who are now a charge on California taxpayers came here at the implied invitation of the present Governor." Since nothing purporting to carry the text of this "invitation" is included in the report, I challenge the committee to include it in the appendix. Here, as in other points in the report, the committee is inconsistent. Members in public and in committee hearings have alleged that wages for farm labor are higher in California than in any State in the Union. They have spoken with approbation on newspaper comment to this effect. To me, it appears doubtful that the committee can submit any statement of the Governor which might serve as a more effective invitation to California than the claims of high agricultural wages by committee members and by California agricultural organizations.

I could continue at great length with a list of objections and exceptions to the majority report. I could point out what I consider many other inconsistencies. I could enlarge upon the arguments contained herein. In the interests of brevity, however, I am content to state that I am in almost complete disagreement with the entire report.

It is, in my opinion, unworthy to be offered as the recommendation of a legislative fact-finding committee. The few pertinent facts contained are submerged in a sea of propaganda. It is assumed without supporting documentation that since county welfare departments are all good and SRA is all bad, that the entire problem of unemployment relief will be permanently solved by turning administration over to the counties. Neither general public nor open-minded legislators will, I believe, be seriously influenced by the specious reasoning of this report.

Respectfully submitted.

Explanations of Vote on Assembly Concurrent Resolution No. 22.

I voted against the creation of this "little Dies" committee but was outvoted and the committee was legally created. If, as charged, these persons summoned before the committee have violated the law the resolution is in order. But if Chairman Yorty is merely running an attack on the Governor then he is despicable and contemptible.

VERNON KILPATRICK.

I am voting for this resolution as I believe Communism should be driven out of State employment, but I have serious misgivings about the Legislature taking into its hands a matter of judicial decision when the courts are always available to punish crime.

S. L. HEISINGER.

I voted no on Assembly Concurrent Resolution No. 22 because I believe that the question of deciding whether or not these witnesses had any lawful excuse in refusing to testify before the Assembly committee is for the courts of this State to decide and not for the Legislature. If the courts find that these witnesses were guilty of contempt in refusing to testify, then they should be punished to the fullest extent of the law.

M. G. DEL MUTOLO.

We voted no on Assembly Concurrent Resolution No. 22 because the committee's report was not available and we did not know its contents.

JOHN B. PELLETIER.
FRED REAVES.

Resolution.

By Mr. Andreas:

House Resolution No. 85.

Relative to improving the "City Creek" road in San Bernardino County.

WHEREAS, The Rim of the World and Big Bear Valley districts constitute the major mountain playgrounds for the year around for the entire Southern California area; and

WHEREAS, The principal highway into said districts, the highway commonly known as the "High Gear" Road, is hopelessly inadequate to care for the traffic entering and leaving said districts, and another main artery of travel is, therefore, urgently required;

WHEREAS, The so-called "City Creek" Route is the most direct and the most scenic route, which forms a feasible alternative to the "High Gear" route; and

WHEREAS, As the citizens of the City of San Bernardino who make large use of these mountain districts for both business and recreational purposes are justly entitled to consideration, and as the City of San Bernardino constitutes the natural gateway to such districts for the very considerable area of the State of California lying south and east of San Bernardino, it is just, right and proper that the other artery of travel now so urgently needed not only be now constructed but that it follow the route using the City of San Bernardino as a gateway; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Assembly of the State of California, That this Assembly respectfully petitions the Director of the Department of Public Works and the California Highway Commission of the State of California to allocate funds and to proceed with the construction and improvement of such alternate artery of traffic into the Rim of the World and Big Bear Valley districts and to do whatever is necessary to bring the "City Creek" Route up to the proper standard for a secondary State highway in a mountain area where there is snow; and be it further

Senate Message.

SENATE CHAMBER, SACRAMENTO, May 14, 1940.

MR. SPEAKER: I am directed to inform your honorable body that the Senate refused to sustain the Governor's veto on:

Senate Bill No. 76—An act making an appropriation for the contingent expenses of the Senate for the Fifty-third (Extraordinary) Session of the Legislature including expenses of committees created at that session and for any and all claims approved by the Senate, and declaring that this act shall take effect immediately.

Herewith is a copy of the Governor's message relative to said bill:

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, GOVERNOR'S OFFICE,
SACRAMENTO, March 1, 1940.

To the Honorable Members of the Senate, State of California,
Sacramento, California.

GREETINGS: I am returning herewith, without my signature, Senate Bill No. 76, entitled: "An act making an appropriation for the contingent expenses of the Senate for the fifty-third (extraordinary) session of the Legislature, including expenses of committees created at that session and for any and all claims approved by the Senate, and declaring that this act shall take effect immediately."

My objections to this bill are as follows:

This bill appropriates $30,000 for the contingent expenses of the Senate for the extraordinary session of the Legislature. The Department of Finance has furnished me with a statement, a copy of which is appended hereto, which shows that the balance on hand from previous appropriations for contingent expenses amounts to $26,915.83. It further shows that before recess the Senate authorized the expenditure of sums totaling some $22,102.77, and further shows that in the event that the entire amounts authorized to be expended are expended, there will be left on hand a balance of $4,813.06, available for expenditures during the balance of the extraordinary session. Inasmuch as the general expenses of the Senate payable from the contingent fund, including the sum of $700 for postage, amounted to only some $1,800, the balance of $4,813.06 would seem to be ample. The amount appropriated by this bill may only be used for the expenses of the extraordinary session, and it would be unwise to appropriate any moneys in excess of the probable needs of the Senate.

Believing the Senate would not wish to appropriate for its contingent expenses more than is necessary, and realizing a future appropriation may be made should an emergency arise, I am taking the action above indicated.

Respectfully submitted.

CULBERT L. OLSON,
Governor of California.

Report.

At the request of Mrs. Daley the following statement was printed in the Assembly Journal preceding the introduction of Part IV of the report of the Joint Legislative Committee on Employment:

Part III of the Joint Committee's report is not quite ready for delivery to the Assembly. The committee therefore submits Part IV, which contains the reports of the four Subcommittees on Policies and Personnel in the SRA. The State was divided into four geographic areas, Northern California, Southern California, the Central Valley, and the San Francisco Central Coast regions. Hearings were held in a great many counties. In some instances the supervisors, county welfare directors, and SRA directors of several counties were invited to meet together at the committee's meeting place. These reports follow:

PART IV.

Summary Report of the Subcommittee of the Joint Legislative Fact-Finding Committee on Employment for the San Joaquin Valley.

Subcommittee.

Senator Frank W. Mixer, Chairman; Senator James I. Wagy, Assemblyman Clyde A. Watson.

Counties.

San Joaquin, Stanislaus, Tuolumne, Merced, Mariposa, Madera, Fresno, Kings, Tulare and Kern.

Hearings.

Public hearings were held by the subcommittee as follows:
Stockton—Monday and Tuesday, March 18 and 19, 1940.
Modesto—Wednesday and Thursday, March 20 and 21, 1940.
Tuolumne County included in Modesto hearings.
Merced—Friday and Saturday, March 22 and 23, 1940. Mariposa County included in Merced hearing.
Madera—Tuesday, April 2, 1940.
Fresno—Wednesday and Thursday, April 3 and 4, 1940.
Hanford—Friday, April 5, 1940.
Visalia—Monday and Tuesday, April 8 and 9, 1940.
Bakersfield—Wednesday and Thursday, April 10 and 11, 1940.

Persons and representatives of groups appearing before and examined by the subcommittee:

- County SRA directors and members of personnel staff;
- County welfare directors;
- Managers of county offices State Division of Employment;
- Employers of agricultural labor;
- Peace officers;
- Justices of the peace;
- Representatives of district attorney's offices;
- Members of boards of supervisors;
- Members of Workers Alliance;
- Citizens.

Scope of Examinations of Witnesses Appearing Before the Subcommittee.

County SRA directors were examined as to length of service, previous experience in this type of work, by whom appointed, etc.; and members of personnel staff as to length of service, where performed, qualifications, membership in the SCMWA or other organizations, etc.

County welfare directors testified as to length of service, duties, indigency, categorical aids, percentage cost of administration, etc.

Managers of county offices of State Division of Employment were interrogated as to length of service, duties, contacts with the SRA, contacts with potential employers of labor, the laws and regulations under which operations are performed, etc.

Peace officers gave testimony relative to actions of relief recipients and "chiseling."

Justices of the peace supplied information relative to relief recipients haled into court on charges of drunkenness, gambling and other misuses of relief funds.

Representatives of district attorney's offices furnished official evidence with respect to court actions following arrests of recipients accused of "chiseling."

Members of the Workers Alliance were heard principally for the purpose on their part of entering denials of attempts to use "pressure" or other undue influence.

Citizens testified regarding various matters related to the unemployment problem.

Findings.

The county SRA directors without exception are, in the opinion of the subcommittee, appointed and retained in office as a reward or in recognition of political activity in behalf of the present State administration, and with very few exceptions without qualifications for the positions, so far as training and experience are concerned. Among the exceptions may be noted the county administrators for Kings and Kern counties. In the latter county the present director, while relatively a new man, appears because of business experience to have a good grasp of the situation. The Kings County director (a woman) has been in the position for some length of time and seems to understand her duties. The directors for San Joaquin, Stanislaus, Tuolumne-Calaveras, Merced-Mariposa and Madera counties are all comparatively recent appointees, with little or no previous knowledge of the duties of the positions. The Fresno County director was recently transferred from Kern County where he had served for some time. The Tulare County director has been in his present position for considerable time, has been under fire, and his removal was sought last January by the Tulare County Democratic Central Committee and other citizens. Until a short time before subcommittee hearings in Madera County, both SRA and county welfare activities were handled by the same person, the county welfare director, without cost to the State for quarters or director's salary, only the staff receiving compensation from the SRA. When the SRA Director was appointed, SRA quarters were moved to another location at additional cost to the State of $150 monthly for rent, plus the salary of the director.

SRA Employees.

Staff members of the various county SRA offices were interrogated with respect to their several qualifications, membership and activities in the SCMWA. These persons had apparently been advised as to the way questions should be answered. The testimony indicated that employees in the social service divisions of the several county offices have qualifications for their positions based upon college or university degree and experience in social service work. Employees in the clerical divisions seem to be selected because of ability. Separation from service was, the subcommittee learned from testimony, determined upon the basis of seniority, eligibility and need. The subcommittee was, however, unable to learn just how rigidly these points are observed in effecting separations.

The SCMWA is largely represented in the SRA offices of San Joaquin, Fresno, Tulare and Kern counties, while in Stanislaus, Tuolumne, Merced, Madera and Kings counties the evidence indicates little or no such membership. In each office where this union is active, an arrangement exists whereby representatives of the group meet with the director to discuss matters in which they are interested. These appear to be principally questions regarding overtime and working conditions.

The county welfare directors seem to be well qualified by experience and training for the positions they occupy. Much useful and valuable information with respect to indigency and the categorical aids has been secured.

State Employment Service.

State employment office managers appeared at the several hearings and the testimony of one was virtually that of all; the unemployed person intending to apply for SRA relief first files an application for employment and then proceeds to the SRA office to make application for relief. Records of actual employment furnished by these offices are incomplete because while each person sent to a prospective job is given a card to be handed the new employer to be signed and returned, few of the cards ever reach the office. This is thought to be due partly to neglect of the employee to hand over the card and partly to neglect on the part of the employer.

The subcommittee urges that regulations under which the State employment offices operate be corrected. That is in regard to the filing of complaints to the effect that a labor dispute exists on a given farm, ranch or other premises where labor is employed. Much evidence was secured to show that many such complaints were lodged against places where no labor was being employed at the time, but which resulted in the designated place being declared a "hot spot" and to which the employment office was forbidden to send labor at a later time.

Other testimony revealed that persons other than labor representatives had filed these complaints with the same result. Most of these complaints filed during the harvest season of 1939 were not cleared until March, 1940, long after the harvest had been completed. In only one case did the subcommittee find evidence of any effort to check the situation. The general statements by the office managers were that they had no authority to verify the truth or falsity of these complaints.

We feel that the result of this regulation is to prevent the employment of many SRA recipients who otherwise could be put into gainful employment.

Workers Alliance.

In almost every county there is evidence of the activity of the Workers Alliance. In Fresno and Tulare counties representatives of this organization appeared before the subcommittee and asked to be heard. Their principal testimony secured was a general denial of attempts to use influence or exert pressure in connection with complaints presented to the county SRA director. It developed that a certain day is designated for considering complaints of the Workers Alliance. The directors all disclaimed knowledge of attempts to influence them unduly in their decisions upon questions involved. However, there can be no question as to the extent and activity of this organization. For example, the foreman of the Tulare County Grand Jury testified that in one of the branch offices in Tulare County where surplus commodities are distributed, he and other members of the Grand Jury observed members of the Workers Alliance furnish tickets to certain ones of those who were there to secure portions of the surplus commodities whereby these favored persons obtained positions at and near the head of the line, thereby being in a position to receive preferred attention both as to quantity and variety of the articles issued. Many others, being forced into positions toward the rear of the line, received little or no benefit from the distribution.

Testimony by two justices of the peace, one in Merced County, the other in Fresno County, had to do with the misuse of SRA relief funds for drinking and gambling. In the opinion of these witnesses, relief should not be issued to persons guilty of these offenses.

To gain information in regard to action of courts following the filing of complaints on charges of petit theft (chiseling), the district attorneys of Kings, Tulare and Kern counties were requested to furnish the subcommittee with copies of records of action upon such cases. This was done and the information obtained will be filed with this report.

Return Relief to Counties.

Boards of supervisors were invited to attend the hearings of the subcommittee and with two exceptions, those for Fresno and Kern counties, members of these boards were present and exhibited considerable interest in the proceedings. In response to questions relative to transfer of the administration of relief to the counties, these gentlemen were quite frank in their statement of willingness to assume the new responsibility in case the Legislature should make adequate provision for financing by the State for the protection of the counties.

Farm Workers.

Agriculturalists were interviewed during the several hearings regarding workers employed in the production of various crops and in packing houses where fruits, grapes and other agricultural commodities are processed, packed and shipped to markets. In spite of labor difficulties fomented by radical groups, farmers of the San Joaquin Valley have been able, because of the abnormal supply of farm labor, to plant, care for and harvest their crops during the past few years, with but little interruption of work.

Many of those appearing before the subcommittee testified that the housing facilities on their premises were sufficient, not only for the workers employed by them on a year round basis, but in most cases for seasonal labor as well, and that no charge was made against their employees for these quarters which in all cases included light and water, and in some cases fuel. Moreover, it was found that numerous workers and families performing seasonal labor continued to live in these places after the work was finished, and without cost to themselves. Many farmers producing cotton stated that a considerable percentage of seasonal workers returned to them year after year.

Many farmers testified that they could not depend upon the State Employment Service to furnish workers when needed, notwithstanding heavy SRA relief rolls in the counties. Others testified that complaints of labor disputes on their farms were filed by unauthorized persons, which estopped the local employment office from furnishing workers (and without investigation). Many farmers related experiences with picketing groups: in some cases the workers were intimidated and left their work through fear, part of them returning later. During the orange picking and shipping season during the Fall of 1939, labor agitators appeared in the Tulare County citrus district and as a result of their activities several packing houses and orange groves were picketed and considerable annoyance and delays resulted.

Farm and Packing House Strikes.

It was indicated that some of the employees of packing houses who struck were members of unions in other places and follow various crops around during the vegetable and fruit packing season. They were satisfied with wage and working conditions but feared reprisals if they continued work in a house where a strike had been ordered. The Tulare County situation, like many in other places, was brought about by agitators apparently interested only in proselyting workers. The subcommittee found the farmers were paying workers all they could when prices received for the commodities produced were considered, and testimony showing that farm workers in California are the highest paid of any State in the Union was furnished during the hearings.

A number of circulars, photographs and similar material illustrative of actions of picketing methods and advertising "strike" meetings were gathered by the subcommittee during the hearings. These are attached to and made a part of this summary report. Complete transcripts of the several hearings are available. These have been filed with the Chairman of the Joint Legislative Committee.

Subcommittee Hearings.

Your subcommittee for Southern California on the policy and personnel of the State Relief Administration, which during the past several weeks has been conducting an intensive study and investigation of relief and unemployment, completed its hearings on April 2, 1940. We held public hearings in five different counties located in Southern California. Witnesses testified for more than a week in Los Angeles, the hearings running from Friday, March 15th, to and inclusive of Friday, March 22nd. We then moved on to San Bernardino where public hearings were held on March 25th and to Riverside where hearings took place on March 26th. Witnesses from Orange County were also heard at Riverside. On March 27th the four subcommittee chairmen on policy and personnel of the State Relief Administration met with Senator Phillips for a day in San Francisco in order to compare notes as to progress and make suggestions relative to information which had been brought to the attention of their respective committees. The next day, March 28th, our subcommittee conducted hearings in San Diego, where witnesses from Imperial also appeared. These hearings ran for two days. On April 1st and 2nd we were in Santa Barbara and also heard from Ventura's representatives. April 19th, our subcommittee held a public hearing in Santa Ana, Orange County.

Senator Charles Brown of Shoshone, who represents Inyo and Mono counties, is presenting a supplementary report.

Politics in Relief Increases.

The most important facts disclosed by our subcommittee hearings and investigations can be summarized as follows:

1. Politics in relief has increased by leaps and bounds since Governor Olson took office. For example, in Riverside County about the only qualification for office of the county director was that during the Olson campaign he was in charge of the distribution of political literature. In San Diego the director was the Olson campaign manager during the 1938 election and since his appointment as director no Republicans, no matter how capable, have been appointed to the SRA staff. These examples are merely typical of what we found everywhere and politics exists all the way down from the director to the case aide.

Relief Cases at New High.

2. Case loads have mounted beyond all reason during the year immediately preceding passage of Senate Bill 81, and this in spite of a major pick-up in business conditions and private employment. The average increase had been close to one hundred per cent in one year until the Legislature at its special session enacted Senate Bill 81. From October of 1938 to October of 1939 the case load in one of the counties jumped from 1600 to 3600, an increase of 125 per cent, and this is likewise typical of the other counties. Testimony from numerous witnesses developed the fact beyond all reasonable dispute that the cause of this tremendous increase in case load can be traced almost entirely to a "liberalization of intake." In other words the case aides, case workers and supervisors in charge of intake, acting in accordance with the wishes of the State Administration, have made it a great deal easier to get on the relief rolls and to stay there, since the coming of the Olson regime. The slogan of some of the large department stores, that "the customer is always right" has been really taken to heart by the SRA.

Some of the increase, but only a small percentage, can be traced to a minority of social workers who are selfishly trying to build up the case load in order to insure the continuance of their own jobs, because if there are no "clients" there is no need for social workers.

However, most social workers are sincere but nevertheless the great majority, having lived with the problem all their lives, have a social service "complex" and the case load is bound to increase unless those in administrative positions put their feet down and do a little thinking about the small taxpayer who is trying to pay for his home and his car and support a family on a good deal less in many instances than the cash dole paid to his next door neighbor who is on relief. The SRA executives during the past year have been over-indulgent and have let the social workers run wild.

"Clients" a Favored Class.

3. Under Governor Olson, relief payments have been used to build up the standard of living of those on relief to what is theoretically called a "standard of decency" even though this standard may be considerably higher than the standard of living of the taxpayer who helps to pay the cash dole for his neighbor.

Typical is the cash dole of $138 per month paid an unskilled laborer who had never in private employment earned over $70 per month.

Just how long will this man's "will to work" survive under such conditions or the "will to work" of his neighbor who works 42 hours a week and receives only $80 per month?

The wages of many working people are far too low, but the way to correct this situation is to raise their wages—not by making relief "clients" a privileged class.

Tax Dollars Wasted.

4. Extravagance and waste of the taxpayer's money has been caused largely by inefficiency and over-indulgence rather than by actual graft.

Whenever men are appointed to office because of their politics instead of their capabilities and qualifications then waste runs rampant and this is exactly what has happened in the SRA.

In addition to hearing from witnesses in connection with the policy and personnel of the State Relief Administration, we also heard from a number of county supervisors on the problem of unemployment, which generally, of course, was indirectly connected with the personnel and policy of the State Relief Administration.

The testimony of the various supervisors in the counties which we visited discloses that two important points were disclosed:

Return of Relief to Counties Would Save Money.

First: Practically all of the supervisors thought that a considerable saving to the taxpayers would be effected if the administration of relief should be returned to the counties. Most of them, but not all of them, were in favor of placing definite limitations on the total relief costs to be borne by the counties. Their reason for such a limitation was that they did not wish to increase the present burden on real estate by being compelled to support the unemployed. They were practically all in favor of returning the administration of relief to the counties provided the State would subsidize the entire relief load, including the so-called categorical aids, to the extent that the total cost borne by the counties, after the transfer of the administration of relief to the counties, would be no higher than the total cost borne by the counties today in connection with the support of the so-called categorical aids plus the indigents.

Second: The cost of administering the categorical aids plus indigent aid in the various counties which we visited varies all the way from five per cent to seven and one-half per cent. Practically all of the county welfare directors who testified concerning administrative costs were of the opinion, however, that administrative costs in connection with relief would be considerably higher than the administrative cost for the categorical aids plus indigent aid.

Dated April 20, 1940.

FREDERICK F. HOUSER.
Chairman.

Supplementary Report of the Subcommittee of the Joint Legislative Fact-Finding Committee on Employment for the Southern California Counties.

Senator Charles Brown, in the following, gives observations, resulting from his own inquiries and those of the subcommittee for southern California, as a supplement to the report of the subcommittee chairman, Assemblyman Frederick F. Houser: The SRA office in Bishop (the only office in these two counties) is administered through the SRA office in Bakersfield. At the time of Senator Brown's investigation it cared for 69 cases, with a personnel of three people.

The ramifications of the State Relief Administration are so complicated that it is hard to get a thorough understanding of any one major activity of it.

Enemies of the Deserving.

The general policy of the administration has been to liberalize the interpretation of the intent of how relief should be extended with the result that thousands who should never have been on the relief rolls, have become recipients and relief-minded. These thousands are enemies of the needy and deserving who have had to come to the State for aid through no fault of their own. They use any method that may be required such as hiding incomes and denying many facts to investigators in order to stay on relief. If they are caught a demand is made for restitution to the State.

The Legislature, in part, is responsible for this condition by its failure to pass legislation to prevent these practices, which have been so costly to the State, not only through the large increase of relief recipients but also through an increase in personnel that is almost beyond comprehension.

County directors and others holding executive positions in the State Relief Administration can defend the great increase in the relief recipients and personnel, in some instances as much as 125 per cent in one year. None will admit the real cause.

Causes of Increased Relief Costs.

The two major factors which have brought about the increase are: first, the organization of the Workers Alliance into pressure groups which teach individuals who have never thought of relief how to get on the rolls and stay on; second, the liberalization of the intake for relief recipients.

A part of the SRA personnel is organized into what is called the State, County and Municipal Workers of America, a CIO organization which seems to be interested only in holding jobs and making more jobs at the expense of the taxpayers. The union also acts as a pressure group and in some cases has actually dictated the policy of the relief administration in counties where the organization is especially active.

Another reason for the inefficiency of the State Relief Administration is the constant shifting of employees from one job to another. Seldom do SRA workers hold positions longer than four months, although they may have been employed for several years. County directorships seem to be the biggest political plums and little consideration has been given to their eligibility in selecting them.

Other causes that complicate the relief situation include migratory labor, lack of cooperation in the different State departments, political favoritisms in the lower ranks of SRA workers and inadequately trained personnel.

Many leaders of the Workers Alliance and the SCMWA are of political faith that is not American. Neither organization is entitled to consideration which enables it to share money given by taxpayers to relieve hunger and destitution. The Legislature should go as far as possible to correct this situation.

One thing is certain—the relief burden can be made just as large and just as expensive as those who direct the SRA desire unless the Legislature controls the situation with a proper bill which will do justice to the deserving and weed out the chiselers.

Summary Report of the Subcommittee of the Joint Legislative Fact-Finding Committee on Employment for the San Francisco Bay-Central Coast Area.

The subcommittee charged with the investigation of personnel and policy in the San Francisco Bay-Central Coast area, consisting of Assemblymen C. Don Field, Glendale; Elmer E. Lore, North Hollywood, and Albert C. Wollenberg, San Francisco, reports as follows:

The committee's assignment called for its investigation to be made in nine counties and with the exception of San Benito, the committee held full hearings in all counties.

In the counties of San Luis Obispo, Monterey, Santa Cruz, Santa Clara and San Mateo, we found no particular problem to exist other than the general problem of personnel practices. All of these counties, with the exception of Monterey, had directors appointed since September and October of 1939, all having been chosen because of services rendered during the last political campaign. It is also to be noted that subversive groups do not have a great influence in this area, but confine their activities to the urban counties.

With the exception of San Mateo County, we found an apparent cooperation between the county welfare departments and SRA to the end that they were able to coordinate their work particularly as to the cases involving definition of employables. San Mateo has a peculiar situation which we do not believe exists elsewhere in the State of California.

San Mateo County Problem.

San Mateo county, by ordinance, created an unemployment committee which has functioned continuously since its creation many years ago. This committee, acting under an appropriation from the county board of supervisors, has handled continuously the emergency relief orders in the county and has paid for them with county funds. It has also maintained an office, supervising all sponsored projects in the county and has advanced its funds for these projects. Up to the time of the appointment of the present director, this system has been quite successful and no problems have arisen. At the time this report is written, however, the present county SRA director is engaging in a campaign apparently designed to force the county unemployment committee out of the work they have so successfully carried on. Access to files of cases which they need to continue their work has been denied the committee, although we have the assurance of the State Relief Administration that this matter will be quickly settled. The personnel administering State relief in most of these counties are people trained in social work, who have spent considerable time in this type of work, with the exception of county directors and certain other particular individuals.

SRA Political Pressure.

The committee held hearings in San Francisco County and found that during September and October, 1939, the county director felt the pressure of political influence. It was apparently his belief that he was to be removed and that the State Administration was putting employees around him for the sole purpose of securing his discharge. By his own testimony, San Francisco was overstaffed by approximately one hundred sixty employees, and the county director testified before the committee that he attempted continuously to secure the discharge of all unnecessary personnel, but was not permitted to do so by the State Administration. One witness stated that through the influence of two San Francisco assemblymen, fifty superfluous employees were placed on the pay roll within a period of ten days to two weeks: The committee is in possession of letters and statements made by the director to sustain this report.

SRA Works Projects.

During 1939, San Francisco County Administration of the SRA operated works projects. The bookkeeping and accounting on these projects failed to indicate completely the true condition existing as to costs of their operation; in fact, the committee has evidence showing that the records were deliberately tampered with in an effort to make a good showing on these projects. The best example of this is the case of repair of certain baby high chairs and a small amount of other furniture, at a total cost of approximately $200. The records showed first that two hundred forty hours of work were spent on this small amount of furniture. Another record showed one hundred ninety-four hours, and finally the records showed eighteen to twenty hours work. The county director finally admitted that he could not account for these discrepancies. However, the projects on which these records reflected have been closed for quite a period of time. The county SRA director in San Francisco testified that his personnel is made up of approximately 60 per cent of old employees who have been with him for years. This is contrary to the statement of Mr. Chambers that there has been a general turnover of 80 per cent in the State personnel of the SRA.

"New Philosophy" in Alameda County.

The committee's findings in Alameda County can be summed up in the statement that Alameda County offers one of the best examples of the so-called "New Philosophy." A liberal idea has progressed to the point where members of the Workers Alliance were shown preference in the handling of their cases to the prejudice of nonmembers and where the administration has taken a definite attitude that relief is a right and it is the duty of the administration to do all it can to obtain relief for the applicant rather than to put the burden upon the applicant to justify his entering upon the rolls. Since the visit of this committee to Alameda County there has been a drastic change in personnel. Whether or not this liberal idea will be carried on in the future in that county should be the subject of attention by any future legislative inquiry on this subject.

In Contra Costa County the director is a man appointed solely for political reasons, his sole work experience having been that of an electrician for one of the larger oil companies operating in that county. He apparently has no conception of the problem and is subject to influence of a strongly organized union among his employees. Those who oppose the philosophy of this union were summarily discharged even though they were competent and qualified in their work, while employees with a liberal tendency were kept on the pay roll. The same condition exists today in Contra Costa as in Alameda County.

Justice in Relief.

Finally, it is our opinion that the primary problem in the administration of relief lies in personnel. State employees entrusted with the expenditure of millions of dollars of the State's money must realize that they are charged with a sacred obligation in handling funds of other people and thus not only do justice to the unfortunate on relief, but at the same time justice to the people who must pay the bill.

Respectfully submitted.

A. C. WOLLENBERG,
Chairman.

The county SRA director of Plumas, Lassen and Modoc counties was interviewed at the meeting of the committee in Redding, March 21, 1940.

Alpine County has no SRA office nor recipients of State direct relief. This county was not investigated. Amador County has no SRA office nor recipients of direct relief from the State.

Conferences with Supervisors.

The committee invited members of county boards of supervisors and county welfare directors to meet for a free and open discussion of all county welfare and relief problems. The supervisors were especially pleased that representatives of the Legislature had been given the opportunity to confer with them, seeking information, offering assistance and giving first hand information in relation to the activities of the Legislature regarding the relief problem of California.

At practically every meeting, supervisors thanked the committee for its visit, stating that this was the first time to their knowledge that a legislative group met at convenient locations, asking boards of supervisors to sit down with them and discuss problems of vital interest to the counties and the State.

Administration Propaganda.

The committee found that members of the board of supervisors in most all counties had been misled by propaganda issued by the Administration to the effect that if relief was returned to the counties, it would increase the local county tax rate. The propaganda issued in telegrams signed by Culbert L. Olson, Governor, was sent to each chairman of the board of supervisors, each telegram stated a definite figure of tax increase. Similar propaganda was sent to the newspapers using the name of the local county SRA director as author of the statements and also using a definite rate of tax increase. In a number of instances, these press releases were made without the knowledge of the county SRA directors. They had not authorized the use of their names and frankly admitted to the committee that they did not issue the statements credited to them in the press articles.

Supervisors Favor Return of Relief.

After a full discussion of the problem of relief, and an explanation of Assembly Bill No. 105, and the attitude of the Legislature in relation to cooperation with the counties, the members of the county boards of supervisors who were present at the meetings were almost unanimously favorable to the return of relief to the counties and so expressed themselves. The committee endeavored to explain every phase of the relief situation. The general expression used by supervisors at all of the meetings was this: "Well, we didn't understand it that way. If that is the situation, as you gentlemen have explained it, then I am for taking relief back and we can administer it through our county welfare departments."

Untrained SRA Directors.

In interviewing the various SRA county directors the committee learned that the majority in the twenty-nine counties were appointed to the positions in the months of September, October or November in 1939. With few exceptions these county SRA directors had no previous experience in relief, welfare or social service work. Some exhibited a low degree of executive ability and appeared unqualified in other ways for the positions which they hold; while, on the other hand, the majority of them seemed to be conscientiously attempting to do a good job under the handicap of ever changing voluminous rules and regulations of the State Relief Administrator.

SRA Costs High.

County SRA administration cost in the counties investigated will average a minimum of 25 per cent for the calendar year of 1939, although in some counties for certain summer or fall months the administration cost ran up to 40 per cent or in certain counties to 85 per cent; in two exceptional cases the cost of administration during one summer month exceeded the total cost paid to relief recipients.

Figures were obtained from each county welfare director showing the total case-load in the county, the number of employees, the total amount paid out for the categorical aids, and the county's cost of administration. It is safe to say, that the cost of county administration in the twenty-nine counties will average approximately 3 per cent.

SRA Overstaffed.

The committee is of the opinion that county SRA offices are over-staffed and that there is no uniformity of administration throughout the year. In some months there is a greater number of employees in an SRA office with a small case-load than at other times when a considerably greater case-load is handled by fewer employees.

The committee found practically no activity of pressure groups, such as the Worker's Alliance and the State, County and Municipal Workers of America. While in a few counties there had previously existed such pressure groups there apparently is no activity now with the possible exception of some minor agitation in Shasta County.

County Administration Better.

The result of the investigation convinces the committee that the County Welfare Department in these rural counties can administer direct relief efficiently, humanely, and at a considerably smaller administrative cost than the SRA. In many counties it will be necessary to add only one or two more employees to the county welfare staffs.

The committee realizes that there is more detail in handling the SRA case-load than is required in the administration of the categorical aids but county welfare directors, as a whole, expressed opinions that they could do the job for very little additional administrative cost if they were not hindered by red-tape and a maze of arbitrary and unreasonable rules and regulations.

Report.

The following report, representing Part V of the report of the Joint Legislative Fact-Finding Committee on Employment, was received and on motion of Senator Phillips ordered printed in the Journal:

PART V.

A complete audit of the books of the SRA would have cost over $200,000. This estimate was made by a representative of the Department of Finance, before the Joint Committee. It would have taken several times the number of days available in the recess. As stated in Part II (Senate Journal May 13th, 1940, page 404) the committee engaged the accounting firm of Price Waterhouse and Co. to make a limited audit, referring particularly to the condition which existed as of February 15th, and again as of March 31st.

The accountants were also asked to investigate certain special items, including the so-called "revolving fund" of the SRA, and to make comments on procedure.

The date of February 15th was selected for two reasons: This date was used by the Department of Finance to set up a statement of condition, in reply to Assembly House Resolution No. 42, and the State Relief Administration had made its now famous "40 per cent cut" in the checks given to the unemployed men and women of the State. For reasons which will appear later, in the Price Waterhouse report, the committee was justified in questioning the accuracy of the statement made by the Department of Finance, and members of the committee, familiar with balance sheets, were convinced that no cut was justified, from any available figures, at the time.

Assemblyman Norris Poulson, a member of the Joint Committee and an accountant by profession, had been appointed a subcommittee of one to supervise all matters having to do with accounting procedures and conditions in the SRA.

He, together with the chairman, immediately issued a statement, in the name of the committee, indicating that the 40 per cent cut was unjustifiable. The figures on which this statement was based were the same figures used by the SRA in explaining the cut. The cry of "politics" was raised by the administration. It became a question of opposing statements, by interested parties. A disinterested audit was required.

The report of the Department of Finance had indicated that on February 15th, the SRA had only $330,244 on hand, and that this was encumbered to the extent that the SRA actually had a deficit of about $126,138.

The report of Price Waterhouse and Co. shows that the SRA had on hand as of February 15th an actual figure of $2,896,763. And even if we allow the encumbrances which took the Department of Finance's balance from the black into the red, and omitted all of the inventories of food, clothing, and material (over $300,000 of which could well have been used in lieu of cash to care for needy recipients) there was still more than $2,000,000 available. This supports the committee's contention that no cut of any size could be justified.

It is another argument for simplification, for the dissolution of a topheavy and unwieldy department, and for improvements in methods and procedures. In spite of the ability of its chief accounting officer, and his principal assistant, the department works under difficulties and with procedures and internal disruption which make it impossible for the administrator or any one else to know what has happened in the SRA until two months later.

In presenting the report of Price Waterhouse and Co., which becomes a part of the full report, Assemblyman Poulson made certain comments on the findings:

PRICE, WATERHOUSE AND COMPANY REPORT.

The Department of Finance is considered the highest authority for all financial information pertaining to State accounting and, due to the fact that the correctness of certain statements coming from this division was questioned by the members of the Legislature, it became necessary to seek the services of one of the largest firms of certified public accountants to determine the correctness of the facts under question. Price, Waterhouse and Company, an international firm of certified public accountants, was selected for this audit.

The report from Price, Waterhouse and Company is being submitted to the committee and the following statements will only contain the highlights of this audit report.

Instead of $330,244.16 available for relief as of February 16th, 1940, there was available $2,896,763, (the differences are explained in the Price, Waterhouse and Company report).

Summarizing briefly the causes for this condition, they are:

Cumbersome accounting procedure set up by the Department of Finance;

Magnitude of SRA state-wide activities;

Accounting error of $264,817 made by the Department of Finance;

Disencumbrance of items which should not have been encumbered.

Approximate amount available at March 31st, 1940, for continuance of relief program, or in other words, unexpended portion of appropriation for the period up to March 31st, 1940—$2,856,000.

The approximate amount of relief withheld due to the 40 per cent cut amounts to $1,300,000.

The balance on hand, March 31st, 1940, definitely proves that, not only should there not have been a cut, but also the fact that, if the full amount had been paid, they would still have had available, an amount in excess of $1,000,000.

Material on Hand.

(NOTE: In showing the money available for the unemployed on Feb. 15th neither the Department of Finance nor the SRA took into account supplies of food, clothing and other useful items on hand, and which otherwise they would have to buy.)

Daily Averages.

(NOTE: No better evidence of the money saving to the taxpayers, without hardship to the unemployment, could be given than the following figures from Mr. Poulson's statement. These are the average daily expenditures for relief for equal periods at the end of 1939; the first 46 days of 1940, and, finally, for 46 days after the Legislature passed Senate Bill No. 81. A saving of $66,000 per day is not to be ignored!)

The daily expenditures have continued to drop since this figure was computed. The seasonal drop in case load had not yet begun. For comparison, the average salary figures for the same three periods are also shown. There was no corresponding drop. The figures follow:)

Comparative Daily Relief Costs—46-day periods.

Daily average, Nov. 15th to Dec. 31st, 1939	$137,000
Daily average, Jan. 1st to Feb. 15th, 1940	186,800
Daily average, Feb. 16th to Mar. 31st, 1940	120,200

Comparative Daily Salary Costs—46-day periods.

Daily average, Nov. 13th to Dec. 31st, 1939	$19,200
Daily average, Jan. 1st to Feb. 15th, 1940	21,800
Daily average, Feb. 16th to Mar. 31st, 1940	20,500

The total salaries and wages from February 16th to March 31st, 1940, was $1,076,000.

The relief picture condensed for the 46-day period ending March 31st, 1940, would be as follows:

Out of each and every relief dollar expended during this period, only 70 cents was paid in cash relief.

The full relief dollar was divided as follows:

Direct relief	$0.70
Camp and work programs	.095
Administrative salaries and wages	.17
Traveling expenses	.015
Telephone	.005
Rent	.005
Other expenses	.01
Total	$1.00

Single Men's Camps.

Seven hundred one thousand five hundred four dollars is invested in single men's camps; the approximate cost per man for care in these camps is $24.15 per month. This does not include any portion of depreciation on the investment in camps. During the last 46-day period, the SRA spent $11,000 for tobacco for the men.

SUPPLEMENTARY REPORT.

(In addition to the Price, Waterhouse & Co. report, the Joint Committee requested the Controller's office for certain information regarding SRA purchases between January 1, 1938, and March 31, 1940.

Mr. Poulson's comments on the results of this are:)

SRA Purchases.

The following information was obtained through the Controller's office of the State of California and was taken from paid vouchers and invoices between January 1, 1938, and March 31, 1940.

It was only possible, due to the short time and limited funds, to make spot checks. It could be logically assumed that what applied to the specific items tested would likewise apply to other expenditures. The information obtained applies to both unidentifiable items as well as identifiable items with serial numbers.

Inventories were requested from the State Relief Administration on certain items and they were taken and certified to by the parties in charge of each particular office.

Testimony given by the personnel officers and executives of SRA show that the personnel has increased approximately two thousand during 1939. Supplementing this increase in personnel, attention is called to the fact that many labor-saving devices were purchased during this period; for example:

During past nine months, 57 comptometers-----	$17,876.79
Since January 1, 1939, 119 Ediphones-----	22,026.86
(Since each Ediphone is supposed to eliminate 5 persons, that would account for about 600 employees.)
Stapling machines -----	3,326.75
(392 were purchased in 1938 and 1,098 purchased since January 1, 1939, at an average cost of $2.50. There are only 2,096 on hand which would show that for all prior years they only had 606, which is not consistent.)
1 Multilith machine -----	1,305.50
2 Electric letter opening machines-----	257.50
761 Typewriters -----	61,094.78
(Having the serial numbers of the machines purchased, we were able definitely to ascertain the numbers of 22 typewriters purchased in the last two years which are not included in the inventory given by the SRA. Fifteen of these were purchased during 1939. The SRA has on hand, 3009 typewriters, including those still rented. This number would approximately allow one typewriter for every two employees, including truck drivers, clerks, help, etc.)
Pencil sharpeners -----	1,285.90

(There were 22 pencil sharpeners purchased in 1938 against 367 purchased in 1939. Attention is called to the fact that the average cost of these pencil sharpeners was $3.30. This price is a wholesale price, the average cost of these sharpeners is above the cost of those found in private offices.)

During the past two years, the SRA has purchased 736 tents for the camps amounting to $38,961. (The inventory, as of March 31, 1940, shows 1,088 on hand, with tents being distributed throughout the State. It must be borne in mind that the tents were used primarily when the camps were first being constructed; at the present time, there are only a few camps using tents. No attempt was made apparently to bring in the tents from camps where they were not being used at present, for redistribution to other camps needing them; instead, the SRA has purchased 175 new ones during the last three months, costing $5,957.20.)

The SRA purchased 55,739 blankets during this two-year period amounting to $110,089.12 (With an inventory of 88,293 blankets, or a ratio of approximately eight blankets to every man based upon their peak load record, they still purchased 7,700 blankets during the last three months which are included in the inventory given).

Reports from the subcommittees showed that unused cots in the different camps were exposed to the elements. The SRA still purchased 504 new ones during the last three months.

The automotive equipment on hand, according to the inventory, was 500 pieces. The SRA purchased 201 pieces of equipment during the past two years amounting to $172,041.65 (Among these purchased was a seven-passenger, model 1939, Buick sedan, which has been turned over to the Governor's Office. The Governor's Office has not paid for this car).

The information shows that the percentage of wrecks for the SRA equipment is higher than any other State department.

The cost of tires and tubes for the past two years has amounted to $37,438.23.

Attention is called to the State Board of Control Rule 150, which should have been enforced by either the Administration or the Department of Finance:

"Use of Telephones and Telegraph. The telegraph and long-distance telephone may be used only in cases of emergency or when there is a specific instruction to use these means of communication and they shall not be used where a letter would be equally effective. Otherwise, the cost of the service may be charged to the official or employee responsible."

The telephone and telegraph bills paid to just three major telephone and two telegraph companies during the past nine months amounted to $163,084.01 (Of this amount, $25,587.24 was paid in February, 1940 and $29,377.18 was paid in March, 1940. A breakdown of the individual charges shows extravagance. Many employees made several calls daily to the same persons in adjoining communities and each charge would be in excess of $1; this was a daily practice. There were calls from all sections of the State, especially from San Francisco to Los Angeles and reverse; these calls range from $5 to $15 per call.

On the basis of these excessive telephone and telegraph charges, it would be assumed that that would have eliminated excessive traveling expenses. To the contrary, we find that, during

March, this expense amounted to-----$54,454.97

In February, it amounted to-----$41,425.28

In January, it amounted to-----$62,686.37

(An analysis of these expenses discloses that they were made chiefly by employees in the higher brackets and not by the low-salaried case-worker. Some of the inconsistencies disclosed in these traveling expenses are that the same trips were made several times daily. An extreme case shows a traveling steward traveling 1,958 miles in his privately owned automobile in ten consecutive days, or an average of 195.8 miles per day. The question can be raised as to how much work this man can do after traveling this number of miles per day. This same employee was recently involved in an automobile wreck).

Another inconsistency is allowing, for example, a field representative with headquarters in Los Angeles and assigned to San Joaquin Valley for several months without break to draw expenses because his duties were away from his home station; this type of expense, of course, is paid in addition to the salary.

Many of these mileage claims cover expense for the use of privately-owned cars which parallel adequate common carrier service which is much cheaper in the cost of transportation. Authorization in permitting employees to make these trips must be signed by the State Relief Administrator, which procedure precludes the State Controller from adjusting these accounts to the less expensive mode of transportation. This is one privilege which has been abused.

Contrary to the order issued by Governor Olson that no State employee shall be permitted to lobby, expense accounts submitted by various SRA employees denote that many expenses were incurred in Sacramento, during the recent special session of the Legislature. It was noted that most of these accounts were in favor of Community Relations Department employees of the SRA. This is the Publicity Department which the Legislature dissolved.

Recommendations.

A careful analysis of the mechanical set-up of the State Relief Administration would definitely lead to the conclusion that there must be a disintegration of the SRA:

The practical impossibility of completing records within two months;

The lack of proper control over administrative and also sectional officers;

The excessive telephone bills in attempting to operate this "octopus";

The lack of business coordination in the handling of supplies;

The excessive mileage and expenses of those traveling around the State;

And, not to be overlooked, the erection of a gigantic political machine, evidenced by frequent calls to the different hiring officers throughout the State and the resulting appointments; all lead to that one inevitable solution, disintegration!

Change in the State Financial Accounting:

Results have definitely proven the urgent need of more adequate accounting records in the State of California.

At present, the highest accounting authority from the standpoint of obtaining financial information concerning the other departments is the Department of Finance. The Legislators have heretofore looked to the Chief of the Division of Budgets and Accounts and his assistants for any and all such information, especially is this true when budgets are presented.

For that reason, special emphasis should be laid on accurate information furnished by them. They must expect that misstatements will create lack of faith and confidence.

Since the 1939 budget was passed, many new positions have been created which were not supposed to have been included therein, according to the representatives of the Department of Budgets and Accounts.

The answer to Senator Metzger's request for the number of automobiles owned by the State of California was not complete. Data relative to certain departments were omitted.

The committee asked for a report on SRA automotive equipment. When confronted as to certain differences in it, the Department of Finance stated that the report had not been checked but had been transmitted from SRA through it.

There was a discrepancy in the amount submitted by the Department of Finance as the telephone bills for SRA and the amount submitted by the Controller's office; this also was explained as a "clerical error." The figure given by the Department of Finance was about $43,000. The correct figure was over $186,000.

Great importance was placed on the February 16th, 1940, report of SRA finances and, realizing, as the department should have, that the Legislature wanted to know what funds were available for relief as of that date, there can be no legitimate reason for approving an incorrect statement.

Therefore, it is recommended that the Legislature create the office of Legislative Auditor. It will be the duty of the Legislative Auditor and his assistants to analyze all budgets and departmental statements, make departmental audits to verify the necessity for the increase in budgets and render any financial information of the State which has been requested by the Legislature.

The Legislative Auditor will serve the Legislature in the capacity of an auditor, the same as the Legislative Counsel now serves the Legislature in the capacity of a legal advisor.

Another suggestion as an alternative of the above recommendation would be that the powers of the Controller be enlarged and it become his duty to make post audits of all departments and submit his reports to both the Governor and Legislature.

*Joint Senate-Assembly Legislative Fact-Finding Committee of the California Legislature,
Sacramento, California*

DEAR SIRs: Pursuant to your instructions we have made a limited review of accounting records of California State Relief Administration (hereinafter referred to as the Administration) primarily for the purpose of establishing from such records, without making an audit, the approximate amounts of (1) funds available as of February 15, 1940, and March 31, 1940, from appropriations for the current (91st) fiscal year, and (2) changes in position during the intervening period with expenditures segregated by principal purposes. In so far as we could in the time at our disposal we have obtained certain additional information that we believe may be helpful to the committee in its study of the Administration's financial affairs.

The records are so maintained that in order to determine the Administration's position as of any fairly recent date, and its expenditures during any recent period, it is necessary to make certain assumptions. This is due in part to its accounting methods (which we understand follow generally those prescribed by the Department of Finance for all State agencies), but chiefly, we think, to the lapse of time between the incurring of liabilities and the actual recording of such liabilities for payment. To some extent this delay is attributable to the Administration's State-wide activities but much of it could doubtless be obviated by revisions in procedure; for example, with minor exceptions, movements of warehouse materials in one month are not recorded in the accounts until the succeeding month, and utility bills containing disputed items are not recorded until the dispute has been settled which usually involves considerable delay. We believe that the necessary assumptions we have made in arriving at the figures set forth in this report and the attached exhibits are based on valid premises and that the margin of error that may result from these assumptions is not of sufficient relative importance to lead to erroneous conclusions.

In this report and the attached exhibits amounts have been expressed to the nearest thousand dollars except where lesser amounts are involved or where, for identification, more precise amounts seem desirable; cents have been omitted in all instances.

Position as at February 15, 1940.

At the commencement of our review the committee supplied us with a copy of a letter, dated February 21, 1940, addressed to the Assembly by Mr. Fred W. Links, Chief of the Budget and Accounts Division of the Department of Finance, reporting upon a test-check audit of the Administration's funds made under his supervision as of the opening of business February 16, 1940. In the following summary of that letter, the items have been rearranged somewhat:

Assets:

Cash in treasury, per State Controller's records at opening of business February 16, 1940.....	$2,716,788
Relief warrants unsold .....	1,600,000
	$4,316,788

Less—Claims in transit reflected on Administration's books for which warrants had not on that date been drawn by the Controller ----- $412,005

Actual unapplied cash balance available to meet Administration's expenditures ----- $3,904,783

Liabilities:

Unliquidated encumbrances—
Salaries and wages for February, 1940----- $752,762
Salaries and wages for previous months----- 325,087

Emergency relief orders issued or in process of issuance----- $1,077,849
Purchase orders food for camps----- 462,537
Service and expense items—contracts to end of month incurred--- 433,878
Miscellaneous encumbrances, WPA and Cooperatives----- 640,525
Miscellaneous property and equipment----- 655,627
----- 134,123

Estimated "back-log" of emergency relief orders in transit from Los Angeles County ----- $3,404,539
----- 170,000

Aggregate liabilities unpaid----- $3,574,539

Uncommitted cash balance available for future commitments in continuance of relief program on and after February 16, 1940----- $330,244

Mr. Links' letter added that on February 16 and 17, 1940, cash relief payrolls were written in the amount of $456,382, which established commitments of $126,138 in excess of the available cash of $330,244 shown above.

The Administration's transactions through February 15, 1940, were not posted separately in the general ledger inasmuch as such postings are customarily made in monthly totals. However, we were able to identify the figures in Mr. Links' letter (precisely in some instances and within narrow limits of difference in others) by referring to the Administration's underlying detail records as at February 15, 1940, except as follows:

Emergency relief orders issued and in process of issuance—$462,537:

Records of all but $10,193 of these were in the Administration's San Francisco office, which we did not visit. We inspected a teletype message from that office, dated February 21, 1940, reporting that the records showed encumbrances of $452,344 at February 15, 1940, but it subsequently developed that $13,790 thereof related to the 90th fiscal year and therefore should not have been reported.

Estimated "back-log" of emergency relief orders in transit—$170,000:

This represents an estimate of the amount to be encumbered upon the issuance of emergency relief orders. We were informed that the estimate was calculated as follows:

"Referral forms" (explained below) outstanding at February 15, 1940:

Los Angeles County ----- $102,950
San Francisco County ----- 3,000
Other counties ----- 13,000

$118,950

Relief orders written but not encumbered—"Back-log" approximately five days, and daily average slightly under $10,000----- 48,000

$166,950

Amount used for estimate----- $170,000

"Referral forms" are given to relief beneficiaries who are considered to require medical or dental attention, the cost of which is not known until the doctor, dentist or druggist has been consulted. Estimates of the number of such forms outstanding at February 15, 1940, with respect to Los Angeles County, the average cost that each form would involve, and the resulting totals were:

Forms for	No.	Average	Total
Physicians' and dentists' reports on first visits	15,000	$4 00	$60,000
Medical and dental appliances-----	500	5 00	2,500
Dental examination and record-----	1,500	20 00	30,000
Medical prescriptions-----	11,000	95	10,450
As above-----			$102,950

It seems to us that outstanding referral forms do not constitute an encumbrance of funds and they are not so treated in the administration's accounting. We have therefore disregarded them in our calculation of the position at February 15 and at March 31, 1940. At the latter date, such outstanding forms did not involve in excess of $10,000 according to estimates made by employees of the accounting department.

Our review of the records disclosed the following with respect to the figures in Mr. Links' letter of February 21, 1940:

1. The amount of $412,005 shown as claims in transit for which warrants had not been drawn by the State Controller represents the net amount of the following:

Claims filed with State Controller but not recorded as disbursements in the administration's records—
Cash relief-----	$395,970
Emergency relief orders-----	50,371
Salaries and wages-----	268,486
Materials and supplies-----	189,248
Services and expenses-----	57,801
Property and equipment-----	6,203
	$968,079

Less—Warrants in payment of certain of the above claims drawn on or before February 15, 1940 (this item includes $264,817 for salaries and wages mentioned below)-----	299,398
	$668,681

Less—Abatements collected and warrants redeposited by the administration, not remitted to State Treasurer until after February 15, 1940-----	$227,092
Abatements receivable at February 15, 1940-----	29,584
	$256,676

Amount shown as claims in transit-----	$412,005

2. The amount of $325,087 shown as unliquidated encumbrance for salaries and wages for months prior to February, 1940, erroneously included $264,817 which had been paid by warrants drawn on February 14 and 15, 1940, before the establishment of the Administration's cash balance in treasury, viz., $2,716,788 (see the preceding tabulation).
3. Other unliquidated encumbrances as of February 15, 1940, totaling some $2,327,000, represented in substantial part the difference between amounts that had been encumbered for various purposes by budget estimates and amounts actually expended or owing for such purposes, rather than actual liabilities of the Administration.
4. There was not listed among the Administration's assets any amount for materials and supplies that were on hand or in transit at February 15, 1940, for use in subsequent periods.

In the latter part of February and in March, 1940, the Administration reverted (i.e., disencumbered) about $754,000 that had been included as unliquidated encumbrances in its detailed records at February 15, 1940. At the commencement of our review on April 3, 1940, we ascertained that these detail records still included at March 31, 1940, substantial amounts representing the excess of budget estimates for periods prior to February 15, 1940, over actual expenses. At our request, Mr. E. A. Serafino, Chief Accounting and Financial Officer of the Administration, instructed employees to review the encumbrance records and as a result additional reversions totaling some $250,000 were made in April, 1940, and further reversions (of salaries and wages) are to be made in amounts not yet determined but estimated by employees at $175,000. These reversions, including the estimate of $175,000, aggregate $1,179,000 and are summarized on Exhibit 1 which shows also a reconciliation of unliquidated encumbrances as at February 15, 1940.

As a result of our review, we believe that the Administration's position at February 15, 1940, with respect to appropriations for the current (91st) fiscal year was approximately as follows:

Assets:

Cash balance in State treasury as reported by State Controller...	$2,716,788
Remittances in transit to State treasury for abatements collected and warrants redeposited.....	227,091
	$2,943,879
Relief warrants unsold as reported by State Controller.....	1,600,000
(these were sold on February 26, 1940)
Abatements receivable .....	29,584
Materials and supplies on hand.....	506,000
	$5,079,463

Liabilities:

Claims filed but unpaid.....	$668,680
Unliquidated encumbrances applicable to period prior to February 15, 1940, per Exhibit 1.....	1,514,020
	$2,182,700

Approximate amount available at February 15, 1940, for continuance of relief program.....	$2,896,763
---	--------------------

The above summary does not reflect certain asset and liability accounts that are carried in the Administration's records; such accounts and the reasons for their exclusion are explained in a separate section of this report.

The amount shown above as available at February 15, 1940, for continuance of the relief program exceeds by $2,566,519 the amount shown in Mr. Links' letter of February 21, 1940; this difference comprises:

Unliquidated encumbrances at February 15, 1940, subsequently reverted by the Administration (including an estimated $175,000 salaries and wages to be reverted) per Exhibit 1.....	$1,179,423
(Note—The reversions of salaries and wages included in the above amount had the effect of correcting the error of $264,817 referred to previously.)
Exclusion of encumbrances that related to periods after February 15, 1940 ($708,312) and to the prior fiscal year ($13,790)...	720,102
Exclusion of the "back-log" of emergency relief orders in transit, for reasons previously explained.....	170,000
Approximate amount of materials and supplies on hand at February 15, 1940, not taken into consideration in the letter of February 21, 1940.....	506,000
Minor differences in figures.....	(9,000)
	$2,566,519

Changes During Period February 16 to March 31, 1940.

As previously mentioned, the Administration's records were not closed as at February 15, 1940. Although the underlying detail records of encumbrances, and of certain other accounts, are so maintained that balances as of dates other than month-ends can be ascertained, this condition does not obtain with respect to most of the accounts, particularly those relating to operating expenditures, movements of materials and supplies (which are not recorded until the succeeding month), abatements, etc. Consequently, many complications arose in determining the amounts attaching to the various elements that entered into the changes in position from February 15 to March 31, 1940, and certain estimates and assumptions had to be made in the light of the best available information. There follows a summary of such changes which, we believe, is sufficiently accurate for all practical purposes:

Approximate amount available at February 15, 1940, as shown by the summary on page 6 .....	$2,897,000
Proceeds from sale of relief warrants in March, 1940, as reported by State Controller .....	5,500,000
(Note—The State Controller reported also the sale on February 26, 1940, of $1,600,000 relief warrants that were included among the available assets as at February 15, 1940.)
Proceeds of loan from Architecture Fund on March 6, 1940 .....	1,500,000
Repayment of above loan on March 8, 1940 .....	(1,500,000)
	$8,397,000
Operating expenditures applicable to period February 16 to March 31, 1940, per Exhibit 3 .....	$5,532,000
Payments to State employees retirement fund .....	18,000
Other changes, net .....	(9,000)
	<hr/>
	$5,541,000
Approximate amount available at March 31, 1940, for continuance of relief program .....	<hr/> $2,856,000 <hr/>

The composition of the net amount of $9,000 shown above as other changes cannot be ascertained without unreasonable effort but it is known that the principal elements of the amount are:

The excess of actual collections (chiefly for board of WPA workers housed in camps for single men) and relief warrants redeposited after February 15, 1940, over the portion thereof that was applied in reduction of operating expenditures for the period February 16 to March 31, 1940.

Less—

The amount, if any, by which operating expenditures after February 15, 1940, applicable to prior periods exceeded the liabilities established therefor at February 15, 1940, whether by encumbrance or otherwise.

Expenditures in connection with SRA Rehabilitation Training project not reflected in operating expenditures and net advances to Self-Help Cooperatives; these are referred to hereinafter.

The above amount of $2,856,000 comprised the following assets and liabilities as at March 31, 1940:

Assets:
Cash balance in State Treasury .....	$3,866,000
($3,865,936 reported by State Controller)
Remittances in transit to State Treasury for abatements collected and warrants redeposited .....	219,000
Abatements receivable .....	27,000
Materials and supplies on hand .....	527,000
	<hr/>
	$4,639,000 <hr/>

Liabilities:

Claims filed but unpaid-----	$373,000
Accrued salaries and wages (being the amount paid from April 1 to 15, 1940)-----	633,000
Unliquidated encumbrances applicable to period prior to March 31, 1940, per Exhibit 2-----	777,000
	$1,783,000

The above summary does not reflect certain asset and liability accounts that are carried in the Administration's records; such accounts and the reasons for their exclusion are explained in a separate section of this report.

Operating Expenditures.

As previously mentioned, the Administration's records of operating expenditures are posted in monthly totals; these totals are posted to underlying detail records as expenditures of the month to which they applied rather than the month in which they were made. Cash relief expenditures are regarded as applicable to the month in which made; with minor exceptions all other expenditures in a particular month, and the recorded movements of warehouse materials, relate to preceding months. Consequently it was necessary to make numerous adjustments to the figures shown by the records in order to ascertain the approximate amount of operating expenditures applicable to the period February 16 to March 31, 1940 (Exhibit 3); the more important of these adjustments are explained briefly below:

The amount of cash relief payrolls for February 16 to 29, inclusive, was determined by listing the claims filed therefor with the State Controller. Relief warrants redeposited and other abatements of cash relief rolls shown in the records as applicable to the month of February were allocated to the periods prior and subsequent to the 15th in the relative proportions of the amounts of claims filed for cash relief rolls.

Expenditures under emergency relief orders for the month of February were reduced by the amount ($449,000) that was treated as encumbered for such purpose at February 15 and such expenditures for March were increased by the amount ($165,000) encumbered at March 31.

The amounts of materials and supplies issued from warehouses in February were applied one-half to the periods prior to February 15; the amounts issued in March (which were not recorded until April) were ascertained from summaries of stores movements and treated as expenditures in March, 1940.

In general, one-half of the amounts of other expenditures recorded as applicable to the month of February were treated as relating to the period after February 15. Records of unliquidated encumbrances for these expenditures were reviewed in such detail as was practicable (and discussed with employees of the Administration's accounting department where that seemed desirable) and the amounts thus determined to be applicable to the period February 16 to March 31 were so treated. In this connection, salaries and wages paid from April 1 to 15, 1940 (about $633,000), were eliminated from unliquidated encumbrances at March 31 and applied to the periods to which they related as shown by the payrolls.

A statement of operating expenditures for the six months ended December 31, 1939, is also submitted as Exhibit 4. The figures therein are as shown by the Administration's detail records of expenditures by periods to which they relate, except that there has been added the amount of unliquidated encumbrances for emergency relief orders at December 31, 1939 (determined from reports to be about $359,000). This was done because expenditures under such orders are treated in the underlying records as applicable to the month in which made except at the end of a fiscal year; consequently, such expenditures in the early part of the six-month period that applied to (and were encumbered in) the preceding fiscal year were not reflected in the detail records for the 91st fiscal year. By the adjustment referred to, the expenditures for the six-month period are more fairly stated and are made comparable in this respect with expenditures for the period February 16 to March 31, 1940.

We have not prepared a statement of expenditures for the period January 1 to February 15, 1940, in the form of the statements for the subsequent period to March 31, 1940, and for the six months ended December 31, 1939. However, we ascertained totals of the more significant classifications of expenditures applicable to the period January 1 to February 15, 1940, which we believe are comparable fairly with those for the other periods. There follows a tabulation showing significant totals of operating expenditures (expressed in thousands of dollars) and relative percentages; the figures in Column I represent averages for a 46-day period in the last half of 1939 (being one-fourth of the appropriate amounts shown on Exhibit 4 for the six months ended December 31, 1939), those in Column II relate to the 46-day period January 1 to February 15, 1940, and those in Column III are for the 45-day period February 16 to March 31, 1940, as shown in Exhibit 3:

	Column I		Column II		Column III

Total expenditures -----	6,340	100.0	8,595	100.0	5,532	100.0

In considering the expenditures for relief and for administration, and the relative percentages, applicable to the period February 16 to March 31, 1940, the following facts should be borne in mind:

The number of persons on cash relief payrolls reached its peak in the week ended February 15, 1940, and was followed by a sharp decline that continued at least through the week ended April 18, 1940, as shown by the statistical information set forth in Exhibit 6.

For a portion of the period February 16 to March 31, 1940, the amounts paid to persons remaining on cash relief payrolls were reduced substantially. In this connection we were informed that on February 24, 1940, all cash relief payrolls were reduced to 60 per cent of the then established budgets, were increased to 70 per cent on March 9 and restored to the original budgets on March 21 at which level they continued through March 31, 1940. In confirmation of this we made tests of payrolls selected by us for San Joaquin and San Bernardino Counties and for three districts in Los Angeles County, three in San Francisco County, and three in Alameda County. Because of the large number of relief cases on these payrolls it was not practicable to extend our tests to each relief case, but by the use of averages developed by us from the respective payrolls and by supplementary tests of a number of individual cases, we satisfied ourselves that the schedule of adjustments referred to had been given effect.

It is obvious that administrative expenditures could not have been reduced in the period February 16 to March 31, 1940, proportionately to the reduction in relief expenditures because (1) there is necessarily a lag between reductions (or increases) in the relief case load and in administrative costs nor will the changes necessarily be in the same proportions, and (2) reductions (or increases) in amounts paid to persons remaining on cash relief payrolls would have no appreciable effect on administrative expenditures.

We have calculated that the reductions referred to above in payments to persons remaining on the cash relief rolls in the period February 16 to March 31, 1940, amounted to approximately $1,300,000. If such reductions had not been made, relief expenditures for the period would have amounted to about $5,720,000 and total expenditures to $6,850,000, and the percentages would have been: 75.9 per cent cash relief payrolls, emergency relief orders, etc., 7.6 per cent for other relief expenditures, and 16.5 per cent for administrative expenditures, instead of the percentages shown in the preceding tabulation as 70.1 per cent, 9.5 per cent, and 20.4 per cent, respectively.

It will be observed that the percentage of expenditures applicable to relief was higher, and the percentage applicable to administration was lower, for the period January 1 to February 15, 1940 (Column II in the above tabulation), than for the average 46-day period in 1939, or for the period February 16 to March 31, 1940. This is explained by the fact that the peak of the relief load was in the period January 1 to February 15, 1940 (as evidenced by the summary of persons under care shown on Exhibit 6), and therefore the cost of administration for that period, although greater in amount, was a smaller percentage of total expenditures.

All amounts shown in this report and in the exhibits as direct relief and as administrative expenditures are net of the following credits:

Direct Relief.

Relief warrants drawn but not delivered to beneficiaries which were redeposited in the State Treasury.

Abatements, relatively unimportant in amount, which represent chiefly collections from school districts in respect of additional payments (15 per cent of the previously established budget) to relief beneficiaries who act as guards at school crossings; the gross payments to such persons are included in cash relief payrolls.

Administrative.

Actual collections from school districts referred to above are at the rate of 20 per cent of the previously established budget for school crossing guards. The additional 5 per cent is applied in reduction of county administrative salaries and wages; we understand that the school districts were willing to contribute this additional 5 per cent because of added administrative costs resulting from the assignment of crossing guards.

The total amount of abatements credited to administrative expenditures is relatively unimportant.

The expenditures for resident projects (camps for single men) applicable to the period February 16 to March 31, 1940, amounted to $297,000 before deducting abatements of $83,000 which, with minor exceptions, represented collections from W. P. A. employees living at certain of the camps; we were informed that these employees are supposed to pay board at the rate of $20 per month each. The number of man-days for all camps during that 45-day period, segregated between relief beneficiaries and W. P. A. employees, were ascertained from the Administration's statistical records and these data indicated that the expenditures of $297,000 and the abatements of $83,000 were equivalent, respectively, to about $18.50 and $16.50 per man-month. The man-month costs shown by the Administration's statistical reports for eight months to February 29, 1940, and for the month of March, 1940, are summarized below:

	To February 29, 1940	March, 1940
Food -----	$11.24	$10.10
Clothing -----	1.42	.86
Tobacco -----	.70	.64
Medical attention -----	.92	.91
Cash relief -----	.96	.73
Operating salaries -----	4.23	3.99
Fuel, supplies, etc. -----	4.68	3.04
	<hr/> $24.15	<hr/> $20.27

According to these statistical records, the average man-days per month for the eight months to February 29, 1940, were about 239,300 and the man-days in the month of March, 1940, were about 319,400, which explains the reduction in man-month costs reflected in the preceding tabulation. The costs at the thirty-one camps that were operated during March, 1940, ranged from $14.47 at Gigling camp (1,121 man-days) to $35.22 at White House camp (165 man-days).

The Administration's division of planning and research prepares weekly statistical reports showing among other things the number of relief cases and the number of persons under care in each of the counties and in camps for single men. There is submitted as Exhibit 6 a tabulation prepared from such reports for the weeks ending January 4, February 1, February 15, February 29, March 28, and April 18, 1940, showing separately the figures for the ten principal counties.

We understand that the Administration is preparing, and will submit to the committee, statistical information regarding the number of employees for various periods to a recent date; at the time we completed our review current statistics of this nature were not available.

Materials and Supplies.

The amount of $527,000 shown for materials and supplies in the summary of position as at March 31, 1940, represented the general ledger balance for warehouse stocks at that date as adjusted for warehouse transactions in March that are to be recorded in April and for charges relating to the SRA Rehabilitation Training Project referred to hereinafter. The amount of $506,000 shown in the summary of position as at February 15, 1940, was determined in a similar manner and on the assumption that one-half of the warehouse transactions for February (recorded in March) applied to the period after February 15.

The adjusted ledger balance at March 31, 1940, comprised about $313,000 for produced stores and $214,000 for purchased stores. Produced stores are kept in the Administration's warehouse at 1002 Santa Fe Avenue, Los Angeles, and with minor exceptions comprise items produced by self-help cooperative units. We inspected lists of the items comprising produced stores at March 31, 1940, which were said to have been determined by a physical inventory taken at that date from which we prepared the following summary:

Food products—
Jams, jellies, etc. -----	$95,000
Canned vegetables, soups, etc. -----	75,000
Canned fruits -----	55,000
Other -----	49,000
		$274,000
Wearing apparel and cloth goods -----		20,000
Soaps, cleaners, etc. -----		6,000
Household furniture -----		3,000
Other, chiefly labels, etc. -----		10,000
		$313,000

Based upon discussions with Mr. Serafino, it appears that the stocks of certain items, particularly jams, jellies, etc., are considerably in excess of present requirements.

We were informed that physical inventories of purchased stores were also taken at March 31, 1940. We did not inspect the inventory sheets as they were at the Administration's San Francisco office where records of all purchased stores are summarized; however, available summaries of these inventories indicated that purchased stores at March 31, 1940, comprised:

Housekeeping supplies (for camps) -----	$41,000
Food -----	25,000
Clothing -----	23,000
Medical supplies -----	11,000
Tobacco -----	5,000
Stationery and office supplies -----	49,000
Construction stores (chiefly plumbing and hardware) -----	57,000
Automotive supplies -----	8,000
Other -----	15,000
	$234,000

of which about $155,000 was in the San Francisco area (principally in the Emeryville warehouse) and $79,000 was in the Los Angeles area (principally in the warehouse at 1002 Santa Fe Avenue).

It will be observed that the amount of purchased stores reflected by the inventory summaries exceeded the adjusted ledger balance by about $20,000. This difference is caused by entries in prior months relating to stores transactions of the Administration's Works and Rehabilitation project; accounting department employees are at present analyzing these entries and it is expected that appropriate adjustments will be reflected in the April accounts.

Under present accounting procedures the amounts of warehouse stock losses and gains are apportioned on various bases to stores issues and the amounts of such gains and losses during any period are not readily ascertainable.

Other Asset and Liability Accounts.

Certain assets and liability accounts carried on the Administration's books have been omitted from the summaries of position at February 15 and March 31, 1940. There follows an explanation of these accounts and the reasons for their omission:

Revolving funds.

These funds amounted to $340,000 both at February 15 and March 31, 1940, and were offset by liabilities of $300,000 for borrowings from the State Department of Finance and $40,000 for borrowings from the Administration's unexpended appropriations for prior fiscal years.

Self-Help Cooperatives current account.

The balance in this account was about $446,000 at March 31, 1940, and represented unliquidated advances to the numerous cooperative units; it appears that the amount that may be recovered in respect of these advances is uncertain. The balance as of February 15, 1940, has not been established but it appears unlikely that it differed substantially from the March 31, 1940, balance.

SRA Rehabilitation Training Project.

Charges held in suspense in respect of this project aggregated some $121,000 at March 31, 1940; the balance at February 15, 1940, has not been established but was probably in the neighborhood of $100,000. The project was abandoned by the Administration as of April 1, 1940, and the accounting department is analyzing such charges with a view to making appropriate disposition thereof. We understand that the greater portion of these charges represent operating expenditures.

Abatements receivable.

The abatements that are shown in the foregoing summaries of position at February 15 and March 31, 1940, are carried in the Administration's records as part of its cash balance; we were informed that such treatment followed instructions of the Department of Finance regarding abatements of a particular type.

In general, other abatements are not reflected in the accounts until actually collected but an unimportant amount was carried as receivable at March 31, 1940, with an offsetting reserve of about the same amount.

Property and equipment accounts.

These were carried at $2,676,000 at March 31, 1940, with offsetting accounts of $2,508,000 representing the State's investment therein and $168,000 representing equipment purchased with Federal funds.

Property and equipment purchased with Administration funds is reflected also in operating expenditures.

This account represents the liability (for materials received and charged to stores account) which has not been reported to the State Controller for payment because the vendors' invoices, if received, were in process of being checked. The amounts represented thereby are not eliminated from unliquidated encumbrances (carried in the budgetary accounts—see below) until the invoices are filed for payment with the State Controller; inasmuch as unliquidated encumbrances were considered in calculating the positions at February 15 and March 31, 1940, it was necessary to disregard the balance in stores invoices pending account to avoid duplication of liabilities.

Accounts relating to prior fiscal years.

Unexpended cash balances, operating expenditures, and various other accounts relating to prior fiscal years have been omitted from the tabulations in this report. Among such accounts are certain ones which purport to express the Administration's accountability to the State general funds for unexpended appropriations for prior fiscal years. The net of these accounts at March 31, 1940, exceeded by approximately $660,000 the asset balances (chiefly cash and unsold warrants) relating to prior fiscal years. This difference represents non-cash assets, principally inventories of materials at June 30, 1939 (less subsequent withdrawals charged to operating expenditures of prior fiscal years) and unliquidated advances to Self-Help Cooperatives, plus abatements collected after June 30, 1939, that applied to prior years. We were informed that State agencies are accountable to general funds only for unexpended cash and unsold warrants from prior years' appropriations.

Budgetary accounts.

These are carried in a separate ledger and have been omitted except in so far as unliquidated encumbrances, which are carried only in the budgetary accounts, have been considered in establishing the Administration's approximate position at February 15 and March 31, 1940.

Trust accounts.

These are also carried in a separate ledger and comprise the Administration's accounting with the Federal Government for surplus commodities, borrowed equipment, and the related small cash transactions.

We have the following further comments to offer regarding certain of the accounts referred to above:

Los Angeles office revolving fund—$65,000.

We understand that the purpose of establishing the office revolving fund was to provide a means for making disbursements that would not permit of the delay involved in the procedure of filing claims with the State Controller for payments by warrants. The disbursements from the fund have comprised chiefly advances to employees for expenses, salary payments pending approval by the appropriate State departments of the creation of positions and of pay schedules, salary payments upon termination of employment, and purchases of postage. The fund is operated on the imprest system and is reimbursed (1) by recovery from employees (usually by endorsement under power of attorney of warrants payable to employees) of advances for traveling expenses and of salary payments, and (2) by warrants after claims filed in support of disbursements from the fund have been approved. Mr. Serafino is the custodian of the fund, the transactions of which are audited monthly—in recent months by Mr. W. J. McKeand, Finance Auditor of the Administration.

We inspected reports prepared by Mr. McKeand which showed the composition of the fund at the close of the months listed to have been as follows:

	December 1939	January 1940	February 1940	March 1940
Cash in banks-----	$17,421	$34,060	$27,217	$43,991
Travel advances-----	18,120	18,094	17,787	10,663
Salary payments-----	16,696	2,650	5,327	1,753
Other expenditures awaiting reimbursement, for which—
Claims had been filed....	9,254	7,758	8,538	8,058
Claims had not been filed	3,509	3,038	6,131	535
	$65,000	$65,000	$65,000	$65,000

Mr. McKeand's reports also show the amounts of pending claims for traveling expenses, the warrants for which could presumably be endorsed under power of attorney and applied in reduction of the employees travel advances: such claims at the close of December, 1939, January, February and March, 1940, totaled, respectively, $4,620, $9,877, $10,797 and $6,514.

The Administration maintains detail records of travel advances to individual employees. We made a cursory review of such records and submit the following list of balances amounting to $300 or more at the close of the months shown :

and particulars of such changes are shown in the following tabulation :

Wilford, B. C.	538	---	453
	$3,483	$2,632	$3,471

It is evident from the foregoing tabulation that advances were not always restricted to amounts required for traveling and we observed the following instances of this condition where the amounts involved were less than $300 :

Grant Friel, Works and Reemployment department :

Advances in January, February and March, 1940, totaling $150 were collected—$50 in February, $50 in March and $50 in April, 1940, by application of salary warrants.

James Layton, County Administration:

Advances in October, 1939, and January, 1940, totaling $100 were collected in March, 1940, by application of salary warrants.

Ralph Michener, County Administration:

Advance of $75 in November, 1939, collected in April, 1940, by application of salary warrant.

Phyllis Barteau, County Administration:

Advance of $25 in February, 1940, partly collected by remittance of $12.50 in March, 1940.

O. L. Able, Commodity Distribution department:

Advance of $50 in February, 1940, partly collected by remittance of $45 in March, 1940.

Eloise Rathbone, Community Relations department:

Advance of $50 in December, 1939, partly collected in February, 1940, by remittances of $37.50; a further advance of $50 was made in April, 1940.

According to Mr. McKeand's audit reports, unreimbursed salary payments from the revolving fund involved about 150 persons at December 31, 1939, and nine persons at March 31, 1940. Some of these payments represented salaries upon termination of employment but for the most part they represented salaries paid to employees prior to approval of the creation of their positions and of their salary rates; as such approval was obtained, claims were filed with the State Controller and the revolving fund was subsequently reimbursed. The salary payments for which reimbursement had not been received at March 31, 1940, comprised:

Works and Reemployment department:	Period covered	Amount
Edwards, Chas. S.-----	Dec. 1, 1939 to Feb. 29, 1940-----	$600
Schwartz, Herman L.-----	Jan. 1, 1940 to Feb. 29, 1940-----	275
Sutton, Frank E.-----	Dec. 1, 1939 to Feb. 29, 1940-----	735
Other departments:
Six persons.-----	Various-----	143
		$1,753

Apart from travel advances and salary payments, the lists of expenditures from the revolving fund that were awaiting reimbursement at the close of December, 1939, January, February, and March, 1940, consisted chiefly of payments for postage and for street car tokens or tickets; a few payments were for purchases of materials and we inspected the underlying documents relating to the major items in that category and found that in each instance the purchases were subject to cash discounts that perhaps could not have been taken if the invoices had been placed in the usual channels for payment.

Revolving fund for Federal Surplus Commodity Corporation food stamps—$275,000.

This fund is maintained $200,000 in Los Angeles and $75,000 in San Francisco; according to reports from the custodians, the composition of the fund at March 31, 1940, was:

	Los Angeles	San Francisco
Cash in banks-----	$22,972	$49,444
Deposits in branch banks on March 30, 1940, not credited on bank statement until April 1, 1940-----	20,274	-----
Cash on hand at stores where food stamp books are sold-----	3,131	48
Value of unsold stamp books purchased from F.S.C.C. and on hand-----	153,628	25,504
Defective book returned to F.S.C.C. for refund-----	-----	4
Overage-----	(5)	-----
	$200,000	$75,000

We inspected letters from Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation stating that stamp books of the value of $153,628 in the Los Angeles fund were counted by their representatives at the close of business on March 31, 1940, and that stamp books of the San Francisco fund were counted at the close of business on March 27, 1940, and were in agreement with accountability records of Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation as of that date.

We were informed that responsibility for custody of the stamp funds was transferred in April, 1940, from the accounting department to the Administrator's office so that the accounting department may hereafter function in an auditing capacity with respect to the funds.

Self-Help Cooperatives.

It is our understanding that Self-Help Cooperative units have been formed by groups of persons (sometimes few in number) who meet certain requirements laid down by the Administration, which requirements do not necessarily include eligibility to receive cash unemployment relief benefits. The Administration finances these units in the production or processing of certain commodities with the understanding that the proceeds, in cash or kind, resulting from such activities will be turned over to the Administration in liquidation, at least in part, of the advances made.

At March 31, 1940, the unliquidated advances to units then operating amounted to $446,000. The following figures were summarized from statements, prepared by the Administration's Bureau of Self-Help, which we understand represent transactions since the establishment of the several units:

Total advances to March 31, 1940-----	$1,782,000
Recovered in the form of commodities-----	1,146,000
	$636,000
Unliquidated advances to defunct units, written off-----	190,000
Unliquidated advances -----	$446,000

The statement referred to shows also that $122,000 of advances were not due at March 31, 1940, and that finished goods at units amounted to $53,000, leaving an indicated net deficit at March 31, 1940, of $271,000, comprising 37 units with indicated deficits totaling $281,200 and 6 units with surpluses totaling $10,200 (of which 2 units accounted for $8,600). Information relating to the ten largest units is summarized on Exhibit 5.

We were informed that the commodities recovered from units are priced from lists established, or approved, by the Bureau of Purchases of the Department of Finance. Substantially all of the commodities so recovered are delivered to the Administration's warehouse at 1002 Santa Fe Avenue, Los Angeles; these commodities formed all but a minor portion of the inventory of produced stores which amounted at March 31, 1940, to $313,000 or nearly one-third of the total amount assigned to commodities recovered from units, some of which have been operating since the latter part of 1935 as shown in Exhibit 5.

We have not had an opportunity to inquire into the procedures followed by the Administration with respect to commodities recovered from the units including comparability of the quality of products with that contemplated by the prices established by the Bureau of Purchases.

Property and equipment accounts.

The Administration maintains detail records of property and equipment accounts; these records reflect the equipment number, description of the item, cost, location, date acquired, etc.

We were informed that present State procedure requires that all items of a "non-expendable" category costing $5 or more shall be reflected in the accounts as property and equipment and that until fairly recently all such items costing $2.00 or more were so recorded. An adjustment was made in February, 1940, reducing the property accounts and the State's investment therein by $101,082 in respect of items costing less than $5 that had previously been capitalized.

A summary of the property and equipment balances at March 31, 1940, by principal segregation is shown below:

State and regional offices:
Building improvements and equipment.....	$31,162
Office furniture and fixtures.....	207,882
Office machinery and equipment.....	163,337
Other .....	32,369
		$434,750
County offices:
Office furniture and fixtures.....	$199,984
Office machinery and equipment.....	128,406
Other .....	28,020
		356,410
Commodity distribution .....		54,654
Resident projects (camps for single men).....		701,504
Self-Help Cooperatives .....		237,987
Automotive .....		323,744
Equipment loaned to other agencies, chiefly WPA.....		423,088
Other .....		144,105
		$2,676,242

Changes in the property and equipment accounts for the three-month period ending March 31, 1940, are shown below:

Balance at December 31, 1939.....	$2,630,922
Additions .....	84,159
Retirements, etc. ....	(26,343)
Adjustment explained above with respect to items costing less than $5 which had been capitalized in prior periods.....	(101,082)
Adjustment in March resulting from appraisals made of resident project camp buildings, etc., in an attempt to reflect the asset at its true cost.....	88,586
(at the time certain camps were constructed proper segregations of costs were not maintained and only a portion of the cost was reflected as property and equipment)
Balance at March 31, 1940.....	$2,676,242

We were informed by Mr. Serafino that until recent months supervisory employees were requested to submit lists of equipment to the accounting department from time to time but that this procedure proved unsatisfactory and the Administration recently engaged employees known as equipment inspectors to inventory the major items of property and equipment; also, that the equipment inspectors will probably complete their initial inventory within the next month or so and thereafter will be continuously engaged in accounting for items of property and equipment.

We understand that adjustments for known retirements, or for items known to be missing, are not recorded until approval of the Department of Finance has been obtained as required by State procedure. Mr. Serafino has expressed the opinion that the amounts involved in such adjustments are relatively insignificant.

* * *

We received the cooperation and assistance of Mr. Serafino, Chief Accounting Officer, and members of his staff in the conduct of our review and we were assured that consideration would be given to oral suggestions we made for revising procedures in certain respects so as to shorten the interval between the occurrence of transactions and the recording of them.

Our review of the Administration's accounting records has necessarily been limited but we trust that the information in this report and the accompanying exhibits will be helpful to the committee in its study of the Administration's financial affairs. We shall be pleased to confer with the committee at its convenience if that is desired.

Yours very truly,

PRICE, WATERHOUSE & CO.

Reconciliation of Unliquidated Encumbrances at February 15, 1940

Exhibit 1

Amounts shown by letter of F. A. Links, dated February 21, 1940, as encumbrances to February 29, 1940--

Add (deduct):

Amounts included as encumbrances in the Administration's records that were considered applicable to March, 1940, and subsequent months and were therefore disregarded in preparing the figures shown above

Encumbrances relating to the previous (30th) fiscal year

Minor differences

Unliquidated encumbrances per Administration's detail records at February 15, 1940--

Deduct: Amounts subsequently reverted by Administration (see footnote):

February 16 to March 31, 1940

April 1 to 25, 1940 (including an estimated $175,000 salaries and wages)

Leaving a balance, as adjusted

Of which there has been estimated to relate to subsequent periods

Unliquidated encumbrances applicable to operations through February 15, 1940

Note:

The amounts of salaries and wages reported in the period February 16 to March 31, 1940, had the effect of correcting the error of $264,817 (commented upon in the attached report) in arriving at the amount of $1,077,849 shown in the letter of February 27, 1940. It is not possible without unreasonable effort to properly and equitably allocate the salaries and wages of the period February 16 to March 31, 1940, to the various departments and agencies. The following general statements regarding such reversals are based upon a review of some of the principal budget estimates and the relative actual expenditures:

Materials and supplies for camps, chiefly staple groceries, fresh meats, and clothing.

Other materials and supplies--textiles for WPA manufacturing projects about $70,000, supplies for State administrative department $25,000, and other supplies $27,000.

Service and expenses--traveling about $275,000, telephone $15,000, and miscellaneous $13,000.

Property and equipment--14 Chevrolet sedans (less 13 trade-ins) $8,000, 31 Chevrolet sedans (no trade-ins) $24,000, 72 trucks and 5 station wagons (less 77 trade-ins) $56,785, and other property and equipment $12,117. The Chevrolet sedans were intended for administrative departments and the trucks for the commodity distribution department; the encumbrances of funds for their purchase were made in December 1939.

CALIFORNIA STATE RELIEF ADMINISTRATION.
STATEMENT OF UNLIQUIDATED ENCUMBRANCES AT MARCH 31, 1940.

Services and expenses incurred, chiefly in March, 1940, the bills for which had not been rendered or were pending settlement:

Administrative
	State	County	Relief projects	Estimated amounts

	$37,000	$116,000	$92,000	$245,000

*These items relate chiefly to commodity distribution.

Materials and supplies received prior to March 31, 1940, the bills for which had not been rendered or were pending settlement:

Camps, chiefly foodstuffs-----	$172,000
WPA projects, chiefly textiles-----	100,000
Other -----	70,000

Emergency relief orders issued but unpaid at March 31, 1940
Salaries and wages, chiefly for March, 1940, which had not been paid at April 15, 1940, because authorizations for the establishment of positions had not then been obtained from the Department of Finance-----

342,000
165,000

25,000

$777,000

Note:

Estimates resulting in the above amounts were made in the light of the best available information after discussion with employees of the Administration's accounting department.

The amounts of unliquidated encumbrances shown by the records at March 31, 1940 (after adjustment for reversions made and to be made in April, 1940), exceeded the amounts shown above; such excess represented encumbrances for
(1) materials and supplies that had not been received at March 31, 1940, but for which purchase orders may have been issued in some instances, and (2) services to be rendered after March 31, 1940.

NOTES:

(1) With minor exceptions, the abatements of $83,000 credited to resident projects and applied in reduction of materials and supplies represent collections from WPA employees who live at certain of the camps. The gross expenditures for materials and supplies, $225,000, comprised: food, $157,000; clothing, $16,000; tobacco, $11,000; household supplies $13,000; fuel, $11,000; all other, $17,000.

(2) Materials and supplies contributed to WPA projects comprised mainly textiles for use by relief beneficiaries in the manufacture of clothing.

(3) Expenditures relating to resident projects and commodity distribution include salaries and wages of certain employees in the field (such as supervisors and assistant supervisors, clerks, etc.) whose duties might be regarded as administrative. Based on a limited review of pay rolls it is believed that the total amount of such salaries for the period shown would not exceed $30,000. If this amount, and expenditures of $8,000 for travel and telephone, had been treated as administrative expense instead of direct relief, the relative percentages of expenditures would have been 78.9% for direct relief and 21.1% for administration.

NOTES:

(1) With minor exceptions the abatements of $320,000 credited to resident projects and applied in reduction of materials and supplies represent collections from WPA employees who live at certain of the camps. (2) Materials and supplies contributed to projects of the Works Progress Administration comprised mainly textiles for use by relief beneficiaries in manufacturing clothing. The amounts of these expenditures in the period covered by the above summary have not been ascertained because they are relatively unimportant.

(3) As explained in Note (3) to Exhibit 3, certain expenditures that might be regarded as relating to administration have been treated as direct relief expenditures. The amounts of these expenditures in the period covered by the above summary have not been ascertained because they are relatively unimportant.

Senate Bill No. 90 read first time, and referred to Committee on Social Service and Welfare.

Motion to Print in Journal.

On motion of Mrs. Daley, the following report by the Assembly Legislative Fact-finding Committee on Employment was ordered printed in the Journal:

PART VI.*Social Audit.

The Joint Legislative Fact-Finding Committee on Employment submits this report with the hope that the findings will benefit future legislation. The committee's primary desire is to see that the needy receive their full share of relief, but to accomplish this, it is necessary to prevent the undeserving from taking from the deserving.

In fairness to regular case workers, the committee acknowledges that access has been had to certain records not available to them. In this connection, the committee in Part I of its report (Assembly Journal, May 14, 1940, page 452, Recommendation VIII), advocated "the clearing of accepted (SRA) applications through private credit agencies in the same manner as commercial or financial credit applications are cleared."

10,000 Cases Studied.

Every effort has been made to be conservative in classifying the 10,000 SRA cases included in this audit and as a result many apparent ineligible cases have been listed as borderline cases. The social audit conducted by Social Welfare Commission disclosed that in the Hollywood area of Los Angeles the ineligible cases were approximately 12 per cent against 13 per cent borderline cases. This audit shows only 1.05 per cent ineligible cases and 21.17 per cent borderline cases. Analysis of the borderline cases indicates a relative high proportion of ineligibility.

The audit was undertaken in representative cities and counties and the results are set forth in tabulations that follow. The cases were checked without any knowledge, on the part of the investigators, of information shown on the case records. The cases were selected at random from relief payrolls in the Controller's office. The counties in which the inquiry was made are San Francisco, Alameda, Sacramento, Stanislaus, Los Angeles, Riverside, San Bernardino, and San Diego, and the cities, San Jose and Glendale.

Ineligibles Evade Inquiry.

This audit demonstrates definitely that the great exodus of recipients from the rolls after February 15th was caused by the Legislature establishing necessary restrictions and determining to eliminate the undeserving.

There is little doubt but that clever chisellers are classed as borderline or wrong-address cases in the tabulations. These cases require intensive investigation, not permitted by the time and funds available to the committee. However, several Los Angeles cases were examined exhaustively and definite evidence of fraud was obtained in two. Only a few of the many wrong-address cases found by the investigators could be scrutinized in the available time but these indicated a relative high ineligibility ratio.

The figures obtained by the analysis confirm the findings of the sub-committees that there is a direct relationship between the inefficiency of SRA offices and the percentage of ineligibility. The Southern California sub-committee, of which Mr. Houser is the chairman, reported, for example, that San Bernardino County has one of the more efficient SRA offices and Riverside, one of the less efficient. This social audit disclosed that borderline and ineligible cases in San Bernardino County totaled 22 per cent, whereas in Riverside County they totaled 48 per cent.

A comparison of the Hollywood and Belvedere sections of Los Angeles indicates the difference in the class of relief recipients and varying factors that are involved. In Belvedere, where economic and cultural levels are lower, there were few chisellers; whereas in Hollywood the borderline percentage was 21.17 per cent, a reflection of the many methods of chiseling which were disclosed.

Money and Morale Lost.

This audit emphasized the seriousness of chiseling, not only because of the vast sums lost but also in the moral effect upon our people. The committee calls attention to the prevalence of borderline cases, as revealed by this audit, which range from 5.5 per cent to as high as 32 per cent. The economic loss from ineligibility is far greater than generally understood. To arrive at the loss, it is conservative to assume that one-fourth of all borderline cases are undeserving and, with the definite ineligibles, are receiving $4,000,000 a year in California. This does not take into consideration past losses from payment to persons who left the rolls after the Legislature commenced its investigation of the steadily increasing relief load.

This loss, great as it is, is secondary to the intangible loss from the depletion of the moral fabric of our citizens. This audit has revealed that not only seasonal workers, but also all other types, many of whom are employed as high as ten months a year, depend regularly upon relief to carry them through periods of unemployment. Heretofore, under the same conditions these workers managed to save sufficient money to provide for themselves during idle periods. Now they go on relief as soon as unemployed, continuing installment payments on automobiles and other purchases. Even marginal farmers who once maintained themselves, seek relief. The attitude that the State will take care of those who do not endeavor to provide for themselves is rapidly becoming more general.

Recipients of relief have been permitted, even encouraged, by business concerns to buy expensive jewelry, refrigerators, radios and automobiles on time-payments far above their means. Rentals in many cases are exorbitant to recipients. A representative of a branch bank in a Southern California city attempted to discourage a part of this investigation on the basis that certain farmers who are borrowers of the bank might lose relief payments they are receiving. One case was found of a relief recipient who had a four-figure savings account in 1938 and who withdrew the money and immediately applied for and received relief.

The audit disclosed that several questionable cases voluntarily dropped from the rolls in February, have been reinstated since the Workers Alliance has been actively encouraging citizens to go on relief.

Chiseling an Important Problem.

To reduce chiseling is an important social problem, which deserves the cooperation of all citizens to the end that the apparent break-down of moral responsibility may be halted.

The publishing of names of relief recipients would help probably in small cities, but probably would not have as much effect in larger cities, where the chiseler can readily use fictitious names. Finger-printing of relief recipients is opposed by some persons as unsocial but if the deserving are to be protected from those who are undeserving it seems to be one of the inevitable steps that must be taken.

The Controller's office should be provided with more money so that more investigators may be employed to investigate relief payments. The cost would be small, compared to the possible savings. Chiselers should not be dealt with leniently.

Works projects as proposed by the committee would provide an effective means of eliminating chiseling because a chiseler will not work. The dollar and cents savings would pay any additional administrative costs.

The committee regrets that it is necessary to state that undue delay on the part of the Department of Finance in approving the Controller's recommendation for additional appointments of investigators prevented the start of this audit until April 1, 1940. Three months should have been allowed for the comprehensive examination undertaken. To produce a maximum of information any social audit requires adequate time for thorough inquiry. While the findings of this investigation have been illuminating, the committee does realize that more time would have brought out still more interesting phases of the problem of dole relief.

Social Audit—SRA Relief Rolls.*LOS ANGELES COUNTY.

Listed below are some sample cases of persons on relief:

Alfonso De la C—— lives on Esparanza Street, working as a sign painter and just completed one job which we verified, receiving $100 check. Is receiving relief under name of Al C——at a nearby address (such cases as these are difficult to find and require intensive investigation; this is a sample of aliases).

Another alias case is that of a real estate salesman, Alfred H. D—— using the D—— name but a different given name. Definitely determined to be the same man; lives in a nice apartment and, at one time, was exceedingly wealthy, even today he has property holdings. The record of suits against him show that he is rather elusive. It has been confirmed that he is making from $200 to $300 each month from the real estate company which he is now representing.

Richard Eps—— has been a fruit peddler for 13 years; has a nice home in Alhambra and is receiving relief.

David E. Ro—— is a musician playing in a night club, also on relief.

Julius Oc—— is a lubricant man with an automobile company; has been working for seven years at $30 per week, using a different given name but positively identified as the same man.

Mrs. Blanche J—— claiming to be a widow is receiving relief but has a husband working at one of the motion picture studios.

Mrs. Laura Ho—— on South Berendo claims to be a widow but has a husband receiving veteran's pension and she is a registered nurse working regularly while on relief.

Leona H—— supposed to be a widow but has been working as a waitress and has a husband who is a detective and is working.

William F. St—— has been arrested regularly each year for drinking since 1933; has either paid a fine or sentenced to jail; at this time, he is serving 40 days on the road gang.

Flora and Lou Sah—— have been married for six months and have been on relief ever since; prior to that time they were both employed as domestics in the home of a Beverly Hills family. They have both been offered work at the same place but have remained on relief. This latter has been verified twice from their former employer.

(219 cases had wrong addresses so could not be checked.)

Schedule A.

This represents relief cases where the subjects have received work since February and have been removed from the rolls.

Schedule B.

This represents cases which require further investigation to determine their eligibility.

Schedule C.

These cases involve foreigners principally and there are many peculiar circumstances suggesting doubtful eligibility but, before any definite statement could be made, it would require intensive investigation. Some of these are:

Frank Re— of A Street who was working as a barber on Taylor Street up to the time he left the city and went off relief at the time the Legislature was in session.

Emil Rib— of Florida Street, steel worker, now employed at average of $50 per week; was off work for 1½ months during the rainy season and on relief (he only has wife and one child and income for past year should have been enough to tide him over the lay-off period of 1½ months).

James Ri— working in Venezuela, wife in San Francisco receiving relief up until February 16th.

Peter Roc— dishwasher, receiving $1 per day plus meals through the winter while on relief; off rolls during Legislative inquiry.

Feliciano Lo— of Missouri Street, working part time for railroad but not reporting revenue.

Martin Con— of Mission Street was laid off WPA due to excessive drinking but went on SRA and off at time of Legislature investigation; however, was working fairly steady according to union records.

John Atk— of Grove Street was receiving both unemployment insurance and relief checks during January and February until he accepted job as plate hanger with steel company.

Schedule D.

This reports cases where the subjects have been buying considerable merchandise on time in excess of what would be considered consistent for a recipient of relief to purchase.

Schedule E.

This reports excessive liquor cases where all information substantiates the fact that the parties are victims of alcoholism.

Schedule F.

These relief clients were ineligible in February but since the Legislature met have disappeared from the rolls.

Schedule G.

These are cases which are definitely ineligible at this time and a few examples are listed below:

Fred Re— of San Francisco, is an actor and union member in good standing. Agency reports that he has a good act and is busy most of the time; the act receives from $200 to $250 per week and consists of himself and three children, recently appeared at the "Dog House" in Reno.

Frank Lap— of Washington Street, is a chauffeur at $125 per month and has been working for past two years.

Henry Fern— of Forty-fourth Avenue is a janitor in one of the downtown buildings, employed for a number of years. Recently purchased $250 worth of furniture.

Anders Eri— of O'Farrell Street is also a janitor in a bank building for years.

Alex Bys— of Bosworth Street is a scrap-iron worker and, according to certain companies, has an income not entitling him to relief.

Bernhardt Bri— of Fillmore Street is a steam-fitter making in excess of $200 per month.

Pasqual Sa— of La Salle Street is a gardener making $125 per month.

John Ra— of Silliman Street is a salesman steadily employed, reported to be averaging $30 per week.

Charles Me— of Sunnydale Avenue, purchased a "see-the-moon-for-10-cents" telescope for $400, paying $100 down and $50 per month on balance. Wife works as maid at 35 cents per hour.

Richard H. O'M— of Vienna Street is a union member in good standing, making $1 per hour, averaging five days a week; does not have citizenship papers. Receives $36 monthly compensation from U. S. Government.

Kathleen O'D— of O'Farrell Street is a nurse not working but taking a rest; can work if wants to and always in demand according to Nurses Registry.

Peter Nid—, a Filipino, of Francisco Street; working for past three years at same place, making $65 per month. Wife working, making $40 per month and board for past three years.

Fred New— of Twenty-sixth Street working as a painter making $43.75 per week.

Herman H. L— of Duboce Avenue works as a fireman on locomotive making $300 per month.

(Notice that many people working at nights are on relief evidently due to the fact that case-worker calls in daytime.)

ALAMEDA COUNTY.

Borderline cases	274 cases	32.19%
No such addresses	19 cases	2.24%
Never known at address shown	44 cases	5.17%

(265 cases had wrong addresses and could not be reported.)

Schedule A.

Unable to check latest relief rolls to make a closer study of these borderline cases.

Schedule B.

There was no similar address to those shown, generally being a vacant lot or else in manufacturing district.

Schedule C.

These cases are questionable as no one in neighborhood or at address given knew of said relief clients.

Schedule D.

These subjects had the same attitude as that of the majority of the witnesses called before the Yorty Committee in Oakland. Very indignant.

Schedule E.

A few examples are listed below. Although it has not been possible to check the latest rolls, caution was taken in cases in which the persons have just within the past few weeks accepted work and they were classed as borderline cases.

Leo Po— of Ninth Avenue was working as a clerk and receiving relief at the same time.

Cecil Du— of Lincoln Avenue is a roofing contractor and reported to be doing well.

Matilda Ha— of McGee Street is not only working part time but her husband (whose name is not shown as she is listed as a widow) is a cook on a dining car.

James Br— of West Street is a bartender on Sacramento Street and has been for over a year.

One colored man in Oakland who has used aliases in obtaining credit is on rolls and has made substantial purchases; several members of family are working.

Albina K—, a lady barber, is working in Seventh Street barber shop.

From all information available, a great many, who were questionable as to eligibility in February, have been dropped from the rolls.

RIVERSIDE COUNTY.

Borderline cases—off since February	90 cases	20.00%
Employed since February, now off rolls	44 cases	9.78%
Borderline cases—active	90 cases	20.00%

Schedule A.

Included in this group are cases which require more investigation. Two cases are shown below which are outstanding examples:

Thomas J. N—— on Magnolia Avenue living in a neatly furnished apartment in good district of Riverside. Chinese prints and colorful drapes are part of furnishings. Purports to be a politician, according to his remarks.

Carroll C. S—— of Beaumont worked for Metropolitan Water District for four years; the last two years at $7.70 per day until November 11, 1939. Excellent wages for location and steady work; knew work would end about that time but unprepared and went on relief.

Schedule B.

These cases were ineligible in February at time of Special Session of Legislature and, after the Legislature's stand, got off relief; a few typical cases are listed below:

Luis Ar—— of Evans Street in Riverside making monthly payments of $39.03; open account with merchants, wealthy relatives. Only wife and one dependent.

Former candidate for supervisor; considerable assets before candidacy; lives in nice home; special work.

Rancher with net income of $1,800 per year, borrowing money from bank.

Schedule C.

Walter J—— ranch hand with shack in town but working regularly on farm.

Carl M—— of Franklin Street in Hemet, raises vegetables, hauls them in his truck and sells them in Los Angeles. Had two trucks running last summer and one this winter.

Lena Par—— has 12 horses, ready to open riding academy at well known club. Has bad credit record but always able to promote property.

Frank M—— is farmer, has small checking account, unsecured loan with bank of $100, good credit record. Has truck and hauls for others.

SAN BERNARDINO COUNTY.

Eligible for relief	224 cases	59.58%
Obtaining private employment since February, 1940	68 cases	18.09%
Borderline cases removed from rolls	50 cases	13.29%
Borderline cases still on relief	24 cases	6.39%
Never resided in district	3 cases	.79%
Ineligibles before February—removed from rolls	2 cases	.53%
On rolls, April 20, 1940, and still ineligible	5 cases	1.33%
	376 cases	100.00%

(113 cases had wrong addresses so could not check.)

Schedule A.

This reports cases of relief recipients who have obtained work since February, and have since taken themselves off the rolls.

Schedule B.

These were borderline cases in February but they have removed themselves from the rolls since the Legislature showed its intention to eliminate chiselers.

Schedule C.

These are borderline cases who still are on relief.

John Bo—— of San Bernardino is a painter with a contractor's license and has been making substantial purchases of paint.

Enrique Bra—— of San Bernardino owns a truck and hauls fertilizer, however, he has a bad credit record.

Polly Ca—— of Ninth Street, San Bernardino, is employed at night on South D Street.

Lelan De—— of San Bernardino, a tractor driver, reported to be a heavy drinker, was having a drinking party at the time the investigator called; wife is a waitress.

There are others in this group who are orange pickers but, because the packing houses do not keep names and records investigators were unable to prove definitely they are working.

(The fact that farmers and citrus growers do not keep names and identifications makes it possible for relief clients to obtain work and not be exposed.)

Schedule D.

The three cases are listed below:

Cecil Gwo—— was a visitor on Rialto Street in San Bernardino and received relief while there.

Pablo L. Men—— on Fifth Street, receives his mail at this address but does not live there.

Roosevelt Rh—— does not live at the address given but calls occasionally.

Schedule E.

These two cases represent clients who were ineligible in February and for some time past. They evidently took themselves off the relief rolls when the Legislature commenced investigation.

One of these parties has been working since September and earning, according to his employer, an average of $24 per week; he has no children.

Schedule F.

These cases are ineligible as of this date as well as of last February; they are all working and have not been removed from the rolls.

These cases were ineligible in February and on rolls but, after inquiry of the Legislature, relinquished relief.

STANISLAUS COUNTY.

Group A.

Under this classification are listed those who were completely eligible for relief..... 65 cases

Group B.

In this classification are the borderline cases, including those having seasonal work, large families making small additional income and part-time workers..... 230 cases

Group C.

This classification includes those who have had work the year round and also those who have gone to work since February (those who have gone off the rolls should have been eliminated but there was insufficient time to permit a check of the rolls)..... 206 cases

Also included are those about whom informants stated, and personal contact confirmed, did not work when work was obtainable, and those who were found to use excessive quantities of alcohol and to have made purchases in excess of the amount consistent for a person entitled to relief.

NOTE: No attempt has been made to show the percentages because the committee has not had an opportunity to analyze the reports and likewise check the recent rolls to ascertain whether they have been dropped since April.

CITY OF GLENDALE.

When investigator called on April 17th, he seemed quite disturbed and, in a few days, removed himself from the rolls but received a check after making the down payment on the car. Credit references for car show income averaging $200 per month.

Edward A. Mar— on Louise Street operates a parking lot at night.

Hugh Je— on Acacia has a job working at nights and has always been on hand in the daytime when case-worker has called.

Jack Be— came to California in December, 1939, from Nevada, goes on relief although living with friends and goes off relief, April 30, 1940; opens a riding academy in the Glendale area.

Schedule B.

Henry Sir— of Jackson Street, dishwasher, quits job to go on unemployment insurance and also collecting relief at the same time.

Peter Per— drinks excessively, wife earns $15 per week, there are no children.

Curtis McC— purchased a 1940 Ford Mercury and paid cash, while on relief.

Michael B— of Glen Oaks Boulevard; on March 28, 1940, purchased automobile for $911; down payment was $100; monthly payments of $33.83. Wife works as practical nurse, supposed to be disabled war veteran receiving pension and is still on relief.

CITY OF SAN JOSE.

Eligible for relief-----		180 cases	60.00%
Borderline cases-----	Schedule A	42 cases	14.00%
Questionable cases-----	Schedule B	43 cases	14.33%
Wrong addresses-----	Schedule C	19 cases	6.33%
Ineligible for relief-----	Schedule D	16 cases	5.34%
		300 cases	100.00%

Schedule A.

These are cases, which require further investigation, as information discloses earnings and purchases which seem out of line for any person receiving relief.

Schedule B.

These are cases, which are ineligible as of this date, but should be checked with last relief rolls to ascertain whether they have been dropped or not.

Schedule C.

The percentage of wrong addresses in San Jose is lower than in most places, especially in larger cities. Many interesting cases are found in this classification; typical ones are listed below:

Ralph A—— on Martin Avenue, moved from this address over a year ago; buying a car at $21.65 per month and paid up contract before due date.

Chester H—— on Jackson Street moved over a year ago.

Mexican family on Julian Street; furniture in house but have been away for some time.

Joseph M—— listed at father's address on 4th Street, lives in Stockton but comes home frequently; relief given under son's name and not father's.

Most of the 19 cases have been away for months and should have been changed on rolls, if they are eligible.

Schedule D.

Information from reliable sources show these cases as either working or making substantial purchases. Typical examples:

Mrs. A—— B—— operates third class hotel on Market Street, purchased an automobile in October, 1939, and paid $400 cash and trade-in of $361, six months contract on balance at $159.46 per month and only owes one payment.

S. Ch—— working part time. In November, obtained an improvement loan on property from bank in the amount of $323 and has paid off $123 within three months.

J. Sc—— of South Autumn Street, employed steadily as baker since July, 1939, and owns property assessed in excess of $3,000 clear.

Maurice Van—— of 8th Street, employed as bank janitor for seven months at $100 per month.

George Em—— is a painting contractor, credit accounts showing that he is doing a fair business, has a contractor's license.

"CAREER CASES."

It is interesting to note the number of the cases in different localities involving "career relievers," or persons who have received relief continuously for 18 months.

(In addition to these 1,433 continuous cases, Alameda County has 682 "career cases" that have been intermittently on the rolls since 1934 and 1935.)

Report of Assembly Revenue and Taxation Fact-Finding Committee

Ordered Printed in the Journal.

On motion of Mr. Turner, the following report of the Assembly Revenue and Taxation Fact-Finding Committee was ordered printed in the Journal:

Report of Assembly Revenue and Taxation Fact-Finding Committee.

In accordance with House Resolution No. 67 adopted on February 24, 1940, your Revenue and Taxation Fact-Finding Committee has made a general study of the State's finances, with particular reference to the need for new taxes, and herewith submits a report on its findings:

Hearings were held in Sacramento, Los Angeles and San Francisco, and on these occasions State officials and private citizens were requested to appear or were given an opportunity to provide voluntarily the committee with information bearing on the subject of our inquiry. In addition to this testimony we examined various published reports on State finance and business trends and studied sundry material submitted by the tax administering agencies of State government. In order to facilitate the work of the committee, four subcommittees were created for the purpose of studying special phases of our investigation, namely, (1) State budgetary procedure, (2) motor transportation taxes, (3) possible new sources of State revenue, with particular reference to a tax on carbonated beverages and a tax on telephone service, and (4) the unemployment insurance tax.

The findings of these subcommittees accompany this report.

Trend of State Tax Burden.

Inasmuch as the primary purpose of this committee is to inquire into the necessity for new State taxes, we deem it desirable to comment on the past trend of the State tax burden. In the fiscal year 1929-1930 immediately preceding the depression, State tax collections in California amounted to $103,686,036, or $18.26 per citizen. In 1938-1939, ten years later, State tax collections amounted to $311,850,709, or $44.93 per citizen, the highest of any State in the Union. Thus we find that the State tax burden has more than trebled in the past ten years, which fact alone constitutes a warning signal to those who advocate still higher State taxes. These figures, taken from the records of the State Controller, are set forth in the following tabulation:

California State Tax Collections.

Fiscal Year	Total Collections	Per Capita Collections
1929-30 -----	$103,686,036	$18 26
1930-31 -----	112,591,933	19 39
1931-32 -----	102,154,698	17 28

Although the increase in the State tax burden has been alarmingly rapid, we can not pass by this subject without commenting on the causes. In 1933, by a vote of the people, some $40,000,000 a year in school costs was transferred from the counties to the State. In 1935 the State began making heavy appropriations out of current revenue for unemployment relief. At the same time, California, along with the other States of the Union, adopted a system of unemployment insurance financed out of payroll taxes. Finally the State extended its humanitarian activities with particular reference to old age security, but this was done in response to a widespread popular demand.

Thus we find that a large portion of the increased cost of State government has been due to causes generally beyond legislative control. This does not alter the fact, however, that in trebling the expenditures of State government, an unduly heavy tax burden has been placed on the shoulders of our citizens and somewhere a saturation point will be reached beyond which we can not go.

It is the belief of this committee that the saturation point has been reached and that the imposition of additional taxes would prove disastrous to the well-being of the people as a whole, and devastating to the economic security of the State of California.

Effect of Additional Taxation on Industry and Employment.

Roughly, 85 per cent of the State tax burden falls on business or on business transactions. In so far as this burden falls directly on business, it tends to impair or destroy the incentive to expand operations and employ more people. In so far as the burden falls on business transactions, it tends to slow down business activity. Thus it would appear that if we are to encourage industry to expand, attracting capital into new fields of endeavor, we must refrain from taking too great a share of the fruits of industry's labor through taxation.

This committee is of the firm opinion that unemployment can not be permanently reduced until industry is encouraged to provide more jobs. As industry expands and provides more jobs, under the stimulus of more moderate taxation, the need for additional taxes to finance relief, as well as unemployment insurance, will be lessened and the State budget automatically will be brought into balance.

In connection with the ability of business to pay more taxes, as is proposed by the Governor, your committee was advised by the Franchise Tax Commissioner that of some 27,000 active corporations now doing business in California, but 10,500 last year paid an income tax to the State. The others are not making a profit or are operating at a loss, which obviously is a bad situation so far as additional employment is concerned. To remedy this condition, the tax burden should be reduced rather than increased. It would appear, therefore, that the greatest good to the greatest number should come from a reduction in governmental spending and a corresponding curtailment in tax levies—Federal, State and local. While this committee can not speak for the Federal Government or for the several thousand local governments in California, we can comment on what the State government can do about the problem of taxation.

Need for New State Taxes.

In 1939, the Governor recommended to the Legislature that it levy $63,900,000 in new or increased State taxes. All these proposals, except a gift tax yielding about $1,000,000 a biennium, were rejected. In January, 1940, the Governor recommended the enactment of a similar tax program, estimated to produce some $50,000,000 during the remainder of this biennium. All these bills are still pending in legislative committee. In asking for these new taxes, the Governor has stated that additional income is required to finance unemployment relief and to reduce the accumulated deficit, which on last June 30 amounted to $38,711,000.

After studying the financial requirements of the State, we are of the opinion that the need for new taxes does not exist and that the present tax system is capable of taking care of the State's immediate requirements if economy is practiced in the spending of State money.

Effect of Reduced Relief Appropriation.

On December 15, 1939, the State Department of Finance published a budget summary containing revised estimates of expenditure requirements and revenues, which, taking into account the beginning deficit of $38,711,000, pointed to an ending deficit on June 30, 1941, of $96,022,000. This figure, however, was computed on the assumption that the Legislature would appropriate an additional $77,000,000 for relief, which would bring the biennial total for relief up to $112,525,000. To date three relief appropriations have been made, one in June, 1939, for $35,525,000, one in February, 1940, for $1,600,000, and a third also in February, 1940, for $12,200,000. This makes a total relief appropriation to date of $49,325,000.

Because of economies now being effected in the administration of relief as the result of legislative action taken in February, it appears that some $32,000,000 will be sufficient to take care of this function during the remaining thirteen months of this biennium. Thus the biennial total relief cost would be $81,325,000 instead of $112,525,000 as suggested by the Administration and the Department of Finance last December, making a saving of approximately $31,000,000. This saving in relief spending should drop the anticipated $96,000,000 deficit to approximately $65,000,000, which includes the old deficit carried over from the preceding biennium. This large saving in relief spending, which is coming about as the result of better business conditions and the elimination of relief abuses, has gone a long way in solving the State's financial difficulties.

We can not pass by this subject without commenting on what the deficit situation today might have been had the Governor effected economies in the administration of relief at the beginning of the biennium instead of waiting until the Legislature forced them upon him. Had these economies, which resulted primarily in eliminating undeserving relief recipients from the relief rolls, been effected from July, 1939, the $35,525,000 relief appropriation of last June might have lasted a year instead of but eight months and the deficit might have been as much as $12,000,000 less than it is today.

Accuracy of Revenue Estimates.

It is impossible to determine in advance just how much money can be expected from the existing tax system. The State's fiscal officers attempt to guess the yield two years in advance and they use their best judgment, based on experience and statistical data. To be on the safe side, however, they endeavor to be conservative in their estimates, which leads us to believe that the existing tax system may produce more income than has been indicated in official revenue estimates.

In January, 1939, when the State budget was submitted to the Legislature, the Department of Finance estimated that General Fund revenues during this biennium would approximate $343,965,000, or 1.5 per cent more than was actually collected during the preceding biennium. In December, 1939, the department revised its estimates upward, indicating that it expected a yield of $351,487,000, or 3.7 per cent more than was actually collected during the preceding biennium.

With a steady upward trend in population of nearly 5 per cent a biennium and an evident upward trend in business activity, we are mindful of the possibility of a greater yield than has been indicated by the Department of Finance. While business experienced a minor setback during the first three months of this calendar year, the general level is considerably above a year ago and the trend is definitely upward. We cite, for example, that sales tax collections in this quarter to date indicate an increase of over 10 per cent above the same period a year ago, and several other State taxes are likewise showing a correspondingly higher yield.

Although we can not prove the accuracy of the official revenue estimates, it is obvious that they are conservative. Rather than levy new taxes on the assumption that the existing tax system will produce no more than the State's fiscal officers predict, and further considering the possible damage to our economic structure which might result from increased taxes, we believe that it would be safe to predict a greater yield than has been officially predicted. If General Fund revenues during the present biennium were as much as 10 per cent higher than last biennium, the treasury would receive approximately $20,000,000 more than the Department of Finance estimates it will receive. If this proved to be true, and no one will know until the end of the biennium, the General Fund deficit would be further reduced, possibly to the neighborhood of $50,000,000.

Effect of Reverted Appropriations.

A further reduction in the deficit figure may be expected from unexpended balances in existing appropriations which will revert to the treasury at the end of the biennium. It seldom happens that every dollar appropriated is finally spent. Through the cooperation of State administrative officials it should be possible to conserve money out of existing appropriations and allow this saving to apply to the deficit. Instances have come to the attention of this committee where money is being spent for needless new jobs and for unnecessary purposes. (See Report Assembly Committee on Governmental Efficiency and Economy.) If the officials charged with administering the various State departments are made to realize that additional taxation would not be welcomed by the taxpaying public and that retrenchment in public spending is expected, they could do much to relieve the State's financial difficulties.

While it is impossible to determine exactly just how much could be saved out of existing appropriations, we are of the opinion that the deficit could in this way be reduced several million dollars in addition to the reduction caused by economy in the administration of unemployment relief.

Need for Stricter Budgetary Control.

In connection with solving the State's financial difficulties, this committee believes that serious attention should be given to the matter of budgetary control. Levying taxes and appropriating money are functions reserved to the Legislature, but the actual spending of the money is handled by the various administrative departments. In submitting our findings on the general question of providing the necessary revenue to meet the State's expenditure requirements, we have found that one of the weak spots in the State's fiscal structure is that of budgetary control.

If the Legislature were by statute to place certain safeguards around the spending of State money we are confident that the savings would amount to millions. This naturally has a bearing on the question of reducing the deficit and balancing the budget.

In a separate section of this report we are submitting for your consideration certain findings and recommendations on the all-important subject of budgetary control and we commend them to the attention of the Legislature for their consideration in the regular session in 1941.

In this connection it is only fair to state that the evils in connection with budgetary control, or the lack of it, did not first arise with the present administration; this administration merely continued the practices with even greater objections. The evils have grown up over a period of years since the adoption of the present law concerning the budget bill, or the manner of drafting the budget. As pointed out in the Subcommittee Report on Budgetary Control, prior to the adoption of the present form of the budget bill, appropriations were made for specific purposes, and not in the blanket method they are now. That is to say, instead of one, blanket appropriation for the entire support of the department, specific enumerations were made for each necessary item of expense, thus preventing many of the evils now indulged in, such as, the transferring or juggling of funds.

These objectionable practices, in fairness to the present administration, have not come, as stated before, solely with the present administration, they grew up through several administrations, and, as above pointed out, the present administration merely continued such evil practices. We refer to the Subcommittee Report on Budgetary Control for a more extensive report on this subject.

Size of State Deficit.

Some people view with alarm the size of the State deficit. While it is always desirable for the State or any other governmental agency to live within its income, the accumulation of this deficit is not due to extravagance in the true sense of the word. It is the result of an emergency arising out of the business depression, over which we have little control.

It, undoubtedly, need not have been so great had economies been applied to the spending of relief money earlier than February, 1940, but through legislative investigation we have learned how better to gauge relief requirements and henceforth we can expect better control over this item of expense. The question at this moment is not why the deficit, but rather what to do about it.

With a State having an assessed valuation of over $7,000,000,000, and with a biennial State budget of more than $500,000,000, a $50,000,000 deficit is certainly not a sign of a weak financial structure.

There is a ready market for the State's registered warrants and the current interest rate is but  $2\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. Thus it would appear that the deficit is not unduly large and that there is no immediate need for raising taxes to liquidate it, especially in view of very evident present reductions in certain expenditures regulated by the Legislature, which will materially reduce the amount of our actual deficit by the end of the biennium.

Market for Registered Warrants.

At a hearing in San Francisco, this committee called in representatives of several financial institutions and questioned them concerning their attitude toward the purchase of the State's registered warrants. They advised the committee that they would continue to buy these warrants without hesitation providing the Legislature continued its present demand for economies in government.

It was their opinion that the size of the deficit or the volume of registered warrants outstanding at any given time was not as important as the trend of State expenditures and revenue yield.

If through legislative action the State slowed up its spending and gave signs of living within its current income, they felt the State's credit would not be endangered by allowing the present deficit to be carried along temporarily.

These financial representatives estimated the deficit at varying amounts from $50,000,000 to $75,000,000, but if the deficit reached the maximum anticipated they expressed their confidence in our State fiscal structure and as an expression of this confidence pledged themselves to continue to purchase registered warrants.

Attention is directed to what might happen if the State turned its back on economy and chose to continue reckless spending for relief and other purposes. The gap between existing income and outgo would grow greater and financial institutions would be quick to withdraw their support unless new taxes were levied. But with public opposition to new taxes, and with the knowledge that new taxes would retard business recovery and in turn add to unemployment, it is incumbent upon the State to do all in its power to live within its existing income.

No Present Need for New Taxes.

With respect to the general question of the need for new taxes, we are of the opinion that through economy in relief and in general government, the State deficit can be kept within reasonable bounds. There is also an indication that the existing tax system will produce more income than has been officially predicted, which will correspondingly reduce the deficit. Finally, we are of the opinion that the size of the present deficit is not sufficiently alarming to necessitate additional taxes at this time.

This committee recommends, therefore, that action on new taxes be deferred until the regular session of the Legislature in 1941, at which time we believe that it will be demonstrated that they can be permanently avoided.

Subcommittee Report on Budgetary Control.

To the Honorable, the Assembly Interim Committee on Revenue and Taxation.

ATTENTION: Rodney L. Turner, Chairman.

There has been a tendency in recent years toward laxity in the administration of the State budget. Too much emphasis has been placed on levying taxes and appropriating money, while too little attention has been given to the methods used in the actual spending of the money. Although your subcommittee has not had time to go into the question of budgetary control and procedure in detail, we herewith set forth certain observations we have made, together with suggestions as to how we think the budget setup can be strengthened. We firmly believe that through tightening budgetary control, millions of dollars of the taxpayers' money can be saved; and we mean millions.

Specify Purposes of Budget Bill Appropriations.

It has been the practice in the past to provide for the support of the various departments of the State through blanket appropriations contained in the budget bill, without regard to what the money is to be used for specifically. The 1939 budget bill contained such items as "For the support of the Department of Motor Vehicles $12,000,000," "For the support of the Department of Finance $1,700,000." Once an appropriation of this kind is made, the specified amount of money is allotted to the particular department to spend under the general supervision of the Department of Finance, and the Legislature doesn't know what the money is used for until two years later when the succeeding budget sets forth the actual expenditures of the preceding biennium.

In order to place a greater degree of legislative control over budget bill appropriations, we recommend that the budget bill henceforth specify in detail just what the money appropriated is to be used for, and that a prohibition be placed in this bill against juggling funds around to suit the fancy of the disbursing agencies.

Designate Proposed New Positions in Budget Bill.

We have observed that in the past it has been customary for the Department of Finance to set forth in the printed budget the names of proposed new positions, but we have further observed that as soon as the Legislature appropriates the money for the support of the various State departments, the printed budget is forgotten and new positions are created at will, as long as the money lasts. For example, when the Department of Finance set up its own departmental support request in the printed budget in 1939, it indicated 108 proposed new positions, but the Legislature cut the budget of this department by $325,000 or enough, in its opinion, to eliminate salary increases and most of the new jobs. Up to April 1, 1940, according to the records of the State Personnel Board, the Department of Finance created 110 new jobs in its own department. Thus we ask, who is the master of appropriations, the Legislature as stated in the Constitution or the Department of Finance?

We recommend that all proposed new positions in the various State departments be set forth in the budget bill as well as in the printed budget and that the creation of these new jobs be governed by the budget bill.

Specify Purposes of Special Appropriations.

Through what appears to be the result of clever bill drafting by the Department of Finance, we have noticed that the Legislature has on several occasions made appropriations in the form of signed checks with the amounts left blank. We refer to the practice of appropriating money for flood relief, construction, and other similar purposes with no strings attached. We recall that in 1938 the Legislature appropriated $5,000,000 to the emergency fund for flood relief, that a large portion of this money was diverted by the Department of Finance to purposes entirely foreign to flood relief and that the money was in some instances dished out where it would do the most good politically and not where the greatest damage existed. We recalled that some $4,500,000 on the unified construction fund of 1937 was diverted from institutional purposes, where it was intended to relieve overcrowded conditions, to other purposes.

We recommend that hereafter the Legislative Counsel be instructed to re-phrase all departmental appropriation bills so that legislative will and intent shall be declared in the text of the bill.

Restrict Use of Emergency Fund Money.

During each regular session of the Legislature, there is included in the budget bill an appropriation to constitute an emergency fund which is designed to take care of needs of an emergency character that can not easily be anticipated in advance. The allocation of this fund, which in the current budget amounts to $1,750,000, is handled by the Department of Finance. Many abuses have developed in this regard and we cite but a few of many that have come to our attention. During the latter part of the Merriam administration and early part of the Olson administration large sums of money were transferred from the emergency fund to the Governor's report and secret service funds, although no evidence exists that any emergency was involved in either case. We have further observed that last June a large sum of emergency fund money was transferred to the unified construction fund where it was used for such purposes as the construction of an Indian Museum at Sutter's Fort, costing $30,000, and the remodeling and refurnishing of the Governor's Office at a cost of approximately $60,000. Emergency fund money was used to buy an automobile for the incumbent Director of Penology and to add several unneeded persons to the pay roll of the Lieutenant Governor. Yet in no instance was there any evidence of an emergency.

In order to correct some of the emergency fund abuses and still preserve the purposes for which this appropriation is intended, we recommend that (1) the Controller approve all allocations from this fund, as well as the Department of Finance, (2) the word "emergency" be more clearly defined in the budget bill and (3) the appropriation for this purpose be greatly reduced hereafter, with the understanding that the Legislature be called into special session to appropriate money in the event of any serious emergency.

Prohibit Deficiency Appropriations.

Under existing law the Department of Finance may increase the appropriations made by the Legislature for the support of special fund functions without subsequent legislative approval. We note for example that the special fund budget cuts which the Legislature so carefully made in the 1939 regular session were meaningless, for in most cases they have been restored by the Department of Finance under the deficiency appropriation rule.

We strongly recommend that that section of the law authorizing special fund deficiency appropriations be repealed at the next session of the Legislature and that special funds be required to live within the appropriations fixed in the budget bill.

With respect to the general fund, we find that the Department of Finance is authorized to give the various departments permission to exhaust their appropriations in advance of the end of the biennium. This is done with the understanding that the Legislature, meeting in regular session several months before the expiration of the biennium, will appropriate an additional sum necessary to make up for the previously authorized over-spending.

We recommend that all general fund departments be required to live within their budget and that they spread their appropriations over the full twenty-four months of the biennium so as to preclude the necessity for deficiency appropriations.

Post Auditing of Expenditure Accounts.

The post auditing of expenditure accounts is handled by the Department of Finance, which in effect means that the Governor audits his own expenditures. The Legislature appropriates money for the various departments, most of which are under the direct control of the Governor. Then the Department of Finance, also controlled by the Governor, audits all expenditures. This system of self-audit is not auditing in the true sense and in many respects is a waste of State money.

We recommend that the post auditing of expenditures accounts be handled by the State Controller, who is a constitutional officer entirely independent of the administrative departments.

Legislative Budget Bureau.

Time and space do not permit a recitation of the many instances where the Legislature has been given misleading or incorrect information concerning the operations of the various departments. The principal offender has been the Department of Finance, where the staff includes a number of budget troopers who know all the tricks of the trade and who have no compunction about deceiving the Legislature and then laughing heartily when adjournment day comes.

It is recalled that in 1939 a deficiency appropriation amounting to $478,865 was rushed through the Legislature at the request of the Department of Finance, it being stated that it was for fire suppression in the Department of Natural Resources. Considering the amount set up in the budget two years before plus the amount transferred from the emergency fund, and comparing this with the amount the new budget stated had actually been spent for fire suppression, the actual deficiency amounted to approximately $133,000. The rest of the so-called deficiency appropriation was for the regular support of the department.

We further find that although the Legislature was told that the budget cuts of last spring would seriously injure those departments affected, things are running smoothly in Sacramento and the departments are making out in fine shape. In fact many of them are adding new employees in considerable numbers. We can think of no explanation for this apparent contentment and financial well-being unless these departments have a source of income unknown to us and unless their budgets were padded sufficiently to cover up the cuts.

In view of the fact that the final decision on appropriations rests with the Legislature we believe that the body is entitled to reliable information upon which to base its actions. We recommend, therefore, that the Legislature appoint a budget officer, together with the necessary number of assistants, to constitute a part of the Legislative Counsel's office, and that the duties of this office shall be to study the State budget while it is being constructed by the Department of Finance and to report his findings to the Legislature at the time the budget is submitted. Through this independent officer it is hoped the Legislature might have more reliable information on the financial operations of the various departments.

CONCLUSIONS.

We are of the opinion that the Legislature should restore to itself much of the power it has so generously delegated to the Department of Finance; and we are confident that in placing greater restrictions on the spending of State money the tax burden can be eased and the efficiency of State Government be enhanced. We believe that if the budgetary control above recommended is enacted into law, it will greatly help in solving the question of balancing the budget without further taxation.

We strongly recommend vigilance on the part of the members of both houses with regard to concurring in amendments proposed by the other house to the budget bill. We recommend greater vigilance on the part of both houses in the matter of adopting free conference reports. A perusal of the last budget bill shows that many of the cuts or reductions made by both houses finally found their way back into the bill under the guiding hands of certain State officials more interested in larger appropriations than in governmental economy.

Respectfully submitted.

Subcommittee Report of Assembly Revenue and Taxation Fact-Finding Committee by Assemblyman Ernest O. Voigt, Chairman.

Report of Subcommittee on Motor Vehicle Taxation of the Assembly Revenue and Taxation Fact-Finding Committee.

The meeting of the Subcommittee on Motor Vehicle Taxation of the Assembly Revenue and Taxation Fact-Finding Committee, held Wednesday, May 1, 1940, at 10 a.m. in Room 1006 of the State Building in Los Angeles, California, was called to order by Chairman Ernest O. Voigt. The following members were present:

Assemblyman Ernest O. Voigt, Chairman;

Assemblyman Rodney L. Turner;

Assemblyman Frank J. Waters, Jr.;

Assemblyman Gerald C. Kepple.

The committee opened its hearing at which were present a large number of representatives of corporations and associations interested in motor vehicle taxation, particularly as applied to commercial vehicles. The following were present representing highway carriers:

Mr. Charles G. Anthony, vice president Pacific Freight Lines, The Keystone Express System and the Pacific Tank Lines;

Mr. H. J. Mize, representing Lang Transportation Corporation;

Mr. Richard E. Cantlay, representing Cantlay & Tanzola and Western Truck Lines;

Mr. David G. Shearer, representing The Council of Trucking Associations;

Mr. Stewart Russell, representing the Motor Truck Association of Southern California;

Mr. Henry Kearney, representing League of Highway Carriers, Certificated Movers, California Movers and United Independent Vans;

Mr. P. Arnold Anderson, representing Private Truck Owners' Bureau of California;

Mr. Ralph H. Taylor, representing Agricultural Council of California.

Also presenting testimony for the committee were:

Mr. Harold D. Abbot, representing State Board of Equalization;

Mr. Joseph Mattson, Director of the Department of Motor Vehicles;

Mr. Robert G. Craig, representing the Gas Tax Division of the Board of Equalization.

From the testimony taken and statements submitted at the hearing it appeared to the committee that the main cause for complaint and dissatisfaction was the 3 per cent tax on gross receipts levied on carriers for hire which was alleged to be unfair and discriminatory in that it levied an extra burden of taxation upon a relatively small group of highway users who were also subject to all other gas tax and weight fees paid by those who are not subject to the 3 per cent tax. Evidence was also presented to show that the cost of collection of this tax is exorbitantly high compared to other forms of motor vehicle taxation, for instance, the total amount collected under the 3 per cent tax averaged about $5,000,000 per biennium and the cost of collection, according to the statements of the representatives of the Board of Equalization, is about $500,000, or 10 per cent.

Various methods and measures for equalizing the taxation burden on motor vehicles used for commercial purposes were suggested and are contained in the transcript of the testimonies, statements submitted by the representatives of the trucking industry and other addendum which is attached to and made a part of the report.

The subcommittee, while recommending no immediate changes until the 1941 session, submits the information contained in this report for the study and consideration of the Fifty-fourth Session of the California Legislature.

Respectfully submitted.

Report of Interim Subcommittee on Revenue and Taxation.
Concerning Soft Drink Taxes.

Hearings were held by the committee on the question as to the matter of the tax problem in the soft drink business in this State. The conditions of the State finances made such investigation necessary and the soft drink business, particularly the carbonated water and beverage part thereof as well as the part which is familiarly referred to as "mixers" readily suggested itself as similar to the position occupied in the tax picture by alcoholic beverages.

Investigation was made of conditions existing in other States and it was found that the soft drink industry does carry a privilege tax in the States of South Carolina, Alabama, Louisiana, Georgia, Oregon and Tennessee.

It would appear that in the States last referred to and wherein revenue is raised by a tax on soft drinks the method of tax may be divided into several categories. Included within one of these categories is the type of tax which imposes a license fee for the engaging in named activities, the amount of the fee being fixed or graduated on a basis of the volume of sales, population of the city where the licensee operates, nature of the equipment used, etc. Another category imposes a privilege tax, the fee being based on the volume of materials used in the preparing of soda fountain drinks, or on the retail price of all bottled soft drinks manufactured or sold, this tax generally using the mechanism of affixing stamp or bottle crowns to enforce collection.

In South Carolina collections of more than one million dollars tax annually constitute between 3 and 4 per cent of all State revenues. The tax in South Carolina is 1 per cent for each 5 cents of retail price on soft drinks and 76 cents a gallon on soft drink syrups.

California's Soft Drink Industry.

The United States 1937 census of commerce indicates the following condition with reference to the soft drink industry and the amount of business done by such industry.

That report shows an annual sale as follows and of the following value:

384,647,516	6-oz. to 16-oz. bottles @ 5¢	$19,232,375 80
33,978,324	24-oz. to 32-oz. bottles @ 10¢	3,397,208 40
Total		$22,630,208 20

In addition to the above it must be recognized that a large amount of carbonated beverages are sold in fountains where syrups are mixed on order with carbonated waters. During the hearing of the committee representatives of the soft drink industry suggested that at least 225,-000,000 soft drinks of a value of at least $12,000,000 are annually served at fountains in California which drinks are mixed from syrups. If we consider the above bottle sales in addition to the fountain sales we find the industry represents the following annual business:

Bottle sales	$22,630,208 20
Fountain sales	12,209,923 70
Total	$34,840,131 90

Certain computations were made by the committee based upon various suggested tax bases and upon the annual business shown as done by the industry with the following results of possible taxes, to wit:

(a) Tax of 1/10¢ per bottle on bottles of 6 to 12 ounces; 3/8¢ per bottle on bottles of 16 ounces; 3/10¢ per bottle on bottles of 24 ounces and over; and 12.8¢ per gallon on syrups used in the production of fountain drinks-----	$700,000
(b) Tax of 1/4¢ per bottle on bottles of 6 to 12 oz.; 1/4¢ per bottle of 16 oz.; 3/4¢ per bottle of 24 oz., or over; and 32¢ per gallon on syrup used in making fountain drinks-----	1,750,000
(c) Tax of 3/4¢ per bottle on bottles of 6 to 12 oz.; 3/4¢ per bottle of 16 oz.; and 1¢ per bottle of 24 oz., or over; and 42.6¢ per gallon on syrup used in making fountain drinks-----	2,350,000
(d) Tax of 1¢ per bottle on bottles of 6 oz. to 12 oz.; 2¢ per bottle of 16 oz.; and 3¢ per bottle of 24 oz., or over; and $1.28 per gallon on syrup used in making fountain drinks-----	7,100,000

The above is submitted to the Legislature for its consideration in connection with the matter of the taxation problem.

Subcommittee Report on Unemployment Insurance.

Realizing that unemployment insurance imposes a tax burden of some $75,000,000 a year on employers and employees in this State and that there has been widespread dissatisfaction with the manner in which the law is being administered, your subcommittee endeavored to make an investigation of this subject and report back to you its findings.

We were immediately confronted with a task so gigantic that it was soon apparent that time did not permit a satisfactory and complete investigation. Our inquiry of necessity had to be superficial and we were unable to do any more than scratch the surface of this important subject. We went far enough, however, to discover a situation that is greatly in need of correction, in view of the numerous complaints made by witnesses against the failure of the State Employment Service to properly function in the interests of employers and employees, as well as complaints concerning the payment of benefits. We did not have time to question the commission or the present Administrator and, therefore, do not feel free to state that these criticisms are entirely justified, but not only is it apparent that the Unemployment Insurance Act is being administered quite differently than its legislative supporters contemplated, but it is evident that the law itself is in need of numerous corrective amendments.

We recommend that this committee or a similar committee be authorized to go into this subject in detail, with the view of recommending changes in the law which will lead to a more equitable unemployment insurance system in California. This investigation should be started as soon as possible so that the results of the study may be ready for legislative consideration in January, 1941.

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, DEPARTMENT OF FINANCE,
DIVISION OF BUDGETS AND ACCOUNTS,

SACRAMENTO, April 24, 1940.

*Honorable Charles W. Lyon, Member of the Assembly, 1052 South Redondo Boulevard,
Los Angeles, California.*

DEAR MR. LYON: At your request this department recently sent you a copy of material we had collected regarding the carbonated beverage industry in California and our estimates of revenue which might be derived from a soft drink tax in this State. We should like to supplement this with other material received since our preliminary estimates were prepared.

First, in making our estimates of possible revenue we assumed that approximately 70 per cent of all carbonated beverages were sold in bottles and 30 per cent as fountain drinks. We are informed that this ratio may run as high as 50 per cent bottled and 50 per cent fountain drinks, and that a ratio of 65 per cent to 35 per cent would undoubtedly be more accurate than the division which we used.

Second, we allowed for a 15 per cent loss in revenue due to evasion of the tax. This percentage was determined by applying the method used in estimating potential revenue in California to data on production of bottled beverages in South Carolina and Louisiana and comparing the theoretically potential revenue thus computed with actual revenue reported by these states in 1937 and 1938. Apparently a part of the difference between the computed total and actual collections may be due to the discounts which these states allow in selling tax crowns and stamps. We are informed by the South Carolina Tax Commission that there is practically no evasion of the tax on bottled drinks and that evasion of the tax on fountain beverages is not great. It seems, therefore, that we may disregard this factor in estimating the amount of tax.

Giving effect to these two changes we submit the following revised estimates of annual revenue under the four assumed rate schedules:

- |  |             |
|--|-------------|
| (a) Tax of 1/10 cent per bottle on bottles of 6 to 12 ounces; 1/5 cent per bottle on bottles of 16 ounces; 3/10 cent per bottle on bottles of 24 ounces and over; and 12.8 cents per gallon on syrups used in the production of fountain drinks..... | $700,000   |
| (b) Tax of 1/4 cent per bottle on bottles of 6 to 12 ounces; 1/2 cent per bottle of 16 ounces; 3/4 cent per bottle of 24 ounces, or over; and 32 cents per gallon on syrup used in making fountain drinks.....                                       | $1,750,000 |
| (c) Tax of 1/3 cent per bottle on bottles of 6 to 12 ounces; 2/3 cent per bottle of 16 ounces; and 1 cent per bottle of 24 ounces, or over; and 42.6 cents per gallon on syrup used in making fountain drinks.....                                   | $2,350,000 |
| (d) Tax of 1 cent per bottle on bottles of 6 to 12 ounces; 2 cents per bottle of 16 ounces; and 3 cents per bottle of 24 ounces, or over; and $1.28 per gallon on syrup used in making fountain drinks.....   | $7,100,000 |

You will no doubt notice that estimates (a) and (b) agree quite satisfactorily with similar estimates submitted to your committee by representatives of the carbonated beverage industry.

We appreciate this opportunity to amend the tentative estimates originally given to you.

Yours very truly,

FRED W. LINKS, Chief,
Division of Budgets and Accounts.

Transcript of Partial Testimony Given Before the Assembly Interim Subcommittee on Revenue and Taxation, Sacramento, California.

April 23, 1940.

The meeting was called to order by Chairman Lyon at 10:15 a.m. The following members were present: Messrs. Turner, Lyon and Waters.

MR. LYON: This committee was authorized to investigate into two subjects, one was the beverage tax on nonalcoholic beverages and the other, taxing gross receipts on the telephone and telegraph companies. Having that in mind, I consulted the Legislative Counsel Bureau and asked them for an opinion as to our power to make any tax on the telephone companies. I have here the opinion of the Legislative Counsel Bureau, which in effect is that we do not have the power to tax them unless we accompany the bill with a constitutional amendment ratifying our action, which would have to be put to the people for a vote.

(Section 14, Article 13 of the Constitution.)

Mr. LYON read letters of opinion from the office of the Legislative Counsel, and from the Department of Finance regarding taxation of carbonated beverages.

MR. O. P. PRATT, Chairman of Revenue and Taxation Committee of Carbonated Beverages: I have made a survey based partly on the census of 1937 and a census made by me to show you that we consider the bottlers of California are bearing their full taxation. The bottlers realize the situation of the State of California, but we feel that we are not able to stand a so-called special tax. A tax would have to be passed on by the bottler to the dealer, and the dealer could not pass it on to the public because it would ruin the industry. I claim the State is getting in two million and a quarter from the industry right now. My point on this is, "Mr. Bottler" of the State of California is bearing his just share of taxation at the present time. I realize that the State of California needs money, and we are not opposed to taxes that are general and where they can be absorbed. Our industry is paying its just share of taxation. If we had a tax of this kind it would work to the detriment, not only of the bottlers, but to the State of California, because it would put so many companies out of business. The bottling industry is dependent on two things; one, the cost of sugar and the other is the taxes which we have to bear.

MR. GEORGE E. SILVER, Nehi Bottler in the city of Los Angeles, President of the California State Bottlers Association: The high cost of sugar in 1918 put a great many bottlers out of business. I formerly made a profit of about  $5\frac{1}{2}$  cents on a case, but with sugar going up, it was lowered to  $2\frac{1}{4}$  cents per case. The bottler in the State of California is subject to about three months of business if all conditions are right. In that period we can come out with perhaps some profit. If I should be talked into more advertising, I will lose money on that increase of business. In other words, on account of his peak business the bottler has to maintain his overhead during those remaining eight or nine months of the year.

MR. LYON: In connection with the history of California Legislatures, there have been bills introduced to tax these beverages. It was the thought of this committee in appointing a subcommittee to get detailed information which with the stress of time facing the regular session of the Legislature, could not be permitted, so that the things we are finding out here now, the information will be preserved and put in the report to be presented to the Legislature. We are doing something here which will afford you folks interested, a greater opportunity to present your case.

MR. A. M. SELLERS, First Vice President of the State Association of Bottlers: In 1920 the government needed funds and they looked around for a place to place a tax on luxuries, so we promptly raised our price to the dealers and the dealer raised his prices to the consumer. So, in about six or eight months we got back to our old price. We would rather go out of business doing business than to go broke not doing any business. We do three times as much business in July as we do in December and we have approximately the same pay roll. I want to point out if we have to absorb this tax, our labor will have to absorb it. In the Nehi organization, the parent company is located in Columbus, Georgia. The bottler here buys his sugar and his water in California.

MR. TURNER: At the regular meeting of the Assembly Committee on Revenue and Taxation we were attempting to find out whether it was advisable to collect money for the State's revenues at parimutuels. One of the persons appearing at the committee meeting made a statement that he would have made a much better investment if he had invested his money in Coca Cola rather than Santa Anita.

MR. LYON: We are getting up pretty close to the borderline or saturation point in so far as the State deficit is concerned. Pretty soon we are going to have to have some new revenues from somewhere. We are hearing the same protests against new taxes from every source that has been suggested. Everyone who comes before our committee makes the same statement that they would like to pay their just share of the State's liabilities, but they follow immediately by stating that they can not pay any more taxes. We can and have been trying to cut down our governmental expenses, but with a growing population and a growing unemployment problem we still have a deficit that is alarming, that unless many economies in government are practiced, we will be compelled to find new sources of revenue.

It was moved and seconded the meeting adjourn at 11:40 a.m. It was so ordered.

MEMORANDUM.

In re: SOFT DRINK TAX STATUTES.

March 28, 1940.

It is the purpose of this memorandum to discuss the salient features of the statutes of the various States which tax nonalcoholic soft drinks, carbonated beverages, carbonic-acid gas, and soft drink syrups. No statute is referred to which merely imposes a sales or a use tax, which tax applies equally as well as to the sale of all other goods or commodities as well as soft drinks. Attached hereto is a chart published in the Seventh Edition of "Tax Systems of the World," page 165, which briefly portrays the taxes imposed by various States on nonalcoholic beverages and commodities entering into the manufacture thereof as of July 1, 1937.

Alabama.

(See Laws of 1919, Act 282, Sec. 361)

(a) Retailers. (Schedule 96)

(1) Each person in the business of selling at retail nonalcoholic, carbonated or other soft drinks which are kept on hand or sold in bottles is required to pay an annual license fee of $2.50.

(2) Returns and payment of tax required to be made within 3 days after the end of each quarterly period.

(3) The tax is to be paid by wholesaler if water or syrup is sold within the State by wholesaler; or by retailer, if the water or syrup is purchased by the retailer outside of the State.

Louisiana.

Both stamps and crowns subject to 5 per cent discount from tax when purchased in quantities of not less than $100.

(2) Wholesale dealer to affix stamps and stamp permit number across face of stamps within one hour of receipt of unstamped syrup or bottled drink. Retail dealers also have duty of affixing stamps to unstamped containers in their possession.

(c) Dealers.

Definition includes manufacturers and importers. Dealers divided into two classes: "Wholesale dealers" and "retail dealers," the former being those who sell to the retailer and the latter classification including all dealers other than wholesalers. Both types are required to pay an annual license fee of $5.

(b) Manufacturing and distributing soft drinks. (Sec. 197)

(1) Imposes a tax upon each person, etc., producing, bottling, and/or distributing in bottles or other closed containers named beverages, carbonated or malted beverages, and other beverages commonly known as soft drinks. Payment of tax includes the privilege of producing, selling at wholesale and retail, and also the privilege of maintaining depots for distribution.

(c) Soft drink retailers. (Sec. 198)

Imposes a tax of from $2 to $6, depending upon the classification of the city in which the retailer is located, upon soft drink retailers. An exception to this tax is where soft drinks are sold at soda fountains.

(d) Soft drink wholesalers. (Sec. 199)

Imposes a tax of $300 on wholesale dealers in soft drinks; that is, persons maintaining a depot or distributing place and not a regular store, from this depot selling at wholesale and/or jobbing or distributing.

(e) Person desiring license applies for and pays privilege tax in advance.

Oregon.

License is required to be obtained annually for each plant, and a fee is required to be paid of not less than $15 nor more than $50, the fee fixed on the basis of $1 per thousand of 24.7 ounce bottles, or their equivalent in volume when distributed in larger containers, as determined by total production and sales of the plant for the previous year.

(b) Regulatory.

This act is predominately a regulation of the manufacturing and preparation for sale of nonalcoholic beverages, the sanitary features far out-shadowing the revenue provisions.

South Carolina.

(Acts 1928, No. 574)

(a) Syrups. (Sec. 12 (a))

(1) Defines syrups as basic ingredient used in the making of drinks at soda fountains and imposes a privilege tax for the purpose of carrying on the business of selling soft drinks, the tax to be paid on the basis of 76 cents per gallon of syrup, including both compounded syrups and simple syrups; that is, syrups made of sugar and water, or sugar, water and concentrates.

(2) Retailers in soft drinks to affix stamps to original syrup containers as evidence of tax payment when syrups used at soda fountains. Affixing must be done within twenty-four hours after retailer receives syrups, and container must be stamped before syrups used.

(3) This tax does not apply to syrups used by bottlers in the manufacturing of soft drinks.

(b) Bottled drinks. (Sec. 12 (b))

(1) Levies tax on privilege of engaging in the business of bottling drinks, the license tax to be paid in the amount of 1 cent for every 5 cents or fraction thereof of the retail sales price.

(2) All bottled drinks within twenty-four hours after manufacture, or on receipt into State, to be stamped. If bottled drinks manufactured within the State, then manufacturer is required to affix the stamps. If bottled drinks are brought into the State, then the wholesaler, jobber, distributor or retailer first obtaining possession is required to affix tax stamps.

(3) Crowns instead of tax stamps permitted to be used, the price of the crowns to be the tax, manufacturing price, and transportation cost.

(c) Non-syrup drinks. (Sec. 13)

On all soft drinks manufactured or sold in the State, which are not made with syrup, taxes are to be collected at the rate of 1 cent for each 5 cents of the retail selling price, and a tax commission is given the discretion to dispense with stamps and crowns and to require a return to be made of sales and a tax to be paid thereon.

(d) Discounts. (12c, 12d)

Both stamps and crowns are to be sold at a discount of up to 10 per cent of the tax upon the purchase of more than one hundred gross crowns or upon the purchase of $100 or more stamps.

(e) Reports.

Persons engaged in business to keep complete records, and from these records, the tax commission is to compute the number of soft drinks that are ordinarily manufactured, which computation is to be prima facie evidence of the sale thereof.

(f) Exemption. (Act 1939, No. 346, §96)

Exempts fruit and vegetable juices, with the exception of juices to which are added artificial coloring, artificial flavoring, or to which are added any preservative or carbonic-acid.

Tennessee.

(Public Acts 1929, Ch. 92)

(a) Liquid Carbonic-Acid Gas Tax.

Imposes a privilege tax upon the sale or use of liquid carbonic-acid at the rate of 5 cents per pound.

(b) Distributors and dealers.

Divides persons into distributors (persons manufacturing or shipping into the State and making original sale within the State) and dealers (persons who are not distributors but who use acid in making soft drinks as an incident to their business). Distributors are required to pay the carbonic-acid gas tax unless the gas came from without the State and did not previously come to rest within the State; in the latter event, the dealer is required to pay the tax.

(c) Payments.

Payments are to be made in monthly installments, and complete reports are to be furnished each month. Interest at the rate of 6 per cent per annum is due on any tax which is not paid when due. In addition, a penalty of 1 per cent per day, up to 50 per cent maximum, is imposed for the failure to pay the tax when due.

The following States have malt and malt beverage tax acts which are of interest to this study:

Arizona	(Session Laws of 1939, Ch. 76, p. 218)
Arkansas	(1937 Digest of Statutes, Secs. 13409, et seq.)
Idaho	(Special Session Laws of 1933, Ch. 17)
Indiana	(Acts 1939, Ch. 30; amending 1935 Acts, Baldwin's Indiana Statutes Service, Secs. 3764-1 to 3764-44)
Michigan	(Public Acts, 1931, No. 100)
Ohio	(Throckmorton's Ohio Code—1936; Ch. 9E, Secs. 5545-1 to 5545-20)
South Dakota	(Session Laws, 1929, Ch. 245)
Tennessee	(Public Acts 1929, Ch. 67)
Utah	(Laws 1933, Ch. 63)

It would appear that the acts referred to in this memorandum which raise revenue by the taxing of soft drinks may be divided into several categories. Included within one of these categories is the type of tax which imposes a license fee for the engaging in named activities, the amount of the fee being fixed or graduated on a basis of the volume of sales, population of the city where the licensee operates, nature of the equipment used, etc. Another category imposes a privilege tax, the fee being based on the volume of materials used in the preparing of soda fountain drinks, or on the retail price of all bottled soft drinks manufactured or sold, this tax generally using the mechanism of affixing stamp or bottle crowns to enforce collection.

Pertinent to this memorandum is the following News Bulletin of the Public Administration Clearing House, released for February 4, 1939, summarizing the yield of the soft drink taxes of South Carolina, Alabama, Louisiana, Georgia and Tennessee. The laws of all these States have been previously commented upon in this memorandum.

"Five States Collect Nearly $6,000,000 in Four Years from Soft Drink Taxes.

Soft drink taxes yielded nearly $6,000,000 to the five States imposing them during the four-year period of 1934-37, a Federation of Tax Administrators' report showed today. The States are South Carolina, Alabama, Louisiana, Georgia and Tennessee.

In South Carolina, which accounted for 74 per cent of the total, collections of more than one million dollars annually constitute between three and four per cent of all State revenues. This State's tax is 1 per cent for each 5 cents of retail price on soft drinks and 76 cents a gallon on soft drink syrups.

In Louisiana, the soft drink tax revenue averages $250,000 annually or approximately one-half of 1 per cent of all State revenues. The tax is levied at a rate of one-fourth cent on each 5 cents of retail price on soft drinks, 8 cents per pound on carbonic-acid gas, and 20 cents per gallon on soft drink syrups.

Georgia, taxing carbonated water, carbonic-acid gas, soft drinks and soft drink syrups, collects about $60,000 annually. Tennessee and Alabama tax only carbonic-acid gas, their annual collections averaging around $65,000 and $25,000 respectively."

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, OFFICE OF LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL,
SACRAMENTO, CALIFORNIA, April 22, 1940.

Honorable Charles W. Lyon, Chairman,
Subcommittee on Telephone Companies and
Carbonated Beverages of the Assembly
Revenue and Taxation Committee,
State Capitol, Sacramento, California.
Subject: Gross Receipts Tax Upon Telephone Companies.
Request: No. 7877.

DEAR MR. LYON: You have requested that we advise you whether or not legislation may be constitutionally enacted at this special session of the Legislature, which legislation is designed to levy a gross receipts tax upon the intrastate business done by all telephone companies within the State of California. You have specifically called our attention to section 14 of Article XIII of the California Constitution and have requested that we consider the constitutionality of such gross receipts tax in light of the provisions contained in this section of the Constitution.

It is our opinion that section 14 of Article XIII of the Constitution would prohibit the levying of a gross receipts tax upon telephone and telegraph companies if such tax is not imposed upon or collected from mercantile, manufacturing, and business corporations doing business within this State. As the gross receipts tax you refer to is apparently designed to apply only to telephone companies, such tax would be within the prohibition contained in section 14 of Article XIII of the Constitution.

Of course, a constitutional amendment could be proposed at this special session to change the prohibition contained in section 14 of Article XIII of the Constitution and legislation could be enacted at this session conditioned upon the adoption of the constitutional amendment. The constitutional amendment could, by its language, ratify such gross receipts tax. Also, a tax could be imposed upon persons making telephone calls, the telephone company being the agency of the State in collecting such tax. This, however, would not be a gross receipts tax, but would be a consumer's surcharge.

* Estimated on basis of 35 per cent fountain and 65 per cent bottles.

The remainder of this letter will discuss the reasoning by which we reach our opinion that legislation, not accompanied by a constitutional amendment, could not be validly enacted at this special session to tax the gross receipts of telephone companies. The same reasoning also applies to telegraph companies.

Until 1910 the State collected the bulk of its revenues by way of an ad valorem property tax, the Legislature every two years prescribing the amount to be raised, the State Board of Equalization upon the basis thereof fixing the State tax rate, the county fiscal officers entering that rate upon the county assessment rolls, collecting the tax and remitting it to the State. Section 14 was added to Article XIII of the State Constitution in 1910. Pursuant to the provisions of section 14, subsequent to 1910 a franchise tax for State governmental purposes was levied upon telegraph and telephone companies, the tax being in lieu of all other taxes and licenses.

In 1933, a complete revision of the State tax plan was accomplished in what is known as the "Riley-Stewart Plan of 1933." This revision in part amended section 14 of Article XIII, repealing the State franchise tax on telephone and telegraph companies and returning their properties to the county tax rolls. The third paragraph of section 14, as amended in 1933, subsequently provides as follows:

"* * * No excise, or income tax or any other form of tax or license charge shall be levied or assessed upon or collected from the companies, or any of them, mentioned in the first paragraph of this section, in any manner or form, different from, or at a higher rate than that imposed upon or collected from mercantile, manufacturing and business corporations doing business within this State." (Telephone and telegraph companies are referred to in subdivision (4) of the first paragraph of section 14.)

Subsequent to the 1910 amendment the decisions of the Appellate Courts of California definitely established that the gross receipts tax exacted under section 14, Article XIII, was in lieu of licenses as well as in lieu of taxes on property (San Francisco v. Market Street Railway—1937 9 Cal. (2d) 743; San Francisco v. Pacific Telephone & Telegraph Co.—1913 166 Cal. 244). The Report of the Joint Legislative Tax Committee in 1933 (Assembly Journal 1933, pp. 2966-2969) definitely shows that the scheme of taxation was to be reversed and taxes on property were to be obtained by the counties, the gross receipts tax being eliminated except as to insurance companies.

In Item 7 of the Report of the Joint Legislative Tax Committee (referred to above), it is interesting to note that a raise in the rate of taxation of the gross receipts was recommended, to be made effective for the year 1932 and that the committee recognized that "this tax rate increase will, of course, only continue until such time as Amendment No. One (ed. note: gross receipts provision of the Constitution) is repealed."

From the foregoing it would appear to be the intent of the amendment to section 14 of Article XIII of the Constitution to do away with the gross receipts tax on telephone and telegraph companies and to return their properties to the counties for the purposes of property taxation. To safeguard such companies, together with other utilities, there was specifically written into section 14 the prohibition against imposing a tax different from that imposed upon mercantile, manufacturing, and other business corporations. This prohibition would make unconstitutional any legislation designed to impose a gross receipts tax solely upon telephone and telegraph companies.

Yours very truly,

FRED B. WOOD, Legislative Counsel.

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, OFFICE OF LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL,
SACRAMENTO, CALIFORNIA, April 23, 1940.

Honorable Charles W. Lyon, Chairman,
Subcommittee on Telephone Companies and
Carbonated Beverages of the Assembly
Revenue and Taxation Committee,
State Capitol, Sacramento, California.

Subject: Gross Receipts Tax Upon Telephone Companies.
Request: No. 7877.

DEAR MR. LYON: Supplementing our letter of April 22, 1940, we wish to bring to your attention the possibility of amending the Retail Sales Tax Act of 1933, Deering Act S493, so as to tax the gross sales of telephone and telegraph companies.

The Retail Sales Act of 1933 taxes retailers of tangible personal property for the privilege of selling tangible personal property at retail at the rate of 3 per cent of the gross receipts of any such retailer. Rendering of services are not taxed, with the exception of where the rendering of services is incidental to the sale.

Specifically excluded from the provisions of the Retail Sales Tax Act of 1933 are the gross receipts from the sales, furnishing, or service of gas, electricity, and water, when delivered to consumers through mains, lines, or pipes. Also see section 5 for other exceptions.

The sales tax is an "excise" or "privilege tax" (Roth Drug, Inc., vs. Johnson, 1936, 13 Cal. App. (2d) 720). Section 14 of Article XIII contemplates that excise taxes may be levied on telephone or telegraph companies, for it inferentially authorizes their levy just as long as they are not different than those imposed upon or collected from mercantile, manufacturing and business corporations doing business in this State. Thus, by amending the Retail Sales Tax Act of 1933 so as to make it apply to the rendering of services as well as the sales of personal property, it would appear possible to include within its provisions a tax on the gross receipts of telephone and telegraph companies.

In Volume II of the Digest of the Statutes of Arkansas for 1937 there is contained in section 14070 a provision for the levying of a sales tax upon "(d) All retail sales of electric power and light, natural and artificial gas, water, telephone use and messages and telegrams." This is in addition to the tax imposed on "(a) All sales at retail of tangible personal property." Such an inclusion of telephone and telegraph messages in California's Sales Tax Act would not appear to be valid considering the present nonapplicability of the act to services and the terminology of section 14 of Article XIII. However, an amendment designed to tax services, and including therein the rendering of services in the transmission of telephone and telegraph messages, would appear to be valid. Just as long as the rate of tax imposed upon telephone and telegraph messages is no higher than that imposed upon the sales of tangible personal property and the rendering of services in general, the constitutional provisions would not appear to be violated.

Yours very truly,

FRED B. WOOD, Legislative Counsel.
By NORMAN MELLER, Assistant Counsel.

SECTION 1

POLICIES

Relief, social welfare and all their kindred problems will remain so long as a large percentage of the people remain unemployed. There can be only one effective policy and that is the placing of emphasis on reemployment.

W-2 page 11—

PATTERSON: "We have studied this problem from every angle and we feel the biggest mistake they make is the fact they are dealing with it as a social problem. We don't feel it is a social problem,—it is an unemployment problem. I think that ninety per cent of all our trouble is the fact some of the people try to deal strictly on the basis of a social problem, and it is not,—it is a problem of unemployment, and if it was approached from that angle, I think this thing would be so,—there would never be any necessity to have a grievance from any organization. Our organization has always contended the most serious charge we have against the relief administration, either locally or in the State, is the fact it is necessary for the unemployed to have representatives. We feel that if the administration was fair and efficient and there wasn't so many different interpretations of the law, that it wouldn't be necessary for the unemployed to have a grievance committee, and the most serious charge that we have is that charge."

H-1 pages 105
& 106—

HOUSER: "Mr. Legg indicated that the quota had been kept about the same during the year 1939, but that the WPA had funds available and a quota available to take care of about from five to seven thousand more people on WPA rolls than were actually taken care of due to lack of local sponsorship, and when we asked him what was meant by local sponsorship, he said, that included sponsorship by cities and by counties and by State Relief Administration. Now my question is, those positions were available on WPA jobs, why didn't the State Relief Administration do something about creating sponsorship projects?"

REESE: "Well, for lack of funds mainly, the primary responsibility for the sponsorship of projects is not on the State Relief Administration. In some instances it is good business for us to take the sponsorship of these projects over because by contribution to the WPA we are able to save a certain amount of relief funds."

W-11 page 240—

McLAUGHLIN: "Until the last special session of the Legislature in February of this year, the State Relief Administration, as an organization to administer unemployment relief, deteriorated constantly, and that deterioration was due largely to the desire to put on to the administrative staff unnecessary and inexperienced people, and by merely a change in attitude at the Intake, which is all that is necessary, the same method of procedure could be used as was used in the prior administration, but if the attitude at Intake was changed and was relaxed as it was, it results in abnormal and unduly increased case loads."

Further:

W-11 page 240—

WOLLENBERG: "You feel from your observation that there was a direct relaxing on the eligibility rules?" McLAUGHLIN: "There was, there was a relaxing of vigilance."

"Liberalization" and "the new philosophy" placed many thousands on the relief rolls with a consequent increase in costs.

H-12 page 153—

MRS. DALEY: "Have you noticed any liberalization of the policies, budgets, and so forth, since you have been in the office over here that would lead you to believe that under the present administration that they were giving bigger and better budgets or care?"

PHILLIPS: "Yes, there has been a distinct liberalization in the time I have been here since last June."

HOUSER: "That has been a liberalization in the amounts of the budget and types of aid given?"

PHILLIPS: "Not in the amounts of the budget, that is stationary, that is fixed; but, in the—you might say in the excesses which are allowed, and possibly some of the medical care, and very much so in the matter of shoes.—We issued many many shoe orders here—and also in the—I believe in the types of cases that have been accepted. I believe there has been a liberalization in the class of cases that have been accepted. For instance, a case that was accepted now, previously would have been rejected."

WOLLENBERG: "Have you seen any evidence of any change in Alameda County in the general philosophy in the administration of relief, interpretations of eligibility, and so forth?" MRS. PITTO: "I think your whole concept of relief has been changing, both from the administration side, and from the relief recipient. I mean, when I first started in, the average person coming in was very unhappy, to say the least, in making application, and felt degraded to a certain extent; it was the general feeling. I know I had an East Oakland district when I first started with the Alameda County Charities and I happened to have a small, bright car, and they used to ask me to let them out a block away, so they could walk, and nobody would know they were going on relief. I mean, that is changed by the circumstances; I mean, relief itself is no longer on the old basis; it is a general problem and has been recognized as such." WOLLENBERG: "That has continued right on, that is, it has ever since you have been here?" MRS. PITTO: "It would be my feeling that the average person comes,—maybe not the average, but I guess it would be, at least the average person comes in, demanding or asking relief perfectly freely, as if it were their right, and within the last year or year and a half, or maybe longer, instead of the applicants more or less having to prove their eligibility, they do not have to prove it; but you, more or less, have to prove they aren't eligible."

Further:

WOLLENBERG: "... in other words, have you ever had the feeling it is not what the law is, or what the manual says, but it is rather certain definite social background and reasons that should govern in the cases?" MRS. PITTO: "No, not entirely that, because, I mean, your Manual, your rules for eligibility as such, but there is a difference if you come in and make application and you say, 'I am in need,'—then you have to establish absolutely how you are in need; it is just a slight difference in interpretation,—it is rather difficult to put into words,—your tendency has been to accept an application and it is up to you to establish whether or not the person is eligible, rather than that they aren't eligible if they applied."

FREDERICK F. HOUSER: "Did you find any change of policy and procedure evidenced immediately upon the change of administration, or was the identical policy continued over into the first part of the Anderson administration." MRS. COPLAND: "I think by and large the policy was continued. However, there was a policy of liberalization so that the people expected a liberal program and I think that may have led to a matter of duplication but I think at that time it was considered a liberalized program. However, there was a slight change in policy evidenced." HOUSER: "Was there much careful scrutiny to see whether they had been here 12 months or not?" MRS. COPLAND: "Yes, I think in Los Angeles that was carried out rather faithfully." HOUSER: "This is relating back to the first part of ----" MRS. COPLAND: "The early days in 1939." HOUSER: "Well, now, you spoke of this liberalization psychology, from where did that proceed, down through the whole organization—the liberalization policy?" MRS. COPLAND: "Yes, I think it did, and I think it is a little easy to understand, it did so in a rather informal and possibly insidious way, not carefully planned. But individual decisions were being given on cases of a client who might or might not be eligible and would not get in, refusing to accept the case workers' plan or the district's version of eligibility. Very often those cases were changed at headquarters and my point in it being insidious is that the next day or the next week or the next time such a case came up it could hardly be expected that that intake would hold tight on a policy, which on an individual case only a few days they had been reversed on, so I feel that it was a rather informal weakening of policy and one which possibly couldn't be measured and one which wasn't always evident." HOUSER: "In other words, once you began to break down or relax in one case on the interpretation of the manual, why it was pretty hard to refuse aid to another person where that relaxation or liberalization had already taken place?" MRS. COPLAND: "Very definitely." HOUSER: "Well, now, as I understand it from your testimony, there wasn't—there was practically no change or very little change in the manual itself and there was no change in the statute, of course, at that time, but this was simply a psychological change or a loosening in the interpretation of the manual and the statutes." MRS. COPLAND: "That's true and occasionally on the specific case if we would write the state office for an answer or guidance on a particular problem the answer which, after all we should have been privileged to use as a precedent, which came back, would sometimes show a liberalization. There were no changes in the manual that I can think of off-hand which could be charged to a liberalized program, certainly no change in the statute."

HOUSER: "Do you think that with the same manual and the same statutes that there can be different interpretations placed on those same rules though?"

MRS. COPLAND: "Yes, I think that is possible. I think when you have as many people using any policy it is pretty hard to make a policy that fits well every case that comes up and it is pretty hard to get all people thinking exactly alike on all situations, when you get a daily variation in each situation."

HOUSER: "So that you think that with exactly the same manual regulations prevailing in or exactly the same laws prevailing that the same person with a different psychological approach could either tighten up or loosen up on intake?"

MRS. COPLAND: "I think that might be somewhat possible. We always felt we guarded against that, of course, by the sort of supervision we had and by direct and close connection with the administration, field service, meetings, staff training and that sort of thing. I think that is as close as you can come to uniform procedure when we handle the number of workers that an SRA office handles."

HOUSER: "Well, did this liberalization continue to increase as time went on? For example, during the time that Mrs. Kilbourne and Mrs. Orrins were in?"

MRS. COPLAND: "Yes, I think that it could be said that it did."

HOUSER: "Were there any written instructions at that time or was it again purely a matter of psychology?"

MRS. COPLAND: "I think it was a matter of precedents. You see Mrs. Kilbourne would not have the authority to make manual changes, for instance, those came from the state office. Mrs. Kilbourne in her position would have the authority to make individual decisions on cases as they came to her attention."

HOUSER: "Well, now, we have heard a good deal in the Legislature of the so-called new philosophy which was injected into the SRA during the early part of the Anderson administration. Can you tell us something about that so-called new philosophy? Have you ever heard of that?"

MRS. COPLAND: "Well, yes, I have heard the phrase and seen it in quotation marks, all over the place. I can't say that I could define it and in my presence Mr. Plunkett was once asked to define his new philosophy, and he rather shrugged his shoulders and said he wasn't sure what it meant and he thought it was an unfortunate day when he had used the phrase."

HOUSER: "In what connection had he used that. Have you any idea?"

MRS. COPLAND: "The only connections I knew in which he had used it were in the dismissal or demotions of persons, when he told them that he felt with the 'new philosophy,' that they possibly wouldn't gear into the administration and, therefore, changes were necessary."

W-11 page 206— LORE: "Then some time early in 1939 there was a definite change toward liberalization?" MRS. REINHARDT: "I think it was within our own office, and from the state office, both. It was very definitely a liberalization from both sources, a different philosophy."

M-1 page 133— MIXTER: "When you took over your duties—let's see, your duties include those of intake supervisor?" MISS MONTGOMERY: "Yes." MIXTER: "Were cases being accepted in which eligibility had not been established, so far as you know?" MISS MONTGOMERY: "I felt that there were cases that were accepted that eligibility was not established, yes."

M-1 page 135— Continuing: MIXTER: "Do you believe that all cases of eligibility are clearly established before they are confirmed or approved?" MISS MONTGOMERY: "Before we give them relief?" MIXTER: "Do you believe they are?" MISS MONTGOMERY: "No, I don't."

Inefficiency of the SRA has allowed "the case-load" to climb steadily with a resultant reduction in the amount available for each deserving unemployed person.

H-11 page 7-B— HOUSER: "Can you explain the increase in case-load in 1939 as compared with 1938?" HOERGER: "I am not directly in contact with the figures. We did have more activity than in 1938." HOUSER: "Have you heard some explanations given?" HOERGER: "I cannot agree that WPA layoffs are the full cause." HOUSER: "What do you think the other causes are?" HOERGER: "I think unquestionably the change in administration from Merriam to Olson caused a general feeling that there would be a liberal interpretation of relief." HOUSER: "So that borderline cases would be admitted to the rolls? You make the statement based on your long association with the organization?" HOERGER: "Yes."

Further: HOUSER: "The increase has been over 125%—how about that?" HOERGER: "I think undoubtedly there has been a loosening of interpretations and restrictions put on over what there used to be." HOUSER: "In other words, it is easier to get on?" HOERGER: "Definitely."

LYTLE: "Well, I think that we were given the very definite impression, in the early part of 1939, that the rigid following of rules of eligibility was not to be as rigid, and that we were to relax our rules of eligibility and give service to clients in many instances when the actual need, or the actual need for relief was not always there. However, I do not think that was true in this county, and it has not been true since I came to this county."
- M-1 page 228— MRS. SMITH: "It's—there has been a growing attitude, after a case once becomes active, that once they are getting relief, that it's up to the case worker to prove them ineligible rather than for the client to prove himself eligible."
- H-9 page 192— MRS. KENNEDY: "I think that we should have directors who know conditions in the county and who are able to analyze situations. If we have a family in verifying their employment, (and) it's a large family, and in private employment they make around $75.00 a month and their standard of living does not change from year to year then I don't believe that we should give them more while they're on relief than what they receive when they're in private employment. I don't believe in encouraging people to stay on relief."
- H-4 page 681— HOUSER: "Do you think it has been any easier to get on the relief rolls during 1939 than it was before?"
MRS. RETTIG: "I certainly do, much easier."
HOUSER: "Well, how did they make it easier?"
MRS. RETTIG: "Well, for instance, just take the single men that I talked about, and then you take the transients, transients were no longer forced to sign a statement that they would return to their legal residence. If they were forced to do that at the point of intake it automatically cuts out a great many of them, because they will refuse at that point, therefore no aid is ever set up."
- H-7 page 9— FITZER: "When the new administration came in in January of 1939, and shortly thereafter, there was some change in the interpretation there, and we were less strict in demanding that a single man accept camp care or no relief. WAKEFIELD: "On January 5, 1939, there were 2,631 single men receiving camp relief, the cash dole, as we often speak of it. On February 15, 1939, a new policy was inaugurated making camp referables voluntary instead of mandatory, with some few exceptions. That is referred to on page 17 of the Resident Projects Report. As a result of that new policy one year later, on February 15, 1940, the number of single men on cash dole were 20,502, or practically 8 to 1 to what it was before that policy went into effect. That was the result of that policy, as far as single men on the cash dole is concerned, but it didn't have a great deal of effect on the camps. The approximate population of the camps on January 5, 1939 was 8,000—I don't have the exact figures—we had the figures before and after, but not on this particular date. On February 15, at the time the single men's dole was up to its peak of 20,502, the camp population of SRA men was only 7,187. While the single men's dole was increasing something over 600 per cent the camp population only decreased, probably as a result of that policy, about 800."

Federal and State administration policies have lured thousands of families into an army of needy migrants.

M-6 page 184—

GIFFEN: "They migrants are coming simply because the movement started, not three or four years ago, as most people think, but years back, in 1923 and 1924 and their relatives have sent back; the relatives who are here have sent back attractive reports of conditions in California and this migration is going on, not for a few months, but it is going on for years to come and I think that the natural, normal solution is to go ahead and develop the State of California and take care of them. Now, in 1937 we had something over 700,000 acres of cotton in the San Joaquin Valley, because of the Federal reduction program in 1938 that was cut to 404,000. There was an actual reduction of over 300,000 acres of planted cotton in the State and that was the thing that caused the extremely acute situation that developed. There simply was more labor than any of us knew how to take care of. We are over-run every day but it seems to me the perfectly reasonable thing to do is for the State to ask that the allotments, the crop allotments that those people, or these people have left in their other states should be passed along and permit the State of California to at least plant a like number of acres under the Federal program and if that were done then I think that this situation would be behind us and most of the things that are troublesome now would take care of themselves."

HODGE: "Our board has been consistently opposed to giving direct relief to able-bodied men and women. MIXTER: "Is the Committee to understand from the latter comment that you feel that the matter of relief to the needy worthy should be made less attractive than employment in private enterprise?" WILSON: "Well, there are so many cases of that that it is hard to pick out any one because a lot of that is due to the fact of changing policies. A policy may be in effect one day and out the next. For instance, the question of identification for relief funds. That policy has been changed, oh, I don't know how many times. One card had all the physical description on and another card had none. Another card had male and female on it. And another card was used as a commissary card. There were a half a dozen different groups of cards instead of under a unified set-up having one card that was carefully thought out and followed through consistently, keeping in mind all the time all the things that you were driving at."

GIGLIOTTI: "If the proper legislation were written this whole thing could be cleared up where the caseload will decrease. Since the last law there has been a decrease of 16,000 cases. A lot of people are going off the rolls who don't want to be investigated. While I was on the board as chairman, a story came out that there were a lot of chiselers receiving old age assistance. The following week I had someone tell me that 14 or 15 people came in and didn't cash their checks; that they were afraid of investigations. There should be periodical investigations to make it definitely understood that the state will take care of legitimate people in need. People are getting more on relief than they ever earned in their lives."

must be honest, a disinterested function of administering assistance to needy people in California,—not the building up of a political organization, not the building up of unions,—not the taking of people who came from the same school or the same train of thought.”

GIGLIOTTI: “We must work out a program of rehabilitation. You have a number of farms that at one time were producing farms. There is sufficient water, and children could be taken care of. During my investigation on the relief commission I found 70,000 such farms now owned by the state for taxes,—not because they wouldn’t produce, but the War came and there was no one left but the old people. (In Europe, under similar circumstances,) “The governments took these people and said we will give you so many acres of land. You are given it primarily to produce sufficient food for yourself and family. You pay no taxes for the first five years. The government will lend you enough money so you won’t have to start paying back for five years. We will grant you so much money—the amount of money you would get on relief. We will grant you a full budget, the second year 40%, third year 30%. You have two years with no taxes or interest and you don’t have to pay the money back you borrowed for five years. So many could be rehabilitated on that basis. With a good program of mental, physical and economic rehabilitation, I believe thousands of these families could be taken care of.”

“THE CLIENT”

In the psuedo-professional jargon of the SRA the unemployed citizen has become “the client.” He, his wife and his children are “a case” and bear a number. A generous State has provided many millions to help him, but too much has been squandered on chiselers, needless job-holders, and fantastic theories of social uplift.

Senate Journal,
Jan. 30, 1940,
pages 41-52—

Report by Edwin N. Atherton and Associates on State Relief Administration: “A dangerous condition indicated is the increasing number of people who think in terms of guaranteed support by the State; people who have lost pride and independence and demand they be permitted to live in idleness. Many may be termed ‘Professional Relievers’ who successfully adopt every possible means of remaining on relief. Partly, if not largely at fault is the ‘liberalizing’ policy adopted by the SRA. Another factor is the failure of field workers to properly investigate cases; to the sympathetic attitude of many of these workers who aid ineligibles in getting on and in continuing on relief; to the alleged policy of the SRA to increase case-load that increased personnel may follow and finally to the persuasive teaching and influence of the Workers Alliance."

Senate Journal,
Feb. 6, 1940,

Report and Recommendations of the Legislative Committee of SRA Los Angeles Chapter No. 65, of the California State Employees' Association. "As regards the relief recipients—known as 'clients' of the SRA—it must first be stated that no differentiation is made because of citizenship, previous standard of living, race, color, or creed. All are supposedly treated alike.

"After years of daily contact with these people, we, as employees of the SRA, have made the following personal analysis of the clients:

"A. They fall into three nearly numerically equal groups:

"(a) Those undoubtedly deserving. This group consists of the very people the program was set up to help and THEY ARE NOT GETTING ENOUGH. Most of them fall into the white American small family group formerly of adequate means.

"(b) Those doubtfully deserving. This group contains many ignorant, semiskilled or laborer families who have always lived more or less precariously and their resources are extremely difficult to check. Furthermore, they are usually of larger than average families and their present 'dole' constitutes to them a 'security wage' comparable with past earnings.

"(c) Those undoubtedly NOT deserving to be supported by the American taxpayer. This group is composed of alien (or part alien) families (who constitute a very large percentage of the entire relief load), 'bums' both masculine and feminine, habitual drunkards and dope users, and just plain 'chiselers.' The average citizen must realize that while all the people on relief are by no means or in any sense PROFESSIONAL RELIEFERS, nevertheless, EVERY REAL 'BUM' IN CALIFORNIA IS ON RELIEF.

"B. Besides our own citizens (and aliens) we have been supporting or partially supporting citizens of other States of the Union, known as 'transients.' As is well known, these people have flocked to California by the tens of thousands since 1932. Once they get here, if they can remain in the State one year, no matter how, they become a permanent part of our relief clientele. In the meantime, we must arrange (if we can) to send them home, again partially or wholly at our taxpayers' expense. Many have been sent home only to return time and time again."

COOLEY: "The prognostications were that at the end of March we would have 119,000 cases in the State. At the end of March in the state we will have approximately 102,000."

Continuing:
(giving reasons)

"Number one was that we have an all-time high of production and a great deal of employment, as high employment as we have had since 1929, which provided more jobs for unemployed persons; number two was that the WPA has kept up its quota. The reductions have not taken effect yet. For instance, in San Francisco we have got about 12,700 people employed on WPA, and as long as that keeps up the SRA will go down. The third thing was this, that in California there was an earlier crop in agriculture than heretofore, caused by the heavy rains, which took people from the SRA rolls. The fourth thing, I think, was that the State took steps with regard to relief administration in line with the new bill, which reduced the intake and cut the cases. Then, in addition I think there were psychological reactions, as far as relief clients were concerned, in our intake districts, as a result of the 40 per cent and 30 per cent cuts and the provisions of the new bill and the publicity on it."

Further:

"That is right. The average applications in San Francisco have been around 1,200 a week for the last three years. In March, for the first three weeks they have dropped down to about 800."

W-11 page 244—

MCLAUGHLIN: "The purpose of explaining this is this: If, when Senate Bill 81 was enacted into law, the State Relief Administration sat down and calmly looked the situation over, and projected their case-loads for the last half of February, and all of March, April and May, they would have encountered what they have actually encountered during the month of March, namely, a substantial reduction in case-load, and they would know that that case-load would be still further reduced by the normal, seasonal decline in April, and still further reduced in May. It is reasonable to suppose that, having projected the normal seasonable decline from February 15th to May 31st, they would not have said immediately that with a case-load of 114,500 they must reduce the payments by 40 per cent. I think that by the time we get around to May 15th the record will show that the normal seasonal decline in case-load would permit of practically no cuts at all in relief budgets."

HOUSER: "Now, in your opinion, you haven't been able to account at all definitely for this looseness of intake here in Los Angeles County. Do you think it could have been due to a changed outlook on the part of the district case supervisors and the case aides and the case workers as to when and when not they should admit someone to the rolls, change in philosophy along that line?" REESE: "Just a very general statement, to be put in the form of a question. It might also have been in the lack of experience of certain people or the lack of certain supervision. We find that the matter of ineligibility here varies all the way from 2.2 per cent in the Harbor District Office which is better than any other place in the state, generally speaking, up to 12 per cent in the Hollywood District, which is very high."

Further:
H-1 page 32—

HOUSER: "Now, referring to this audit again, I find only 17% of the budgets could be verified as correct, doesn't that rather surprise you?" REESE: "It definitely did, yes." HOUSER: "How do you account for that?" REESE: "Well, it is accountable on the basis that the persons preparing the budgets didn't do an accurate job."

H-1 page 42—

HOUSER: "So that in Los Angeles County during the week of—the week ending January 18th on the basis of the statistical reports from four districts which were sampled for this . . . purpose, we find that approximately 75.5% of those making applications were admitted to the relief rolls, is that correct?"

Continuing:
H-1 page 44—

REESE: "That is correct. You might as well use the figures that are here. Now, the five weeks ending December 1938, 47 per cent accepted and 53 per cent rejected, and 1939, 65 per cent accepted and 35 per cent rejected."

H-1 page 91—

HOUSER: "How long since you have made an audit of Los Angeles County, before this audit was made?"

REESE: "I don't know, but it was over a year or two years ago."

H-1 page 11—

REESE: "You will note in this letter that—this page here, that audits have been made in twenty-eight counties of the State and that the ineligibility averaged over a three year period of 3.2." HOUSER: "Well, would you say that this audit showed any need for improvement in Los Angeles County?" REESE: "It definitely showed a need for tightening up the intake."

H-1 page 33—

REESE: "You will notice that most of the budgets in Los Angeles County were under-budgeted rather than over-budgeted. Thirty-three per cent were under-budgeted while  $2\frac{1}{2}\%$  were over-budgeted, and then the various breakdown will show you on what item they were over or under. Of course, the major item is rent, 35% were under-budgeted for rent." O'DAY: "May I ask a question?" O'DAY: "Do you mean under-budgeted according to value, or according to the way the budget was set up?" REESE: "The clients were paying more rent than they were actually allowed."

H-2 pages 379

RYMARCZICK: "In the five years that I have been with SRA there have been audits made. And I imagine in some cases the audits were considered to be a rather good audit. I have never yet seen such an audit as I think a business, I mean, the State of California, would require of a series of 58 branch houses to see that the policy of the central office was being carried out according to their instructions. The social audit crew that used to exist did go out and make audits. They made audits of office procedure and so forth. But as an actual fact there are hardly two counties in California today who in procedure or in finance as far as they have anything to do with finance in the district offices, carry out all of their procedure and plans identically. One would have one standard of accuracy, one would have one standard of office procedure and another will have sometimes slightly different and sometimes different to a large degree."

M-6 page 260—

LAWLER: "As I said, at that time the Department of Welfare showed a case-load of 678 cases." MIXTER: "Was that Fresno County?" LAWLER: "Fresno County. The SERA hadn't been in operation for three months before we had on our case-load over 5,378 cases which, with the average family, would make it well over 20,000 people in Fresno County that were in need of relief."

CAPPS: "In March, 1938, 2 months prior to the opening of the SRA office in Modesto, there were 268 employable indigent families receiving aid from the welfare department. In May, 1938, 2 months later, when the SRA office opened, the welfare department transferred 38 employable families, indigent families; that is, that it had depreciated from 268 to 38 in that length of time, to the SRA office. 1938, the SRA office had 365 indigent families and in March, 1939, the SRA had 1059 families. The relief rolls went up, the cases went up at the time when it looked to us like it should have gone down. The time when the farmer was doing work, it went from 38 to 365 families, in practically 2 months, at the time when the welfare was depleting the list, and as soon as it was turned over to the SRA office, no work was required, it increased." MIXTER: "Would you say that the receiving of direct relief through the SRA, for example, became more attractive for some people than their continuing in private employment for compensation?" CAPPS: "Most assuredly." MIXTER: "Do you feel that what took place in the period mentioned was largely the result of the policy adopted by the SRA of the State?" CAPPS: "Yes, sir."

MIXTER: "Would you be in a position to have an opinion that you could express as to the administration of relief, that is, the administration of so-called direct relief in a general way, as between the system now in use and the system that was employed a few years back when the counties had control of the administration of such relief?" FERGUSON: "I could give you figures that probably would express that. In 1937, the highest number of persons receiving employable assistance, for employables, that is, had work cards, was 360 in March. In March 1939 after the SRA came into the county, it was 1059, and this year, I believe the case load for SRA for February is 1209."

LANE: "Now, then, as I say, about a year ago or prior thereto, any family that we received permission to send to any other county or state, unless there was some extenuating circumstance, they were required to accept transportation and go or be stricken from the records. However, about a year ago it was changed that any family who had been here one day more than a year was welcome to remain. We sent them only if they wished to go. I can't give you any figures or percentage, but it is conceivable that a tremendous difference was made in the number of people that remained as against those that went, because, in other words, if they could manage by hook or crook, either on or off relief, to remain here for one day more than a year, whether they had residence or not, they were entitled to remain and receive aid."

O'DAY: "How do you account for the jump in case-load of 172 in January 1938 to 767 in January, 1940?"

HOLMES: "I can't say. I am not sure of this statement, but I think we had a freeze."

W-12 pages 94

BROWN: "They have thirty days to qualify that person or determine whether he is eligible, or not. In other words, he can get away with about that amount of relief, if he is a chiseler, he can get away with thirty days on the State. If intake was more careful, and the qualifying of these people for eligibility,—I think that is where a big saving could be made." LORE: "How do you find the case workers generally through the State? Do you find them fairly competent investigators on this kind of work? I mean, in regard to opening cases and checking eligibility?" BROWN: "No, I think there's a great laxity there. They are lacking in observation, it seems to me, as I can clearly show by cases I have in my brief case for your observation, for you to look over. One case in particular, we have a man paying us $35.00 a month over in Hayward, where he is milking twenty-eight cows, and that cow barn of his is within about a half block,—just half way across the street, and if you can't smell cows half a block, there's something wrong with the case workers. That man got away with $1491.00. I think they practice too much theory. In fact, they are inserting social practices into a problem which is purely an unemployment program."

Relief became "so easy" it was an inducement to dishonesty and indolence.

WORCESTER: "There were two orders given the man right after the other, although he had been paid in advance, the first was a deductible grocery order and the second a non-deductible. This man received a deductible order and a week later he received a non-deductible order, which I had never heard before. I am quite certain he shouldn't have had them—at least my interpretation of our manual provisions was that he was not entitled to them, and I was a bonded person."

HIOERGER: "I had charge of the ERO's. I issued a written requisition, signed by the case-aide or case-worker and approved by the social service supervisor. They were referred to the budget department and it was the basis on which relief orders were issued. They had to have a certified budget in order to issue emergency orders. I felt it was a waste; that a large number of them could have been avoided. HIOUSER: "In what respect?" HIOERGER: "I felt a good many were issued merely on the statement of the client that they needed relief or without actual checking."

PHILLIPS: "How about the ERO's? Will you explain that?" GOOCH: "Oh, the ERO's; emergency relief orders. Now those orders are issued, and quite rightly, where an emergency arises and the people are destitute and have no money. But there is a very bad practice in so much that people have a habit of taking these ERO's to stores and then getting something else other than food and clothing,—liquor, for instance. And I have had several cases of that."

"The spot pay" method by which representatives of the Controller's office distribute relief checks to recipients protects the State.

W-12 pages 57

FALLON: "First thing, it gives us a closer contact with the people. It assures the Controller there is such a person existing, because we get a signed receipt from these warrants when paid through the spot pay system. It gives the SRA a last-minute check with the paymaster, and even during the payoff, if they receive information too late to get it into my office here, the day before pay day, it enables them to spot any warrants they wish to stop during the payoff and on the premises. The third thing, I don't think we have ever had a spot pay where we haven't had unclaimed warrants from the spot pays. Those warrants that are unclaimed from the spot pay, we hold them seven days after the pay day, and give a list to the SRA and give them seven days to give us a satisfactory disposition. If they do not give us disposition, they are automatically redeposited to the general fund. I have a report for the ninetieth fiscal year and the first six months of the ninety-first fiscal year. During that period we redeposited to the general fund SRA and unclaimed warrants, 23,948 of them, in the amount of $360,271.65."

FIELD: "I am trying to get hold of some plan or get a suggestion that might impress upon these people that they are committing a crime if they sign (for a check) when they are not entitled to it." FALLON: "I think that would be the best place to impress upon them that what they really have to sign when they do get these warrants, is at the time the case-aide or the visitor makes the home call. It would only take a few minutes of her time to explain that, and what is expected of them, and what actually they are signing for." WOLLENBERG: "Also, at intake, when they first come in.

Further:

FALLON: "I will take, for example, Alameda County, District 3, for the pay day of March 15, 1940. We were presented with a certified claim from the SRA for 3,340 warrants, in the amount of $34,245.69. 168 warrants for the sum of $1,807.44 were canceled in my office the day before pay day, upon the request of SRA; the balance of 182 warrants in the amount of $1,584.41 were unclaimed from the spot pay." WOLLENBERG: "Now, of that total number, 108 people were completely silent on the subject of their warrants?" FALLON: "Yes." LORE: "On its face, therefore, that record indicates that 108 people, at least, out of the group didn't care to, or felt they didn't need their relief check on that pay day?" FALLON: "That is true."

W-11 page 159—

LORE: "Are those people that just didn't come to pick up their checks, is that it?" COOLEY: "Yes, or people that we went to visit and they had moved and we were unable to locate them, or they notified us that—I think it would be mostly people that we visit and could not find, and then there would be some cases where they had refused to call for their checks."

M-6 page 195—

CARDWELL: "We knew they were working and we knew they were getting relief. In the cotton picking time I had in the neighborhood of 20 choppers—I mean chopping time—that we were hauling out from Fresno, and I noticed about one day out of the week that we would have some new faces. I was paying them every night and I got so I could recognize them. I said, 'What is the reason of these new men?' And one of the crew told me, 'Well some of the men had to lay off that day so they could get their relief checks.'" MIXTER: "That was how long ago?" CARDWELL: "That was last spring."

CROW: "I have three or four specific cases where the man has been working, the way I understand it, the SRA pays off on the 14th and 18th of each month. Well, I have got data where those men have laid off those days and went down and drew SRA checks and been working right along. Another case where a man was working right along and drawing his check and he quit the man when he was busy, right in his busy season, took a trip to New Mexico. Seems like he got money enough out of the SRA and what he was working for, he took a pleasure trip, went off down to New Mexico with it."

& 51—

MIXTER: "Do you know of any instances where any such relief being drawn in this county is also being drawn by members of the same family from any other additional county, any other county?" PARKS: "I had occasion in the case Mr. Crow was speaking about, had occasion with a deputy from the sheriff's office to go out and investigate some petit theft charges, and in fact we picked one of the people up, the son of one of the clients of the SRA, and during the time, why, this same party was—reports in they were selling shoes, flour, different things like that around. Well, it was a question—they were questionable characters. During the investigation I called the SRA office and asked them if this certain party was on relief and they said, 'Well, we can't give you information with regard to our clients.' I said, 'All right, I'll put it this way: Is it possible that any of your clients could have six or seven pairs of shoes or seven or eight sacks of flour at one time?' The gentleman that talked to me said, 'Yes, it might be possible.' And during the check-up with the young fellow that we had in the sheriff's office, it developed that part of the family was getting relief in Stockton and part was receiving relief here in Modesto." MIXTER: "Do you know if those same people are in Stanislaus County?" PARKS: "They are still here."

M-3 page 85—

DAY: "I don't know just what I might be able to give you of a constructive nature, there, but I am firmly convinced myself that there is a great deal of undue, unjust chiseling, might we say, on relief. I think that people are taking advantage of the laws in a lot of respects. I feel personally it is not so much that the actual relief itself that is causing so much hardship upon the taxpayers, as it is the abuse of the set-up as it was intended for as being given." ASSEM-

BROTHERS: "We have one man that has been known to relief since last August. When the home call visitor case-aide went to the home there were the man, woman and children in the home and they didn't have anything. Well, that man was eligible for relief after we established his eligibility and residence and so forth, and when the case-aide made the next home call she found out this man had some hogs in the back yard. She asked him who they belonged to; he said somebody else, another man that lived away some place, said he was just keeping them; the next time she goes out she found out he had one calf and a cow, and she asked him who that belonged to, and he said 'well Mr. So-and-so has gone back East and left them here for me to keep,' and when she made three or four home calls and this woman was never home, this man said she was over to a relative's to take care of a sick woman, or something that way; and after it was about six or seven months old it didn't look good to her so she gave it over to my department and I went out there to find out this woman had been working for a year and nine months straight in private employment making $50.00 a month, and in the meantime the husband has argued and told lies to the case-aide and all kinds of misrepresentation and she has been making an honest effort to find out. She told me she went out there at five o'clock in the morning to see where this lady worked, but couldn't find out, but she had been making a very earnest effort to find out. This afternoon when I visited the ranch he had 48 hogs, 3 cows and a calf, 3 men boarding there and six horses." MIXTER: "And he will still be drawing State aid?" BROTHERS: "He was drawing relief. He isn't now."

Report of Sam Houston Allen, November 15, 1939: "For those who feel we are unable to close cases because of the long period between home calls, our statistics prove that under ordinary conditions the greater number of cases are closed because of WPA work orders. And of the remainder over and above those who voluntarily furnish us with the closing information, the facts are brought to us by landlords, our rate taxpayers, employers, etc., and only a very small percentage of cases are closed as the result of case-workers making the scheduled home call of which the chiseler is forewarned.

PREISKER: "The controversy that we have had with the State Relief Administration has been that we attempted—they contended that we attempted to be too hard on the relief recipient. That our work wasn't suitable, that the people were sick, that they were—well, I don't know, but it was always some excuse or other, or else we were interfering with some of their state plans; with the result, as I say, we never were able to get more than about 65% at work and those that we did get to work were usually the deserving and those that didn't work were the chiselers and were the very ones that we were after. In other words, the state plan always favored the chiselers on relief."

Further:

"We would eliminate these known chiselers. We have the records on them here, we know who they are. We would eliminate a certain percentage of them right away. They wouldn't enter our program, they wouldn't draw any kind of relief and those that are holding other jobs, we can find them. We have coordinators, we have men in the state reemployment service that are working right along with them, we know who the chiselers are in this county. But your state rules don't get them."

Additional examples of chiseling are to be found in P-2 pages 20 to 30, H-2 pages 212 to 219, and in W-11 pages 47 to 53.

Recovery of money improperly paid by the SRA to chiselers, or as over-payments to deserving recipients, is a difficult and nonproductive procedure.

WOLLENBERG: "You said you had approximately five thousand odd cases, and you had $216,000.00 set up, and you had a total in your file somewhere from which you estimate 25,000 cases. Have you any idea how much the balance, the full 25,000 would be worth in round numbers, on your claims?"

BROWN: "It might total twice $216,000.00, or it might total one-third, due to the policing which has been done since this thing first started."

Relief recipients, in many cases, are known to have squandered money paid them by the State.

MYER: "I can explain that to the extent that we cleaned out the jungles on several occasions and on one instance twenty-seven of them were brought before me. Out of the twenty-seven I dismissed eleven of them, sixteen of them I committed to Fresno County jail for a period of ten days. I gave the sheriff an opportunity to take the fingerprints and check them down and run them down. Every one of the sixteen, strange as it may seem, had a prior record of some kind, some for rape, some for selling liquor to minors."

W-16 page 80—

LORE: "Of the 500 you may have received in a week of notices of overpayments can you give us a little description of what that constituted? They are not all chisellers, are they? GJERDRUM: "No, they are not. That is true. Of course, they are not all chisellers. Lots of these overpayments are through laxity in the personnel."

"Of all the cases I have been on, in this particular area of the State, let us take the Adolph Linge case. I personally turned over to the SRA in Alameda County certain conditions that existed in the family which, without question, make him ineligible for relief. This man was able to purchase a brand new 1939 Oldsmobile sedan, paid $1180 for it. The monthly payments stipulated $30 per month. It was found two or three times there were other sources of income in the family, during the period they were on relief. Mrs. Linge was able to take an airplane trip back East, which she did. Social worker was aware of this but neglected to make a note of it."

He says, 'are you on relief' and if the man says 'Yes,' he says 'Sixteen dollars'. It is a racket. The relief administration is paying rent on those shacks that they shouldn't allow a hog to live in and they are paying the maximum of rent which is $16 per month."

VEST: "After the incoming administration got into the saddle the thought was implanted in the operation section that the social service angle would be the controlling factor. Great stress was laid on the treatment of the clients. Special direction was issued that a liberty party would operate from Houdd Gibson to San Francisco every other week." WOLLENBERG: "And you brought them down in a truck?" VEST: "This was a matter of two hundred miles, a round trip, for a truck and driver, the truck leaving the project Saturday morning early and returning Sunday night in time for the evening meal. A bridge toll charge for the passage of these men is included in the charges against the operations of the camp." WOLLENBERG: "Would all the men always come back?" VEST: "No. It can be safely said that about twenty-five per cent of the men going on one of these liberty parties would fail to be on the return truck,—they knowing that it was a very simple matter to check into the intake office in San Francisco and be assigned out to Sharps Park for distribution to some other camp. A general motto of the clients and one well followed is: 'Join the SRA and see California by truck.' There did not seem to be any control in the matter of clients. A man could be checked out or check himself out and present himself to an intake office for assignment to an intake camp."

W-15 page 158—

ARATA: "We can take, say we take, right here at Sharps Park, we take twenty-five men here at night that come in there, and of course, you realize that our greatest problem in the camps is booze,—there is nothing at all to a thousand men paralyzed drunk in the camps, nothing at all. One man, whose name I can't recall, at Camp Los Posados near St. Helena, was fired for being drunk, and one night I was called and told to hurry to King's River, which isn't in operation now but was then,—on the 23d day of February, 1938; there was a riot, and told to go down and quell it, and when I went down there I found the whole camp in three sections and one sign was up saying "Second and G Streets, Sacramento," and a fellow from the Los Angeles group had a sign up 'Fifth and San Pedro,' and the other sign was 'Third and Howard Streets,' and they were all drunk,—the whole works,—the superintendent of the camp was drunk; all the administrative help in the camp were drunk,—everybody from the cooks on up."

"OLSON OFFERS WELCOME TO MIGRANTS

"Says State Has Room For All But Must Have Federal Aid

"By Millard Browne

"First big gun in a drive for a comprehensive federal program to rehabilitate migratory laborers was fired by Governor Olson last night as a 10-man congressional delegation was entertained at the annual banquet of the Sacramento chamber of commerce.

"We're going to present to congress at the next session some very definite requests for federal action in helping California rehabilitate migrant laborers,' the governor declared in an address of welcome to the senate and house appropriations and military affairs committeemen who had arrived in three army transport planes for an inspection of the Sacramento army air depot.

"Wants Federal Help

"California is ready to receive these migrants and help them in becoming self-sustaining and self-supporting citizens,' Olson told the congressional delegation and 500 chamber of commerce members in a banquet at Hotel Senator.

"We have resources that will support many times our present population, but while we are assimilating these people we ask the federal government to give us aid.' " (The remainder of the article has no additional quotations from Governor Olson.)

- M-6 page 187— STONE: "I omitted the fact that I considered the fact of fingerprinting these individuals one of the ways in which many of them could be kept out—could be kept out. It is my belief that many of the criminal class have immigrated, or migrated to California, and they could be picked up on the border and that furthermore, if it was known that they were to be fingerprinted at the border, that a great diminution in number of migrants would be noted. These people object very seriously to fingerprinting both from the standpoint of fear of detection of previous crimes, and also there is a superstitious dread of such a practice."
- H-6 page 11— STANFIELD: "During certain seasons of the year there will be anywhere from 65 to 75 a day coming to California (through) Indio (in Riverside) county." O'DAY: "Has this condition prevailed for long?" STANFIELD: "For three or four years." O'DAY: "You think it should be handled by the federal government?" STANFIELD: "I do."
- H-6 page 79— JONES: "Every county has its problem. Migratory labor comes in and works for 15 or 20¢ an hour—they come from Oklahoma and other places by the thousands every year—they go back five and six times and then they come back again."
- M-7 page 33— WAGY: "Do you have any more migrants on your rolls today?" COSGRAVE: "Yes, there are quite a number of migrants, I should say. I couldn't tell you the exact percentage, I haven't gotten that far yet, but judging from the comparison of number of clients on our rolls now as of the year or two years ago, it would seem that more than sixty per cent." WAGY: "More than sixty per cent today are migrants?" COSGRAVE: "That is what I would say."
- M-7 page 86— STONE: "If I may offer this as an exhibit for your attention. We have primarily shown on this map, drawn up by the State Chamber of Commerce, the places where all of the migrants are coming from. We have here the basis of wages that are paid here, yonder and there over the United States. Arkansas is paying an average of a dollar a day for farm labor. Texas is paying a dollar and a quarter. Oklahoma pays about a dollar forty-five. The United States averages about a dollar and a half and California pays two dollars and eighty cents."

I would say in the last year or two the majority of the transient help has gone on relief, yes."

Further : WATSON : "What I was getting at, these people, didn't they used to get along without the aid of the SRA and perhaps some of them stayed in camp there, made enough during picking season to tide them over?" BRITTON : "That is right. And in most cases if they needed help we would help them ourselves, but in the last two or three years there has been such a large volume of labor that it was just impossible for us to take care of all of them during those seasons." MIXTER : "I feel that we have more labor in the state than we can digest and if these people can't find work it is a Federal problem. I can't see why the State should continue taking care of thousands and thousands of people who are coming in here from other states when there just simply isn't work enough to go around, and as far as agitation goes, in every case that I know of it has been outside influences, and they could be traced back to subversive organizations."

PALOMARES: "Yes, sir. They furnish the employment office with a statement that that ranch is—that the people on it are on strike because they do not pay certain wages and on account of living conditions and this and that and the other. The employment service can not refer labor to that farm until the strike is lifted."

M-6 page 139—

WATSON: "Did they promise any of these employees of yours relief if they would go on strike, that you know of?" STEINDORF: "Yes, they did. They held meetings at night down at Los Deltas, which is a little community about an eighth of a mile from the camp and said that if they went on strike they would be given relief and asked them not to work until they would get their demand and that they would later—Lillian Monroe said that she would see that they all got on relief."

M-6 page 151—

PALOMARES: "We can not go to the SRA and ask for help. We must ask through the State employment office who in turn, requisitions the relief agency. If they want to come they come and if they don't want to come they don't come. In the late years the question of wages has been quite prominent in the picture and many of them have been told that the wages that the farmers paid were not satisfactory; consequently, they are to stay on relief and they did stay on relief regardless. Yet, many of those who were on relief, rather than to be taken off of relief have taken private employment."

H-1 page 48—

Houser: "Well, now, let's get back on this WPA 18 months' furlough. Which month would that add to the rolls? In other words, in which month was that mostly felt?" REESE: "I think it started—I'll have to refer back. September, October, November, and December we still get some."

"The statement was made by a number of representatives of the State Relief Administration appearing before our Social Service and Welfare Committee at Sacramento that in their opinion a tremendous increase in case-load was largely attributable to WPA lay-offs, but they told us nothing about the fact in Sacramento that at the same time the WPA workers were being laid off and put on SRA, the WPA was taking on from the SRA rolls an equal number of people."

HOUSER: "Do you personally attribute the great increase in SRA rolls to 18-month layoff?" REESE: "Perhaps there is too much emphasis placed on that one point. There is a number of factors involved."

SENATOR MAYO: "Now, did you take a corresponding number and replace them with eligible SRA certificates?" LEGG: "Yes, sir; we kept our quota at all times." MAYO: "If you had to certify 5000 WPA workers from the WPA payroll, due to this act of Congress, for 18 months, you immediately take 5000 additional persons from the SRA and replace them?" LEGG: "Yes, sir."

LEGG: "Every public agency in Southern California is eligible to be a sponsor for projects, sewing rooms, storm drains, schoolhouses, and all different sorts of projects. We did not have enough projects eligible to employ the quota that had been assigned to us." WOLLENBERG: "That was in what period of time?" LEGG: "Well, it has been more aggravated in the last five months, and we have had a quota in seven or eight thousand in excess of the number we could employ, ranging down to about three thousand at the present time. Today we can employ three thousand more, only if we had enough projects."

EMPLOYMENT

Although unemployment has been the major problem of the decade, the California State Employment Service—the agency for finding jobs for men and women—has been subordinated to dole-paying activities. No small part of the difficulty arises from the effort to coordinate the State service with a Federal plan which lays emphasis on relief rather than on putting men and women to work.

M-6 page 162—

PALOMARES: "Another suggestion that I would like to make without any criticism of the local officers of the employment service, the trouble is with the employment service up in Sacramento, that it has got too many generals, lieutenant-generals, brigadiers, colonels, and lieutenant-colonels. Years ago when you had only ten offices in the State of California, agriculture used to get better service because there wasn't so much red tape."

MIXTER: "Have you any idea as to the causes of the difference in placements in those two years in these two fields?" MARSH: "Last year, of course, at practically the inception of the cotton harvest your strike situation occurred, and the orders, as we received them just as others received them I believe, with some exceptions, and we also received from the CIO agricultural workers' union notice of a labor dispute with these growers and in accordance with our bulletins, we had to stop providing men pending investigation. And here is what happened: by the time we investigated and had determined the existence of a labor dispute or not, the migratory worker had moved in and taken the jobs over and the jobs weren't available. Consequently, the placements were filled from other sources." MIXTER: "Then the migratory workers to whom you refer came in and made direct application?" MARSH: "Yes." MIXTER: "For employment, to the grower?" MARSH: "Yes." MIXTER: "And that, to a considerable degree would be the reason for it?" MARSH: "That is the total reason for it. The harvest of cotton last year was just about the same as the previous year of '38, and not much difference in the labor demand." MIXTER: "Do you have any instructions that forbid sending labor to places where strike conditions prevail?" MARSH: "That is correct. We have a bulletin to that effect that was issued as of July 7, 1939." MIXTER: "You mean—" MARSH: "Bulletin 26 from the Department of Employment, the Unemployment Reserve Commission; this bulletin refers to a ruling by Secretary Perkins of the Department of Labor which at that time we were affiliated with, and a ruling from the United States Employment Service, of Section 21.12 which very definitely states that each employment office under its supervision shall refrain from referring any person to any position at any place of employment where there exists a labor dispute, and for the purpose of this rule, the term 'labor dispute' shall include any controversy concerning terms or conditions of employment concerning the organization or representation of persons, negotiating, fixing, maintaining, changing, or seeking to arrange terms or condition of employment, regardless of whether or not the dispute is then in the relationship of employer and employee. That is the clause we, of course, are still operating under."

"Our policies are all set up by the administrative headquarters and we handle the administrating as it is set up. However, I do believe that the strike regulation could be more definitely defined. Our feeling in the actual application is that it is so loose that sometimes we can not definitely find out whether there is a labor dispute or not because of the fact that the regulations state that the dispute does not have to be in the relationship of the employee to the employer. It may be a third party who has no direct relationship. That leads to the possible occurrence where an individual who desires to enter into a labor dispute with some employer, having no connection other than the desire, serves notice upon us and following our regulations, then we have for the time being at least, a labor dispute until we have investigated it. If this could be worded to state 'bonafide labor dispute directly between employer and employee' we would have a much more conclusive basis than we have at the present time. Secondly, in regard to referrals of workers on SRA on requisition from our office, I have no criticism with the local SRA because their cooperation has been splendid. However, the system itself lends to a lag in the actual separation in this point: Where you refer individuals, that individual, of course, may refuse the job and in the meantime the opening still exists in agriculture, and other workers then have to be referred to make up the deficiency. Sometimes that constant filling up the gap takes so much time that by the time you actually get enough referred the job has been filled by another source." MIXTER: "There is lots of lost motion there?" MARSH: "Yes. If there was only some way that could be expedited, whether it would be mass separation or what it would be—I don't know the answer—but I do know that occurs and I am also of the opinion that a good deal of the building up of our slowness in getting these workers to the jobs as they exist and the job being filled by outsiders. And that pyramiding may be quite a reason for the heavy residual load, plus new workers coming in. In other words, I feel that we are going to have to develop some method of clearance that will be faster than it is at the present time."

M-10 page 56—

MIXTER: "In the event that a complaint of this nature is registered or filed with you in your office, and under the operation of existing statutes, you are forbidden to supply any labor while the situation alleged in the complaint continues, what is the procedure by your office, do you report the circumstances to—" FISHER: "Headquarters." MIXTER: "The State headquarters at Sacramento." FISHER: "Sacramento." MIXTER: "And are you permitted to, or do you make any investigation on your own account?" FISHER: "We make no investigation." MIXTER: "These investigations, if and when they are made, they are made by the State office?" FISHER: "I presume that to be true. At least this local field office has made none." WATSON: "Do you know whether the State office ever made any?" Fisher: "I know of none, Mr. Watson."

M-3 page 47—

PARKS: "Last year at Patterson there was considerable labor agitation over there." MIXTER: "What was the nature of that, was it farm labor trouble or industrial?" PARKS: "It was mostly union, unionizing, Workers' Alliance, mostly caused by agitators; wasn't caused by workers. The trouble was caused by fellows who wouldn't work if you would give them a job, they were just trying to create trouble to force the farmers into paying a larger wage than what was the going wage." MIXTER: "In your observation, was there any attempt on the part of these people, these agitators and others to whom you refer, to intimidate, coerce the farmers into paying wages at rates other than they were offering?" PARKS: "Yes, sir."

M-3 page 94—

STOKES: "More or less in case of these meetings is all that I say, the Workers' Alliance meeting." MIXTER: "These meetings that you referred to, were they generally participated in by a few people who sought to build up a type of sentiment that might be calculated to produce dissatisfaction among people who were working?" STOKES: "Very much so."

WOLLENBERG: "You actually place people in private employment from this office?" PATERSON: "Very much so, yes, we do." WOLLENBERG: "How many have you placed?" PATERSON: "In what period?" COOLEY: "We have in San Francisco a unique system. We maintain in the San Francisco employment service a former CSES placement officer, and then we have nine or ten relief clients there. The purpose of that project is to keep the SRA addresses up to date on clients, with their telephone numbers, and also to keep a proper occupational classification of them. Then this $80 administrative worker, her job is to contact the CSES placement officers and get preference in placements for relief clients, and thus in that way we get a constant stream of about 100 jobs a month for SRA relief clients. This project which we set up, which is manned mostly by relief clients, means simply that they just get their budget, or they work for it, and get 15 per cent additional. They are not administrative employees. There is only one administrative employee at $80 a month. The cost of the project is far exceeded by the money saved in getting 100 people off relief in a month."

Report by Edwin N. These men were trained and influential citizens who were in touch with business concerns and factories. On September 1, 1939 Allen set up a 'Sales Department' in the Los Angeles SRA to replace the 'Reemployment Division' with a staff of about 35 inexperienced and incompetent employees.'"

While we were cooperating with them or rather they were cooperating with us, our placements were 4%. Later in the summer, when that cooperation was withdrawn—I will say we still are very friendly and try to help each other as much as possible—that the mechanics that we had for cooperation were discontinued, the placements dropped to less than 1%, showing that it was our work in cooperation with them that was placing most of the relief clients in private employment here, because, when that work was withdrawn from their office, they were not able to further place the relief clients, it dropped from 4 to less than 1%.”

LEACH: “One big thing that is needed in SRA, in SRA in Monterey County and other counties, is more help and work placement, both by the SRA staff and by the State employment agencies, nine times out of ten, your CSES will not recommend or send out a man on relief, feeling that the man who is not on relief stands a much better chance of doing the job. That is one of the causes of our unemployment problem, the actual placement of these people back in private industry.”

WATSON: "You have personal knowledge of some cases of that sort?" FRICK: "Yes, well I have personal knowledge, it comes rather direct. Right in my own case, and in one place I received the notice because he lived there, that they were contemplating paying him this insurance. I know that they contemplated paying him this insurance because I received notice of it."

H-5 page 26—

O'DAY: "Do you think the Legislature should make it part of their business to attempt to see that these people are reemployed?" GRIER: "The reemployment service is that. They have devoted too much time to securing jobs for those who are here in California and ineligible for relief. If their whole activity were devoted to ridding relief rolls, their reemployment activities would be much better than they have operated in the past."

MRS. KENNEDY: "Mr. O'Day, I feel that when a family apply to us for relief they only come with one thought or one problem and that is unemployment. The only thing that can solve that problem is getting the person back into private employment."

The SRA has been over-staffed, many executives and employees being untrained for their duties while experienced workers have been released or demoted to make places for political appointees. SRA social service workers have too little regard for the taxpayers' problem of paying increased relief costs.

Report by Edwin N. Atherton and Associates on State Relief Administration: "There is evidence indicating the breaking down of morale. This appears to be due largely to internal dissensions and jealousies; to constant changes in personnel and in policy; to the appointing in supervisory and key positions of inexperienced persons, lacking the necessary qualifications to direct a business of the importance and magnitude of the SRA."

PHILLIPS: "I am just bringing up as a matter of record that, although in April and May and June of last year there was constant discussion between the Senate and the Assembly and representatives of the State Relief Administration that it was absolutely necessary to cut the cost, that one thousand additional people were added to the administrative staff of the SRA in that time; and that in setting up this encumbrance of money there was no contemplation of reducing the load whatever." SERAFINO: "As to that, Senator, may I say again that that is not my function. In other words, that is not my responsibility." PHILLIPS: "I am not asking you about that. I am asking you: Is that a fact?" SERAFINO: "Well—" PHILLIPS: "You were at these conferences—many of them. You know what the discussion was." SERAFINO: "That is right." PHILLIPS: "I am not asking you as a matter of policy; I am asking you as a matter of fact. Isn't it a fact that the discussion through all those conferences was the necessity of keeping down the cost of the SRA?" SERAFINO: "That is right." PHILLIPS: "Then, also, that the constant repetition of the fact that the SRA Administrative cost was not only high but was rising?" SERAFINO: "That is right." PHILLIPS: "That is a fact. All right, isn't it a fact that the estimate you gave under this House Resolution 42 is the highest administrative cost in the monthly history of the SRA?" SERAFINO: "Not entirely right, Senator. I would say it is the highest payroll in the history of the SRA."

SERAFINO: "I would like to indicate to you that the reason that this figure of salaries outstanding was so large during the month of February is this, that we file our budget statement as of February 1st." PHILLIPS: "You filed your budget statement with Mr. Richards. Is that right?" SERAFINO: "That is right, and—" . . . PHILLIPS: "You might say Mr. Richards was startled; am I right?" SERAFINO: "I don't know whether he was or not. I imagine he was."

W-11 page 59— SPEARES: "There seems to be a big difference in this administration and the last administration in the way those men are handled. I have noticed there is a tendency on the part of this administration to create as many new administrative jobs as they can. In other words, there have been no restrictions. We haven't been held down."

Generally the SRA has been over-staffed with unqualified executives and employees.

Mrs. Elizabeth Gallagher, classified as intermediate accounting clerk." JOHNSON: "That is Mr. Gallagher's daughter-in-law?" MISS LOUGHREY: "That's right. And Miss Amelia Scalzo, classified as junior stenographer-clerk."

W-9 page 47— WOLLENBERG: "Was there any period there that you might have felt that you were over-staffed?" COOLEY: "Yes. I was over-staffed in—I was over-staffed in this county during October, November. I was over-staffed in this county both professionally and clerically, to a very considerable extent. I had asked Alexander in writing on several occasions to tell the State office to reduce the staff to yardstick. He refused to do so because he didn't want to remove these political appointees."

HOUSER: "What do they do, these ambulatory receptionists?" MRS. RETTIG: "Well, ours stood behind the desk and took the name of the client for the purpose of finding out what they wanted—whether it was a new application or what. But in some districts I understood at the beginning they were just supposed to wander around and make the clients comfortable and happy. That was the original philosophy I was told." Procedure in handling SRA personnel is complicated and inefficient.

For a period of three and a half to four months, or over, over a hundred employees or more in this county did not receive their pay-checks." WOLLENBERG: "Do you know the cause of that?" The record which they took wouldn't have been worth anything at all if it had been left up to them to take it. In other words, they didn't know the nomenclature of anything they were taking. They didn't know anything. They had to get out a rule and measure every stick of lumber—they couldn't tell if they were undercharging a desk."

Evaluations of employees' services are ignored in handling the SRA staff.

H-10 page 41— HOUSER: "Was there any definite procedure followed in the layoff?" MRS. WORCESTER: "Most of the layoffs were of people with the highest evaluations; none from the lower group." HOUSER: "What was the reason for it?" MRS. WORCESTER: "Mr. Roe felt very strongly about these people put on since he had been put on the staff. Many single people are going to be laid off. The people on the staff a few months can not be as competent. Mr. Roe said not one of his people would be laid off." HOUSER: "Are his people all Democrats?" MRS. WORCESTER: "He said his people would not be laid off. Some of these people are good, although they are recent additions to the staff; some ought to be retained."

M-6 page 285— MIXTER: "Will you state briefly to the committee what you desire to present at this time." FORS: "Well, just in connection with the laying off. I read in the paper that the lay-offs were based on seniority. However, I know that was not so and I personally believe it wasn't based on efficiency."

H-12 pages 38 & 39— HOUSER: "And what was the basis for laying these people off, do you know?" MRS. SHIRLEY: "No, I really don't, I am at a loss to know because not only I but many of the most efficient people who worked for me were laid off. I do know one-fourth of the staff, who had lower evaluations, have not been laid off, they are also the least experienced people. I know they weren't made on efficiency. I have here a letter,—It's a lay-off letter of one of the women who worked for me, and I think it will be interesting—and, by the way, I am a union member, and she was not a union member, she was however a very good worker, and I gave her an evaluation of 89 per cent. She asks Mrs. Worcester to give her—since she wasn't given a copy of her evaluation—to give her a copy of what her evaluation was. And there is Mrs. Worcester's statement as to what it was. She is a person experienced in social work and had a very fine attitude toward clients, and was an efficient person. Then on March 22 she received this letter. As you will notice here, the evaluation that I gave her was 89. 'Your over-all efficiency rating as a case worker is .778; seniority rating is 2 points; grand total .788. We wish at this time to thank you'—and so forth. There is that letter." HOUSER: "When was that? What is the date of that letter?" MRS. SHIRLEY: "That's the 22d. She went in to Mr. Roe on March 26, and asked Mr. Roe if she might be allowed to resign, since if she ever wanted to get employment anywhere else or return to school a letter of that kind would be very damaging. She asked if she might have the efficiency rating I gave her, and this is the letter she received: 'Dear Mrs. Davis: We regretfully accept your resignation from our staff effective March 23, 1940. Your overall efficiency rating is 89 points with 2 points for seniority making a total of 91 points as a case-worker.'"

PHILLIPS: "What grounds were given when you were separated?" DUNKELBERGER: "Economy reasons. In other words, because the relief bill was only twelve million two hundred, that they had to cut on account of economy reasons, and then they put two men in my position, after they fired me, three days later. That is economy; that is what we mean by this report, and it comes right down to it. In other words they transfer people around to hide them out some place."

HOUSER: "Did that go on to any great extent?" MRS. CRUICKSHANK: "Yes, there were quite a few of the evaluations that were changed." HOUSER: "What was the purpose of making those changes?" MRS. CRUICKSHANK: "First they picked out those that they thought should be in the upper five per cent, and then they just raised or lowered other percentages accordingly, so that they would fall in line." HOUSER: "In other words, whoever was running the office made up his mind, made up her mind as to who they wanted to go and who they wanted to stay, and only shuffled the evaluations around so as to meet their desires, is that it?" MRS. CRUICKSHANK: "I suppose it could be interpreted that way."

I asked him if my seniority shouldn’t count something and he said, ‘There’s no such damn thing as seniority.’” KUCHEL: “Did he say anything else to you?” MISS THOMPSON: “I asked him if my efficiency rating shouldn’t count anything, I said that Mrs. Cox had told me that my efficiency rating was the highest of all of the intermediate clerks in the office, and he says, ‘As far as those damned efficiency ratings are concerned,’ he says, ‘I’m changing those.’”

SPEARES: “When I was on this relief job in the summer, relieved Mr. Amundsen, who is the superintendent of Camp El Dorado at Placerville. His assistant superintendent was Mr. Gordon See, who is a brother of Harry See who holds some political job with the State. Just what it is I don’t know, but anyway he was not there. He appeared on the roll but he wasn’t present. So I inquired from the men there as to where the assistant superintendent was and they said, ‘Well, he doesn’t come out to camp; he lives in town.’ I said, ‘How can he be assistant superintendent?’ And they said, ‘He says he was told when he was sent here they had some political job for him, but to come out every other day and sign the camp payroll,’—which he did. I called up Mr. Baumgartner, my chief, 182 Montgomery Street, and told him the story. He said, ‘Bill, you are the superintendent, you certainly know how to run the camp.’ So I sent for him and I informed him that he should stay in camp, and he said that he had been told when he was given the job he didn’t have to stay in camp and his only job was pertaining to Saturday night and Sunday, when the men came in for week-ends, and it was his job to see that they were kept behaving themselves. I said, ‘Why not leave that to the authorities in Placerville, when the men misbehave themselves?’ He said, ‘I’m a deputy sheriff.’ Anyway, I made him stay in camp. But I only stayed there two weeks when I was sent to Hurleton, out of Oroville, as camp superintendent.”

ARATA: "I believe his title was a watchman, I believe that was what they called him." WOLLENBERG: "What was he supposed to do?" ARATA: "He was the constable in the town of Auburn." WOLLENBERG: "How far from Auburn is the camp?" ARATA: "Twenty-three miles." WOLLENBERG: "When would he be in camp?" PHILLIPS: Did you have the same instructions from the director on him?" SERAFINO: "Yes, the director—the administrator approved advances to Voshell and also advances to Bamrick." PHILLIPS: "Well, I think it might be interesting for the record to show it, I wasn't looking for this. This just turned up accidentally; but it's very interesting that on August 23, 1939 Mr. Edward J. Bamrick started his career with an advance of $200 and that he had subsequent advances up to and including April 15, as shown by the ledger, that the unpaid balance, that is, the balance of money owed the revolving fund went as high as $335.35 on the 30th of December, but was reduced by taking both his pay checks for the 16th of February and the 7th of March which reduced his balance as of the 7th of March to $30.37, since when it has risen again to a present balance of $269.70 and that this treatment is an exemption from the regulations of the administrator."

any economy or streamlining was considered, offered voluntarily to cut their expenses and keep them down to $3 a day, which I am happy to state that they have done."

The foregoing, regarding the reduction being sanctioned in "free will and accord," is contradicted by the following:

P-4 page 47—

SERAFINO: "Well, are you familiar, Mr. Heffner, with any agreement in the Transportation Division on a $3 a day basis instead of $5 a day basis?" HEFFNER: "No, the only thing that I know about that agreement was that two or three of the truck drivers who are really intelligent boys came over here and told me that they had been instructed that while they were on the road to only turn in their expenses at the basis of $3 a day." SERAFINO: "Instructed by whom?" HEFFNER: "Mr. Bauer."

Social service workers of the SRA disregard the taxpayer in their zeal to assist the relief recipient.

H-2 page 205—

WILSON: "There are about 40 per cent of the social service that are solicitous not only of the client, but of the taxpayer. About 60 per cent of them, and I use that figure because of a division in a particular district that I know of, I would say their sole interest is the welfare of the client."

Continuing:

"Well, gentlemen, you have had testified here yesterday a means whereby the Social Service Division padded their rejections. Now, you perhaps wonder why that padding took place. W-12 pages 88

FALLON: "Well, my personal viewpoint would be the understanding of the Social Service Division, that we are actually spending money, instead of just figures on paper; we realize the value of the dollar, and every time they make a mistake or certify a wrong person to relief, they are spending the taxpayers' money,—the sooner they realize that, the longer our money will last. That has been my experience in my connections with some of the social service people. In fact, I have had some of them make statements they don't care anything about the money end; that's my job. They are merely interested in seeing the people get the amount of relief they are entitled to; they are not interested in the money end of it. I think, as long as they are

HOUSER: "You don't think that the State should employ a number of social workers to go around and discuss the marriage relationships of these people—" PREISKER: "I think that there is only one thing for them to discuss and that is, what the family needs to carry on a decent standard of living, to look into it to see whether there is another employable that should support them. I do believe in trained workers for the case work, but I believe we need a business man and not a social worker at the head of it, and I believe that the present thing that is wrong and the thing that has always been wrong with it is your relief commission. There's where we have struck our trouble, has been the relief commission and not the administrator."

SECTION 5

WASTE AND INEFFICIENCY

Study of the business methods and practices of SRA has developed an amazing record of duplication, "red-tape," waste and inefficiency.

W-11 page 244— McLAUGHLIN: "When Mr. Cooley appeared before the Board of Supervisors on March 6th he had a set of figures that showed there was only $2,425,000 available for direct relief payments."

W-11 page 245— Further: "Three days later that had been increased by almost $500,000, and it was $2,908,000 available. Three days later the figures I received from the office of the Director of Finance showed that the $2,908,000 became $3,021,000, and I have a letter in there from the State Relief Administration that shows that the total amount of money available for March, instead of being $4,200,000, is $4,500,000, and that the costs other than direct relief will not greatly exceed 20 per cent."

The SRA revolving fund demonstrates how SRA business has increased.

P-4 page 33— COMBES: "Going back to '36 and '37 I think the amount of the revolving fund was $15,000 at that time to the best of my recollection."

PHILLIPS: "What is the amount today?" COMBES: "The amount in the current revolving fund is $65,000 consisting of two sources. There was no provision in the $35,000,000 appropriation for a revolving fund and consequently we were permitted to continue to use the revolving fund which originally came from the 90th fiscal year consisting of $40,000 and we obtained a loan from the State Emergency Fund totaling $25,000 for this particular revolving fund and this revolving fund is exclusive of the one that was maintained for the food stamp distribution which is a new item just recently."

Further:

COMBES: "In addition to that then is the food stamp revolving fund which at the present time totals $275,000, $75,000 being for the North and $200,000 for the South." (The stamp fund has since been increased to $350,000.)

Advances to SRA employees accounts for the increased size of the revolving fund.

P-4 page 41—

SERAFINO: "Before this bulletin went out we tried to keep a person's advance down below his salary and wherever possible is accumulated or a percentage of his accumulated salary. We generally tried to keep it within a half or three-quarters of his salary, is that right?" COMBES: "Yes." PHILLIPS: "Of his month's salary?" SERAFINO: "Of his month's salary." PHILLIPS: "But you weren't very successful?" SERAFINO: "No, we weren't very successful."

Absence of close control of SRA property is shown by testimony regarding inventories:

W-9 pages 8
& 9—

COOLEY: "Decentralized accounting is a much more effective type of administration. Why we don't adopt it in all counties I don't know."

W-14 page 30—

WOLLENBERG: "How do your inventories check out, are they all right, or is there a shortage shown at any time?" SCHUMANN: "Well, at the present time we are over and we have submitted that list to Serafino's office." WOLLENBERG: "In other words, you have more physical property on hand than you are charged with?" SCHUMANN: "That is right."

P-1 pages 6 & 7—

PHILLIPS: "From 1936 to the present time in 1940 there has been no physical inventory taken?" SERAFINO: "No complete physical inventory. There have been periodical inventories taken at various times of various locations." PHILLIPS: "And in 1940, as of the moment, the value of the assets—the physical assets of the SRA are three and one-half million?" SERAFINO: "Approximately that." PHILLIPS: "What would you say they were four years ago?" SERAFINO: "Oh, I would say about half that figure."

HOUSER: "Mr. Serafino testified before the Committee that there had not been any actual physical inventory taken for over three years." FITZER: "I cannot understand that because we have taken them ever since I can remember."

BLACK: "There were instances such as deliberate removal of tags, holding of State property in a private home, deliberately defacing State property, gross negligence in storing State property, where the location and manner of storing State property, where the location and manner of storing ruins the property and damages other private property, to be paid for out of relief funds."

W-6 page 11—

BURNETT: "If articles were missing, which a number were from camps, apparently no effort was made to find them. It was a write-off. As far as I know there has never been an attempt to locate missing articles in camps."

P-7 page 356—

WOLLENBERG: "Do you keep an inventory of those stores?" GRAY: "We have tried to. We never had a true inventory."

Further:
P-7 page 357—

PHILLIPS: "When you signed the sheet was an inventory made, or a sheet laid before you and you just signed it?" GRAY: "I have never signed an inventory." WOLLENBERG: "Has one been presented to you for signature?" GRAY: "Yes; inventories have been taken and presented for signature, but I never signed one." WOLLENBERG: "Why haven't you signed one?" GRAY: "Because we never had a true physical inventory."

W-1 page 75—

SPEARES: "You take those fellows who were paid to come around to inspect and take inventory of property for Mr. Serafino, they were the most laughable thing,—they come to your place, and they are simply being paid off because there wasn't any place to put them and they had to pay them off, and so they sent them to take inventory,—that is the thing that raises Cain with the morale and everything else."

W-12 pages 151

WOLLENBERG: "How often did you make those inventories?" LANTHEAUME: "Every three months." WOLLENBERG: "Do they balance, as to the equipment that had been purchased and assigned to the departments?" LANTHEAUME: "No they didn't." WOLLENBERG: "Recite to us the cases where they didn't,—in what instance?" LANTHEAUME: "For instance, we had about twelve typewriters missing, and four or five desks, and numerous other equipment." WOLLENBERG: "Well, was there any effort made to determine where those typewriters might be, or the desks might be?" LANTHEAUME: "Well, I don't think there was." WOLLENBERG: "Do you mean, not by you or your department?" LANTHEAUME: "I mean, by my superiors." FIELD: "Did you report to your superiors the typewriters and desks were missing?" LANTHEAUME: "Yes." FIELD: "What did he say, —that is, Mr. Maitre?" LANTHEAUME: "Mr. Maitre says, 'I'll show you how to write off inventory', so he wrote it off." FIELD: "What do you mean by writing it off?" LANTHEAUME: "Which meant that he took, for instance, we might have a, —well, for instance, a oak file cabinet, with the number so-and-so,—so we tack a number on that, and that would be it."

Exactness of SRA records is placed in question by testimony heard by the committee.

W-12 page 124—

WOLLENBERG: "You know there were changes made in the actual record, in that regard?" LANTHEAUME: "There was. As far as my records are concerned, that is, the timekeeping records, they still remained the same, as far as I know." WOLLENBERG: "And the changes were made in the cost accounting records?" LANTHEAUME: "In the accounting department records, the change was made."

W-15 pages 117

COOLEY: "I would like to say for the record, this San Francisco office of the SRA suffers deep embarrassment in this case, because of the inability of the administration to produce work order No. 1. I want to say further, for myself and for the staff, that I have examined on it, no one of them has been able to indicate what happened to work order No. 1. Assuming as I do assume, it was issued, for the rest of the case, it seems to me there is an adequate explanation on the record, even though we all may differ as to interpretations."

W-12 pages 213
& 214—

WOLLENBERG: "This morning we had testimony from Mr. Lantheaume and Mr. Dewey Lee, the cost accountant, to the effect that in that project, there was work done on high chairs, that the actual cost of both labor and materials was so excessive, that the supervisor, Mr. Maitre, instructed them not to put either the time or the materials of record; that they had made it of record previous to his instructions and that when Mr. Maitre saw the record, that Mr.

Maitre, on inspection of this record, stated that that record should be changed; that the excessive cost that went into that record should be charged to general maintenance, and the record was changed. Mr. Lee testified he personally had changed and altered the record, in accordance with the instructions of his superior."

V-12 page 133—

FIELD: "Now the actual cost of prevailing wages of cabinet men and carpenters,—and, you heard what Mr. Lee said, that prevailing wage would be around 80¢ to 90¢ an hour. If that were true, what would be your best recollection as to the actual cost to repair these two high chairs?" LEE: "Under prevailing wage?" FIELD: "Yes." LEE: "It would be around $190 to $200."

In selling salvage materials the SRA did not receive full value.

W-1 page 71—

WOLLENBERG: "We had in the meeting at Los Angeles a statement from Mr. Serafino that they had gathered together a great deal of material in Camp Stockton and had a survey and then sold it as salvage material and worthless material, and I think they had gotten $30 for the whole lot." SPEARES: "Yes, I would like to have bought it for $150,—I was there when it was moved."

Purchase of supplies by the SRA may be a cumbersome process.

SERAFINO: "The original requisition for the purchase of those tomatoes came from our cannery unit—one of our co-op cannery units, and this unit had specified a certain type of tomatoes. I believe they were specified as Santa Clara Valley tomatoes. And they claimed that this was a superior canning tomato. My procurement department upon receiving the requisition immediately questioned whether that explanation was a reasonable one, and they doubted very much whether the purchase would ever even get through the State Bureau of Purchases, let alone our own procurement department. And there was quite an argument about it. However, the technical advisers in the co-op canning unit claimed from their own expert—supposedly expert knowledge that they knew what they were talking about." PHILLIPS: "Well, now, when you come in with this purchase order and you buy the material, who is responsible? Who has the final say as to whether an item should or should not be bought?" SERAFINO: "I would say that the Administrator has the final say. In other words, as head of the procurement office,—" PHIL-LIPS: "Do you mean to say that if you wanted to buy a hammer or a hundred tons of food and there was a question as to whether or not you needed them, it would have to go to Mr. Chambers?" SERAFINO: "Not necessarily to Mr. Chambers. I act in an advisory capacity to Mr. Chambers in that respect. PHILLIPS: "But you say that you advised against these purchases, and still they were made."

SERAFINO: "They were made for the reason that the technical experts in the canning unit convinced the Administrator that that purchase should have been made, over my objections."

POULSON: "The day that I put out this information, when you gave us this statement, I went over to the purchasing agent and there was an order for $2200 worth of jam, and they had written to your office wondering why you were ordering jam when you were supposed to be having it manufactured." PHILLIPS: "What we are trying to get at is just where responsibility rests on this matter of purchases, and also why, say, the SRA puts out statements that the money is all gone and there isn't any money for these people who are on relief, and buys in $2200 worth of jam when they don't need it."

An indication of the volume of and difficulties with SRA purchases is also furnished by the following:

PHILLIPS: "Now, then, you have Item 4, purchase orders food for the camps, for which claims are not yet filed with the State Controller. $433,877.61. SERAFINO: "That may best be explained by telling you that we purchase for camp use approximately $150,000 a month in perishables alone, plus possibly another hundred thousand dollars in various other materials and supplies."

W. C. VEST: "The question of the inspection and receipt of fresh fruits and vegetables and meats from the various vendors was always a troublesome item. The specifications under which a camp superintendent operates are those furnished from the main office, and in the case of fruits and vegetables provide that those products shall be U. S. No. 1, as far as the inspection and receipt was concerned. The receipts of these things were not up to standards. Complaints to the State Bureau of Purchases would meet with a rebuff, and instead of having the support of the Purchasing Department we would incur their enmity."

An indication of the variety of SRA expenditures is given by the following:

W-10-4—W. C. Vest, former SRA Camp Superintendent, San Francisco.

P-1 page 158— PHILLIPS: "You have even set up a $170,000 backlog for emergency orders for dental work."

P-1 page 218— SERAFINO: "Fifteen thousand dollars for telephone for the month of February. Now, that is ample to cover our needs, statewide, to our best estimates; and there is no doubt a certain amount of surplus in there that will never be expended. But we have got to have that. In other words, we have got to budget more than we intend to spend."

W-3 page 17— MORGAN: "They went to Mr. Harris to get some lumber, and it was shipped to Sacramento (from Santa Cruz in 1938) and the next day or two they shipped it back—over night the lumber came back within a mile of where they had bought it. We know, because Mr. Harris had his mark upon it, and they built the camp out of some of this lumber."

P-1 page 127— SERAFINO: "We spend approximately between twelve and fifteen thousand dollars a month on rentals, but I can tell you how many of those for previous months might not have been paid that are included in this figure; and the same for every other item that appears in that figure."

W-12 page 18— KENNEY: "There are approximately 300 existing leases as affecting the State Relief Administration in California; that includes leases for camps, leases for the surplus commodities, and if we get into food stamps, we will have both, and county administrative offices in the fifty-eight counties of the State."

The SRA spent $7650 for office space for a program rejected by the Legislature.

W-12 pages 19, 20, 21, 22, 23 & 24— WOLLENBERG: "What is paid for the area here?" (180 New Montgomery Street, San Francisco). KENNEY: "We are paying $1000 per month for this building for the third floor, and in addition, we are paying for our own janitor; we are receiving no utilities outside of water and lavatories." WOLLENBERG: "What about the garage?" KENNEY: "That is a separate lease." WOLLENBERG: "You have a separate lease on the garage?" KENNEY: "Yes, we have. It has nothing to do with this building at all. That lease is probably $150 or $175 per month." WOLLENBERG: "What area is covered over there?" KENNEY: "I don't remember the exact area." WOLLENBERG: "Is it the whole garage or the upper floor?" KENNEY: "Just a portion of the upper floor." FIELD: "What did it cost to fix up these offices?" KENNEY: "It cost approximately to fix up the second and this floor here, about $18,000 per floor, and on June 1st of last year we took over half of the fourth floor upstairs, in anticipation of the Richards program being enacted." FIELD: "The production for use?" KENNEY: "The production for use, and all the other things that were programmed at that time, and this being a State office, and we had no thought at that time the State office would later be moved to Los Angeles, and we were rather crowded—" WOLLENBERG: "You mean, you had no thought in your mind?" KENNEY: "Well—" WOLLENBERG: "I mean, you don't know what was in the mind of any one else?" KENNEY: "Oh, no. In anticipation of the enlargement of the relief program, one-half of the fourth floor was taken over." WOLLENBERG: "That was on June 1st?" KENNEY: "June 1st, 1939, at the rental of $550 per month. The State office was moved to Los Angeles on October 1st, 1939." WOLLENBERG: "The announcement of that move, do you remember when that was made?" KENNEY: "The announcement?" WOLLENBERG: "As a recall, it came from the Governor's office direct in Sacramento?" KENNEY: "The announcement I recall, I happened to be walking along the street and looking at a headline in the newspaper that said that Governor Olson states that the SRA office is to be moved to Los Angeles,—that was the first week in July of last year." WOLLENBERG: "Then you had entered, or the Administrator, or whoever the responsible party is, had taken over a half floor at the rate of $550 a little over a month prior to that?" KENNEY: "Yes. I myself, nor any one associated with me, knew there was any move contemplated at all. In fact, there was rumor the State office would be moved in toto to the Ferry Building, because of the ample facilities in the Ferry Building, and the vacant space caused by the State Chamber of Commerce having moved, and the proposition we would enjoy free rental there." FIELD: "Who was the man who authorized the rental of the fourth floor?" KENNEY: "The rental—" WOLLENBERG: "Who requisitioned it?" KENNEY: "Mr. Grant Friel,—he was the Acting Director of the Division of Operations, at that time." WOLLENBERG: "How much money was spent on that floor?" KENNEY: "ABOUT $6,000." WOLLENBERG: "In preparation of the State offices?" KENNEY: "That is right." WOLLENBERG: "What was done with the lease." KENNEY: "The lease was canceled as of September 30th, at midnight, 1939." FIELD: "Getting back to the fourth floor, do I understand you paid $6,000,—it cost you $6,000 to get the fourth floor in shape?" KENNEY: "That is correct." FIELD: "In addition, you paid four months' rent at $550?" KENNEY: "That is correct." FIELD: "A total cost of about,—$8,200, to be exact?" KENNEY: "That is approximately correct." FIELD: "Isn't that assuming a lot on the part of the State Relief Administration, to take it for granted a certain program is going to be in effect and spend a lot of money on that assumption?" KENNEY: "Well, of course, that isn't for me to answer." FIELD: "What I was trying to ask,—who gave you orders, or who actually had the say to fixing up the fourth floor and running up more charges?" KENNEY: "It probably emanated from Mr. Friel; he was acting directly under Mr. Chambers, and I received instructions that Mr. Grant Friel was acting Director of Operations, as I indicated a few moments ago, the fourth floor was taken over because of a crowded personnel condition existing on the second and third floors, and also in anticipation of an enlargement of the program pursuant to the program which was being prepared at that time by the Governor's—" FIELD: "The Richards committee?" KENNEY: "The Richards committee,—that is correct." FIELD: "Do you think any one of the State relief had any idea what the Richards report would contain?" KENNEY: "No. Personally I don't know; I couldn't answer that question." FIELD: "Do you know any one in the administration that did?" KENNEY: "No, I do not."

WOLLENBERG: "Now, in connection with Camp Natoma, did you have anything to do there with the construction of a warehouse?" KEITH: "Completely designed and built it." WOLLENBERG: "And that was a large warehouse, was it?" KEITH: "Yes. I would say around 30,000 square feet." WOLLENBERG: "And was it designed to be adequate to do warehousing for the Camps Department of the SRA in the Northern Area of the State?" KEITH: "Yes." WOLLENBERG: "How much was spent on that warehouse for construction, approximately?" KEITH: "Approximately $12,000." WOLLENBERG: "Was it ever used for the purpose for which it was built?" KEITH: "Not to my knowledge."

PHILLIPS: "Do you send somebody out from your department to look at the building?" SERAFINO: "On the major locations we do. In the past, however, we have only hit the major locations." PHILLIPS: "Generally speaking, outside of Los Angeles or San Francisco, you simply take the word of the local director?" SERAFINO: "That is right." * * * PHILLIPS: "And then you would transmit that request to the Department of Finance?" SERAFINO: "That is right." PHILLIPS: "Would the Department of Finance then make any check upon it?" SERAFINO: "They have the privilege, Senator, of making the check, and in certain instances they have. However, they generally follow the same policy that—" PHILLIPS: "Have you ever known your office to send, we will say, a teletype request to the Department of Finance for the approval of a lease and to get another teletype approval back that it is all right to take the lease?" SERAFINO: "That is done quite often, Senator." PHILLIPS: "That is the common procedure?" SERAFINO: "I think you are about right. That is about what we have been following." PHILLIPS: "Then, if we follow your trail backwards—that is, if we follow your statement backwards, we find that in practice the local director rents a building at his own desire and at his own rent?" SERAFINO: "Well, I don't know as I have a right to answer you to that or not." PHILLIPS: "Can you answer anything else?" SERAFINO: "I am afraid not."

Removal of SRA headquarters from San Francisco to Los Angeles was expensive.

PHILLIPS: "It cost around $50,000 to bring the personnel down. Did you include transportation in that?" SERAFINO: "That is right." PHILLIPS: "By what authority was that allowance paid? By what state law or state regulation?" SERAFINO: "As far as I know there is no authority for it, other than the administration's action." PHILLIPS: "Was it an order of the administration or was it passed upon by the State Relief Commissioner?" SERAFINO: "It was an order of the state administrator."

HOUSER: "You think they (E.R.O.'s) were given where not needed?" HOERGER: "Yes; I was told by relief clients they found it an advantage to demand EROs because the case would be opened quicker." HOUSER: "Did many demand who were not entitled to them?" HOERGER: "It happened quite often,"

- H-3 page 517— PHILLIPS: "We have one photostatic copy of an ERO issued for unpaid water assessments on clear property, on property which was farming property. . . . - W-16 page 96— JOHNSON: "Isn't it also true where your case workers or people out in the field are lax in the original investigation, you have a heavy percentage of non-collectibles where overpayment is made?" GJERDRUM: "That is right." JOHNSON: "And even if the people cooperate in the administrative office it won't be much help unless the individual workers in making their periodic check-ups are imbued with the same spirit of cooperation?" GJERDRUM: "That is absolutely true. That's right."
- M-6 page 243— WATSON: "Do you think these shoes that the SRA has been giving them were cheap shoes?" ANDERSON: "Unquestionably they were. As I understand it they merely give them a shoe order and they can go and buy them where they want to. In fact, I had one of our local merchants tell me not so long ago that a man came in to him and wanted to trade him two shoe orders for women's shoes that he had for a nice $6 pair of tan and white ones that he had in the window, men's shoes. There is no control over it. There is nothing you can do."
- M-5 page 115— WATSON: "How would they decide as to how many sheets or pillow cases that a family should have? How would they decide that? The number that was in the family?" MISS KEMPF: "That was left up to the case-aides." WATSON: "How many did you usually issue to a family?" MISS KEMPF: "Sometimes as high as six with request and sometimes more than that."
- W-10 page 6— VEST: "The camp superintendent was directed to issue such necessary clothing as the man needed. This clothing had a small sales value, and under the social service set-up a man after leaving one project could dispose of that clothing and draw out necessary clothing to replace that he disposed of." WOLLENBERG: "And you know that a lot of clothing, shoes, and things like that, were sold right along?" VEST: "Yes, —even those branded not to be sold."

Paper-work, or "red-tape" procedure abounds in the SRA.

COOLEY: "Well, I think the thing that is basic with us as a need is a simplification of our paper work and better relations with the Comptroller. That is number one. . . . "Number two is, we haven't ever worked out satisfactorily the right kind of coordination between the SRA and WPA. The paper work moves too slowly. It doesn't come over fast enough and our paper work doesn't get over there fast enough and we are not close enough together in our paper work. That is the main trouble."

We usually estimate around 75 cents."

And I think some of those separated from the service will give you a pretty good idea where the 'red tape' tangle messes SRA up. PHILLIPS: "How many trucks does the State of California—or that are operated by the State Relief Administration?" BAUER: "I would say approximately 335. I may be a little off." PHILLIPS: "All right. Now, in addition to the present trucks, how many trucks does the State rent?" BAUER: "We have on rent 20 and 16. That's 36. When I say rental, it's purchase rental."

FIELD: "You mean to tell me that the SRA or the State would rent trucks for $150, a small Ford truck, for 4,000 miles minimum mileage and 5 cents a mile after 4,000, you pay all the upkeep, the driver, the gas, oil, and they don't even furnish the insurance?" BAUER: "That's correct. That's my understanding."

WOLLENBERG: "How many State trucks would you guess were standing idle day in and day out—standing idle around the yard there?" MISS McFADDEN: "I would say at least five, possibly more." WOLLENBERG: "During that time the rented trucks were in operation?" MISS McFADDEN: "Yes, sir." WOLLENBERG: "Do you know whether or not those idle State trucks were in good repair, able to run?" ARATA: "Well, I am not positive; it was a week before Christmas—it may have been 1937 or '38." WOLLENBERG: "But the Oakland warehouse wasn't open then?" ARATA: "Oh, yes. They had the warehouse in Oakland for years, but not the warehouse they have now." WOLLENBERG: "He drove a 1½ ton truck with a seventy-five cent Christmas tree—what did the truck bring back?" ARATA: "Nothing."

Further:

ARATA: "Well, usually, if the truck driver wants to have his truck greased, he'll go into the service station and have it serviced and greased there." WOLLENBERG: "The greasing isn't done in the camps by the driver?" ARATA: "No, you see they have no way of paying. Some of the larger camps, like Natoma and Sharps Park, would have a man to grease, but you take the smaller camps—they go into the service station and have the service station attendant grease the truck. The only way he can pay him for the job is by charging it out in gasoline; that's the way they do." WOLLENBERG: "Do they do the same thing in repairing tires, and changing tires?" ARATA: "Yes."

DUNKELBERGER: "In other words, they deliver on an average of about a hundred or a hundred and fifty pounds of commodities to each school and made about five stops. But we were operating under the basis down there, which our superior told us: the minute we received an order, to make a delivery, regardless of whether it was a hundred pounds or fifty pounds. And in one instance, why, we ran a truck into Baldwin Park out here four times in one day with about a hundred pounds on it each trip. That is one reason why your trucking costs are going up."

W-7 page 10—

WOLLENBERG: "Do you know any other instances of Mr. Dunne's having financial transactions with other employees?" MISS McFADDEN: "Yes. He dispatched a State car to Madera and back, and this man picked up postal savings of his own and they were loaned or transferred to Mr. Dunne in amount of $100."

W-11 page 197—

MISS DOUGLAS: "There is one thing I don't want to forget. You see, SRA was going to sponsor the project and the county was its co-sponsor, which meant the county would spend about $4,500. When Miss Porter was placed on the job the attitude of the county was that as long as they were putting the money into the project they should have some voice in choosing the supervisor. The SRA wrote the county and told them that they did not want their contribution of $4,500 for the running of the project."

H-9 pages 85

PREISKER: "Mr. Chambers ordered immediately that the work should start. That is, that the county would be furnished with all the relief clients and they would be certified to the co-ordinator that the county maintains and to the road department to work out their relief. It had taken about two weeks, I imagine, to get a form of a contract—or I might say that two or three days following Mr. Chambers—after Mr. Chambers was here, that the project was authorized to start and then stopped, and authorized to start and then stopped, as least four changes were made in one day."

HOUSER: "When was he here?" PREISKER: "Well, it was about a month ago, it was somewhere along a month ago, and within two days after that we got word to start, we got our—you know you can't just put on three or four hundred men right now, you have to build your project up a little bit, get your foremen and your trucks and your machinery and everything of that kind ready to go, and the particular day that we were to start the orders were changed about four times from Los Angeles and finally the fifth order was that we would have to wait for a contract."

The provision of excess quantities of surplus commodities resulted in inefficient distribution of thousands of pounds of articles in outlying areas and to schools.

O'DAY: "And that was the first time that you had been told about building—to go out and build up those quotas?" DUNKELBERGER: "No, that was the general meeting—and telling us to go out and more or less liberalize the program. I was told by Mr. Olmstead around the first of the year that I had charge of the lunch program in Los Angeles County. And he at that time had the position that Mr. Lubin holds now." O'DAY: "But the first time you were informed that the policy was to be liberalized was on February the 8th, is that correct?" DUNKELBERGER: "That is correct."

certifying it to 600. I think that Assemblyman Fields knows that there is probably not 600 needy children around Herbert Hoover High School, but that is what they certified for."

Further:

"A cafeteria will use, say, 600 pounds of flour. In other words, all the flour they use is given to them by the—by our division. They don't go out and buy flour because we give them more than they need. And the same thing holds true on butter and eggs. For instance, Herbert Hoover High School is using about 15 pounds of butter a week. On the advent of Federal Surplus Commodities coming in, they jumped up and started using about 60 pounds of butter a week."

GOOCH: "They (relief recipients) are supposed to get all sorts of surplus commodities, as a matter of fact, flour, vegetables, and a few of those sort of things, which it is pretty hard to use a great deal of, are the ones that are given out. I will give you this: On April 13th I made a careful survey throughout the territory to ascertain whether vegetables were being distributed correctly. A check was made to cover the whole of one route. Temple Street: clients were being given more than their requirements, to get rid of vegetables. Some threw them on the way after leaving the commissary. South Central Avenue: generally okay, but some surplus. Bellflower: surplus. Long Beach: no deliveries for a week; previous delivery very intermittent. Torrance: okay. Wilmington: surplus. And so on. 2174 Washington Boulevard had never received any; one week later, no vegetables; one week later, just being received. I believe these conditions are being corrected."

WILSON: "There is one other suggestion on procedure that I want to offer for the consideration of the committee. Under your Unemployment California Benefits, a person who is unemployed has to report once a week at the office of the employment agency or the UCB office. Under our system the case-aide is supposed to chase the client down and ask him a lot of questions and take his answers and then go on to another client's home until she makes the rounds. In the first place, that is costing a lot of money, that could be better used for relief. Why wouldn't it be just as practical to ask the client to twice a month to come in and make a new certification each time and then have your flying squads to go out and hunt the 'hot spots'. I believe that—I leave that to you as a thought."

DUNKELBERGER: "When Mr. Lubin came into the picture, he set up selective clothing stores. And gentlemen, I don't know why they call them selective clothing stores because there is not over half a dozen items that a relief client can select from." PHILLIPS: "Has that materially increased the expense?" DUNKELBERGER: "Very definitely; in my estimation, I would just say that it had increased in about three times over what it was before." SPEARES: "They certainly weren't going to breed them; they were bought to fatten and kill for the use of the camps." WOLLENBERG: "They were pretty fat when they were bought?" WOLLENBERG: "Now, can you give me any idea of what the administrative cost is in Alameda County of administering relief, under the present set-up?" GALLAGHER: "We don't keep any. No cost set-up in Alameda County can tell us what it costs to administer relief." WOLLENBERG: "You don't know?" GALLAGHER: "No. And we have tried to get it from the State office, but we couldn't get it from the State office. That is one of the things we were deeply interested in when I went into the position first, was the cost. So the only information I have I get from Kenneth Lieb, and he told me the county here was operating at about fourteen and one-tenth per cent. I don't think the State office expense was added to that."

COMBES: "Now in the event that a person went to work and we did have some instances of that prior to the time that a position was established for them then under those conditions we would not disburse from our revolving fund because the person was not officially an employee of the relief administration." PHILLIPS: "Well, now, do you refer to this group who signed the waivers?" COMBES: "Yes, I am referring to that group in particular. They went to work when there were no jobs for them and the jobs had to be created after they went to work."

PRESSURE

The cost of relief to California has been higher than necessary because of the activities of the SCMWA among SRA employees and of the Workers Alliance among relief recipients. These unions have coerced employees and needy alike to obtain preferment for their members.

Senate Journal,
Jan. 30, 1940,
pages 41-52—

Report by Edwin N. Atherton and Associates on State Relief Administration: "Information has been obtained indicating that unions and politicians exert a strong voice in the control of SRA; that certain of these from without which have been termed as 'radical' are able to dictate appointments to the SRA of persons without fitness or experience, apparently the only qualification required being loyalty to their sponsors. The SCMWA (State, County and Municipal Workers Association), a CIO union, whose membership consists of SRA employees, not only usurps an unwarranted influence in establishing the policy of the SRA but also intimidates the personnel into joining the union; that another CIO union, the Workers Alliance, which works closely with the SCMWA, and which appears to be more or less closely connected with the politicians or political factions, apparently wields sufficient power to have its members placed in key positions, thus enabling the Workers Alliance to persuade relief clients to join their unions by promising preferred attention in securing relief; that many employees of the SRA are reported to have extremely liberal, if not radical, ideas, which they discuss with relief clients, attempting to and often converting them to their cause."

W-9 page 81—

STANSFIELD: "They were only as strong as the administration allowed them to be. They have no power to strike, and until recently I couldn't think that they had the power to picket. The constitution, as I read it, never provided for that. I was president of this when it began." WOLLENBERG: "You were president of the SCMWA?" STANSFIELD: "Yes. Please don't hold that against me. I later resigned. It didn't take me very long. I resigned after attending a few executive meetings."

Further:

"With the coming of the new administration they were given a free hand. There is no question about it."

H-10 pages 24

HOUSER: "What is your opinion of the SCMWA?" ROE: "I don't think they benefit the workers or the State." HOUSER: "Why not the State?" ROE: "They take too much time off running union business." HOUSER: "Do they exert much pressure?" ROE: "They are absolutely a pressure group. They put pressure on the director, who works for the State. There must have been pressure on Mr. Chambers. I think there is pressure by them all over the State, wherever they are. They told me unless I laid off personnel the way they read No. 7, they were going to bring charges against me of misuse of State funds. The demand was given verbally. I said if I have misused State funds I should be fired; if I haven't, those people should remove that charge. It sounded like blackmail to me."

Employees of the SRA are subjected to pressure by the SCMWA.

H-3 page 549—

HOUSER: "How do they exert that pressure?" MRS. CRUICKSHANK: "In some instances they continually are asking people to join, to go to their meetings, to read their literature and their books, even to the extent that they had to have an excuse for not joining—that they couldn't afford it at the time." HOUSER: "Did they get any results from their practices?" MRS. CRUICKSHANK: "Yes. Some people were afraid of losing their jobs if they didn't join it." HOUSER: "They had sufficient influence among the appointive powers so that people were afraid of losing their jobs?" MRS. CRUICKSHANK: "Yes."

HOUSER: "And you are a member of SCMWA?"
MRS. RETTIG: "Never." HOUSER: "Do you think that your lack of membership in that organization might have had anything to do with—" MRS. RETTIG: "I am sure that it had a lot to do with it. That, and the fact that they told me that I knew the wrong people. After I went to Pasadena I kept asking the district supervisor there if any evaluation had ever been sent on me and it hadn't been. And while I was acting supervisor Mr. Kievits was at that time district director and he thought I was efficient and tried to get me reclassified back to a supervisor. And Mrs. Orans told him that no evaluation had ever been sent through and she didn't know why I had been demoted. She suggested that he go down-town and find out and he came back and her statement to me was that Mrs. Orans told him that nothing could be done for Mrs. Rettig, that she knew the wrong people."

HOUSER: "What do you think about the SCMWA?"
PLATT: "I'm not in sympathy with their tactics."
HOUSER: "You aren't?" PLATT: "Absolutely not." HOUSER: "Why not?" PLATT: "Well, I think they're a pressure group. I don't believe that social workers should be registered like coal miners and they may need some protection against their boss, but most of them are professional people, well educated people and I don't see any need for pressure groups or anything like that: like they've treated the administration, most of the SCMWA are the old social workers of Los Angeles and in different parts."

DUNKELBERGER: "I was told that I had better join that organization (SCMWA)—well, that was about six or eight weeks prior to this report coming out. Of course, then, after that report coming out, why, they come around to me and they says, 'Oh, so you belong to the company union, is that the idea? Well, we will get you.' They did threaten me."

five which is the highest evaluation on all except one item and that item was co-operativeness toward her fellow workers and she very promptly questioned her superior on the why of that. She said, 'There hasn't been a single time in the course of my duty that I have ever failed to co-operate with any other members of the staff,' and this supervisor told her very frankly that it was her attitude toward SCMWA was the reason for her two point cut on that."

Continuing: "Now, it happens that this supervisor is a member of CSEA. And it happens that the case workers in the district were members of another organization. It is especially significant that her workers rated Mrs. Blank the lowest of the nine case supervisors in this district office. The other eight case supervisors were all members of the other organization." HOUSER: "What was the other organization?" WILSON: "The SCMWA."

H-2 page 283— HOUSER: "What do you class in that new philosophy group, do you have any specific organization in mind?" WILSON: "Yes. W-9 page 22— PHILLIPS: "You mean, they asked you to put back all of the SCMWA employees?" COOLEY: "That's right." FIELD: "And reclassify the others that he had bumped down." PHILLIPS: "Was it their idea that you should generally remove from your rolls an equal number of people to make a place for them?" COOLEY: "I raised that question with them, and they said it was the administration's business. That is what I would have been obliged to do. I couldn't have reinstated union members without firing some other people to make room for them because I have to cut my staff in accordance with my declining case load."

SPEARES: "The (SCMWA) dues,' they said, 'are one dollar for the dues, and for the good of the organization in this State all money stays here.' Well, now, they had a little argument as to just where that money did go, and finally they admitted 75% of the money was sent East and 25% of it was used in the State of California. Someone wanted to know if any of the money was used in the Mooney defense, and they admitted that it was used on the Mooney defense and also that it was used on the Harry Bridges defense."

HOUSER: "To what do you attribute that attitude?" MRS. CRUICKSHANK: "It has been my personal opinion that that has been an effect upon the workers by the SCMWA. They have issued bulletins in the lobbies of the buildings setting forth their demands."

Have you any knowledge of that matter?" MRS. COPENLAND: "Yes, I have heard that a great deal and understood that I had the dubious honor of being on the purge list and had asked Mr. Anderson about that. FIELD: "They had a street demonstration,—how long did it go on there?" COOLEY: "Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, and Saturday." FIELD: "It was quite a long demonstration, without calling it a picket line?" COOLEY: "They called it a street demonstration; that was their term for it." FIELD: "All right. I am willing that they might call it anything they want to, but during that demonstration, how many of your employees would get in it and participate in it?" COOLEY: "During their noon hour, the employees that belonged to the SCMWA participated in this demonstration. I believe it was compulsory service." FIELD: "On the part of the SCMWA members?" About a week later, the Workers Alliance and the CIO group came into my office. It was not only a Workers Alliance sit-down strike but also a CIO and UCAPAWA. So when the people moved in on me, I again called Los Angeles office. Mr. Reese was in Sacramento and Mr. Robert Rumsey was the only one in the office at that time to give me any information. From the Herald columns 6 & 7—

“Banning, Calif., May 4, 1940.

“Editor Banning Record:

“Some time ago when I appeared before the legislative sub-committee in Riverside as a witness, I was asked by the chairman if there was any Communist in the Workers Alliance, to which question I answered that there was none that I knew of. I also stated that if I found my organization was dominated by Communists I would offer my resignation to the local immediately. I also stated to the committee that I had refused to accept an application for membership of a confessed Communist in our local.

“At last night’s meeting one of our members stated that he read in the papers that our state president had admitted he was a Communist. Immediately two visiting members from the Hemet and San Jacinto local, both officers of their organization, took the floor and said they would back our state chairman even if he was a Communist, and both took me to task for refusing to accept a confessed Communist into our local, and threatened to bring charges against me for doing so, and when our member stated that our local should go on record against Communism and ask our State President to resign, these two members became very angry and raved for almost an hour, calling my attention to the article in the Los Angeles Times which quoted me as saying that the Legislature did a good job in the economy legislation which was contrary to the Workers Alliance and its set-up.

“When these two gentlemen had finished their Communist argument I was fully convinced that I was chairman of a Communist organization and offered my resignation to the local, effective immediately, just as I promised the legislative sub-committee I would when I learned the truth. My resignation was accepted, and I am no longer chairman of this organization, neither am I a member any more, as I also turned in my membership book and union button.

“I hope my many friends will forgive me for getting mixed up with this Un-American organization, and I want to apologize to the Hon. Senator John Phillips and Nelson S. Dilworth for the strongly worded resolution adopted by our local, and a copy mailed to each one of them protesting their action in the state legislature which was signed by myself and our secretary, John R. Carter.

“I also want to go on record as being opposed to Communism and any other Un-American activity, such as the German-American Bund which Fritz Kuhn thought was safely hid behind the Christian Front until the FBI showed him up for what he really was, and I hope our Senators and Congressmen keep an eye on all Un-American activities and foreign isms until every leader of such organizations has been brought to justice and proper punishment meted out to them.

"Foreign agents are attacking our country from every angle trying to break down our American form of government. One of these could be excessive appropriations such as was asked for by the Workers Alliance and the Olson Administration in the special session of the legislature, which would cause a breakdown in our financial structure and place a tax burden upon the people greater than they can bear.

"California is now staggering under a tremendous tax burden caused by the daily horde of migratory workers coming into California from other states, which problem is now almost too big for the State to handle.

"Yours for a government of the people, by the people, and for the people, free from any foreign isms.

"Sincerely yours,

"JAMES F. JONES,

Well, it's the CIO, it has been organized in our county and they affiliated with them . . . and our trouble started from that source. They have affiliated with the CIO and they have organized in here and they are trying to organize the farm workers of our county."

STOCKTON: "In regard to the relief being offered to the people who go on strike, to my personal knowledge last year when they first started to picketing the place, a young man who lives in Arvin, who claimed to be Secretary of the Workers Alliance, told our pickers that if they picked cotton that they would not be allowed to get relief, even when the picking was over, but if they didn't pick cotton, that they could go directly on relief."

MRS. DALEY: "Do you mean you know more about the set-up of relief than the director?" WAHLENMEIER: "Not necessarily, but very often we know quite a lot about the rules as they apply to our relief clients, their contact with the client himself. It is no reflection on the director if he doesn't know every little detail because after all directors are not social workers. And, we have the manual in regard to relief, and before we go down there we have more time to put in on the case than the social workers have."

H-1 page 96—

HOUSER: "You called our attention today, Mr. Reese, that within the last few days some of your district directors and social service case-supervisors and I guess some of your case-aides and case-workers have been advising people not to pay rent. Is that their own advice or did that go out from headquarters?" REESE: "Well, I think you are perhaps a bit confused with the Workers Alliance." HOUSER: "I wouldn't be surprised." REESE: "I believe the Workers Alliance is quoted as having recommended to the relief clients that they not pay their rent."

The case was ultimately turned down by finance, but I don't believe until after there had been some assistance rendered in the case. It has happened not once, but many times in the entire set-up. You'll probably find that a good part of the 7½ per cent of your ineligible are included in your Workers Alliance membership."

Continuing: "There was another case of Workers Alliance organizer in northern California who was removed from the relief rolls when an investigator discovered that he was drawing considerably more than $100 a month as an organizer from his union."

Relief recipients pay part of dole to keep membership in Workers Alliance.

H-12 page 24— O'DAY: "How much a month do the members pay in the Workers Alliance?" WAHLENMEIER: "Thirty-five cents." O'DAY: "Thirty-five cents. And you have a thousand members here. What happens to that money, about $350 a month, isn't it?" WAHLENMEIER: "Well, there is a division of that money that goes to the—from the local to the county, from the county to the state, and the national office, all get a per capita." O'DAY: "Do you know what the division is?" WAHLENMEIER: "Approximately, the local gets—let's see, the county office gets 22 cents out of that." O'DAY: "Yes." PENNEBAKER: "I understand that the Workers Alliance is an affiliate of the CIO and they do work very close together. That has been our observation here that they do work close together." WATSON: "Do you feel that the SRA office here has been working with the Workers Alliance and the CIO?" PENNEBAKER: "I feel that the Workers Alliance has been subsidized to a certain extent, those members of the Workers Alliance have been subsidized to a certain extent in their activities through relief payments, and otherwise, I mean this, that they are getting relief payments and can carry on this work at no expense to themselves, they appear not to have any responsibilities or obligations to meet, and feel that their living is being taken care of, and they do put in a considerable amount of time on this sort of thing."

M-10 page 119—

MIXTER: "Is it your feeling that the representatives of this Workers Alliance group were doing this deliberately with an ulterior motive to undermine the organization, an ulterior motive of undermining the organized effort of the district to furnish decent and reasonable labor to people who needed it?" OLIVER: "Yes." MIXTER: "You are convinced of that?" OLIVER: "Yes, there was only about four of those men that caused all of this trouble out there."

M-10 page 260—

GREER: "Well, I participated in that strike myself, and the one that told me about that, I was a member of the Workers Alliance at that time, and so they called me, the leaders called me and gave me instructions. I made three trips in the field myself to these farms and called out the workers on three different farms. I was instructed to go out there and call the people, call them off the farms and tell them to come in there, they had places for them to live and to get a dollar for picking cotton, wanted to raise this cotton to a dollar and a dollar and a half a hundred for picking, so I made three trips into the field and that is what I told them. That was my instructions from the leaders."

WATSON: "Well, these pickers that you went out to see, was there any of those quit and came in?" GREER: "Four out of one field." WATSON: "Did you tell them they could get on relief if they would quit?" GREER: "I did." WATSON: "Well, did those four get on relief, on the relief roll that came in?" GREER: "Yes, they did." WATSON: "Did the Workers Alliance help them get on the roll?" GREER: "I was instructed to send them to the SRA office and there was a committee there." WATSON: "A committee there to see that they got on relief?" GREER: "That was my instructions." WATSON: "Do you know how soon after this strike they did get on the relief roll?" GREER: "That same day, I suppose, because they got a check the next payday." WATSON: "Were you asked or demanded to go, by the Workers Alliance, and pull this strike out there?" GREER: "I was asked to, yes, sir, by the Workers Alliance, and CIO affiliates."

CHAIRMAN YORTY: "Did everybody go through that procedure?" FULLER: "No." YORTY: "Well, which people didn't go through that procedure?" FULLER: "Workers Alliance members and Unemployed Council members." YORTY: "Unemployed Council and Workers Alliance. How were they handled?" FULLER: "They called up, and the appointments were made for them." YORTY: "Well, suppose there were 50 people waiting there with these regular appointment slips or numbers and somebody came in with one of these Workers Alliance or Unemployed council slips, then what happened?" FULLER: "These people took preference over them." YORTY: "And yet, they were all just applying for relief?" FULLER: "Yes." YORTY: "Well, now, were you given any special instructions as to the handling of the Workers Alliance and Unemployed Council applicants?" FULLER: "The instructions I received lots of times were to bring them right in immediately after the hours of closing. Sometimes on Saturdays, sometimes after two o'clock." Yorty: "The appointment was made by the Workers Alliance, though?" FULLER: "Yes." YORTY: "Or by this Unemployed Council?" FULLER: "Yes." YORTY: "Now, were there any occasions while you were there where people were waiting in line to apply, where they were forced to wait longer because of these slips that others had?" FULLER: "Every week; many days they had to." YORTY: "You mean, some people waited days?" FULLER: "Some people were there from nine in the morning till five in the afternoon to get an appointment the next day or the day after. Instead of getting Friday's appointment, they were lucky to get one by Monday or Tuesday. Sometimes it would be six or eight or ten or twelve or fifteen of these come in. Those people got all the appointments." YORTY: "Well, now are there any marks on these Form 5's that could distinguish between these clients, whether they came from the Workers Alliance or Unemployed Council, whether they didn't have any such person to recommend them?" FULLER: "Yes; lots of times there was a cross put up in this corner." YORTY: "Will you look at those and see if they have that mark?" FULLER: "(Examining papers) This one has Unemployed Council, UC; the other one is WC, Workers Alliance." YORTY: "And you are referring to those crosses up in the upper right-hand corner with the initials WC and UC?" FULLER: "Yes, sir." YORTY: "That is the way these people were picked out so that a qualifier or anybody else could tell where they came from?" FULLER: "Yes, sir." YORTY: "To your knowledge, were these people whose Form 5's had that mark on put on relief any quicker than the others?" FULLER: "Oh, yes. They were bound to get the qualifying appointments ahead of other people; that meant an extra day or two, a nice two or three days." "Lots of them were treated like honored guests." YORTY: "What would happen if you didn't let one of them right in?" FULLER: "The door closed at two o'clock, and pretty soon they would call up—call the office to show so and so in from the Unemployed Council or the Workers Alliance. Other people couldn't get in." YORTY: "Now, were you ever asked to join the CIO union, the SCMWA, by any one when you were employed at SRA?" FULLER: "Yes, sir. By dozens of people." YORTY: "Were you approached during office hours?" FULLER: "Yes." "I should say a half dozen times." YORTY: "Did you have any difficulty keeping order at any time among those who were applying for relief?" FULLER: "Plenty." YORTY: "What was the nature of your difficulty?" FULLER: "Well, the difficulty was there were drunkards."

SECTION 7

POLITICS IN RELIEF

Politics permeates the SRA and is an important factor in contributing to its inefficiency and extravagance.

H-2 pages 230
& 231—

WILSON: "There have been different kinds of politics in SRA. There has been Republican politics, Democratic politics, non-partisan politics, just as well as you might say group politics, personal politics within groups. Under the Republican administration from my observation the politics was held to a minimum. It was used, if any, in the administrative heads. And a good many of the people on the administrative payroll under the heads of departments were actually taken from the relief rolls. I know that in our own department there are three or four that were taken from the relief rolls. However, since the advent of the new administration there has been a definite tendency to replace some of the holdovers with party workers."

H-12 page 4—

HOUSER: "Do you think the governor was involved in this playing of politics?" WAHLENMEIER: "I think he was. It is hard to know he would have ordered the relief administrator not to put the budgets until the money ran out."

H-2 pages 265,
266 & 267—

PHILLIPS: "You would be say that after the new administration came in, the new administration checked the political registration." MRS. KREINBRING: "Yes. I believe that was done in May of this year. Well, I presume they checked my registration and found out what it was. In fact, I had an application in the state office, and I was told because of the political setup and because they had checked my registration I couldn't get the position." PHILLIPS: "Who told you that?" MRS. KREINBRING: "The message was sent to me by Mr. Chambers." PHILLIPS: "Directly from him?" MRS. KREINBRING: "Yes."

H-3 pages 468

HOUSER: "I noticed a moment ago in your testimony a statement to the effect that a good many of the personnel now was serving for purposes other than good service along social service lines. Do you want to enlarge on that?" MRS. COPLAND: "Yes. I feel very seriously that the people that have been replaced by people for purely political purposes, not because of their qualifications or their training or their general experience qualifies them for the position but because for political purposes they were put in the positions that they now hold. I think that explains the situation more than anything else for the present conditions in the relief administration."

H-12 page 86—

HOUSER: "You have been in the State Relief Administration for a long time. Have you noticed as much political bias as in this particular case? Has it ever entered into the picture before?" MRS. TILLER: "No, it has never entered into the picture before, in any of the times that I have become employed by the State Relief Administration, and I have had three re-employments, as it were, with the administration."

H-4 page 692—

HOUSER: "Well, have there been any replacements of capable employees by political appointees to your knowledge?" MRS. RETTIG: "Oh, yes, I think, that has been very true all along the line. For instance, my own demotion was certainly done according to no standards of personnel that had ever been set before."

H-10 pages 34

HOUSER: "The appointments that have been made—are they political?" MRS. WORCESTER: "In a sense they are all political appointments. Mr. Roe made the statement he would not appoint anyone who was not a Democrat. When I sent in the list I was interested in the qualifications. I presume those rejected probably were not Democrats."

H-6 page 26—

BERKOWITZ: "The campaign was on in California, I got very busy on that. I quit the WPA and took part in the campaign." HOUSER: "Whose campaign?" BERKOWITZ: "Governor Olson's." HOUSER: "How long were you active in the campaign?" BERKOWITZ: "From the 1st of September until after election was over in November." HOUSER: "What did you do?" BERKOWITZ: "I was one of the campaign committee for the Democratic party appointed by the central committee, and had charge of all literature in the whole county—distributing it."

Further:

HOUSER: "What were the outstanding principles of Governor Olson's program?" BERKOWITZ: "I don't know anything outstanding that their plank meant more than any other." HOUSER: "Do you remember any particular plank?" BERKOWITZ: "I didn't read the literature—I did the distributing."

HOUSER: "Were you demoted on Mr. Roe's appointment?" MISS COUTS: "Yes, I was demoted to Grade 1 Supervisor. I was demoted still further." HOUSER: "How many demotions have you had?" MISS COUTS: "In August, 1939, I was acting director. I was demoted to Grade 1 supervisor; from there I was demoted to case-worker." HOUSER: "When was the last demotion?" MISS COUTS: "The end of last week. I questioned my seniority rating. I was told that my seniority rating as grade 1 was only so much, whereas my seniority rating as a case-worker was more; if I cared to put in an application as a case-worker, he would like to have it in writing." HOUSER: "Were you reappointed?" MISS COUTS: "Yes, as a case-worker. It took effect last week."

MISS DOUGLAS: "Another experience which brings out the fact that political endorsement was necessary, when we were closing the project, we had a number of very excellent clerical workers, girls who definitely needed their jobs, and the job was gone as far as the project was concerned, so I sent them down to the Personnel Office at 1000 Geary, suggesting that they apply for a job. In every instance those girls were told that they would have to get the endorsement of two people in the political group, preferably their Democratic assemblyman and one other."

PHILLIPS: "Apparently Mr. Ballou had something to do with the selection for men for camps?" SPEARES: "Every one of these ex-army men,—veterans, who have been assigned, all tell the same story, that they got their jobs through Mr. Ballou, and Mr. Sullivan who seems very close to Mr. Ballou,—Mr. Sullivan at the present time is a work camp superintendent under Mr. Smiley, who is the base camp superintendent at Camp Natoma, and he is very active in veterans' and political work. In fact, he advised me that I had better join this Democratic Veterans' Action Committee if I wanted to retain my job,—I guess he was right, because I didn't retain it."

LORE: "You don't know who the master mind behind Alexander's appointment was, do you?" COOLEY: "Well, I don't know, but, of course, I know this: That Walter Ballou and C. C. Alexander were close friends. They were together in WPA and Alexander reported directly to Ballou and boasted of his friendship with him. There wasn't any doubt in my mind that Alexander was Ballou."

POULSON: "What does Mr. Ballou do in the SRA?" CHAMBERS: "At what period? Now?" POULSON: "In the last year or so." CHAMBERS: "He was definitely an employee of the Relief Administration up until the day I was appointed." POULSON: "What day was that?" CHAMBERS: "August 14th." POULSON: "Well, Mr. Ballou has some calls here in October and November of 1939; one of them is $7.90, another is $8.50, $6.80, and $13.40." DEUEL: "He was not an employee?" CHAMBERS: "He made the calls and charged them to us?" POULSON: "He called Estell. What does Mr. Estell do?" CHAMBERS: "At that time he was in the personnel department." POULSON: "$7.90. He called Mosher, $8.50; he called Miller, $6.80 in San Francisco, and then he called him when he went to Los Angeles and that was $13.40." PHILLIPS: "Do you think there is anything significant in the fact that he only called people who are in the personnel department?" CHAMBERS: "Has he made any lately?" POULSON: "We don't have these lately." CHAMBERS: "I don't think you will find it." POULSON: "They are all personnel men, aren't they?" CHAMBERS: "Yes—no, Mosher was operations—at that time I think he was. Was he in operation? Yes, he was in the operations department."

and his pay was to start,—I don't recall exactly, I think the first day of October. In questioning Mr. Garoutte, I had to know exactly how much experience he had, so I would know how much confidence to place in him, and what duties to turn over to him, and I asked where he had worked before in camps, and he told me he had not worked before in camps, that he had organized the Veterans Democratic Action Committee and that they had promised him a job for the good work which he had done, and he was told to report to Mr. Walter Ballou in the Governor's office in Sacramento, and Mr. Ballou had given him this position. I asked him if he had any experience in handling men at all. He said only in the Army; he was a non-commissioned officer in the Army, and he was told to report he had a lot of experience and he was to say he was trained, and eventually he was to get a camp. Mr. Garoutte, within two days after his arrival in camp, informed me he had received a message from Mr. Ballou, of the Governor's office, and Mr. Ballou wanted him to do some political work for him, and he would have to be excused for the time it would take to handle the job. . . . Mr. Garoutte was gone on an average, I would say, of four days out of each week, working for the Governor's office."

W-11 page 177— MISS DOUGLAS: "He (Cub Porter) sent word out to me that they were very apt to make a political appointment out there and that I should get all the local Democratic backing that I could get, and get it very quickly."

Further:
W-11 page 188— FIELD: "Now, you say that in October and November of 1939 you noticed a change of political pressure being put on the Bureau?" MISS DOUGLAS: "Very definitely."

It didn't mean anything anyway." HOUSER: "In spite of those facts, you don't think your appointment was political in nature?" CALLIS: "Well, I suppose it was. Yes." HOUSER: "Did you take any part in the Olson campaign?" CALLIS: "Yes."

know." HOUSER: "You must have some idea." FITZER: "Well, at that time I had had no one pressing me for appointments, for instance. Individuals had come to me and said, 'I am a good Democrat and I backed the Governor' but no organization or no person politically powerful at that time had attempted to influence me to appoint anybody." HOUSER: "They have since that time?" FITZER: "Yes."

W-3 page 19—

WOLLENBERG: "For what period of time were you employed in the SRA in Santa Cruz County?" MRS. MACQUIDDY: "From March 1, 1937, until November 28, 1939." WOLLENBERG: "And during that period you were County Director the entire time?" MRS. MACQUIDDY: "I was County Director the entire time."

FIELD: "When did you sever your connections?" MRS. MACQUIDDY: "You mean, from the SRA? It was November, 1939." WOLLENBERG: "At the time of your severance of your connections, was it a voluntary resignation on your part?" MRS. MACQUIDDY: "I wouldn't call it exactly voluntary. I was asked to accept a transfer to Monterey County to take a position as a Grade Two supervisor in charge of the other supervisors. Since I was told the thing was political I simply resigned in protest of the politics." WOLLENBERG: "What were the circumstances that led up to that?" MRS. MACQUIDDY: "If I can start from the beginning, I think, I can qualify it. About last April when the time came to reduce because the case load was falling, the Field Representative came and said the procedure would be changed though I would continue to be responsible for the work of the people in the office. If I wanted to release anyone I would have to get approval from the State office." FIELD: "Who was the Field Representative?" MRS. MACQUIDDY: "Mrs. Irene Leeper. So I was suspicious that the thing was political and it didn't seem administratively very strong. I asked her, but she was evasive. About two weeks later at the conference of the social workers I talked with a friend of mine who was a District Administrative Supervisor in San Francisco and she asked me if I had had difficulty in releasing people. * * *

Further:

WOLLENBERG: "That was when the conference was held?" MRS. MACQUIDDY: "Yes, on the 19th of May. Dewey Anderson called in all of the county directors, he said we needn't pull our punches, we could ask anything—we could ask about policy and procedure.

So in the course of the discussion I asked why if we were responsible for the work of the people we had been denied the right to dismiss. He seemed embarrassed and he evaded and he said it was a difficult question to answer, but in two or three weeks he could answer it. And when the meeting was over he came up to me and said, 'You asked me a hard question.' He said,—I remember his exact words, and I am sure his exact words were, 'You are particularly obtuse politically, if you know what that means.' He went on rather frankly and said, used a generality, that certain forces or some group—something like that, wanted to turn the SRA into a complete spoils system. He said he was fighting the thing and that if he couldn't stop it he would resign and if he did resign that would be the only reason and then I would know the answer to my question."

Even health must yield to politics! !

W-11 page 192— LINDNER: "The entire panel that was presented to me was made up of Democrats. We had no choice in the matter. I had the choice of picking the good men from the Democrats, and I insisted very strenuously that I would not be a party to any of the business unless I could pick the men I wanted."

Attempts to "pressure" members of the Legislature have been made by SRA employees.

H-13 page 10— KUCHEL: "Since I returned to Orange County, Mr. Platt, some of the people that live here in the county tell me that this was prepared, that is, this statement, mimeographed statement, for the purpose of the record, which opposes the return of the administration of relief to the counties—" PLATT: "Uh huh." KUCHEL: "—and which then goes on to allege that the members of the State Assembly from Orange County are working for certain special interests and the like, were prepared in the SRA headquarters. That statement was made to me in Sacramento." PLATT: "I made a statement up there that I didn't know where they were printed." KUCHEL: "Yes." PLATT: "And that's still true, but when I got back I found out that they were printed in our office."

HOUSER: “During your working hours, though, wasn’t it?” GERHART: “Yes, that was part of the working hours from the publicity department. Public relations of the State as handled as a department of the State Relief Administration at that time.”

HOUSER: “So you think it was well within your functions to use State material and State time in order to promote a campaign against members of the Legislature with whom you disagree.” GERHART: “Well, the ethics of that may be questionable, although in the heat of battle why it seemed to be a good thing to do at the time.”

MRS. COPLAND: “I also wanted to make some statements about the belief of most of the workers in the SRA against politics in relief. They think it would be a terrific shame to let the organization be broken down—by a—completely broken down and demoralized by the importation of people who know nothing about public welfare. That is why the workers in the relief administration have been putting up such a fight against the dismissal of people on flimsy grounds, and have been trying for years to get a decent personnel policy in the SRA even before this administration.”

PHILLIPS: “Is Mr. Kehoe still in the employ of the SRA?” CHAMBERS: “Yes.” PHILLIPS: “Is Mr. Kehoe still the President of the Young Democrats?” CHAMBERS: “I requested that knowledge this morning from Mr. Kehoe, and I discovered that he still is.” PHILLIPS: “He still is? Have you read Senate Bill 81?” CHAMBERS: “I have, and up to ten days ago we had no interpretation from the Attorney General. On the receipt of that interpretation from the Attorney General, advices were given to those who held positions of that nature that they had their choice of resigning from their position or the State Relief Administration. Mr. Kehoe was told that this morning." HOUSER: "Mr. Chairman? You say, Mr. Chambers, you sent out instructions within the last few days that they have either to resign from the State Relief Administration or from the political activity?" CHAMBERS: "That is true." HOUSER: "Let me ask you, Mr. Chambers, don't you think being President of the Young Democrats is taking an active part in politics?" CHAMBERS: "Absolutely. I do. I don't think there is any argument on that. I told Mr. Kehoe so over the telephone."

The Public Relations Section, abolished by the Legislature, turns up again in the guise of "Field Agent," assigned to all committees and hearings.

W-2 pages 96,

FIELD: "Mrs. Wyckoff, I don't want to interrogate you at all; I just think that we should establish, shall I say, your position with us. With that in mind, I will ask you, are you an employee of the SRA?" MRS. WYCKOFF: "Yes." FIELD: "In what capacity?" MRS. WYCKOFF: "I am field agent from the Administrator's office." FIELD: "How long have you been an employee of the SRA?" MRS. WYCKOFF: "Thirteen months." FIELD: "As a field agent?" MRS. WYCKOFF: "No, I was formerly in the division of community relations,—I was the original director."

Further:

FIELD: "Are you employed out of the Los Angeles office?" MRS. WYCKOFF: "No, I was employed in San Francisco." FIELD: "How long have you been a field agent?" MRS. WYCKOFF: "Two weeks." FIELD: "What duties do you have as a field agent?" MRS. WYCKOFF: "I have been assigned to this committee, to follow you around and point any matter out to the Administrator he should answer or any questions that you may have; to give you any documents; to make available everything to you that we can." SENATOR TICKLE: "In other words, it is more feasible and mobile than packing around dictagraphs." FIELD: "I must admit I admire this way much better." LORE: "You have some other duties in connection with your position other than the duties you mention, which are just temporary,—you have more permanent duties in other work?" MRS. WYCKOFF: "Yes, that is right." TICKLE: "Is this, in a sense, a vacation for you?" MRS. WYCKOFF: "It is very pleasant."

Continuing:

FIELD: "You said you were assigned by the Administrator to furnish him with any information which might be of benefit to him in the administration of relief—" MRS. WYCKOFF: "Or benefit to you." FIELD: "Yes. Could you briefly outline what that may be, what information you might be able to pass on to the Administrator?" Mrs. WYCKOFF: "Where situations arise where the local individuals in the counties don't have the full story of what happens to certain cases, I send to the State office for the information, so we can have it to give the complete picture. For instance, today in that man's paycheck—the answer is obviously in the State office. This county office can't know what it is and the social service field representative, normally she would be the person to do that. We have abolished the whole staff, so I am sort of acting as a temporary go-between."

HOUSER: "Well, I think the committee would be interested in knowing your personal appraisal of Walter Chambers as far as his ability to run the State Relief Administration is concerned. We would like to get your opinion on that." KELLY: "Well, of course, I am not in a position to give that kind of an opinion. I can give you the opinion of the Executive Committee. They have gone on record in that resolution as asking for his removal." HOUSER: "So that the only reasons for Walter Chambers' removal in the opinion of you and your Executive Committee were that he had left too many Republicans in positions in the State Relief Administration which you thought should be held by Democrats." KELLY: "Because they were sabotaging the program, yes."

W-6 pages 8 & 9—

BURNETT: "I met a man down there by the name of Fogg. He is on the State committee, Democratic Committee in Los Angeles, and he told me he was paying in two per cent of his salary to some political fund in Los Angeles, and he says all of the new appointees are doing that." WOLLENBERG: "They ask you to do it?" BURNETT: "Not directly, anyhow." He said "It is a good idea." He said "Every Democrat should do it." WOLLENBERG: "Did you ever see any letters or correspondence on that subject?" BURNETT: "I saw a letter Mr. Morris Lee had, signed by some San Francisco political worker who had authorized him to collect contributions. WOLLENBERG: "Do you know where that letter could be obtained?" BURNETT: "Unless Mr. Morris Lee has it, I don't." WOLLENBERG: "Is he in San Francisco?" BURNETT: "He is in Los Angeles. WORCESTER: “And, I had another experience after that, which was pretty much of a shock, too, when a campaign worker came into our office and said he had worked in New York in campaigns, and in New York when you work for Tammany Hall you got paid on the dotted line; and, Mr. Roe refused to pay him, and told him he would pay him when he got in the relief administration. This man made demands on me which I couldn’t meet according to our rules and regulations; and, when one of our social workers visited the family he stated that he got five hundred signatures for Mr. Roe——”

HOUSER: “This same man told you that?” MRS. WORCESTER: “Yes—told one of our social workers. He demanded an emergency relief order which I couldn’t give him because he had his check, and Mr. Roe who also has the right to sign a relief order signed it and the man got his check.”

The creation of many new positions to “take care of” political appointees has greatly increased SRA payrolls.

MRS. JERGENS: “I think that the job of district director is entirely superfluous. The district offices were run competently by the district-directors, that is, the trained professional social-workers before the district directors were important and could be run efficiently again; that is the joint running of them by the office managers and the district case supervisors. It’s an entirely superfluous position and it’s just an expense to the taxpayers.” HOUSER: “What do you think they were appointed for originally?” MRS. JERGENS: “I think to build a political machine.” HOUSER: “By who? By Governor Olson?” MRS. JERGENS: “The Democratic party; some of them belong to one faction and some to another, so probably part of the party could be built up by some and part by others.”

State Relief Administration had been shattered, the people were not working, that the quickest way to do it would be to employ a qualified professional public welfare administrator as the assistant to Mr. Anderson, and to give that person the authority which the State Relief Administrator, and the State Relief Administration could develop sound public welfare policies, and to carry on with a qualified public welfare staff. He stated that he would not do that, that he was having pressure brought to bear upon him from all of the Districts in the State because they were not getting appointments that they had anticipated, and secondly he said he would not appoint such persons, and that we could expect immediately from fifty to sixty political appointments in the social welfare department under the SRA."

Resignation of Dr. H. Dewey Anderson, dated August 14, 1939: "The most serious of all problems, however, and the one which makes necessary this resignation, is my refusal to accede to certain demands made upon me to play partisan politics with the administration of the SRA." Further, "It is my profound conviction that the introduction of the political spoils system into the SRA will have far-reaching damaging effects on Federal co-operation and assistance, to the great detriment of the people needing relief, and resulting in greater financial burden for the State." Also, "The spoils system has already entered the State Relief Administration, and is particularly noticeable in a jockeying for positions and a frantic attempt on the part of old employees to retain their jobs."

Report by Edwin N. Atherton and Associates on State Relief Administration: "The lessened efficiency is attributed by them to these major conditions: (1) the indefinite, uncertain, constantly changing SRA policy; (2) personal bickerings and jealousies among the personnel due to factional discord between the "liberals" and the "conservatives" within the organization; (3) pressure groups within SRA which try to and too often succeed in dominating personnel and in dictating policy; (4) "political" and "pressure" groups which obtain dismissals and name replacements without consideration of merit, experience or qualification."

SUBVERSIVE ACTIVITIES

Radical SRA employees have used their positions to spread subversive doctrines among other employees and among the recipients of relief. Communists and fellow-travelers have received little discouragement from the State Administration.

Report by Edwin N. Atherton and Associates on State Relief Administration: "A victim of subversive activity and union pressure, the SRA has lost efficiency and effectiveness."

Further:

"The Executive Council is composed of powerful CIO leaders, representatives of the Communist Party, and presidents of local chapters of CIO and SCMWA. At these meetings, instead of discussion and effort being put forth to improve working conditions of the workers, time is spent in determining to whom telegrams and letters should be sent regarding any bills in any way affecting the Communist Party, either in the State Legislature or Congress." "Every indication of these council meetings is that the objectives of the Communist Party and the interests of the Union are first."

H-2 page 235—

WILSON: "Now, it is no longer a question of partisan politics, gentlemen, at all, it is a question of whether or not we are going to permit people within the State Relief Administration to tear down the ideals of American Democracy under this guise of freedom of speech and call it a form of political belief in which they are entitled not to express their opinion."

Further:

"As a consequence you have very few people who are now in the heads of the departments who believe in the American philosophy and you have quite a few who believe in the totalitarian philosophy. That is what I mean by your relaxation of vigilance."

BROWN: "Regardless of the ability to pay by the taxpayers." WAHLENMEIER: "Well, you are talking in terms of human misery versus ability to pay. I think as long as there is any dollars left in California that there is an ability to pay." BROWN: "If it took all the dollars, why, they should take them? Is that correct?" WAHLENMEIER: "If it will avoid human suffering. Would you say that with all of the industries that we have here in California that just because it is going to take away some of their profits to feed the unemployed that the unemployed should go hungry, when the land and every-

“Well, there is no—I don’t believe there is any question but that the Workers Alliance is a Communistically directed organization. In San Diego it is made up of known Communists. For instance, at the sit-down strike here the other day—I don’t recall the date because I have since been out of town—Dan Taylor was one of the members of the sit-down strike, as was also his wife. Both of those are acknowledged Communists, and are members of the Workers Alliance. There are a great many other known Communists who are members of that organization.”

MIXTER: “Did your investigation, Mr. Combs, reveal any cooperation between the Communist party of Tulare County and the activities of the Workers Alliance, so far as administration of relief is concerned?” COMBS: “Unquestionably.” MIXTER: “Could you cite any instance or instances of that concerning which you have factual knowledge?” COMBS: “We have proof I think that can not be successfully controverted, both from our own investigators who were at that time members of the Communist party, and from other persons who were members of the Workers Alliance executive committee to the effect that all of the officers of the Workers Alliance were required to be members of the Communist party, and I think we still have some of those affidavits that were not used during the Yorty Committee hearing. We also have an affidavit from a communist by the name of Ledweiss, William T. Ledweiss who was a state Communist organizer and who attended a meeting in Stockton in August of 1936. The meeting was also attended, and I will produce the papers, the editor of the Communist newspaper which is now the People’s World, and at that time I believe was called the Daily Worker. At that meeting, according to the affidavit of Mr. Ledweiss, it was stated that the Communists should join the Democratic party in as large a group as possible and that by January 1st, 1940 through the Workers Alliance, the Communist party would have political control of the State Relief Administration. That affidavit can be made available for your committee, if you wish.”

ASSEMBLYMAN YORTY: "Was there any discussion at that time as to the strategy of the Communist Party and its work within the Democratic Party?" MORTON: "Yes, there was. At that time I was a member of the Socialist group. They needed me there as—well, I would call it the spy system. Their strategy is to get as many political members in all the parties and undermine the Government. There are as many Communists in the Republican Party as in the Democratic and Socialist Parties. When I suggested that I leave the Socialist Party and become a full-fledged Communist they said, 'No; you stay in the Socialist Party and let us know what is going on.' I didn't like that stuff. It ended up in a fist fight there in Berkeley one night that involved about fourteen Trotskyites, including Jack London's daughter Joanne; I read a scandal about it in the papers this morning. After that I got out of the Socialist Party."

MIXTER: "During your operations as a newspaper man, have you had occasion to carry on any investigation as to subversive activities and control within the SRA and other similar state organizations?" UHL: "I have." MIXTER: "What is your conclusion?" UHL: "My conclusions were that if the SRA in Tulare County is not under the absolute control of the CIO and similar affiliates, similar organizations, I should say perhaps, if not in absolute control, then there is a very definite coercion at times and a certain amount of control, and basing that partly on a meeting which I attended in the SRA building of the CIO where various activities of the CIO in connection with their efforts in the SRA were discussed."

MIXTER: "You believe that all of the labor difficulties in agriculture in Kern County during the past two or two and a half years have been directly traceable to the efforts of this person whom you mentioned and others similarly engaged in fomenting trouble and all of them were members of or definitely in sympathy with and directed by the Communist Party?" CAMP: "Yes." WATSON: "Do you feel there is any need for any more migratory camps in this valley?" CAMP: "You mean Federal Migrant Camps?" WATSON: "Yes." Aren't meetings held inside of these camps, some of them?" CAMP: "Definitely so, yes." WATSON: "And many of these folks who foment the trouble live there and at the present time—if not today, then a few weeks ago—one Loretta Adams was employed there as a kind of overseer?" ### COUNTY ADMINISTRATION

Payment of relief to the unemployed must be continued until reemployment has been accomplished. To continue relief, every economy must be made and inequities which have developed under the SRA must be eliminated. No plan has demonstrated that it can function as economically as has a plan of local supervision, under State direction.

LEACH: "There were 109,000 SRA clients; they had to divide up the money among those clients, taking the average per case which was estimated at $36 at that time—$36 by 109,000 should bring you well under the mark of $4,000,000 allowed for the month of March, Mr. Lore, just by simple arithmetic in its simplest form, after allowing for camps, the commodities, and administration, and that is the basis why I believe the forty per cent cut was not necessary."

BLAKE: "Well, we closed over 300 cases around the first of April. About half of them were due to the effects of Senate Bill 81."

W-14 page 46—

MRS. LYTLE: "Well, I would say that my own immediate experience is that there probably has been some lessening of eligibility. However, I think we have certainly tightened up on eligibility as the result of Senate Bill 81."

H-1 pages 18

REESE: "Fortunately we have never had a fixed manual until the recent Legislature practically wrote us one in the Senate Bill 81. The Legislature has defined eligibility to such a point that our manual is practically obsolete."

GRIER: "I think we all feel that your Legislature at the special session did a very fine job under the circumstances with the Senate Bill 81. PREISKER: "But during this month when 12,000 were supposedly cut off their relief checks, of course, with the change it didn't amount to that much, and although we set up $5,000 with the expectation there might be a rush and they probably would use it up within a week or two weeks anyhow, they have actually worked out during this month $897 worth of the $5,000."

HOUSER: "After the Legislature passed Senate Bill 81?" BERKOWITZ: "Yes. Our peak season is the first of March. There is a definite decline in this county."

WAHLENMEIER: "To start with, the budgets were slashed 40% and persons couldn't meet their bills on that budget slash. And, the Workers Alliance, being an organization of the unemployed, called upon by the unemployed to try to do something about it. Any way that we could figure this budget slash we couldn't justify it. I don't think that the 40% cut was necessary, especially at the time that it was made."

WOLLENBERG: "That there was a decided lessening or relaxing of eligibility rules in the early part of 1939?" MRS. LYTLE: "Yes, sir." WOLLENBERG: "And a tightening up again since the passing of Senate Bill 81, is that your feeling?" MRS. LYTLE: "Yes, sir." LORE: "Was there any tightening up prior to the enactment of Senate Bill 81, or do you think that the relaxation continued from early in 1939 until its passage?" MRS. LYTLE: "Do you mean, did the relaxation continue to relax?" LORE: "Put it that way." WOLLENBERG: "Or stay relaxed?" MRS. LYTLE: "Or stay relaxed, or what?" LORE: "What did happen, in your opinion?" MRS. LYTLE: "Well, I think we were given the very definite impression, in the early part of 1939, that the rigid following of rules of eligibility was not to be as rigid, and that we were to relax our rules of eligibility and give service to clients in many instances when the actual need, or the actual need for relief was not always there. However, I do not think that was true in this county, and it has not been true since I came to this county."

Now, what I can't see, just exactly, where the authority comes for a thing of that kind. There are reported to be in the employ of the Division of Immigration and Housing four individuals who are known agitators."

PALOMARES: "I think we all draw our own conclusions. I have tried to compare the SRA set-up, for instance, with the county. Now, I never have to supplement a county case. If anything happens to the case, that is, you might say is on the border line, I can get on the 'phone or drop up to the county office and in five minutes we will have the thing settled; but with the SRA for instance, I can go over to any one of the boys over there and talk to them, well, they have got to write to Los Angeles, or teletype them, then we have to wait until it comes back and in the meantime our problem is still on our hands. I have asked them 'What would you do in a community where you didn't have a Chest or a private agency to alleviate the situation or take up this slack?' I have often wondered. They said they just couldn't do anything. I am of the opinion that if we put the SRA on the same basis as you have orphan aid and blind aid, old-age security, and handle it through the counties that you are going to effect economy and also efficiency."

STUART: "I believe that it could be handled efficiently by the counties under state supervision." MIXTER: "And financed by the state?" STUART: "Financed by the state." I don't mean on the same percentage basis but on some percentage basis where the county would contribute, say, $10 and the state $10." I believe that it wouldn't make any difference if you had the most efficient SRA setup in the country and the most efficient county welfare department, there would still be a wastage in the duplication, because you can see where we have an aged mother getting old age security and she has an unemployed son age 25, we have two case-workers, one from the county and one from the SRA going out to visit that family. There is a duplication of case workers, of stenographic work, of traveling time and traveling pay, and all the way through there is duplication and even if both of them are very efficient, you have got that thing to consider. I think that if we had local administration administered under the Board of Supervisors with a strong State central supervision similar to what we have under the categorical aids and under the supervision of the State Department of Social Welfare, where the budgets are set up by the State and there is a leeway which could be taken care of corresponding to the needs of that particular locality, then we would be sure of the right kind of personnel, that the aid would be administered similarly all over the WAGY: "Only this: Do you think that would apply all over the state pretty well?" HODGE: "I do, Mr. WagY." MIXTER: "During this period, you functioned then, in the capacity as Acting Director for SRA in Madera County and also as the Director of Welfare for Madera County?" SCOTT: "Yes." MIXTER: "Would you be in a position to say whether or not this new arrangement was satisfactory to the Board of Supervisors, or would you rather send the Board to speak for itself?" SCOTT: "I would say this, that the Board send a resolution to the State Relief Administration, to Mr. Chambers, to the Governor, and to those interested that they would rather that the co-ordinating program remained as it was, and no change be made."

WAGY: "Your grand jury seems to have gone into this matter pretty thoroughly. Have they suggested any remedy?" CAPPS: "Well, they suggested the turning of the relief proposition back to the county where it could be more efficiently and economically handled. That is their judgment and what they based their calculations on, our investigation."

PHILLIPS: "Do you believe that in any other state a similarly complicated situation exists and in which they have the difficulties that we are facing in this state?" NIELSEN: "We found in one county that the administrative cost charged to that particular county, although the county SRA office was in an adjoining county, the administrative cost was $159 with one person on relief, and they paid that individual $17. Another county paid out $1700 and the administrative cost was $1400, in October, 1939." MAYO: "Solano County. In June 1939 they paid out $1779.30 and it cost $1439.51 administrative overhead."

Further:

"In Glen County, in June, 1939, they had 17 cases and they had five employees. That is one employee for every 3½ cases. They paid out $382.91 for relief and it cost them $346.77 to pay it out. That is nearly 90 per cent there."

Continuing:

"June, 1939, Colusa County had 34 cases. They paid out \$482 and it cost them \$434 to pay it out. In Butte County they paid out \$10,000 and it cost \$3,000 to administer it. In Marin County they had 129 cases, 9 employees, and they paid out \$3700 and it cost \$1100 to pay it out. In Yolo County they paid out \$6,000 and it cost approximately \$2,000 to pay it out. In Solano County there were 93 cases and 10 employees. They paid out \$1779.30 and it cost them \$1439.51 to pay it out. In Calaveras County they paid out \$840.52 and it cost them \$500.95 to pay it out. In Tehama County, for instance, they had in the four categorical aids for February, 1940, 690 cases and they paid out \$24,000. The administrative cost was \$423 for the \$24,000 and they had four employees. In Calaveras County they had 338 cases, of the four categorical aids and there were two employees—this is in the county office—and they paid out for the year \$124,000 at an administrative cost of \$3,000. In Marin County, for the month of March, 1940, they had 1037 cases of the four categorical aids, and they paid out \$32,856 with an administrative overhead of \$1800. That is representative of what we found in those counties with three and four people handling as many as 1,000 cases in the four categorical aids—around  $2\frac{1}{2}$  per cent to 3 per cent.

Further:

“Sonoma County, as of March, 1940, had 442 case loads, SRA and the total amount paid to the recipients was \$12,222.29. They had 22 employees. Their administrative cost was \$3,058.92. The County of Sonoma, handling old age security, blind, children's aid, indigents, for the month of March had 2587 cases, expended \$92,811.80 at an administrative cost of approximately  $2\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. I believe the administrative cost of Sonoma County SRA is about 43 per cent, if my figures are correct. That is an example of many of the counties through which we traveled. I just grabbed that one at random.”

SECTION 10

THE HOEHLER STATEMENT

(Perhaps no more important hearing was conducted by the committee than the one in San Francisco on April 24th at which Mr. Fred K. Hoehler of Chicago, Director of the American Public Welfare Association, appeared. In addition to giving a comprehensive statement on “the relief problem,” Mr. Hoehler answered questions of the committee in a round-table discussion. The committee would prefer to include the complete transcript of the hearing in this report, but because of its length there follows only a part. The complete record of the hearing is to be found in P-5 of the transcript.)

MR. HOEHLER: If there is any one item which has appeared in the newspapers about California more frequently than another, it is the situation in SRA. The more conservative newspapers have used it as a critical attack on relief and public assistance by saying, “Here relief is thrown into politics.”

I have followed that up and I found out some of the actual circumstances. I am not going to discuss that, but I do want to be helpful to you and pull out of my experience those things that might be useful.

I was interested in the discussion here before the hearing started on the single man, and, off hand, with the reservation that I may want to change it after I listen to more discussion about your local situation, I think the Senator is right; the unsettled person, the person without domicile in any of your counties, or the single person who is not located in a home of his own, becomes pretty much of a State problem, largely because the housing of those people in homes in the County would be extremely costly, to set up a home or a domicile for each individual. That would be just impossible to finance in the counties.

STATE RELIEF CAMPS FOR SINGLE MEN

If it is a State problem, there ought to be some responsibility for the State to make decisions as to the character of people who would be accepted in the camps. I hesitate to suggest that you go into camps that would be in the nature of a concentration camp, such as some of us have seen in Europe. Therefore, to make this mandatory on the individual to go to a camp is a little bit difficult. It ought to be handled through persuasion and discussion, but if it is made mandatory it would put California in the position of being criticized as setting up a concentration camp if it was mandatory in your legislation. If every person who had a single status and no home would be required to enter one of those camps—and I throw this out as a caution—it would be misinterpreted.

The camps should be set up for single men, if you are going to do it that way, with the understanding that those people who are responsible for administration would see to it that as many of those single men be sent to those camps for work projects, or treatment, if necessary, as possible.

Now, the Hooe Gibson Camp may be a camp that is necessary in this State for taking care of people who are called "unemployable," whether they are unemployable or not, because they don't fit into any existing jobs.

CHAIRMAN PHILLIPS: They are rheumatic cases, arthritic cases, and there are baths and warm springs at Camp Gibson.

MR. HOEHLER: There is a camp that needs institutional management, it does not need work management, and there should be on hand somebody who has practical nursing experience to look after that. I had not known about the Hooe Gibson camp and I am not qualified to talk about it, but I think the suggestion made by the Senator of State-run camps is the right line of thought.

The question as to who should decide who goes to the camps is another matter. If—and I am stating a hypothesis here—if you decide to turn the general relief program back to the counties with State supervision then I think it is necessary * * *

UNSETTLED PERSONS IN OTHER STATES

About single people or unsettled people; in New York State, which I will discuss first, where you have a situation that is fairly comparable to your own State here, the counties take care of these people, all of the single and unsettled people. They take care of them in homes, they take care of them by arranging for boarding them out if they are single men not eligible for old age assistance, and the State then reimburses the County for the people who have no domicile or who are unsettled in the County but are State residents. The State pays for it by reimbursement to the counties. Then if the person happens to be a resident of any other state, the State takes the responsibility, the State Social Welfare Department, of seeing that that person is moved back to their own state.

Now, of course, their problem of non-residents is about three per cent of their total case load. Yours would be a much larger percentage.

Now, to get to a discussion of handling SRA in various states, in the State of Ohio there is an extremely complicated system of handling the general relief program. The township trustees are responsible, the cities are responsible, and the counties are responsible, so you have a situation that is even more complicated than what you have here. It is not shown up as much because you don't have the thing centralized in one place where the attacks will be directed, because you have them scattered over something like 1300 different units. Of course that is a situation that must be corrected, and I have been in conference with the Governor there and others about the need for it, because they see the need. It is a question of getting the proper legislation.

The State of Ohio provides some money for general relief. That money is given to the counties or to the cities on the basis of a percentage allotment, and the counties and the cities then make up the difference themselves.

DISTRIBUTION OF RELIEF COSTS

CHAIRMAN PHILLIPS: How is the percentage derived? You say it is on a percentage allotment?

MR. HOEHLER: It is 40 60, 40 per cent from the State and 60 per cent from the county, or it might be 50 50. That is a matter of administrative discussion. The township trustees take care of their so-called pauper poor out of the money which they raise in taxation and they get no assistance from the State.

CHAIRMAN PHILLIPS: Those are our indigents?

MR. HOEHLER: Those are your indigents. Now, in the State of Pennsylvania the State handles the entire job. There is a State Department of Public Assistance which gets State money entirely, and that money is spent in the counties for public assistance, old age assistance, or assistance to children, and for general relief.

The county organizations, however, are administered by boards of social welfare in the counties, or boards of public assistance in the counties—they call them Boards of Welfare or Boards of Assistance—those boards are appointed by the Governor. The Administrator of the County is appointed by the Board of Social Welfare in the county from lists which are made up after civil service examination. * * *

CHAIRMAN PHILLIPS: The cities and the counties pay the 60 per cent?

MR. HOEHLER: Yes, and the State pays 40 per cent.

SENATOR DEUEL: What state is that?

MR. HOEHLER: New York.

CHAIRMAN PHILLIPS: Compare that with our proposal that the State shall pay 70 or 75 per cent here.

MR. HOEHLER: Well, I think that your State of California is different from the standpoint of the wealth of the counties and the tax set-up in the counties. The city of New York, the city of Buffalo, and the city of Rochester—most of those counties are fairly well off. There are only one or two impoverished counties in the State of New York, and they are able to do a larger percentage of the job than you can do here.

If the State pays 60 per cent in New York, as they have done in various times in the past—the thing fluctuates depending upon what the Legislature thinks or what pressure is brought on the Legislature --if the counties pay 40 per cent they can well afford to pay that, or they can pay 60 per cent whereas here you have a number of counties that could not afford to do the job on their own, or even 40 per cent of it, because the tax basis is so limited and your tax structure is not the same as it is in New York. The State has a wider range for taxation.

STATE AND COUNTY COOPERATION

The State Department of Social Welfare in New York has supervisory authority over the counties, or the cities, as the case may be. The actual administration of this money is done in the local government, but the State Department will say, "You shall have certain standards for personnel, you shall have certain standards of relief, and certain procedures," and the counties are required to keep records as set forth by the State Department and to report to the State Department on forms.

Then the State Department has authority to go into the county periodically and do what they call a case review or make spot checks of what is actually happening in the county. That enables the State Department to give adequate supervision and to say to a county, "You are not doing this job," or "Two-thirds of your people are on here because of political pressure which has been brought on the county and you have got to reduce this load continually until you get to the people who are really there on the basis of need and not on the basis of political preferment or because of personal preferment."

There are instances, of course, where personal politics can play a more important part than partisan politics, so the State Department has to check on that constantly. That is what they call supervision. Supervision is merely a method by which the State will get some information from the counties as to what the counties are doing with their money. If they think that the county is not expending the State's money properly, the State then can crack down on the county with its restrictions. The State could even go to the point of refusing to give the county their 60 per cent or their 40 per cent, as the case may be, which the State now allocates to the counties.

In that state, as I said before, if the county takes care of the unsettled person, the person without domicile, the county then requests the State for reimbursement and that becomes a State case handled by the County organization for the purpose of efficiency and economy. The State could send in a duplicating organization paralleling the county organization, but they prefer not to do that. They prefer to assign responsibility to the county and then keep a rigid control on those cases for which they pay 100 per cent.

I may be taking a lot for granted, and in case you don't understand, please ask questions.

SENATOR DEUEL: Doesn't that result in a great deal of controversy between the county and State authorities?

MR. HOEHLER: No. For instance, the county will send a payroll up to the State, and they will indicate that on that payroll there are 50 people in the county who are so-called State charges. The State then goes back, sends its auditors back and checks those from the standpoint of eligibility. For instance, they will take out case No. 1 and they will find out why the county determined that case No. 1 was a State case, and if the auditors say that that is not a State case, that it is a county case, then the county has full responsibility for that and it is thrown out and there is no reimbursement. They can do that either by a careful check of individual cases or they can do it by spot check. New York prefers to do it by checking the individual cases.

Then that case is carried for a number of months, and the State will go back and make a check after, say, three months, they will check the same cases to find out whether the cases should continue to be State or county cases.

SENATOR DEUEL: Of course, you understand that in California, as I understand it, we approach the subject on a different basis.

MR. HOEHLER: You say that the employable unemployed are State charges regardless of where they live, and that the indigents and unemployables are county charges.

CHAIRMAN PHILLIPS: How many states in the Union, Mr. Hoehler, have a duplication of the offices and personnel in the State and County units?

MR. HOEHLER: About 15 or 20 states. That duplication sometimes is more complicated than what you experience here.

SENATOR MIXTER: You are familiar with the system used in California for raising revenue for State purposes, Mr. Hoehler?

MR. HOEHLER: I think I am.

SENATOR MIXTER: It is not clear to me how revenue for operating the State Aid in New York is raised. Would you explain that?

TAXES FOR RELIEF FUNDS

CHAIRMAN PHILLIPS: Our county tax is an ad valorem tax on land, and all other taxes are used by the State. We have some thirteen or fourteen types of taxation in the State.

MR. HOEHLER: The situation in New York is about the same as it is here, except that the counties are permitted—for instance, the City of New York has a special tax on sales and a cigarette tax, and some of the counties put on amusement taxes, and the cities put them on, to raise additional revenue, but for the most part it is an ad valorem property tax.

SENATOR MIXTER: For State purposes?

MR. HOEHLER: For county purposes.

SENATOR MIXTER: Is there any ad valorem tax applied in the State of New York for raising State Revenue at all?

MR. HOEHLER: There are excise taxes on utilities, but no property tax.

SENATOR MIXTER: Not on common property?

MR. HOEHLER: No, but there is a State income tax in the State of New York.

SENATOR DEUEL: No state sales tax?

MR. HOEHLER: No.

COST OF ADMINISTERING RELIEF

SENATOR MAYO: What is the percentage of administrative overhead in the State of New York? Do you have any idea on that?

MR. HOEHLER: Yes; 13 per cent.

SENATOR PHILLIPS: What would you say in other states?

MR. HOEHLER: It is 13 per cent in New York. It is awfully hard to compare percentages because New York has a total welfare and relief budget of nearly $70,000,000, and when you get up into huge figures your percentages fall down a little bit. If other states did the job as thoroughly as New York does it from the standpoint of social workers and investigations and office equipment, the percentage might run as high as 17 to 20 per cent.

In the State of Illinois, for instance, where they have got a situation very much like yours, with a State Relief Administration operating throughout the State and paralleled by a State Welfare Department operating the categories, the percentage is 10 per cent in the State of Illinois. Now they are having extreme difficulty in making that 10 per cent do a good job, and in the city of Chicago the Governor's Commission, which was made up of business men, went into this thing and they found—they set up what they called an experimental station, in which they put the best trained people they could get, and they reduced the case load so that each worker was handling a hundred or less, and they saved $14,000 in three months. They published a report which we reprinted and sent around to the states. The title of the report was, "Adequate Service Brings Economy."

ASSEMBLYMAN LORE: That is, they ran their percentage of administrative cost up?

MR. HOEHLER: They ran it up but saved in total cost.

CHAIRMAN PHILLIPS: How much did it run it up? You said it was a ten per cent administrative cost before that; what would you say it came to, 13 or 14 per cent?

MR. HOEHLER: They ran it up to 14 per cent, but they saved $14,000 in three months. That report is available to your committee. You can wire for it. It is a business man's report. Those men decided they would get rid of social workers.

15 PER CENT ENOUGH "TO DO A GOOD JOB"

CHAIRMAN PHILLIPS: I think the interesting thing for this Committee is that we set in the bill a limitation of 15 per cent.

MR. HOEHLER: Fifteen per cent ought to enable the department to do a good job. I say that with some reservation, but on the experience in other states I would say that a program such as the one you have here could be handled on a 15 per cent administrative cost basis. Ten per cent is too low. This business man's committee requested the Legislature to remove the limitation on administrative cost and to make it a matter of administrative discretion. The Legislature chose not to do it, and they are operating under 10 per cent. In fact, in the rural districts they are operating under 8 per cent.

SENATOR DEUEL: You made the statement that these business men were determined to get rid of social workers. Did they do so?

COMPETENT WORKERS SAVE MONEY

MR. HOEHLER: No, they decided that if they did so it would cost them more money. They ran this experimental station and then they had a control station in two districts, one which was handled by competent people, trained people, with a good administrator, a man with some administrative experience. They got that fellow out of one of the business houses where he was doing some personnel work, something closely allied to social work. In the other station they took away all the trained people and put in a lot of people who said, "We know how to do this because we have been helping people all our lives." The difference was just unbelievable. They did demonstrate that they needed competent people to do the job and they demonstrated that they could save money.

SENATOR DEUEL: How are these administrators appointed, by political classification or upon merit, or how?

POLITICS IN RELIEF "MOST DANGEROUS"

MR. HOEHLER: For the most part that administration has been free from politics completely. Governor Horner has been importuned constantly to make political appointments in his Relief Administration, but he has said it is the most dangerous thing we can do, that anybody who has any sense, or a wise politician, will keep politics out of this thing because it has got a kick-back that will ruin any politician or anybody with political ambitions.

The same thing was discovered in the State of Pennsylvania. The present Governor, Governor James, said to me, "After I looked over what my predecessor did in political manipulation in this relief program, I am determined that I am not going to commit political suicide by interfering in the administration of relief." Whether he is doing that or not is a question of opinion, and whether Governor Earle, who preceded him did or not is a question of opinion. That was the Governor's statement for public consumption.

SENATOR DEUEL: Of course, that is merely a matter of the mental attitude of the executives?

MR. HOEHLER: Yes.

SENATOR DEUEL: If he wants to make political appointments there is nothing to stop him from doing so?

MR. HOEHLER: I am enough of a politician myself to recognize that. . . .

WELL TRAINED PERSONNEL AVAILABLE

MR. HOEHLER: After all, these programs are with people and the question is, what are the effects of our modern economy on people, what is done to people, what has happened to industry that so many people are out of work, and how can those people be retrained or readjusted or reoriented, or any other change in their lives that will make them more available for jobs, and in the meantime what should be our attitude toward people? Should we look on people as we do on machines, or should we look on them as people who must be able to help themselves through the operation of their mental capacities and their physical capacities, and if so, what does the meager relief allowance do to those people: Does it make them less employable or more employable? What does an adequate relief allowance do for those people, does it keep them off from work when work is available? What is the relationship of work to the dole, if you please? That kind of study can be presented to the schools of social work today and I am confident that that is the thing that is going to be done.

SENATOR DEUEL: But they are not as yet turning out any graduates under that system you have outlined there.

MR. HOEHLER: You would be surprised how many people who have graduated from that type of school have changed their approach to this problem.

Now, as an administrator for one county I had about 800 different social workers, and when I handled the State job I was simply doing it temporarily and we had a number of different kinds of social workers. The social workers who came to me had some knowledge and some understanding of the job that they had to do, and they learned more after they walked into our shop than they learned in the previous four years. The reason they were able to learn more after they walked into our shop was because they had some background of training, they knew how to absorb knowledge, and they knew how to change their point of view. If they didn't know how to change their point of view, if they were the kind of people whose training had made them dogmatic and immobile, they soon left our organization. We had ways and means of getting rid of them because they were incompetent.

"THIS JOB" SHOULD BE DONE AT HOME

CHAIRMAN PHILLIPS: It falls back really to the attitude of the State Administration and the attitude of the administrator of public welfare. Now, in California we are facing this practical problem that in the session of the Legislature we passed this bill that I spoke of, and that bill waits for action now on the desk of the Assembly. That bill proposes to return the supervision of relief to the counties and it does not propose any integration of the State level, not because of a lack of interest on our part, but because of the limitations of the Governor's proclamation. Now, we believe, the majority of this Committee believes, that that is a good bill. It believes that we should put the Administration of relief in the hands of the counties as the only possible way of correcting a situation which exists in this State.

Do you believe that in any other state a similarly complicated situation exists and in which they have the difficulties that we are facing in this state?

MR. HOEHLER: Of course I am a local administration man. I believe that this job has got to be done where people work and where people live, and so far as possible the controls for administration ought to be on the local level. There ought to be some state supervision so as to keep your local organization in line with other local organizations, and so that the state would have control to a degree of the money which is being spent, but I don't believe that politics is any worse on the state level than it is down at the local level. I was a precinct committeeman and I know something about how you are high pressured to do certain things. As you know, the precinct committeeman is just about the lowest public office.

SENATOR MAYO: We don't have them here.

MR. HOEHLER: You don't have them here but you do have rotten politics. The city of Kansas City, which I come from, was just about as poorly run as any city in the country for generations. If you had your state supervising and acting as a check on the local communities, the chances are you would reduce politics to a minimum, and that is what has got to happen if these programs are to do anything for the people.

Motion to Print Majority Report of the Housing and Slum Clearance Fact-Finding Committee in the Journal.

On motion of Mr. Knight the following majority report of the Housing and Slum Clearance Fact-Finding Committee was ordered printed in the Journal and that 750 copies be printed as a separate document.

Majority Report of the Housing and Slum Clearance Fact-Finding Committee.

To the Members of the Assembly of California.

The proclamation by which the Governor called the Legislature into extraordinary session on January 29, 1940, required the Legislature, among other matters:

"7. To consider and act upon legislation to create a public agency of the State to be known as the California Housing Authority to undertake slum clearance and projects to provide dwelling accommodations for persons of low income, defining the powers and duties of the California Housing Authority and providing for the exercise of such powers, including acquiring property, borrowing money, issuing bonds and other obligations and giving security therefor; providing for a certification of the bonds by the Attorney General; conferring remedies on obligees of the California Housing Authority; exempting its properties and securities from taxation and assessments, and authorizing certain payments in lieu of such taxation and assessments."

Pursuant to this requirement, after the introduction of Assembly Bills Nos. 57 and 58, the Assembly on February 24, 1940, by House Resolution No. 67 created a committee of eleven members to be designated as the "Housing and Slum Clearance Fact-Finding Committee," and prescribed its duties as follows:

"B. Resolved, That the Housing and Slum Clearance Fact-finding Committee is hereby authorized and directed to gather, assemble, study, and analyze all facts directly or indirectly relating to existing or proposed laws of this State providing for slum clearance and projects to provide dwelling accommodations for persons of low income, whether in rural or urban areas, the administration of existing laws relating thereto, the need for additional laws relating thereto or for the amendment of existing laws, the extent of which insanitary or unsafe dwellings or conditions of overcrowding or congestion exist in this State, and generally as to the need and desirability for such projects, including the social and economic effects thereof."

The committee consisted of the following members of the Assembly: Allen, Don A.; Andreas, Godfrey A.; Dilworth, Nelson S.; Hawkins, Augustus F.; Miller, Miss Eleanor; Pelletier, John B.; Thorp, James E.; Walker, Clarence R.; Weber, Charles M.; Weybret, Fred; Knight, T. Fenton, Chairman.

By House Resolution No. 68, the Speaker was made a member ex officio.

A subcommittee to hold hearings in the northern part of the State was named, consisting of the following: Assemblymen Hawkins, Pelletier, Thorp, Weber, Weybret, Chairman.

A subcommittee designated to hold hearings in the southern part of the State consisted of the following: Miss Miller and Messrs. Allen, Andreas, Walker, and Dilworth, Chairman.

Your committee respectfully reports that it has extensively investigated conditions in the following counties: Sacramento, San Francisco, Fresno, Kern, Los Angeles, Riverside, Yuba, San Bernardino, and Sutter; and by subcommittees or by the whole committee has held hearings at Fresno, Bakersfield, Los Angeles, Upland, Riverside, Marysville, Yuba City, Sacramento and San Francisco. Inquiries were directed to other places, but no requests for hearings other than at the places above named were received. Interested persons, however, from Santa Barbara appeared and were heard at the Los Angeles meeting, and from San Jose at the San Francisco meeting.

Your committee has carefully considered the relief situation and its bearing on the problems herein discussed. The Relief Administrator was invited to and did submit a statement of housing conditions at the Los Angeles meeting.

It is apparent to the committee that present laws furnish adequate and workable methods whereby cities and counties may take full advantage of Federal legislation, and that the existing authorities are not hampered in their work by existing statutes. Recent court decisions have upheld the constitutionality of the procedure provided. And it is significant that the committee has not received from any city, county, legislative body or housing authority, any official request for the bills heretofore referred to or for any similar bill.

The principal support of the bill, outside of the Legislature, appears to come from some who hope to better their individual positions.

The main bill referred to—A. B. No. 57—was drafted by the United States Housing Authority, "so that the activities of the State Authority would not interfere in any way with the local Housing Authorities in case they are operating or care to operate," according to Mr. Holtzendorff, who went on to say that "whether or not the solution has been found is, of course, up to the judgment of the Legislature."

Later in his testimony, Mr. Holtzendorff replied to a question by a member of the committee, and referring to pending legislation before Congress, indicated that it would be advisable for the State to wait until the passage of the Congressional act, saying, "We might pass an act which would not conform with the provisions of the bill you now have under consideration."

From the best evidence obtainable, it appears that the average overall cost of family units constructed by the Housing Authority is approximately $4,000—some more, some less. The estimated monthly shelter rent for these units, exclusive of governmental subsidy, range from $12 to $20. The subsidies granted approximate the same monthly costs as the shelter rent paid by the tenant.

It needs no argument to show that this may not furnish relief to the slum dweller.

In fact, large portions of the Housing projects are not carried out on slum areas but on vacant land, and the activities of the Housing Authority in Southern California have been entirely of this description to date. However, future projects are in preparation for construction on sites now occupied.

The definition of "slums" by various housing authorities does not at all correspond to the common acceptance of the word. As the word "slum" is ordinarily understood, there are few slums in California, but under the arbitrary construction imposed upon the word by Housing Authorities our cities and towns are full of slum areas. It must be borne in mind that Housing projects and what are arbitrarily called slum clearance projects are not rehabilitation projects. And it may be found, on careful examination, that legislation providing for rehabilitation will in many communities more satisfactorily meet the need in this State. In fact, the general consensus of informed opinion seems to point to the wisdom of "going slow" and taking time for thorough examination.

As has been already pointed out, new construction by the Housing Authority does not depend upon or follow the destruction of a slum building. There must, however, be an equivalent elimination within one year after the completion of a project. In the practice of local Housing Authorities, however, this may mean ordinarily the improvement rather than the destruction of a substandard building, which may be remote from the project.

The Housing Authorities' failure to comply with the request for the addresses of houses listed for "equivalent eliminations," prevented the committee from making first-hand investigation as to the type of such construction that is being certified under the "equivalent method" by the Housing Authority now operating in this State.

Undoubtedly, in the San Joaquin Valley—and perhaps in other sections—there is a serious problem, brought about largely by the influx of migrants. But even in such sections the unfortunate condition, as has been testified before us, arises from permanent residents as well as from migrants.

All witnesses agreed that neither a State Housing Authority nor a local housing authority, working in cooperation with the United States Housing Authority, would materially relieve the housing problem facing our migratory citizens or those on State unemployment relief.

The Federal Housing Authority up to this time has not concluded any rural project. At the present time, says Mr. Holtzendorff, there is none on the west coast.

Mr. Tilton, administrative officer of the State Planning Board, reported to us that that body feels that the State has already provided quite adequate authority for the provision of public housing in cities and counties, but does not think that the State would be justified at this time in entering upon an active program in the rural areas. That board feels that action at this time would be premature because of insufficiency of information. Private enterprise in some sections has experimented with placing unfortunate people on small parcels of land where they can raise vegetables, keep chickens, etc., and otherwise contribute to their own upkeep.

We have referred to the absence of official demand for new laws but we would be lacking in candor if we did not advise you that the strong opposition of real property interests has been vigorously and extensively presented to us.

We are advised that these interests are unalterably opposed to the whole Federal housing program as being competitive and burdensome to the taxpayers, and derogatory to the American social order and way of life, for, the reason amongst others, that the present plan of operation contemplates perpetual tenancy of multiple unit houses owned and built by governmental authorities.

They argue that many of the most conspicuous Federal housing projects are in direct competition with private enterprise, and serve not the slum dwellers but the self-supporting classes.

The plan of operations of the Federal Housing Authority contemplates spreading the cost of projects, plus a surcharge of 3 8/10 per cent (which is subject to change) over a period of not exceeding sixty years. Under the proposed plan, at the end of the period of amortization, the title of the property would be in the State. Under the existing law, the title at the end of the amortization period will be in the local municipality.

Any permanent housing program extending over a long period of years should entail an extended study of the shift and trend of population centers before the sites for such projects are finally selected. Your committee was unable to find that any such survey has been made.

Again it is a condition prerequisite to public housing projects that the real property shall be exempt from taxation. The bonds issued by the California Housing Authority contemplated by Assembly Bill No. 57, "together with interest thereon and income therefrom," are also exempt from taxation. Before laying the ground for the imposition of this and incidental burdens upon the people of our communities your committee feels that we should have some approving expression from local public bodies.

Mr. Siegel, Director of the Bureau of Housing of the Los Angeles City Health Department, discussed at length in his testimony the question of slum clearance, saying amongst other things that thousands of dwellings that are apparently "outmoded and dilapidated * * * can be modernized, reclaimed and made habitable for years to come * * * The problems of blighted areas are peculiarly local in nature. * * * We are building future slums now. * * * The present situation does not warrant quick legislation."

Mr. Siegel severely criticised the "Equivalent method of elimination" employed by the authority operating in the City of Los Angeles as a subterfuge to comply with the letter of the Federal Act without correcting, to any marked degree, the real slum conditions that continue to exist in that community.

City and county officials are always in close touch with the popular sentiment of their community and may be safely trusted to take advantage of existing housing legislation if such action is desired by their people.

We recommend to the appropriate officials a more complete enforcement of laws and local ordinances relating to housing.

And we recommend that the housing laws of the State be revised at the next session of the Legislature to whatever extent may be necessary to render impossible rental or occupancy of some of the lowest types of housing now permitted.

The interest shown by private enterprise in attempting to solve the low cost housing problem in this State is definitely encouraging. A number of witnesses appeared before your committee with proposals to construct individual homes at prices ranging from $1500 to $2500 per family unit. We recommend that private capital and enterprise be given every possible consideration in carrying out any practical low cost housing program which will avoid a permanent public subsidy and afford the individual citizen the ultimate opportunity to become the owner of his own home.

All witnesses qualified to testify on the subject were in agreement that the trend of rental costs in the lower brackets is definitely downward and that the law of supply and demand is rapidly operating in favorable direction to aid in solving the low rental housing problem.

Recognizing the public interest in various housing plans and in discovery of means to bring about better housing, we recommend a further study of means whereby individual ownership may be facilitated.

The problem is largely a local one, and the governmental bodies of each city and county are obviously in a position to make a survey of their own community at very much less expense than would be entailed upon the State working through outside investigators.

Recognizing the demand and necessity for further information on this very important problem, we recommend an intensive examination by existing State agencies. For example, the State Planning Board is well situated to make a complete examination with its own facilities and by calling to its aid other State and local agencies such as the Division of Immigration and Housing, the Real Estate Commission, County Charities Departments, etc. Such examinations should be directed to, amongst other things, the problems of slum clearance, rehousing and rehabilitation, and the action to be taken in the rural areas, and as to labor camps and agricultural workers.

We recommend—and we believe that in so doing we represent the overwhelming weight of informed public opinion in this State and of experience in other States—that until such an examination is made and reported to the Assembly, no further legislative action be taken by this body.

Message from the Governor.

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, GOVERNOR'S OFFICE.

SACRAMENTO, May 22, 1940.

To the Honorable Members of the Senate and of the Assembly:

Gentlemen: I am transmitting to you herewith a petition addressed to me and to the Legislature signed by several thousands of our citizens, urging that the Legislature demonstrate the Congress of the United States that it refers to the various

State Legislatures of the United States, for ratification or rejection, a constitutional amendment embodying the basic principles of the Townsend Pension Plan as set forth in the petition.

This petition is transmitted to you in accordance with the request of Dr. Townsend and other members of the committee who presented the same to me on this date, for your consideration in connection with a proposed resolution of the Legislature in response thereto.

Respectfully yours,

CULBERT L. OLSON,
Governor of California.

CLO:M.

Motion to Print Minority Report of the Legislative Fact-Finding Committee on Employment and Relief.

On motion of Mr. O'Day the minority report of the Legislative Fact-Finding Committee on Employment and Relief was ordered printed in the Journal.

PART I.

Minority Report of Edward F. O'Day, Assemblyman, 24th District, Member of the Joint Legislative Fact-Finding Committee on Employment and Relief.

To the members of the California Legislature.

In submitting this minority report of the Joint Fact-Finding Committee on Employment and Relief, I do so for the reason that there are certain findings and recommendations in the majority report that I cannot agree with. On the other hand, the major recommendations contained in the report are recommendations that I concur in.

This minority report contains verbatim, many of the recommendations of the majority report. The language taken from the majority report appears herein in quotation marks.

The question of county administration of relief is a broad one and involves a highly complex problem. The problem of unemployment is a National problem and a State problem and these two agencies of Government are the suitable agencies to solve this problem rather than the smaller political divisions of our Government such as the counties and the cities. I therefore can not concur in a recommendation to return relief to the counties.

It is my opinion that the Joint Legislative Fact-Finding Committee on Employment and Relief has performed a public service in the work that it has done, and that legislative committees investigating and studying the activities of any department of the State Government performs service to the members of the Legislature and to the public.

Recommendations.

"In presenting its recommendations for a coordinated program, the Joint Legislative Fact-Finding Committee on Employment—to which was assigned the study of the relief and employment situation in California—makes this preliminary observation:" (The Joint Legislative Fact-Finding Committee devoted most of its time to investigating and studying the State Relief Administration. It was created with the joint purpose of studying not only relief but also employment. Due to a shortness of time, it became impossible to complete investigation of both relief and unemployment and because the matter of relief was pending before the Legislature and was so vital an issue, it took the committee's full time and the problem of employment was not so thoroughly studied. If a committee is created to function in the future, the problem of employment should be given greater study.

"The complexity of the situation and the rapidity with which it has grown to be the major problem in California, have resulted in what can only be called muddled thinking. We have lost sight of basic principles. Constant reiteration of the gravity of the relief situation has obscured the fact that relief is a single phase of the problem of unemployment.

Removing the now recognized relief difficulties would leave the unemployment problem still unsolved. Removing unemployment, on the other hand, would eliminate much of the need for relief, except for indigency due to old age; the loss of one or both parents; disease, and similar conditions preventing self support."

I concur with the committee's emphasis that the major question with which the Legislature has to deal is the problem of unemployment.

I.

Reorganization Program.

I believe that the complete reorganization of all functions of State Government dealing with employment, unemployment, and State aid of every type would be advisable. The consideration, however, of this matter is one that should not be attempted at a special session of the Legislature, as the problem is so complex it would be more advisable to consider it during a regular session when the Legislature is convened for a longer period. Under this program, a director of a new department of employment would correlate and direct all these affiliated activities. Responsible to him would be division heads in charge of the following divisions:

- (a) Division of aid to the Aged, Blind and Dependent Children;
- (b) Division of Employment, including or coordinating the work of the State Employment Service;
- (c) Division of Unemployment Insurance, taking over or coordinating the functions of the present California Employment Commission;
- (d) Division of Direct Relief, supervising and coordinating the activities of the county welfare departments, and conducting State administration of direct relief, and such functions as may be placed with the Department by legislative action."

Single men's camps should, in order to efficiently operate, have control over their own intake.

- "(e) Division of Cooperatives, supervising all self-help organizations."

Director of Employment.

"The Director of Employment must be the most capable man obtainable, and his compensation should be fixed by the Legislature commensurate with the importance of the job he is given to do. The committee emphasizes the necessity of finding an executive of exceptional ability and special qualifications. He should be appointed by the Governor, subject to a two-thirds approval by the Senate.

The appointment of a competent Director of Employment would bring the good business management essential in the solution of the unemployment problem.

Elimination of Certain Existing Commissions.

"With the creation of a Department of Employment, the State Relief Commission, the State Social Welfare Commission and the Unemployment Reserves Commission will go out of existence and their functions, jurisdictions and powers will be transferred to the Director of Employment."

Detailed Recommendations Should Be Unnecessary.

"The committee could make detailed recommendations relative to changes and improvements in almost every function and division of the State Relief Administration. It is apparent, however, that abolishing the present SRA, which was created as an emergency agency of State government, and placing its functions under regularly established department, or the creation of the Department of Employment, already recommended, would cure most of these difficulties." The Legislature has the power to effect such a reorganization. It seems very impractical to consider any major reorganization of the departments dealing with employment and relief at this special session. Such a great change in our governmental structure should receive a more careful study before such a move is attempted.

Extension of Public Works.

"The committee suggests that it should be possible for the State and the counties to create work at a wage fair to the unemployed but not so attractive as wages in private employment.

Projects undertaken on this basis would (1) permit the State and counties to acquire physical improvements; (2) benefit the unemployed by providing them with work at wages higher than the dole; (3) benefit private enterprise by stimulating private employment through large scale purchases of material and increased purchasing power of those employed on these projects.

State work should be handled, the committee believes, under the Department of Public Works, the Department of Natural Resources, the Department of Education, the Department of Agriculture, or any regularly constituted department capable of supplying work of this kind. County work should be handled by such county agencies as are provided by law. Such work should not be confused with, nor designated as, 'relief work'."

II.*Mobilization for Employment.

"The major factor in solving California's relief problem must be a 'mobilization for employment.'"

Mobilization for employment can be made a reality in California. Business should support a plan on tangible and practical grounds. Research to develop new products, new markets, and consequently new jobs must be expanded, and in this the State, which hitherto has done little or nothing, must become an aggressive leader.

Business must be made to understand the choice is between cooperation and taxation; between mobilization to meet an emergency as serious as war, and moral and financial bankruptcy.

Mobilization for employment can be California's contribution to the solution of an aggravated national problem." Private industry must be made to realize that it has always been, in America, the major employer group, and if it does not reemploy, at a decent standard of living wage, the unemployed people, it will be necessary for the State to do so. Private industry receives the benefits of American labor, and it should assume its obligation to employ them.

III.

Return Relief Administration to the Counties.

Unemployment is a national and State problem and these two great branches of our government are more suitable to attempt a solution of this problem than are the 58 counties in our State of California. Local administration by the counties would create different types of administration. The types of administration would result from the attitudes of local public officials which could not be controlled by any rule or regulation or set of standards that the State might set up.

Resentment in certain rural areas exists against unemployed people. It is my belief that if relief were returned to county administration, that the urban centers of San Francisco, Los Angeles and Sacramento would be more attractive to the unemployed and the unemployed people would gradually collect in these centers. County welfare departments are fundamentally social agencies and are especially adapted to the handling of unemployable unemployed people. The problem of employable unemployed people, however, is not a social problem. Their problem can be solved by providing work for them. The State is in a better position to cope with this problem than are the counties.

Present Regulations Unsatisfactory.

"The statement has been frequently made by those who oppose the idea of local supervision of relief, that this would result in '58 different kinds of relief administration.' The committee finds that there is no hard and fast regulation at the present time. The SRA administration imposes its regulations upon its county directors, many of them interpret these to suit themselves." Uniform rules should be provided for by the State Relief Administration and a central office should interpret its rules and they should be carried out by the county directors of the State Relief Administration. "On the other hand, the committee has heard complaints that the present regulations, as imposed upon case workers, are too severe. In the past a case worker was given a reasonable power of decision in individual cases. Thus cases in different areas of the State, could be handled according to conditions in those areas, and some distinction could be made between families accustomed to lower or higher standards of living.

Today, rigorous and inelastic regulations appear to apply at this point, while on the other hand, regulations which might justly be expected to be observed, are administered with great elasticity by directors, district supervisors, and case workers." A committee composed of the Attorney General, the Controller, the State Relief Administrator, and the Director of Agriculture should be created to study this problem as this is one of the major problems arising through unemployment relief.

"Employables and Unemployables."

A committee should be created to study the definition of employables and unemployables and recommend a solution to the Legislature. "A simplification of the handling of applicants at the intake is recommended by the committee."

Relief Problem.

The problem of relief is not a social work problem. However, if a person remains unemployed for a great length of time, it oft-times occurs that he becomes a permanent social problem. The basic problem created by unemployment can be solved by providing opportunities for remunerative employment. Relief cases should be divided into two classes: Those in need of social case work and those in need of employment. The former should be handled by social case workers. The latter should have work provided for them.

A business-like investigation of financial responsibility of the applicants of relief should be maintained and rigorous prosecution of chiselers should be conducted. Law-enforcing agencies and judges should be admonished that for the general welfare of the State, chiseling on relief must be stopped and can be prevented by proper prosecution.

Limitations of the Proclamation.

As previously noted in this minority report, this special session of the Legislature should not consider a general reorganization of the problem of unemployment and relief.

The restrictions in Senate Bill No. 81 making it impossible for the present relief administration to conduct works programs should be stricken out and an opportunity given to this organization to provide a suitable works program to place as many relief cases as possible at some type of work.

IV.

"A stand must be made against 'legislation by regulations,' which is contrary to the intent of the State and Federal constitutions, and against increasing bureaucracy.

The committee recommends legislation authorizing the courts to prevent unwarranted and illegal State interference with local authority."

V.

Establish Three-Year Residential Requirements.

I recommend that the present rule requiring three years residence in California before direct relief may be granted remain.

VI.

Clear Relief Applications Through Credit Agency.

I recommend a study of costs to the SRA or to the counties of clearing of accepted applications through private credit agencies in the same manner as commercial or financial credit applications are cleared.

VII.

A ceiling of $58 for a person on relief is too low and causes many hardships. American people are generally on relief rolls because they can not find employment, not because they do not want to work; not because they do not seek work, but because there is no work available for them. To have them exist on such a meager allowance tends to cut down their general morale and weakens their physical condition and makes them a permanent charge on the public.

PART TWO

Explanatory Report.

"The members of the Joint Legislative Committee on Employment offer no panacea for unemployment.

Two months work on the part of seventeen legislators in all parts of California emphasizes the complexity of the problem.

There is no easy way out of the difficulty. The problem is shared in varying degrees by every State, but affects California peculiarly because of a proportionately large population of indigent migrants and because California is a proving ground of radical and subversive plans to "make use of the unemployed. "While the problem is complex, it can and will be solved, not in a day, but more rapidly than had hitherto been believed."

Problem Will Be Solved.

"The unemployment problem of California can be solved by a determination to solve it. The solution will not come from those who preach cynical defeatism to further class hatreds, not from pessimists who view democracy with despair."

A relief program emphasizing reemployment and creating work projects rather than a program emphasizing the social aspects of the unemployed people should be inaugurated. A concerted effort to return people to active employment, whether the positions be public or private, offers the solution to the unemployment problem.

A Start Has Been Made.

"The solution will be founded upon fundamental American traditions of economy, honesty, individual effort, and sincere cooperation in working out a problem of the commonwealth.

The committee's belief that emphasis should be placed on employment rather than on relief is supported from a source which the majority of the members of the Legislature have on occasion sharply criticized, the Workers Alliance."

Workers Alliance Confirms Analysis.

"Testifying before the subcommittee headed by Assemblyman A. C. Wollenberg, in Monterey, on March 20, 1940, J. W. Patterson, chairman of the grievance committee of the local Workers Alliance, in response to a request made the following general statement (W-2 page 11, official transcript):

"We have studied this problem from every angle and we feel that the biggest mistake they the State Relief Administration made is the fact that they are dealing with it as a social problem. We don't feel that it is a social problem—it is an unemployment problem. I think that 90 per cent of all our trouble is the fact that some of the people try to deal strictly on the basis of a social problem, and it is not.

If it was approached from that angle * * * there would never be any necessity to have a grievance from any organization." Again, Mr. Patterson said (page 12 of transcript):

"It is a problem of unemployment, and they approach it from the social angle, and they are supposed to go into the home and try to rehabilitate a man who has lost a job, and all that kind of stuff * * *."

This is not a social problem, it is an unemployment problem, and we feel that if they would try to spend time to work it out, it wouldn't be necessary to have this namby-pamby social idea—that is never going to settle the problem of relief.”

The treatment of unemployment relief as a social problem is a production of many years of handling this problem by social workers rather than by men experienced in reemployment projects.

The field of social work has a definite place in certain types of relief cases but is a poor substitute for those whose only problem is their inability to find remunerative employment.

New Approach Is Needed.

“Unemployment is a relatively new problem in the United States. Yet no American is unaffected by it. No American interested in the welfare of his government and the preservation of American liberties can ignore its involvements. No American can tolerate the suggestion that the problem is too big to be solved in the American way by the absorption of unemployed men and women into a revitalized American economy.” Private industry must, however, cooperate with the government and should take the lead in a reemployment program.

Subversive Influences at Work.

“Proponents of these schemes are deliberately working, more or less openly, toward a revolution. Others, less vicious in their purposes, but equally dangerous because of ignorance, unwittingly are lending the cause of revolution their names and reputations.” The unemployed people offer a fertile field to those who desire to promote Communism and other “isms” in America.

The State Relief Administration, because it is the agency of government dealing with the unemployed, is subjected to attacks from Communists and other subversive groups. It should set up a strong defense mechanism to offset these attacks. The present Relief Administrator is opposed to Communism and to subversive influences and is engaged in a constructive program of separating all radical and subversive elements and personnel from the State Relief Administration.

Relief Is a Palliative.

“Like any medicine which does not remove the cause of the illness, relief is dangerous in itself. Bromides administered over long periods may produce rashes on the patient's body. In the same way, relief is producing red rashes on the body politic. As quickly as possible, and with complete coordination of effort, the cause of the trouble must be attacked and the palliative tapered off.

Relief must continue until the Mobilization for Employment has proved itself successful. It should be repeated that the dole, which is the form in which relief is extended in California, is not a cure for unemployment.”

California needs a public works program for people on relief and should inaugurate one and conduct it until such time as private industry absorbs the employable unemployed people.

Works Projects Considered.

“The State should give maximum cooperation to the Works Progress Administration and urge extension of its activities in California.

Every effort must be made to obtain sponsorship for projects to the end that the full WPA quota for the State may be utilized. The committee was astounded to learn, from testimony by the WPA Administrator for Southern California (P-2, Pages 46 & 47), that his agency had had an average of over 2,000 jobs monthly which were open to the unemployed, but of which the SRA had never availed itself."

Refusal to Accept Work Condemned.

"There can be no difference of opinion as to the gross dishonesty of any SRA official who condones and abets relief recipients in refusing to take work on WPA or similar projects. No relief recipient should be permitted to refuse suitable employment or to delay the acceptance of work. Any relief recipient refusing suitable employment should forthwith be removed permanently from the relief rolls." A public works program should be set into motion at the earliest possible convenience. Projects that will inure to the general benefit of the State should be inaugurated. A thorough study of work programs with the thought of efficiency, businesslike operation and permanent benefit to the State should be sought. Hastily created projects poorly supervised yield but small benefit to the State as a whole and tend to break down the morale of the relief clientele.

Long Range Outlook Urged.

Conclusions in respect to the problem of unemployment in California.

"(A) This problem will prevail, in greater or less degree, until 'Mobilization for Employment' has won its objective. While the trend of private business and employment is upward at present, the fact that this is due, in part, to the European war should not be overlooked. Recent reports show a 17 per cent improvement in business over a year ago.

(B) The State should do all within its power to foster increased employment in private enterprise.

(C) The SRA has permitted social service theorists and wishful thinkers to run riot in California for years with resultant wastefulness, chiseling and inequities. Social service, as evidenced in the SRA, has presumed that unemployment is permanent and that relief recipients are a permanent class. The SRA social service workers have disregarded the possibilities of re-employment, and have done no good to their own profession.

The committee has respect for altruism, but contends that genuine altruism means employment for every citizen who would work. * *

Common sense, not a formula, controls effective social service work. In the SRA, social service has been characterized by an exaggerated professional attitude.

(D) Relief budgets should take standards of living into account as well as the number of members of a family, and should consider total income from all sources, especially all State aids.

(E) The problem of youth is one of the greatest problems of unemployment.

Young people today are getting married on relief and their children are being born on relief. Little is being done to foster a spirit of initiative and independence characteristic of so many generations of self-reliant American families. This is a problem for both the Legislature and groups responsible for methods of education. Further study is being given this subject and the committee expects to submit a report. There is hope of solution because American youth still wants work, still seeks to be self-reliant.

(F) The California State Employment Service must be built to a place of real importance.

The personnel and activities of the California Employment Insurance Commission have been directed toward paying unemployment benefit checks rather than obtaining employment for the unemployed.

(G) The unemployment problem has been aggravated because thousands, having gained the comparative security of relief, have been reluctant to accept even temporary employment because of having again to qualify for future assistance. Some effort should be made to encourage relief recipients to accept employment even though it may be temporary. This result will be gained by reducing the amount of red tape necessary for readmittance of the deserving to the relief rolls."

(H) Sincere, honest and efficient administration of relief must prevail.

(I) Politics should play no part in the administration of relief.

(J) The Federal Government should take care of migrants coming into California, until they are absorbed by private industry.

(K) A State camp program operated in conjunction with work programs already referred to and with the requirement that all single men, with certain exceptions, go to them to receive aid, can be constructive factors in rehabilitation and reemployment.

How Committee Functioned.

"The Joint Fact-Finding Committee was appointed in the closing days of the February, 1940, special session. It was charged with several functions. One was to continue the investigation, begun more than a year ago, into abuses within the SRA. Another was to submit recommendations for improving California's handling of the entire employment problem. Still another function was to observe the operation of Senate Bill No. 81, with a view to future legislation.

These duties have been performed by the committee to the best of its abilities within given time. Whatever may be its shortcomings, they are due to physical limitations, not to lack of effort. The members of the committee have conducted hearings in every part of California; personally examined documents, inventories, books and records; and have heard scores of witnesses who testified under oath and whose testimony is embodied in official transcripts."

Special Subcommittee Appointed.

"To facilitate the work of investigation, the nine Assemblymen and eight Senators on the committee arranged for the appointment of subcommittees. Four such subcommittees were designated. They worked on a geographical basis; subcommittees headed by Senators Mixter and Nielsen, and by Assemblymen Houser and Wollenberg, conducted hearings, respectively, in the Central Valley, in Northern California, in Southern California, and in the San Francisco Bay-Central Coast area.

Committee members were designated to prepare special reports to be submitted to the Joint Committee as follows:

Assemblyman Elmer E. Lore, Surplus Commodities;
Senator Frank W. Mixer, The Cooperatives;
Assemblyman Edward O'Day, The Youth Problem;
Assemblyman Norris Poulson, Accounting Procedure in the SRA;
Senator J. I. Wagye, The Migrant Problem;
Assemblyman Clyde A. Watson, The Alien Problem.

The committee also arranged for two independent investigations into vital phases of the employment problem.

The national firm of Price, Waterhouse & Co., certified public accountants, was retained by the committee in an advisory capacity. In addition to advising the committee on general phases of SRA accounting, it was asked to establish, from the SRA records, without making a complete audit, the approximate balances in the funds of that department as of February 15, 1940, and March 31, 1940. The firm was also asked to indicate changes in the financial position of the SRA during this period, with certain expenditures segregated. It has furnished this information, and other information and comments, which the committee submits as a separate part of this report.

The committee received the cooperation of the State Controller, the Director of Agriculture and the State Relief Administrator."

Credit Agencies Investigate Cases.

"To ascertain the truth of reports that chiseling is still rife, the Controller, under authority of the Legislature and with the approval of the Director of Finance, arranged with private credit agencies to investigate more than 10,000 cases on the SRA rolls. The results of this so-called social audit will be made available to the Legislature in a separate report."

Sampling Method.

"The committee, handicapped for time, has made free use of the 'sampling' method now in general use by political polls, and by financial, economic and statistical fact-gathering agencies. Obviously the committee could not check every relief case, every transportation order, every reported instance of waste, extravagance, and incompetency. By methods it did use, the committee believes that it secured a true picture of the relief situation."

In submitting this minority report, I again wish to express my belief that this committee has made a careful study of this, our greatest problem, and have made many recommendations which, if enacted into law, will inure to the benefit of the unemployed as well as to the people of the State as a whole. In principle, I differ with them concerning the matter of county administration of relief.

Yours respectfully,

EDWARD F. O'DAY.

WHEREAS, The problem of aid to the aged is nation-wide in scope and can best be solved by Federal legislation dealing equally and fairly with all people; now, therefore, be it

Notice of Motion to Reconsider the Amendments to Assembly Joint Resolution No. 24.

Mr. Atkinson gave notice that on the next legislative day he would move to reconsider the vote whereby the amendments to Assembly Joint Resolution No. 24 were this day adopted.

Explanation of Vote.

I earnestly desire liberal, adequate, and uniform Federal Aged Pensions without over-burdening taxes.

The measures now pending in Congress and referred to in Assembly Joint Resolution No. 24 may be beneficial or harmful, I know not.

The duty to act rests with Congress and in its wisdom it should decide with justice to all.

Request for Unanimous Consent.

Mr. Green asked for, and was granted, unanimous consent to consider House Resolution No. 98, at this time, without reference to committee.

House Resolution No. 98 read, and adopted unanimously.

By Messrs. Dills, Heisinger, Andreas and Thorp:

House Resolution No. 99.

WHEREAS, The Legislature of the State of California, at the Fifty-first Regular Session, enacted Chapter 241, Statutes 1935, and at the Fifty-second Regular Session enacted Chapters 3 and 413, Statutes 1937, said chapters constituting the Milk Control Act; and

WHEREAS, The legislative intent in the enactment of said Milk Control Act was to stabilize the important and existing market milk industry of the State of California, and to promote the orderly marketing of milk; and

WHEREAS, Said Milk Control Act authorized the Department of Agriculture under certain standards to establish minimum prices to be paid dairy farmers for Grade "A" market milk, and minimum wholesale and retail prices at which milk should be sold within the marketing areas set up in accordance with the Act; and

WHEREAS, The stabilization of an existing industry does not mean revolutionizing it or prohibiting customary selling methods or trade practices which experience has proven beneficial to that industry's development; and

WHEREAS, The Department of Agriculture is the instrumentality of this State for the administration and enforcement of said Milk Control Act; and

WHEREAS, The Legislature established a standard by which the basic price to be paid to dairy farmers for market milk was to be established by the Director of Agriculture, which standard for fixing prices has not been specifically complied with, but instead, different and changing theoretical price-fixing formulas have been evolved by the Director of Agriculture; and

WHEREAS, The Legislature authorized the Director of Agriculture to make such rules and regulations as he deems necessary for enforcing the provisions of the Milk Control Act but did not authorize the issuance of "rules and regulations" or "interpretative rulings" or "executive orders" which have in truth and in fact the effect of law; and

WHEREAS, The Legislature did not authorize said Department by rule or regulation to interfere with, regulate, change or prohibit existing trade customs, nor set resale prices which discriminate between different types or sizes of milk containers or methods of capping milk bottles, nor to dictate to stores or consumers how or where they should purchase milk nor to establish preferential prices for favored classes of the consuming public, nor to fix prices or arbitrary grades of market milk not established by the Agricultural Code nor to interfere with the charges for deposits on milk bottles as established by the trade; and

Copies of the proposed new joint rules are presented herewith for the convenience and perusal of members of the Assembly.

The committee is also studying, in conjunction with the Committee on Rules of the Senate, ways and methods of improving the quality and uniformity of legislative printing and effecting economies therein. It is the belief of the committee that this will lead to a saving of thousands of dollars to the State every regular session.

Correspondence has also been carried on with legislators, administrators and others to secure an exchange of views relating to a budget investigating and fact-finding service for the assistance of members of the Legislature.

None of the appropriation of one hundred dollars made to the committee has up to this date been expended.

The committee expects to present a final report upon its work at a later date.

House Resolution No. 104.

WHEREAS, In the month of January during the proceedings of the fifty-third extraordinary session of the Legislature there developed rumors, suspicions and accusations charging that administrative officials were parties to a plot whereby living quarters of the Honorable Speaker of this Assembly and his wife were invaded and a dictaphone installed for the unseemly and un-American purpose of obtaining records of private conversations including privileged conversations of husband and wife; and

WHEREAS, This Assembly authorized by appropriate resolutions a nonpartisan investigating committee to investigate all allegations and rumors, relating to the charges and accusations and such action of the Assembly and resolution received the unequivocal endorsement of the chief executive of this State through his public statement that he would dismiss from the State service any appointee who was in any way implicated in the origination, direction or consummation of such plot, implying a full accord with legislative understanding that such tactics were capable of disrupting, debasing and corrupting legislative processes; and

WHEREAS, The testimony taken by the Assembly Interim Committee on Investigation of Legislative Interference resulted in Howard Philbrick, the then incumbent of the high office of Director of Motor Vehicles, assuming full responsibility for the direction of the installation of a dictagraph in the private bed chamber of the Honorable Speaker and his wife; and

WHEREAS, After such assumption of responsibility the matter of his dismissal was delayed until such time as he finally resigned, first publicly asserting that his resignation was occasioned by an offer of an executive position in the motion picture industry with accompanying announcements of his appointment by high executive officials of the motion picture industry; and

WHEREAS, The publicity attending his new employment, intentionally or otherwise, was designed to create a public impression that such new employment was made possible by faithful and valuable service rendered to the State government without mention of abuse of official position or tactics violative of every standard of American decency; and

WHEREAS, The motion picture industry exerts a tremendous influence in the formation of public opinion and in particular affects the ideals of the youth of the Nation, and should sense the responsibility of such influence and avoid any action calculated to or capable of a construction that it has little or no respect for preservation of legislative independence and integrity or condones activities of the type practiced; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the members of the Assembly, vigorously condemn the action of those officials of the motion picture industry who were parties to or associated with the release of publicity designed to create a public impression that Howard R. Philbrick had rendered good or valuable service to the State of California, and thus inferring that his conduct was proper whereby legislative officials and their families were subjected to a violation of their right of privacy by spying activities in their personal living quarters; be it further

Resolved, That the Chief Clerk of this Assembly send a certified copy of this resolution to all motion picture producers, and to the Honorable Will R. Hays, President of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America operating in the State of California.

Motion to Print Report in Journal.

On motion of Mr. Wollenberg the following report was ordered printed in the Journal:

SACRAMENTO, CALIFORNIA, May 22, 1940.

Supplemental Report of the Subcommittee of the Joint Legislative Fact-Finding Committee on Employment for the San Francisco Bay-Central Coast Area.

Mrs. Winifred Jones, Miss Palma Benedetti, and Miss Marie Laurence were sworn in and are here to answer certain questions on behalf of the Joint Fact-Finding Committee of the Senate and Assembly, and depose as follows:

SENATOR PHILLIPS: You have all been members of the Contra Costa County branch of the CIO and the SCMWA?

MRS. JONES, MISS BENEDETTI, MISS LAURENCE: Yes.

SENATOR PHILLIPS: On or about April 26th each one of you received a letter similar to that received by Mrs. Winifred Jones and which shall be marked for the record as Exhibit A?

MRS. JONES, MISS BENEDETTI, MISS LAURENCE: Yes.

SENATOR PHILLIPS: Mrs. Jones, this letter marked Exhibit A has the telephone number Richmond 707 on the letterhead. What number is that?

MRS. JONES: That is the telephone number of the Contra Costa County State Relief Administration at 601 Nevin Avenue.

SENATOR PHILLIPS: The SCMWA is using the telephone number of the SRA?

MRS. JONES: Yes.

SENATOR PHILLIPS: Is this organization a CIO affiliate?

MRS. JONES: Yes.

SENATOR PHILLIPS: The date for the trial was for Wednesday, May 1st, at 601 Nevin Avenue?

MRS. JONES: Yes.

SENATOR PHILLIPS: That Nevin Avenue address, Miss Jones, is the address of the State Relief Administration?

MRS. JONES: Yes.

SENATOR PHILLIPS: Then the SCMWA is not only using the telephone but the address of the State Relief Administration?

MRS. JONES: Yes it is.

SENATOR PHILLIPS: What is it that you had done which made your conduct and statements a violation of your oath to the CIO?

MRS. JONES: I appeared under subpoena at Mr. Wollenberg's Fact-Finding Committee and gave testimony during the hearing against the activities of the union in the Contra Costa County office. We had attended a meeting subsequent to our dismissal in which union members were told that they were not to give any information regarding the union. I presume that is what they had in mind when they wrote us.

SENATOR PHILLIPS: The oath to the CIO—could you tell us the portion they refer to?

MRS. JONES: I don't remember it very well. We weren't very willing or anxious to take the oath and in the second place it was read in a group and I honestly don't remember very much. I do remember we were—the oath requests that you do not divulge information pertaining to the union or give names of officers of the union. I am afraid I did not take it as honestly as I might have.

SENATOR PHILLIPS: Miss Laurence and Miss Benedetti, did you receive similar letters?

MISS LAURENCE, MISS BENEDETTI: Yes.

SENATOR PHILLIPS: I see these letters are all signed by George Elner, President. What position does Elner hold?

MRS. JONES: He is a case worker. At the time I left, March 2d, he was a case worker.

SENATOR PHILLIPS: How long are you a member of SCMWA?

MRS. JONES: From January, 1939, until we were voted out of the union May 1, 1940.

SENATOR PHILLIPS: When did you first go to work for the SRA?

MRS. JONES: September, 1934.

SENATOR PHILLIPS: On the 4th you all received a similar letter—that would be about seven or eight days after the first letter. Miss Benedetti, do you recognize this letter as a copy of the one sent to you which shall be marked for the record as Exhibit B?

MISS BENEDETTI: Yes. We had asked for withdrawal cards when we were laid off, a week or so afterwards, and we were promised we would receive withdrawal cards.

MR. LORE: I notice that those letterheads are typewritten. Are those the originals or are they copies?

MRS. JONES: Assemblyman James Phillips has the originals.

MR. LORE: It is a regular printed letterhead?

MRS. JONES: Yes.

MR. LORE: How does Mr. Phillips happen to have the originals?

MRS. JONES: He is a friend of Miss Laurence and it happened in the course of conversation today the material was given to him. We came up with information to give to Mr. Hansen who is our attorney provided by the California State Employees Association to represent us at the Board of Standards and Appeals. Mr. Field asked what happened Monday. Monday we were called before the Board of Standards and Appeals to answer protests of March to the Board of Standards and Appeals. Miss Laurence was called in first by Robert Hansen. The hearing was pretty warm and they called in Miss Benedetti and myself. We didn't give very much information and the meeting was adjourned because it was noon and we returned at 1:30 and we were in session about ten minutes and Mr. Mallory adjourned definitely and Mr. Geharty and Mr. Hansen were instructed to go into Contra Costa County and make a thorough investigation of our layoffs. Mr. Mallory told us that they would probably return their verdicts to the Board of Standards and Appeals and they would notify us of their decision or the other alternative would be that they would be called before the entire body of the Board of Standards and Appeals.

MR. LORE: In the original printed letterhead was the same telephone number and the same street address?

MRS. JONES: Yes.

Report of Special Committee.

MR. SPEAKER AND MEMBERS OF THE ASSEMBLY: Your Interim Committee, created by House Resolution No. 75, adopted February 25, 1940, known as Assembly Perpetual Care Fund Committee, desires to report as follows:

That upon investigation it finds that Chapter 339 of the Laws of 1939 amended certain sections of the Health and Safety Code, that under provision of said bill it has made it a penal offense to fail to invest the perpetual care funds of internment societies except in the manner provided by said act.

Your committee therefore feels that responsibility for investigating Internment Societies and for the punishment of any alleged violations which may be found is the duty of the several district attorneys of the counties of the State of California and not an obligation or duty of the Legislature.

Your committee has not expended any of the funds allocated for its use.

Respectfully submitted.

CLINTON J. FULCHER, Chairman,
CHARLES W. LYON,
C. DON FIELD.

On motion of Mr. Fulcher, the above report was read, adopted, and ordered printed in the Journal.

Explanation of Vote.

We are voting for this bill on final action, not because it is a just and righteous measure, but because the facts face us; unless we give approval, there will be no relief legislation at this session, while thousands of citizens of California are facing privation, want and destitution on a living standard of five cents (5¢) or less per meal. Such disasters compel the counties to face larger relief expenditures.

We have earnestly endeavored to amend out of the bill, some of the objectionable and obnoxious features, but have been unable to do so.

O Thou, Who livest, movest, and hast Thy being in us!

We are sincerely thankful to live in a land where, as yet, moving specks upon the distant sky do not instill fears—a land where differences of opinion do not disqualify for the full and free exercise of the rights and privileges of citizenship.

Thou hast taught us, long since, that in the processes of a democracy there must be defeats as well as victories. But we have also learned that the life blood of all, the exacting toils, the fine loyalties, the unstinted devotions of vanquished and victors alike, are incorporated as vital elements in final results and accomplishments.

As we today approach the consummation of this unit of service, we find satisfaction in the thought that we have served faithfully and unsparingly, to the best of our ability and understanding—that in the interchange and pooling of honest efforts, honest results have been honestly achieved.

In that spirit and conviction we would anticipate and countenance all issues, tasks, and situations—ever ready to acquit ourselves as worthy representatives and citizens of this great Commonwealth.

Amen.

Pursuant to Assembly Resolution 67 adopted on February 24, 1940, your Governmental Efficiency and Economy Fact Finding Committee herewith reports its findings and recommendations:

Scope of Investigation.

Although it would take many months to make an exhaustive study of State government, your Committee has endeavored to gather as much information as possible in the limited time available. We have endeavored to pick the wheat from the chaff and condense our findings into a few salient points which we feel will be helpful to the Legislature in solving the State's fiscal problems. Our inquiry has not covered the subject of fixed charges, whether constitutional or statutory, although a large part of the budget is fixed by law. To those expenditures under administrative control, however, your Committee has devoted as much attention as time would permit. We held hearings in Sacramento, Los Angeles and San Francisco where we called in for questioning the heads and other officers of most of the departments of State government. We have likewise checked and studied various published reports and have requested from the different departments certain documentary and other information. We have also endeavored to seek the opinion of private citizens as to their attitude concerning public expenditures. Such citizens included farmers, home-owners, business men, professional men, and employed persons. With some general understanding of the problem of government, we have drawn certain conclusions upon which we have based our findings and recommendations.

Limitations on Economy Recommendations.

The Governor's proclamation, convening the special session of the Legislature, although designed to allow the Legislature to solve the State's financial difficulties, limited the course we might follow to (1) restricting unemployment relief and (2) levying new taxes. With the sole exception of unemployment relief, we have been unable to find any language in the proclamation which would allow the Legislature at this time to consider any economy legislation. And in the case of relief it was apparently not the Governor's intention to effect economies, for the stop-gap relief appropriation was vetoed by him on the grounds that it was inadequate and his veto had to be over-ridden by the Legislature. Thus at the start we find ourselves handicapped in solving the State's financial difficulties.

If the State is to avoid new taxes it must spend less, which means economy in State government and economy in the administration of relief. The subject of economy in relief is being handled by a separate investigating committee. The subject of economy and efficiency in State government is the object of the inquiry of this Committee.

In connection with effecting economies in State government our recommendations are based on either or both of two alternatives:

1. Recommendations that the Governor and the independent agencies voluntarily refrain from spending certain money already appropriated.

2. Recommendations for economy legislation to be considered by the Legislature when it convenes in regular session in January, 1941. It is the hope of this Committee that the administration will cooperate in avoiding new taxes by voluntarily effecting expenditure reductions. If the administration fails to effect economies as suggested and chooses to ignore public opposition to additional taxation it will be adding needlessly to the accumulation of an already large deficit.

The Legislature may act with full authority in January, 1941, which is but eight months away, at which time economies may have to be more drastic if retrenchment is postponed until then. With respect to postponement of economies, we wish to call attention to the fact that had the Governor voluntarily effected economies in the SRA last July instead of waiting until public indignation and legislative action forced them upon him, the present deficit would be some ten or fifteen millions less than it is. So again we repeat, if the Governor chooses to effect economies in those departments under his control and the independent State agencies do likewise, many millions can be saved now and the situation will not be so serious in January as otherwise might be the case. To delay will needlessly complicate the problem and might in turn require drastic cuts which would be as unpleasant as they would be necessary.

Rise in Cost of State Government.

While a substantial part of the State budget consists of fixed charges over which the Legislature has no control and a large part consists of humanitarian services which are made necessary because of widespread unemployment and distress, the fact still remains that every dollar spent by the State must now or later be collected from our citizens, either through taxation or through fee charges. Thus we must look at the general question of State taxation through the eyes of those who pay the bill and in this connection observe how great this burden is and how it has grown over the years. There follows a tabulation compiled from the records of the State Controller which shows the rise in the cost of State government, which includes State aid to local governments over the past thirty years. It is staggering to observe how this burden has grown, particularly in terms of population. The cost per citizen, which includes every man, woman and child, whether they pay taxes or not, has increased from $6.36 in 1909-10 to $40.24 in 1938-39. This does not include Federal or local tax burdens but only that imposed by the State.

Part of this increase has been due to the State assuming a greater share of the cost of public education, the advent of the automobile and the simultaneous need for highways and motor vehicle regulation, the development of the present system of pensions and social welfare aids, and the emergency need for unemployment relief. Although these items loom large, the various departments, divisions, bureaus, boards, commissions and institutions of State Government have likewise grown with alarming rapidity. Although there is no accurate check on the number, a cursory examination of the printed budget and other printed documents reveals that there are in excess of 300 such units of administration in State Government, ranging from small bureaus employing a handful of individuals, to gigantic departments employing thousands.

Dollars Saved Are as Good as Dollars in New Taxes.

The existing tax system is capable of taking care of the State's normal expenditure requirements. It is only the excess spending that would have to be financed through new taxes. Thus it would appear self-evident that if unnecessary excess spending is eliminated, no new taxes will be necessary. A dollar saved is just as good as a dollar in new taxes.

With substantial economies already being effected in the administration of relief, a large part of the tax problem is being taken care of. A few millions in savings spread among the other departments and agencies of the State will add still more to balancing the general fund budget. In fact economies in relief spending and in State Government operations may be enough to bring the State budget close enough to balance that the immediate problem will be solved. At this point, however, mention must be made of a matter that bears on this same problem, although it comes within the purview of the investigation of another committee. Along with economy, it is to be hoped that the existing tax system will produce more revenue than has been officially forecast. With business continuing its uptrend, there is reason to believe that the flow of money into the State treasury will be greater than hoped for. The final nail in the deficit coffin, however, should be expenditure reduction.

Department of Finance.

The Department of Finance is vested primarily with responsibility for handling the business affairs of State government. This department is responsible for the purchase of materials and supplies, the approval of the employment of personnel, the maintenance of State buildings and grounds, the operation of the State printing plant, the preparation and administration of the State budget and several other related functions. With the business affairs of State government concentrated largely in this department, it is natural for this committee to direct its attention more particularly to this branch of State government than to any other. In doing this, however, we have discovered a number of things about the way State business is being conducted that we believe should be called to the attention of the Legislature.

It will be recalled that when the 1939-41 budget was submitted to the Legislature in January, 1939, the Department of Finance requested that the General Fund support of its own department be increased from $1,463,216 to $2,025,155 or an increase of $561,939. As the business department requested an increase in its particular budget amounting to 38.4 per cent over the preceding biennium, and included in this increase was a request for 108 new State positions. This does not impress the committee as evidence of sound business management.

With respect to the creation of new State positions the Personnel Board advises us that during the first nine months of this fiscal year, the Department of Finance has created 110 new jobs. While a part of these new positions replaced old ones, the net increase was not justified by the financial condition of this State.

Elsewhere in this report we have called attention to the fact that during the few remaining days of the last biennium the Department of Finance made last minute raids on the 1937-39 Emergency Fund, which would lapse on June 30, apparently in an attempt to exhaust the unexpended balance before it reverted to the treasury. Knowing the precarious condition of the State's finances this unexpended balance, which could have amounted to several hundred thousand dollars, might have reverted to the General Fund and eased the State deficit to this extent.

In the handling of Emergency Fund money and the allocation of money from the Unified Construction Fund, the Department of Finance wields a big stick. It has made available Emergency Fund money where no emergencies existed and in many cases has resorted to favoritism, especially in the case of its own finances. In the case of the Unified Construction Fund, the Legislature's wishes in suggesting that the money be used largely to relieve congestion in State institutions was disregarded to the extent of several million dollars, a large portion of which was diverted to the Department of Finance.

We requested information on telephone expenses, which was provided by the Department of Finance, but as soon as it was discovered that we checked these figures with the Controller, the department hastily revised them upward and submitted an amended statement. When we asked for current information on the operating losses of Napa State Farm, which is operated by the Department of Finance, the latest data were for the period ending December 31, 1936, although as late as August, 1937, $59,130 was transferred from the Emergency Fund to the farm to replenish its exhausted Revolving Fund, which on April 1, 1940, stood at approximately $35,000.

This committee is firm in its conviction that the Legislature has erred in allowing the Department of Finance to accumulate too much power. We recommend, therefore, that the Legislature give serious attention, when it reconvenes in January, 1941, to restricting the powers of the Department of Finance. We believe that a restriction of such powers would add materially to the cause of better business management in State government.

Unified Construction Program.

Specific examples of the actions of the Department of Finance in making transfers of funds, the effect of which is to defeat legislative intent may be cited as follows:

In 1937 the Legislature passed two bills appropriating $13,987,800 for the construction of various State buildings. Chapter 796 appropriated $6,781,550, which was the regular budget request, and Chapter 799 appropriated $7,206,250 to be used only in case PWA money was available. Although the Department of Finance was given broad authority over the expenditure of this money the Legislature accompanied these acts with two resolutions, Assembly Concurrent Resolution No. 55 and Assembly Concurrent Resolution No. 59, recommending that $12,810,800 of the amount appropriated be used for construction at State institutions, prisons and the Veterans' Home. Instead of respecting the recommendations of the Legislature and spending this money to relieve congestion in the various State institutions, the Department of Finance limited the amount of money for institutional purposes to approximately $8,500,000 and diverted the remainder to other purposes.

Attention is directed to the fact that after diverting almost $4,500,000 of this money to purposes other than institutional construction, which was what the Legislature had in mind when it appropriated the money, the Department of Finance then requested the Legislature to approve a similar appropriation contained in the budget submitted in January, 1939. Here again we find an instance of the Department of Finance ignoring the will of the Legislature and by so doing adding to the State deficit and further complicating the State's financial problem.

On June 29, 1939, the Department of Finance transferred $325,000 from the Emergency Fund to the Unified Construction Fund which, in effect, increased this fund to this extent. Inasmuch as the transfer of money from the Emergency Fund to the Unified Construction Fund was not based on any emergency we are led to believe that this was done to exhaust the unexpended balance in the Emergency Fund and thus prevent this balance from reverting to the State treasury at the end of the biennium, which was at midnight on the following day.

In connection with legislative appropriations the committee can not too strongly recommend that all funds be definitely earmarked, as far as possible, for the exact purpose for which the same are to be used. In addition, the Legislature should provide that all moneys not used for the specific purpose for which appropriated shall revert to the unappropriated portion of the General Fund. This committee further condemns the practise of making a general appropriation of funds, and later directing the allocation or spending of such funds by resolution only, as was done in the 1937 session as above indicated. Such resolutions have no binding effect on the Department of Finance, and have been ignored in the past.

Psychiatric Hospital and Clinic.

The State budget as submitted to the Legislature in January, 1939, requested $500,000 for the purpose of constructing a psychiatric hospital and clinic in the city of San Francisco. In view of the condition of the State treasury the Assembly questioned the advisability and necessity for this proposed institution and deleted the entire amount from the budget bill. It was pointed out that this activity was somewhat experimental in character, that it would duplicate the psychiatric hospital connected with the San Francisco County Hospital, and that for the time being such experimental work could be carried on at one of the State hospitals for the insane, thus precluding the immediate necessity for constructing this particular institution. When the budget bill reached the Senate, however, that body restored $350,000 for this purpose and the Assembly concurred in the Senate amendment. Thus the intention of the Legislature was to appropriate $350,000 for the psychiatric hospital.

This committee is now advised that the Department of Finance added $150,000 from the Unified Construction Fund to the legislative appropriation, which in effect restored the amount to the original figure contained in the budget as submitted. We feel that the Department of Finance has again violated the expressed will of the Legislature by making this restoration.

Emergency Fund.

It has been the custom for many years for the Legislature to appropriate a sum of money to constitute an Emergency Fund which is designed to take care of unforeseen contingencies which may occur while the Legislature is not in session. While such a fund lends flexibility to the budget and is a necessary adjunct, the use of this money is sometimes subject to abuse. It is to the unwarranted use of Emergency Fund money that this committee desires to direct attention.

In examining the records over a period of years we have observed that on numerous occasions the Emergency Fund money has been used for purposes which are really not emergencies. In certain instances Emergency Fund money is used to supplement the regular budget of favorite departments particularly in cases where those departments through extravagance have failed to live within their support appropriations. There are numerous instances where Emergency Fund money has been used for purposes entirely out of the scope of the emergency concept. A notable example is the allocation of $30,000 to construct an Indian Museum at Sutter's Fort. While this may be a desirable purpose, it certainly is not an emergency, and the decision to spend money for purposes of this character rests with the Legislature and not the State Department of Finance.

We observe also that during the last few days of the last biennium, raids were made upon the Emergency Fund to the extent of almost three-quarters of a million dollars. It would appear that this was not accidental or coincidental, but rather a deliberate attempt by the Department of Finance to exhaust the unexpended balance in the Emergency Fund appropriated for the biennium ending June 30, 1939, in order to prevent any money remaining unallocated at midnight on June 30 from reverting to the State treasury.

In addition to the above cited example we observe that on June 29, 1939, there was transferred from the Emergency Fund to the Governor's support appropriation $14,000 and to the Secret Service Fund $10,665, although no evidence was submitted to this committee to indicate that an emergency existed in either case.

During the last six months of the Merriam administration, the Governor transferred $39,668 from the Emergency Fund to his Secret Service Fund. During the first six months of the Olson administration, the Governor transferred from the Emergency Fund to his support appropriation and his Secret Service Fund $48,961. In either case there appears to have been no evidence of an emergency requiring the expenditure of such large sums of money. Because of a restriction placed in the budget bill by the 1939 Legislature, it will henceforth be impossible for the Governor to transfer money from the Emergency Fund to his support appropriation or to his Secret Service Fund, so that such practice has been made illegal. But in calling it to public attention again we desire to emphasize the fact that Emergency Fund money has been and in many instances still is being used for purposes not truly emergency in character and in some instances for purposes that are entirely unnecessary.

The following tabulation shows the amounts of money appropriated to the Emergency Fund for each of the past five biennial periods, together with the amount set up in the budget for the current biennium:

1929-31	$1,000,000
1931-33	1,500,000
1933-35	500,000
1935-37	1,000,000
1937-39	1,000,000	(Appropriated in regular session.)
1937-39	1,000,000	(Appropriated in special session—March, 1938.)
1939-41	1,750,000	(Budget.)

In 1937 it will be recalled that the Legislature appropriated $1,000,000 for the Emergency Fund, but in March, 1938, it added another $1,000,000 primarily for the purpose of taking care of the new salary scales which had been set in operation by the State Personnel Board. However, in the case of the second $1,000,000, the Emergency Fund was used merely as a vehicle for handling the salary money and in this sense it should not be considered as an Emergency Fund appropriation in the usual sense of the word. Thus the $1,750,000 contained in the current budget is in reality the largest true Emergency Fund appropriation ever provided by the Legislature.

It is the belief of this committee that the aggregate expenditures from the Emergency Fund for the current biennium can be kept within $750,000 if the Department of Finance exercises diligence in the allocation of this money. In view of the serious condition of the State Treasury and the disinclination on the part of the general public to accept additional taxation it is recommended that an effort be made to keep Emergency Fund expenditures as low as possible, and it is our belief that this will make possible the saving of at least $1,000,000.

We have further observed that on several occasions Emergency Fund money has been loaned to certain departments with the understanding that it would be repaid at some future date. This procedure is followed to facilitate the financing of certain activities for which ready cash is not available but for which certain income is anticipated at a future date. The committee has observed, however, that in certain instances, the Department of Finance has been negligent in enforcing the repayment of these advances. The committee strongly recommends that as soon as money is available in the various special funds that these loans be repaid to the Emergency Fund which in turn will relieve the cash condition of the General Fund.

Alteration of Governor's Office.

Although the money has already been spent, we believe it should be made a matter of record that the State Department of Finance has expended during the current fiscal year $59,982 to remodel and refurnish the Governor's Sacramento office. The cost of construction amounted to $42,996 which included $12,457 for air conditioning. Furniture and office equipment cost $5,795 which included the purchase of $1,519 worth of furniture made by convict labor in San Quentin prison. Carpets and drapes cost $3,197 and dictagraph equipment cost $4,055. Architectural supervision amounted to $3,939.

While it may be highly desirable to uphold the dignity of the office of Governor by providing our Chief Executive with a lavishly furnished office, we believe that to expend almost $60,000 for this purpose at a time when the State Treasury is badly overdrawn is evidence of gross mismanagement of the State's funds. While spending money for this unnecessary purpose, the taxpayers of this State are being asked to provide millions of dollars in additional taxes to finance an unprecedented spending orgy.

Last but not least, we wish to call attention to the fact that the money used to finance these alterations and refurnishings was obtained from the State's Emergency Fund, although the purpose for which the money was expended was certainly not an emergency within the true meaning of the word.

Lieutenant Governor.

The primary duty of the Lieutenant Governor is to preside over the State Senate and in connection with the performance of this duty he has available to him secretarial and clerical assistance from the regular attaches of that body. In 1935 the Legislature authorized the employment of a secretary for the Lieutenant Governor so that he would no longer be dependent upon the regular clerical staff. While there is some question as to the necessity for such a position the dignity of the office may call for this type of assistance.

This committee was astounded to discover that the incumbent Lieutenant Governor has been unable to perform the duties of his office without adding several additional employees. Since July 1, 1939, in addition to his secretary, he had employed two stenographers and an assistant to the Lieutenant Governor. We recommend that the assistant to the Lieutenant Governor be immediately abolished or otherwise prevented from becoming a permanent position. Obviously the biennial appropriation of $13,100 provided for in the State budget, which is $6,550 a year, has proved inadequate and it has been necessary for him to call upon the Department of Finance for an allocation from the Emergency Fund, which has been made. This brings his annual budget up to $12,560 which on a biennial basis is approximately twice the amount set forth in the State budget.

The committee desires to point out that the duties of the Lieutenant Governor are mainly to preside over the Senate and to serve upon various boards and commissions of which he is a member by law. Therefore, the committee deplores the extensions of the activities of this office to a point where an assistant to the Lieutenant Governor is needed and numerous secretaries required. The office of assistant to the Lieutenant Governor should be abolished and the need for additional secretaries reexamined in the light of the actual duties required of this office.

While it may not be our function to criticize the acts of a constitutional officer we deplore this wanton waste of public funds, particularly at a time when the State Treasury is so badly overdrawn. This is but another illustration of extravagance which emphasizes the opportunity for economy in State Government which could be realized if State funds were always expended prudently.

Indian Museum.

In June, 1939, the Department of Finance allocated certain moneys from the Emergency Fund for construction purposes, and included in this allocation was $30,000 to construct a building at Sutter's Fort to house the State Indian Exhibit which, prior to 1938, was located on the fourth floor of the State Capitol. In the spring of 1939 the Legislature discovered that although the Indian Exhibit was set forth in the State budget it was actually boxed up in a Sacramento warehouse. When this discovery was made the Department of Finance hastily moved the exhibit from the warehouse to the California Bank Building which the State had acquired in 1937 to be used as a State Treasury. This exhibit is still located in the bank building in Sacramento. Now it is proposed to transfer the exhibit to Sutter's Fort and to house it in the building which the State now proposes to build at a cost of $30,000.

Your committee is cognizant of the desirability of maintaining this exhibit available to the public, but in passing we point out that here again the Department of Finance is in a position to transfer moneys from the Emergency Fund to be used where there is no emergency in fact.

Deficiency Appropriations.

The Director of Finance is authorized by law to permit special fund activities to spend in excess of the amount provided in the budget bill if their revenues are sufficient to take care of such excess spending and to do this without any subsequent authority from the Legislature. As a result the special fund items in the general appropriation bill are meaningless because as soon as the Legislature adjourns the Department of Finance is able to restore any cuts effected or to increase the special fund budgets above the amount authorized by the Legislature.

The 1937 Legislature, for example, allowed the Department of Motor Vehicles $10,136,600 in the budget bill to cover its support for the biennium 1937-39. The State budget submitted to the Legislature in January, 1939, indicated that the department's expenditures during that period would be $12,162,683 or $2,026,083 in excess of the budget adopted in 1937. Moreover, the 1937 Legislature allowed the Sales Tax Division of the State Board of Equalization $3,743,720 in the budget bill for that same biennium, but the new State budget indicates that the division's expenditures during that biennium would be $4,124,832 or $381,112 in excess of the budget as approved by the Legislature.

There are numerous instances of this sort but the above illustrates the evils of special fund deficiency appropriations. We are of the opinion that the Legislature should fix all appropriations and that the necessary flexibility should be provided through the emergency fund and not through authority vested in the Department of Finance to authorize deficiency appropriations without legislative consent. We recommend, therefore, that at the next regular session of the Legislature section 661 of the Political Code, which authorizes deficiency appropriations, be repealed so that the Legislature may become the master of the appropriation situation and not the State Department of Finance.

In the case of General Fund appropriations the Department of Finance is authorized to approve spending on a deficiency basis in contemplation of subsequent legislative approval. In other words, a General Fund department with the approval of the Department of Finance may exhaust its biennial appropriation in advance of the end of the biennium in contemplation of a legislative act appropriating sufficient money to make up the difference. In January of legislative years it has been the custom to submit General Fund deficiency appropriations bills to the Legislature to cover the over-spending in such departments as have spent in excess of the quarterly pro rata allowance which would have been available had the biennial appropriation been spread over the full 24 months of the biennium. This committee hereby declares its opposition to this practice and serves notice on the Department of Finance and other State departments that it is recommending to the Legislature that all such General Fund deficiency appropriations submitted in January, 1941, be rejected. The various departments of State government should live within the limits of their appropriations.

Governor's Secret Service Fund.

For many years it has been the custom to appropriate money to constitute a Secret Service Fund for the Governor, which for the current biennium amounts to $15,000. The purpose of this fund is to allow the Governor to finance secret investigations of whatever character he deems desirable and necessary. It is the belief of this committee that the function of making criminal and other investigations requiring secrecy belongs to the Attorney General and not to the State's Chief Executive. Under the law the Governor has the right to call violations of the law to the attention of the Attorney General and there is no reason why he should be allowed to carry on private investigations of his own. We recommend, therefore, that at the next session of the Legislature the Governor's Secret Service Fund be discontinued.

Miscellaneous.

The committee in the course of its investigation came upon numerous items which in its opinion could be so arranged or handled as to effect material savings to the people of this State. No effort is here made to list all of such items, but the following will serve to illustrate conditions brought to the attention of the Committee:

State-Owned Automobiles.

The State of California owns and operates 5993 automobiles and trucks. Not only does this represent a large outlay of taxpayers' money but the cost of operating and maintaining this fleet amounted to $1,009,913 last year. While much of this expense is necessary and can not be easily avoided, the committee's attention has been directed to the many abuses to which the use of passenger vehicles is subjected. There is evidence everywhere that state-owned automobiles are being used for personal purposes including transportation to and from work, joy riding, attendance at football games and other pleasure purposes. By restricting the use of state-owned automobiles to official business only, the State would save tens of thousands of dollars.

In order to facilitate the more efficient use of state-owned automobiles, this committee recommends the following:

1. That a greater attempt be made to pool all those vehicles not in constant use by individual employees and that the casual users of such vehicles requisition them from the pool as needed.
2. That the State Seal, together with the words "For Official Business Only," be inscribed on the sides of all state-owned vehicles not now exhibiting this emblem with the exception of under-cover vehicles used for investigatory work.
3. That some penalty be provided in the case of State employees who wilfully use state-owned vehicles for purposes other than official business.

In addition to the use of state-owned automobiles for purposes other than official business, we desire to comment on abuses connected with the official use of such vehicles.

There appears to be abundant evidence that state-owned vehicles are being used on trips that are not entirely necessary even though they do involve public business. In many instances it would be far cheaper for employees to travel by train or other similar conveyance rather than drive a state-owned vehicle or to be paid mileage in connection with the use of a privately-owned vehicle. Broadly speaking it is the committee's opinion that a large sum of money can be saved if the various departments would restrict traveling to actual necessity.

Attention is directed to the fact that traveling involves not only the expense of transportation but also hotel bills, meals, and other incidental expenses. Thus economy in travel should be capable of relieving the State treasury of a considerable expenditure that need not affect the status of any existing State employee.

Automobile Mileage Allowance.

The Department of Finance reported to the committee that approximately 3442 State employees use their privately-owned automobiles on State business and are compensated therefor at the rate of  $5\frac{1}{2}$  cents per mile. While the use of privately-owned automobiles on a mileage basis is acceptable practice, particularly in cases where the individuals concerned do not require automobile transportation regularly or where pooled automobiles are not available, it is the belief of the committee that the mileage allowance is excessive. In the case of the less expensive models or types of automobiles the records of agencies using large fleets of automobiles disclose that the actual cost of operation, including depreciation, is less than 5 cents. It is recommended, therefore, that the State limit the mileage allowance to 5 cents per mile for the first 1000 miles per month and 4 cents per mile for every 1000 miles thereafter, which compares favorably with the mileage allowance granted in private industry.

Traveling Expenses.

It is customary for the State to pay the traveling expenses of its employees when they are engaged in work away from their headquarters. In our investigation we observed several instances where employees have apparently arranged to have headquarters where they spend the least amount of time. The result of this practice is to build up large expense accounts needlessly. It is our recommendation that greater care be used to headquarter State employees where they spend most of their time so as to reduce the number of days they are away from their headquarters drawing expense money. We observed in one instance where an employee was headquartered in a San Francisco suburb and drew travel expense money every day she went to her office in San Francisco because the latter city happened to be located away from the city where she was headquartered. Technically her headquarters should have been San Francisco where her office is located and the suburb where her home was situated should have been considered a part of the metropolitan area. This is little different from the practice of State employees using state-owned automobiles in going to and from work.

We further recommend that an attempt be made to eliminate duplicate routes of travel and unnecessary overlapping in the field

Out-of-State Travel.

The records disclose that a considerable sum of money is spent by the State each year to finance out-of-state travel on the part of certain public officials. Although the committee is mindful that some of this travel may be necessary in connection with public business, it has observed that numerous out-of-state trips involve attendance at various conventions. Although conventions allow an exchange of ideas and the accumulation of information which may be helpful in the administration of certain public offices, it is our belief that these junkets are more recreational than they are educational. In view of the condition of the State treasury, therefore, we recommend that the State discontinue financing trips to out-of-state conventions and that such travel be limited to the most urgent public business.

Publicists.

In several State departments the committee has discovered the presence of publicists or press representatives whose duties consist primarily of gathering and disseminating publicity on the activities of these departments. For example, on page 42 of the State budget as submitted to the Legislature in 1939, provision is made for three public relations officers for the State Board of Equalization whose salaries amount to $18,720 for the biennium. The Personnel Board advises me that there are 22 such positions in State service but we doubt if all departments are frank enough to list their publicists as such, resorting to the subterfuge of having this work handled by employees bearing other titles. In the aggregate, the cost of maintaining or carrying on a service of this character is appreciable enough to deserve attention.

While it is highly desirable to supply the public with information concerning governmental activities there is considerable question about the need for carrying on propaganda work designed to justify public services the need for which is not self-evident. Selling public service through the use of propaganda is one of the most vicious aspects of bureaucracy and is to be deplored. Your committee recommends, therefore, that the various State departments discontinue the use of publicists and limit their informational services to official reports.

Press Clipping Service.

We have been advised by a leading press clipping service that the various State departments and agencies spend approximately $650 a month, or $7,800 a year on press clippings supplied by them. This does not include competing press clipping services, information on which we were unable to obtain, with the result that we are of the opinion that this figure is but a portion of the total expenditures for this purpose. We question the importance of this expenditure and recommend that it be curtailed, if not eliminated entirely. In general, the press clipping service employed by the State is but an adjunct to the propaganda activities of the various departments and we can see no benefit accruing to the taxpayers as a result of this expenditure.

Communications.

The Department of Finance advised the committee that during the last fiscal year, $547,197 was spent by the various departments for telephone and telegraph expenses. We believe that the actual expenditures for this purpose were considerably greater than this amount.

While it has been impossible to ascertain from individual vouchers the exact nature of these official communications, the committee is of the opinion that much needless expense can be saved by reducing the number of telegraph messages and long distance telephone calls and substituting therefor the use of the United States mails.

If work were more orderly arranged the urgency of long distance calls and telegraph communications would not be so great. We recommend that long distance telephone calls, telegrams and such forms of communication be authorized and approved by the department on a standard form on which is set forth the reason for call, persons communicated with, and other relative data. One copy of such record to be submitted to the Controller's office at the end of each period, and one copy to be retained in the departments responsible for expense incurred.

New State Positions.

According to the records of the State Personnel Board, the number of State employees has increased from 29,554 on December 31, 1938, to 31,192 on December 31, 1939. This means that in one year 1,638 employees have been added to the State's pay rolls. The largest departmental increase was in the case of the SRA which added 1,106 employees during this period. Two large departments showed a decrease in personnel. The Department of Employment reduced its personnel from 2,543 employees to 2,246, or a net decrease of 297. On December 31, 1939, the Department of Motor Vehicles had 100 less employees than it had a year previously. In the case of most of the other departments, however, there has been a net increase in the number of employees which, in the aggregate, amounts to 1,638.

Although the Department of Finance is probably more familiar with the State's financial problems than any other department and should therefore recognize the necessity for economy, we regret to report that during the calendar year 1939 the Department of Finance increased its personnel from 873 to 955, or a net addition of 82 employees. In view of the fact that this department has grown by leaps and bounds in recent years it should have been possible for it to have called a halt on expansion when faced with what it has woefully called "threatened bankruptcy."

One might glean from the preceding figures that those charged with the administration of State government are endeavoring to relieve unemployment by adding people to the State pay roll. If private industry were relieved of part of its tax burden it would be in a better position to provide employment for people and thus relieve office holders of the urge to provide jobs.

This committee is of the opinion that public employment should be limited to manning essential public services and that the cost of these services be curtailed rather than expanded.

The creation of an excessive number of new positions must be curbed promptly. One method of accomplishing this is to amend the State civil service law so as to vest in the State Personnel Board responsibility for making an independent investigation of every request from a department head for the creation of a new classification or other means of creating additional positions.

It is our recommendation that the State Personnel Board, upon an application being made for the creation of a new classification, before acting upon such request, shall make an investigation of the necessity of such classification, the reason for the request, the possibility of present employees performing the duties to be assigned to such new classification, and the availability and source of funds for the payment of the persons to be appointed to fill any such new positions. The result of such investigation shall be filed in writing before the State Personnel Board may act upon any such request.

So serious has this problem become that this committee reports for consideration by the entire Legislature, a suggestion which is more severe, but which may be necessary to curb the expansion of our State service. This suggestion is that the civil service law be amended so as to provide that no new classification or position shall become permanent until approved by a resolution adopted by a majority vote in both houses of the Legislature.

Rector Canyon Dam.

For several years there has been an acute water shortage at the California Veterans' Home in Napa County. In order to relieve this situation it has been recommended by the Department of Public Works that a dam be constructed in Rector Canyon which is located on Napa State Farm, that such dam be used for impounding the runoff of Rector's Creek, and that this water be made available to the Veterans' Home and other State institutions in that vicinity.

A report recommending this project was made by the Department of Public Works in 1926. In this report the cost of a 135-foot dam in Rector Canyon was estimated at $278,000. Since that time several other surveys have been made, all of which pointed to a similar conclusion.

The 1937 Legislature adopted the Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 14 which authorized and directed the Director of Finance "on or before April 1, 1937, to enter into such lease or leases, contract or contracts, and to insert in the State budget such appropriation or appropriations as in his opinion shall be necessary to assure to the State of California a continuing and adequate supply of water available for use for said Veterans' Home, State hospitals and State farms, for domestic, fire protection, and irrigation purposes, on or before March 1, 1938." Following up on this resolution, the Legislature, pursuant to Chapter 761 of the Statutes of 1937, appropriated $300,000 to finance this undertaking. This appropriation carried an urgency clause and became effective immediately in recognition of the fact that the need for water was great.

Regardless of the urgency, nothing has been done to date with respect to carrying out the wishes of the 1937 Legislature. The 1939 budget, submitted by the Department of Finance, indicated that the department had allocated to the Unified Construction Fund an additional $350,000, making a total appropriation of $650,000 which money would be used to build a dam in Conn Valley which is located several miles to the north of Rector Canyon. Attention is directed to the fact that the State would have to purchase Conn Valley, for it is now privately owned, whereas the watershed of Rector Canyon is located on Napa State Farm which is already owned by the State.

The committee wishes to direct attention to the fact that almost three years have passed since the Legislature directed the Department of Finance to take action with respect to the water situation in Napa County and, in neglecting to do so, has violated the will and intent of that body. Moreover, in diverting $350,000 from the Unified Construction Fund for this purpose, the department has further violated legislative intent, for this fund was designed to relieve overcrowded conditions in State institutions and was not intended for purposes other than those indicated by the Legislature. Finally, it does not appear to be good business for the State to buy privately-owned land to build the dam when it already owns a watershed and a suitable dam site. This is particularly significant in view of the fact that the State treasury is strained and necessary functions of government must be carried out with a minimum of expense.

Your committee recommends that the original instructions of the Legislature be respected by the Department of Finance and that the dam be constructed in Rector Canyon within the limits of the 1937 appropriation. Thus the State treasury would be relieved to the extent of the $350,000 now allocated out of the Unified Construction Fund and this would relieve the deficit situation to this extent.

Pacific Exposition and Mercado.

In 1937 the Legislature appropriated $1,500,000 for the purpose of assisting financially in the construction and operation of an exposition to be held in Los Angeles. This appropriation has been available for approximately three years and will revert to the State treasury on June 30, 1941. It is the understanding of this committee that there is little likelihood of this money being expended. Until the appropriation reverts, however, it will remain on the books as a part of the expenditure budget for the current biennium. Inasmuch as it is expected that this appropriation will revert to the State treasury this committee calls attention to the fact that the State deficit will be reduced to this extent, which in turn should be taken into account in considering the State's financial problem.

California National Bank Building.

In 1937 the Legislature appropriated $200,000 upon recommendation of the State Department of Finance for the purpose of acquiring the California National Bank Building in Sacramento. It was stated that the State desired to use this building to house the State treasury. In 1939 the Legislature was advised by the Department of Finance that this building had proved unsuitable for the purpose for which it was purchased and that it desired to sell the building and apply the proceeds to the construction of a building near the State Capitol to be used for this purpose. A bill was introduced proposing to authorize this action but it was amended to provide that the proceeds from the sale should be placed in the General Fund.

When this bill was introduced, the Legislature was advised by the Department of Finance that it had received an offer from a prospective purchaser and that all that was necessary was authority from the Legislature to consummate the sale. We now find that this building remains unsold and that it is now used to house a collection of Indian relics although the State has an investment of $200,000 in it.

We recommend at this time that the Department of Finance make a strenuous effort to sell this property so that the proceeds from the sale may relieve the General Fund to that extent and thus carry out the provisions of Chapter 905 of the Statutes of 1939.

Personal Income Tax Fund.

We have observed that over the years there has accumulated a cash balance in the Personal Income Tax Fund which has resulted from the fact that the administrator has expended less than the 3 per cent authorized by law. We are advised that at the present time the amount of this impounded money exceeds $500,000.

We recommend that the unexpended balance in the Personal Income Tax Fund so accumulated be transferred to the General Fund and that henceforth the Franchise Tax Commissioner limit his administrative expenditures to the amount set forth in the budget bill. By releasing this money the General Fund deficit will be relieved to this extent and yet the commissioner will be allowed to spend up to 3 per cent of collections as provided by law.

Bond Interest and Redemption.

Interest and redemption charges on General Fund bonds outstanding will amount to $15,883,000 during the current biennium. This charge is fixed by the State Constitution and is entirely beyond legislative control. Attention is directed to the fact, however, that unless the State issues more bonds, and these can not be issued without the consent of the voters, the amount of this charge will decline year by year as redemptions reduce interest payments.

While this large fixed charge may continue to decline, the committee nevertheless desires to point out that these sums are being expended each year on debt service and retirement. The committee therefore recommends that we reduce our State debt from its present high level and that every effort be made to discourage future indebtedness by the State in order to relieve the tax paying public from these burdensome interest payments.

Interest on Registered Warrants.

In addition to interest and redemption on State bonds outstanding, the State pays a considerable amount in interest on registered warrants. This figure has been estimated by the State Department of Finance at $3,800,000 for the current biennium. This committee is of the opinion, however, that the yield of existing State taxes will exceed the official estimates of the Department of Finance which in turn will tend to reduce the volume of warrants outstanding. Moreover, if economies are effected in unemployment relief and, as suggested by this committee, the State deficit will fall correspondingly, this in turn will reduce the volume of registered warrants. It is our belief, therefore, that the above estimate of registered warrant interest charges is excessive.

In fact it appears that the Department of Finance has estimated the interest charges on registered warrants on the assumption that the Legislature would appropriate the full amount requested by the Governor for relief and that all existing appropriations would be expended. With a relief appropriation of $25,000,000 less than the $112,500,000 set forth in the Department of Finance budget summary of December 15, 1939, with $5,000,000 or $10,000,000 in general economies effected during the second year of this biennium and with $10,000,000 or $15,000,000 in unexpected revenues due to improved business conditions, it is conceivable that the volume of registered warrants outstanding for the next fiscal year might be as much as $40,000,000 lower than has been anticipated by the Department of Finance. If this is true, and we believe it is, the interest charges on registered warrants outstanding computed at an average interest rate of 3 per cent would be $1,200,000 less. Thus the interest charges on registered warrants for the full biennium would be $1,200,000 less than the $3,800,000 estimated by the Department of Finance. If we are correct in this assumption, this saving of $1,200,000 can be taken into account in computing the amount of the deficit on June 30, 1941.

When the Department of Finance set up the budget picture as of December 15, 1939, it computed interest charges on registered warrants on the basis of a maximum relief appropriation and on the assumption that every dollar appropriated for other purposes would be expended before the end of the biennium. It did not call attention to the fact that should the Legislature effect economies in relief or any other branch of State government, the volume of registered warrants would be less than indicated and the interest charges on these warrants would be correspondingly less than the amount that they figured.

Auditing of Expenditures.

The auditing of State expenditures is divided between two agencies—the State Controller and the State Department of Finance. Under the law the State Controller is responsible for ascertaining the legality of all claims against the State treasury. This is done at the time warrants are drawn against the treasury in accordance with claims submitted by the various departments. The Department of Finance, on the other hand, is responsible for setting up in advance the expenditure budgets of the various State departments, approving certain specific expenditure acts and finally, post auditing all expenditure accounts. The latter function is a true auditing operation and is designed to verify the accounting records of all the various departments. It happens, however, that the Department of Finance is responsible directly to the Governor, as are most of the other departments of State government. Thus, in effect, an agency responsible to the Governor, is responsible for auditing the books and accounts of other agencies responsible to the Governor.

It is the belief of this committee, based on a cursory examination of the situation, that it would be in the interest of governmental efficiency and economy to have all post auditing handled by an independent agency, preferably the State Controller who is elected directly by the people and is not responsible to any other agency of government. This would take away from the Department of Finance the power and duty to post audit all expenditure accounts and leave with that department those matters having to do with the administration of the State budget, the purchase of materials and supplies, the administration of State land, State printing, and the operation of buildings and grounds. Although this committee has not made an exhaustive study of the subject of State auditing we recommend that a legislative investigation into this general question be made at some future date, with particular reference to the creation of an independent office of Auditor General which agency would be charged with the responsibility of auditing all State departments and of making budget estimates for the Legislature, or to delegate this responsibility to the State Controller.

General Economy.

The General Fund expenditures of the departments of State government, including colleges and institutions, based on appropriations for the current biennium, will amount to $65,938,049 compared with $49,844,604 in the biennium 1935-37. This represents an increase of approximately 32 per cent in the cost of the general functions of State government in four years.

Support of General Functions of State Government.

General Fund Only.

	Expenditures 1935-37	Expenditures 1937-39	Budget 1939-41
Institutions and prisons----	$17,313,978	$21,056,311	$24,285,320
University, State colleges and special schools-----	17,719,030	19,757,249	22,163,668
General government -----	14,811,596	18,919,949	19,389,061
Total -----	$49,844,604	$59,733,509	$65,938,049

Elsewhere in this report we have called attention to various extravagant practices in the departments of State government. These have included the following:

1. The creation of a large number of new State positions in the past year.
2. The extravagant use of State-owned automobiles.
3. The unnecessary use of long distance telephone and telegraph communications.
4. Unnecessary out-of-state travel by State officials.
5. The employment of publicists and propagandists.

6. The publication of unnecessary magazines and propaganda material.
7. Unnecessary travel expense.
8. The presence of padded budgets and the concealment of sources of income.
9. The injudicious use of emergency fund money.
10. The unwise allocation of capital outlay money.
11. The performance of unimportant functions and the inefficient performance of important functions.

This committee is of the firm opinion that through the elimination of these extravagances and through the adoption of a general spirit of economy, a large sum of money can be saved. The exact amount of these savings can not be measured accurately or specifically. We recommend, therefore, that in view of the general need for economy a blanket cut be considered and that it be spread according to the best judgment of those in charge of the administration of the various State departments. Computed at 5 per cent of the biennial appropriation or 10 per cent of the second year of this biennium, this cut would approximate $3,300,000. In recommending this cut, which would have to be effected voluntarily by the Governor and the independent agencies of State government, we do so with the thought that the citizens in general are demanding economy in government in lieu of the imposition of additional taxes. Whatever is saved under this blanket recommendation will revert to the State treasury at the end of this biennium and reduce the deficit to that extent.

Reorganization and Consolidation.

In examining an organization chart of State government and studying the budgets of the various departments, we find numerous instances of overlapping and duplication of functions. We observed that in several cases two or more bureaus are doing similar work, which might more conveniently and more economically be handled by a single bureau. There appears to be just reason, for example, to consolidate the State Division of Water Resources and the State Reclamation Board, both agencies being engaged in similar work. Our attention has also been directed to the fact that certain departments have considerable number of extremely small bureaus.

It would take more time than this committee has available to untangle the complex system of boards and bureaus, but we are led to the conclusion that through reorganization and consolidation there exists an opportunity to save considerable money. We commend to the attention of the 1941 Legislature the advisability of considering a study of this subject.

As has been stated several times in this report, your committee has been unable to delve deeply into the question of governmental efficiency and economy. Because of the short time available we have had to content ourselves with scratching the surface. As a result, there are several objects of investigation we believe should be given further study, particularly in the fields of auditing of expenditures, administration of State personnel and reorganization of State government.

It is our firm belief that economy in government is not a passing fancy but offers real hope to the taxpayers and is fundamental in attacking unemployment and in securing business recovery.

Respectfully submitted.

Individual Statement of Committee Member.

It has been my conviction that the Legislature should be conservative in creating interim investigating committees and in appropriating funds to finance their investigations. I am convinced also that those committees, when created, should be equally conservative in expending the funds allocated to them and in making recommendations not supported by substantial testimony of credible witnesses.

Not having been able to attend all of the hearings of this committee, I must refrain from joining in some of the minor recommendations, such as those concerning Press Clipping Service and the Rector Canyon Dam.

I am entirely in accord with the more important recommendations such as those concerning the Department of Finance, Deficiency Appropriations, and New State Positions. These recommendations can not be too strongly urged upon the entire membership of the Legislature.

Motion to Print Report in the Journal.

On motion of Mrs. Daley, the following report was ordered printed in the Journal:

PART VII.

Part VII of the Fact-Finding Committee's Report on Employment represents a gathering of various reports, statistical data and exhibits which in the bound pamphlet to follow will probably be inserted in appropriate places in connection with previously submitted material.

The reports of three subcommittees which have been submitted to the Joint Committee have been approved only as to general form but have not been approved finally nor as to their recommendations. It is believed that these can be completed in time to be included in the pamphlet referred to above. These are the reports of those members of the committee who were gathering material to be submitted to the Joint Committee on the following subjects:

1. Cooperatives (Senator Mixter)
2. Surplus Commodities (Assemblyman Lore)
3. Youth Movement (Assemblyman O'Day)

In addition to these, the items in this seventh part include the following:

1. A letter from a former recipient of relief, who had been returned to his home State and now wants to come back to the more attractive conditions of California.

2. A chart showing the difference between the amount of money actually spent for relief since the beginning of this biennium and the amount which would probably have been needed if the present case number represents a truer picture than the case totals during previous months.

3. Two forms, A-1 and A-2, which suggest the influence of political backgrounds in the selection of SRA employees.

4. One of many cards found in the SRA offices in San Francisco after this department had moved to Los Angeles.

5. A reproduction of the interesting "Waiver" required of SRA employees who were taken on the rolls before any job existed for them.

6. Four statistical tables showing monthly expenditures in the SRA, the monthly case loads, comparative expenditures and per capita costs between California and other States, and the basis for the appropriation contained in Senate Bill No. 90.

The Joint Committee submits these items as the final part of its report. All of the material will be gathered together, and in a short time will be ready for distribution in more convenient form. The committee, if it is continued, will attempt to keep statistical matter up to date and to review other material already in its files but which it was impossible to work upon in the short time between sessions.

Subject: WAIVER.

It is expressly understood that I accept my assignment to work within the State Relief Administration, Los Angeles County, with the full understanding that there is considerable doubt as to the availability of money to be used for payment of the position which I am accepting, and that in the event such money is not available, I will make no claim against either the State or any individual for the time which I spend on such assignment until status of position is definitely ascertained.

This waiver is voluntarily signed with the full knowledge of the conditions prevailing, and it is my personal desire to assist in instituting the program to the extent that I am perfectly willing to volunteer my services without compensation, if necessary.

The question of the return of Relief to the Counties now agitating the Legislature is not desired nor endorsed by County Supervisors themselves. Orange, San Diego, and Los Angeles Counties and the State Associations of Supervisors would not endorse this plan.

The Sponsors are a small group of Special Interests who maintain a large Legislative Lobby. They wish to defeat the only sensible plan which has been presented in the State for the handling of this problem, namely; Work Relief. The S.R.A. says "every man should work for his relief".

This special interest group wishes to switch the tax burden to County taxpayers and Property Owners - a group which is not now taxed for unemployment relief.

If Relief Appropriations are cut down or if Administration is returned to Counties a number of things will happen as a severe jolt to all classes of society.

- 1st. County tax rate will jump 41.7 % with an increase of $12 to $15 per year on $3,000 assessed valuation.
- 2nd. Relief will be paid in kind, - grocery orders and rent orders, On the lowest possible scale regardless of suffering and need. County schedules are now held up by State Standards.
- 3rd. SRA Sponsored W.P.A. projects including sewing will be discontinued. Distribution of Federal Surplus Commodities will be curtailed as will also the stamp plan and other means of Federal Assistance.
- 4th. All Merchants, Landlords, and Utilities will suffer a severe jolt in the income with the elimination of $125,000 to $150,000 monthly circulation through the S.R.A.
- 5th. Suffering, discontent, and agitation will increase until malnutrition and hunger will cause mass meetings, mobs and riots, as occurred in Cleveland and such as happened frequently when unemployment was originally handled by the cities and counties.

Orange County Assemblyman, Clyde Watson in the south of the county and Thomas Kuchel in the north of the county, are working with and for the special interests which are trying to defeat an adequate relief program and shift the burden to county political control and the ever changing Boards of Supervisors.

They should be wired, phoned, or written, care of the Assembly at Sacramento, and told in no uncertain terms to support an adequate appropriation so that a common sense program of work and self help can be completed which in a short time will actually save tax-payers money.

58 Counties have nothing new to add to the solution of this problem. A return to them would delay the achievements of the past 5 years.

Republicans and Democrats alike are joining in opposing the rule or ruin program of this small group of self constituted State Dictators.

TOTAL SRA CASES UNDER CARE FOR FISCAL YEARS BY WEEKS - JULY 1, 1936 TO JUNE 30, 1940

Motion to Print Report in the Journal.

On motion of Mr. Hawkins, the following report was ordered printed in the Journal, and 1,000 extra copies were ordered printed:

Minority Report of the Housing and Slum Clearance Fact-Finding Committee.

At the fifty-third extraordinary session a Housing and Slum Clearance Fact-Finding Committee was created in the Assembly of the Legislature of the State of California and authorized to function throughout the duration of this session and any recesses thereof so as to obtain pertinent facts upon which the Legislature could act intelligently in regard to the subject contained in Assembly Bill No. 57.

Assembly Bill No. 57 would establish a State housing authority to undertake in cooperation with the Federal Government a program of housing for rural families of low income. This measure is now before the Senate having passed the Assembly by a vote of 46 to 23. We feel we should emphasize the fact that the Assembly investigating committee appointed by the Speaker, consisted of eleven members, seven of whom voted against Assembly Bill No. 57.

A conflict of opinion developed during the hearings as to the philosophy contained in our whole public housing program. We do not wish to argue this point. Congress established public housing as a National policy by passing the United States Housing Act in 1937 and the Legislature of California, due to a demand that transcended party lines, established enabling legislation in 1938 and affirmed in our State the fact that public housing is an approved governmental function.

The principle contained in Assembly Bill No. 57, therefore, is no new principle, no new philosophy, no fantastic scheme. The acts adopted in 1938 by this Legislature are adaptable principally to the urban housing problem. The proposed bill is intended to facilitate the application of the already accepted program of public housing to the rural areas. This would be accomplished by the creation of a State housing authority authorized to act with the approval of local legislative bodies, in any area not now served by a housing authority. The State housing authority would make it possible for the State to undertake housing projects in areas where there is acute need because of sharp population increases of lower income families and where the nature of the problem is such that one county or city alone can not economically or adequately handle the situation.

The committee conducted hearings in Los Angeles, Bakersfield, Fresno, Upland, Riverside, Marysville, Sacramento, Stockton and San Francisco. In Kern, Fresno, Yuba and Sacramento counties we made extensive inspections of rural housing conditions and obtained first hand knowledge of the actual housing facilities available to thousands of families living in those areas. We found clusters of shack towns—health and social menaces—clinging to the outskirts of practically every agricultural community. With few exceptions housing facilities consisted of one-room shacks built of rags, brush, sacks, boxes, boards, odd bits of tin, galvanized iron, pieces of canvas and whatever other materials were at hand.

The overwhelming majority of the families we observed were white and born in this country. We found in many places 4 to 5 children sleeping on one bed. Sanitary facilities were at a minimum; there were unprotected wells, no sewage disposal, primitive privies serving 8 to 10 families. These conditions were found to be breeding grounds for much sickness, delinquency and crime. This was forcibly brought out by testimony of competent witnesses who established the fact that the costs which these conditions imposed upon community facilities were several times greater than the tax return from the land and slum improvements.

These areas, while prevalent in every agricultural center of the State, are located outside of cities, and off the main highways so that the people of the State of California are not fully aware that such deplorable conditions do exist.

In many cases hovels were being constructed by their inhabitants on land offered for sale by rural subdividers. For example, in Marysville we saw the Bull tracts, a cheap subdivision development. Mr. D. D. Collins, Yuba County Farm Advisor, valued some of these tracts at considerably less than $50 per acre. Yet it is being sold to persons of low income on a long-term basis for $200 to $400 per acre. It was further established that this land is almost wholly unproductive. The natural and laudable desire of these families to own their own homes, is thus being exploited by inducing them to purchase extremely undesirable and improperly located plots at inflated values. Under these conditions the residents are unable to augment their extremely low incomes by carrying on gardening on the homesites they are struggling desperately to acquire. These facts presented to the committee proved to us that this type of development by private enterprise is creating undesirable slum areas and their resultant social and economic problems. Such conditions are economically and socially unsound and call for immediate action.

In other areas we found rents ranging from $15 to $20 for totally inadequate one- and two-room shacks. Notable in this connection is the fact that in many of these cases the rent is being paid by relief and welfare agencies. We were appraised of the fact that in eight San Joaquin counties alone the State is spending about $150,000 per month for relief rentals for these families for housing consisting of shacks, hovels, cheap auto camps and tent camping space. We were told that the State Relief Administration spends in excess of $10,000,000 each year for rent, much of it going to support some of the worst slum areas in California.

Regardless of definition or the connotation of the word slum, it is a fact that there was presented before the committee overwhelming evidence of the awful housing conditions under which large numbers of low income families in this State are forced to live. Representatives of numerous public and private agencies dealing with health, relief and general welfare family problems presented graphic descriptions of the un-American housing conditions of the lowest income groups among us. There was no evidence presented which could minimize the bad situation.

We wholeheartedly approve every possible encouragement of private enterprise in the field of housing, but we can not agree with those who would leave the re-housing of the very low income rural families to nonexistent theoretical private resources. Likewise, we concur in the showing of need for more long range planning and an intelligent enforcement of existing health, safety and sanitary measures to prevent the development of slum conditions but we can not accept the belief that such corrective measures would bring decent housing within rental reach of the low income groups. We are convinced that we can not solve the rural housing problem by eliminating under existing laws substandard dwellings without providing better housing as an accompanying feature of such demolition. These people must have a home. They must have a place to sleep. By tearing down existing shelter we drive them to other areas where experience has shown that new and often worse shacks will be thrown together.

These facts were thoroughly corroborated by the testimony of Mr. William Mulligan, Chief of the Bureau of Sanitation and Housing of the city of Sacramento, whose duties include the condemnation of substandard dwellings:

"We found, of course, some very bad places, but the trouble is that when we have them ready to move we can't find any place to house them. * * * We have right now several places that we could have buildings torn down if we only could get places to move the occupants to."

In all of the hearings in the cities named we heard witnesses from all walks of life—organized labor, clergymen both Catholic and Protestant, social workers and some city and county officials. It seems to us that the absence of any large scale representations before the committee by city, county and other public officials is not significant. The absence of official representation on any large scale is largely due to a lack of an awareness of the seriousness of the situation. It is this very unawareness that has made State action necessary so that greater progress may be made in dealing with the most acute housing problems with which this committee has now become acquainted by what it has heard from those who have been in a position to describe the bad housing conditions and their many serious effects.

In this connection it seems regrettable that this committee did not utilize the vast and important material available both in the files and from the trained personnel of existing State agencies that deal every day with the rural housing problem as a part of their legal duties.

We feel that we must mention the attitude of the State Planning Board to the creation of a State Housing Authority. Although Mr. L. D. Tilton, administrative officer of the Planning Board, told the committee in Los Angeles that the board did not favor a State Housing Authority without further study, this was previous to any action taken by that body. In a subsequent meeting the State Planning Board unanimously recommended State action to meet the need for low-cost housing in rural areas and further stated that the only solution for this need is the creation of a State Housing Authority. Mr. Samuel C. May, chairman of the State Planning Board, in his letter of transmittal that accompanied the report of the housing study by that board, stated:

"Housing is, at one and the same time, an urgent social, economic and technical problem. In addition, its urban and rural aspects frequently have different implications and require different remedies. The housing problem has therefore gradually become a matter of public concern and responsibility at a number of different points.

Major public activities in this field now include: positive assistance and guidance for private builders; field surveys and research to establish facts as to conditions and needs; establishment and enforcement of minimum standards affecting both new residential construction and existing buildings (including the condemnation of substandard homes); and the direct production of minimum standard homes for those lowest-income families who are entirely beyond the reach of private enterprise.

For more than a year this board, with the help of a special Housing Advisory Committee, has been conducting a broad study of governmental agencies concerned with both private and public housing in California. Although our work is not yet complete, I have been directed to submit the following progress report summarizing the board's findings and recommendations to date.

In condensed summary, it was the opinion of the board at the present status of its investigation that (1) there is a housing need for low-income groups in California which requires State attention; (2) neither existing private agencies nor existing State and local agencies are fully solving the problem; (3) there should be established a state-wide housing authority to cooperate with the Federal Government in those portions of the State where local housing authorities do not exist; and (4) a State housing authority might be located within an existing State agency or a separate agency be created.

Sincerely yours,

(Signed) SAMUEL C. MAY, Chairman."

In reference to the cost of housing projects under the current USHA program pertinent figures may be obtained from the annual report of the USHA for 1939. In rural areas similar to those in California, average over-all costs are as low as $2.754 per dwelling unit. In Texas average over-all costs run $3.627, $3.216 and $3.320; in Alabama: $3.449 and $3.636. Even in California costs lower than $4.000 have been achieved. The Ramona project in Los Angeles has an over-all cost per dwelling unit of $3.250, while the Sunnydale project in San Francisco is $3.505. These last mentioned are city projects where land costs do not compare with those in rural areas. We believe, therefore, that even lower per unit costs can be achieved by a California State Housing Authority operating in the rural areas, as contemplated by Assembly Bill No. 57.

Actually, in the United States Housing Act costs are limited in cities of 500,000 or less by the following provision:

"No contract for any loan annual contribution or capital grant made pursuant to this act shall be entered into by the Authority with respect to any project whereafter initiated cost more than $4,000 per family dwelling unit."

A further statutory limitation as to cost is set down in the act by providing that:

"The average construction cost of the dwelling units (excluding land, demolition and non-dwelling facilities) in any such project is not greater than the average construction cost of dwelling units concurrently produced by private enterprise, in the locality or metropolitan area concerned."

Strangely enough the main opposition to any rural housing program came not from the farm interests or the rural areas, but from urban interests and were led chiefly by certain groups who sell or rent apartment houses and real estate.

In contrast, support for such a program has come from all parts of the State and from a cross-section of "interests." We submit the following list of witnesses, together with their affiliations, as proof of this latter statement:

Partial List of Witnesses:

Neal Haggerty, American Federation of Labor;
Harold Pomeroy, former State Relief Administrator;
M. S. Siegal, Director of Housing and Sanitation, City of Los Angeles;
Eugene Weston, The American Institute of Architects;
Rolla E. Clapp, Consulting Engineer;
R. Paul Fries, Secretary, National Research Staff;

William Mulligan, Chief, Bureau of Sanitation and Housing, City of Sacramento;
Michael B. Kunz, Councilman, City of Sacramento;
Mrs. W. W. Douglas, League of Women Voters.

In careful consideration of the aforementioned material, we the undersigned can not but believe that in any discussion of the housing question we are under solemn obligation to be impersonal in approach, practical in manner and realistic in our philosophy.

It has often been suggested to the committee, and we agree, that private enterprise should cope with this most bewildering and complex matter of providing adequate, safe, sanitary and comfortable housing for low-income families. However, there has been no evidence presented to the committee to show that such housing is profitable to private enterprise or that private enterprise is equipped to undertake this important task. Whatever efforts are made by private interests in the field of housing it is a simple fact that private enterprise can not provide decent housing for the thousands of families among us whose annual normal incomes are so low that they do not have the money to rent or purchase decent shelter.

After a state-wide review of existing housing conditions of the low income groups undertaken by this committee, we find that some form of governmental assistance is inevitable because private initiative has done and can do nothing. In view of the material at the disposal of this committee it is our firm conviction that the only answer is the establishment of a State Housing Authority under the terms of Assembly Bill No. 57.

State Relief Investigation Committee Progress Report.

Mr. Speaker.

Your committee authorized and empowered by house resolutions, 9 and 29, to investigate subversive activities in the State Relief Administration respectfully reports as follows:

I.

"Fifth Columns."

The world has recently been shocked by the deadly effectiveness of subversive organizations working within such nations as Czechoslovakia, Austria, Poland, Spain, Denmark, Norway, Holland and Belgium. Organizations of foreign directed termites, commonly called "fifth columns" have demonstrated their ability to paralyze the defenses of victimized nations while cooperating with outside aggressors. It is evident that a relatively small organized force can render a whole nation helpless by coordinating its activities with forces driving from the outside.

The great masses of the people are always completely unarmed and unorganized. When confronted with an organized and disciplined group, they find themselves helpless. The Communist, or Bolshevik Party, has already demonstrated the ability of a small organized group to overthrow a government when that government is in a state of crisis resulting from either internal conditions, or the necessity of defending itself against outside forces. It is difficult to realize that the Russian branch of the Communist Party had a membership that included only an infinitesimal part of the population of Russia, when it successfully captured control of the government of that country and commenced its dictatorial domination over millions of Russian people. Those who scoff at the dangers of Communist activity in this country unknowingly befriend persons engaged in a treasonable conspiracy, because such scoffing tends to lull the populace into a state of false security which hinders effective work calculated to stop the march of "fifth columns."

Communism vs. Americanism.

The Communist Party is bent upon overthrowing the American Government in order to substitute a dictatorship for our democracy. These traitors probably do not have the power to accomplish this objective today without outside assistance. But they are preparing to strike whenever we face a crisis of sufficient gravity to weaken our resistance. As part of our national defense we must stop them before they are able to attain sufficient strength to accomplish their objectives.

Stalin and Hitler.

Protected on the east by an alliance with Stalin, Hitler's hordes have been freed to concentrate on the destruction of once peaceful and independent republics. If Hitler and Stalin can destroy the democracies of Europe, there is a grave danger that their lust for power may soon attempt to span the Atlantic. In this event, it is imperative that we face these hordes free from the treachery of traitorous Nazi and Communist termites who would not hesitate to stab us in the back and our defenses from the inside. The fate of nations like Norway and Denmark should teach us the necessity of curbing treasonable conspiracies existing within our country.

Duty of Americans.

Those who believe in democracy have a right, and it is their duty, to defend that democracy from enemies both within and without. Those who believe in the Constitution of the United States have a right, and a duty, to see to it that subversive groups are not permitted to subvert constitutional rights, in order to bring about their destruction. The Communists and Nazis, who are today screaming for protection of their constitutional rights are at the same time completely ignoring the obligations which such rights entail; namely, the duty of protecting and upholding the government provided for in the Constitution. Those who demand protection under the Constitution in good faith should be willing to support the entire Constitution, rather than to pick out and support only the provisions of which they approve, and under which they claim privileges.

In the SRA.

Your committee has been amazed at the extent of Communist infiltration into the State Relief Administration. Under the cloak of this branch of State government, Communists have found their way into widely separated areas of the State. In these areas, they are engaged in carrying out a well-planned scheme to undermine State government. Some of the strategy employed by them is quite apparent. It follows very closely the pattern laid down by the founders of the Communist Party and it parallels to a great degree the strategy of the Communist Party in Russia—with allowances made for the differences in the problems faced by the party because of the differences in the two nations.

In The Communist Party Manual on Organization, hereafter referred to as the Manual, Comrade J. Peters said:

"As the leader and organizer of the proletariat, the Communist Party of the United States of America leads the working class in the fight for the revolutionary overthrow of capitalism, for the establishment of the dictatorship of the proletariat, for the establishment of a socialistic Soviet republic in the United States, for the complete abolition of classes, for the establishment of socialism, the first stage of the classless Communist Society. *

* * Our Party realizes that certain conditions must exist before the outworn capitalistic system can be overthrown. What are the conditions? Comrade Lenin answers this question, " * * * for revolution it is essential, first, that a majority of the workers (or at least a majority of the class-conscious, thinking, politically active workers) should fully understand the necessity for revolution and be ready to sacrifice their lives for it; secondly, that the ruling classes be in a state of governmental crisis which draws even the most backward masses into politics, * * * weakens the government and makes it possible for the revolutionaries to overthrow it rapidly."

Crisis Awaited.

The Communist Party is simply awaiting a crisis. Through its efforts in the State Relief Administration, it is endeavoring to aggravate the present condition brought about by unemployment in California and in the nation. It is attempting to do this by maliciously endeavoring to increase relief costs to such an extent, that taxpayers will be unable to carry the burden, and all relief will thereby be jeopardized. Under the guise of aiding the needy, the Communists are actually carrying out this program calculated to eventually deny relief to the destitute. They want to cause unbearable suffering. Such suffering is useful to them in their revolutionary agitation.

Dominated by Russia.

It is evident that the Communist Party is not endeavoring to engage merely in the advocacy of the theories of Socialism or Communism. It is rather determined to force its will upon a majority of the people of the United States, whether or not, they are ever willing to accept it. Instead of being an advocate of mere theories, the Communist Party is part of an international organization dominated by Russia, and bound to carry on activity beneficial to that nation, irrespective of the effects such activity may have upon the nation in which the Party members live, and to which they pretend to give allegiance.

The international character of the Communist Party is well outlined in a Communist Party Membership Book for the year of 1933. The first paragraph in said book reads as follows:

"A member of the party can be every person from the age of 18 up who accepts the program and statutes of the Communist International and the Communist Party of the United States of America, who becomes a member of a basic organization of the Party, who is active in this organization, who subordinates himself to all decisions of the Comintern and of the Party, and regularly pays his membership dues."

This official Party book demonstrates very well the fact that the Communist Party is not an ordinary political organization. It is, rather, a disciplined army of "termites." In describing the principles upon which the Party is founded, the book says:

"Acceptance and carrying out of the decisions of the higher party committees by the lower, strict Party discipline, and immediate and exact applications of the decisions of executive committee of the Communist International and of the Central Committee of the Party * * *

After a decision has been adopted at the congress of the Comintern, the Party convention, or by the leading Party committee it must be carried out unconditionally, even if some of the members or some of the local organizations are not in agreement with the decision. * * *

The strictest Party discipline is the most solemn duty of all Party members and all Party organizations. * * *

He who weakens, no matter how little, the iron discipline of the Party of the proletariat (especially during the period of dictatorship), effectually helps the bourgeoisie against the proletariat." (Lenin)

In this same official book under the heading, "What is the Communist Party?" appears the following:

"It incorporates the whole body of experience of the proletarian struggle, basing itself upon the revolutionary theory of Marxism and representing the general and lasting interests of the whole of the working class, the Party personifies the unity of proletarian principles, of proletarian will and of proletarian revolutionary action." (From the program of the Communist International.)

An Army on the March.

The Party manual referred to above also discusses discipline under the heading, "Why do the Communists attach so much importance to discipline?" It says:

"* * * How can an army fight against the army of the enemy if every soldier in the army is allowed to question and even disobey orders of his superior officers. What would happen in a war if, for example, the general staff orders an attack and one section of the army decides to obey and goes into battle; another thinks it is wrong to attack the enemy at the time and stays away from the battle; and a third section decides to quit the trenches and retreat to another position instead of going forward?

Let us take an example from the class struggle. The district committee decided that a demonstration should be held against police terror and gives directions to the Sections to mobilize the whole membership to get the greatest possible number of workers to the demonstration. The date and place of the demonstration are set by the district committee. One section, after receiving the decisions, works out plans to mobilize the masses, and activates the whole Section to work for the demonstration. Another Section does not think the issue is very important and neglects to mobilize the membership; a third Section decides that the time set by the committee is not the best one and instructs its members to mobilize at a later hour; and a fourth Section decides to come at an earlier hour. What kind of a demonstration would it be? What would workers think and say about such a party?

Our Party cannot lead the masses if there is not unity in action. Unity of will and action can be achieved only if all of the members of the Party act as one--are disciplined. If each Party member should decide which decision of the Party he wanted to carry out; if each member would carry out only those decisions which he liked and ignored those with which he disagreed, it would be impossible to lead the masses in a struggle against capitalism. An army with that kind of leadership would be defeated."

Too much emphasis cannot be placed upon the fact that the Communist Party describes itself as a disciplined army bound to follow the program given to it by the Communist International irrespective of the nature of that program. This is completely unlike the American concept of political parties. It explains the meaning of the term, "Fifth Column," which accurately describes the fact that the disciplined army working within a nation, is an integral part of that army of invasion, with whom it is bound to cooperate when directed to do so. This Communist discipline, when understood, explains the success of the Communist Party in organizing demonstrations such as that fostered by Labor's Non-Partisan League and the Workers Alliance in Sacramento on February 25, 1940.

Workers Alliance Demonstration.

There is no doubt that the so-called Workers Alliance march on the State Capitol was, in reality, a Communist political demonstration, of the type used by the Communists, as part of the revolutionary training of the masses. Evidence adduced before the committee establishes the fact that letters directing Workers Alliance members to march on the Capitol were sent out from the State office and signed by the State President of the Workers Alliance, Mr. Alex Noral, who not only admitted his membership in the Communist Party, but also exhibited his official membership book. This is only one concrete example of the disciplined activity of many similar Communist-organized and directed demonstrations, which have been prevalent in California in recent years. It is worthy of note here, that similar demonstrations were employed to protest lay-offs of unnecessary SRA personnel, by the Communist-controlled Union to which many members of the relief staff belong.

Deception Used.

The Communist Party is today endeavoring to deceive the American people into believing that the party is not international in character, foreign directed, or planning to overthrow the American government by force and violence. The Communists are afraid that legislation may be passed by the National Congress outlawing all political groups advocating force and violence as a means for bringing about changes in government. Therefore, the deceptive strategy of the Communist Party is aimed toward making it appear that the Communist Party does not fall within that classification.

Many Fooled.

Many people have been fooled by this Communist scheme because of their failure to realize that the Party is a disciplined army of termites. This army, at any given time, may not advocate immediate revolution, because its whole strategy is directed toward building organizations from undercover until sufficient strength is attained, to make success of forcible action practically certain. The fundamental principles of the Communist Party are not always divulged to new recruits, unless they have responded to discipline and Communist education to such an extent, that they can be trusted to keep concealed the revolutionary intent of the Party. Your committee has heard the testimony of former Communists, some of whom were in the party only a short time, and never fully understood its true purposes. Others were heard who ranked high enough in the Party to be informed relative to its real, underlying, revolutionary character.

The whole history of the Communists proves that they would never hesitate to lie in stating their immediate or ultimate objectives, just as the termites in Denmark, Norway, Sweden, and Belgium pretended to give allegiance to their governments before the day for open betrayal arrived. Such termites in America are lying and hiding their real intent. They are awaiting an opportune moment to execute their nefarious schemes by sabotaging our defenses, or seizing control of our Government.

The "History of the Communist Party, of the Soviet Union (Bolsheviks)" edited by a Commission of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union, and authorized by the Central Committee of the Communist Party, shows very clearly that the Bolsheviks have never hesitated to make use of illegal methods or any manner of deception. It should be remembered that the Communist Party is part of the same international group which called itself the "Bolsheviks" when plotting the Russian Revolution.

In the official history, the following quotation makes this point clear:

"Lenin proposed that the Party of the Bolsheviks should be called the Communist Party, which was the name given by Marx and Engels to their Party. This name was scientifically correct, for it was the ultimate aim of the Bolshevik Party to achieve Communism."

Even the present Communist Party Constitution in which much deceptive working is employed to set forth the ostensible intent of the Communist Party reads as follows:

"* * * that is, by the establishment of Socialism according to the scientific principles enunciated by the greatest teachers of mankind, Marx, Engels, Lenin, and Stalin, embodied in the Communist International."

Some parts of this Constitution can only be understood by one who has studied Communist strategy. For instance in the Constitution of the Communist Party, the Preamble says,

"* * * It is devoted to defense of the immediate interests of workers, farmers, and all toilers against capitalist exploitation and the preparation of the working class for its historic mission to unite and lead the American people to extend these Democratic principles to their necessary and logical conclusions * * *"

To understand this language one would have to know that the Communists teach that the historic mission of the working class is to lead a revolution for the purpose of establishing a dictatorship of the proletariat. Such dictatorship is to the Communists, "the necessary and logical conclusion."

Vigilance Needed.

During this period of world crisis, it is most important that the American people be not lulled into a tolerance of Communist organizations by their false claims of devotion to American democracy. America is a capitalist country in which citizens have a right to own their own homes, and other property which they may acquire legally, and hold subject to the right of government to levy taxes upon such property, or to take it for public purposes by paying compensation therefor. The Communist Party advocates the destruction of all capitalist countries. In order to destroy capitalism, they feel justified in setting up a dictatorship and in ruthlessly stamping out all persons who disagree with them by murderous purges or otherwise.

Communist Theory.

The official history of the party referred to above, and hereafter referred to as the official history, discusses the Communist attitude toward revolution in the following language:

"Marx and Engels discovered the laws of development of capitalist society and proved scientifically that the development of capitalist society, and the class struggle going on within it, must inevitably lead to the fall of capitalism, to the victory of the proletariat, to the dictatorship of the proletariat.

Marx and Engels taught that it was impossible to get rid of the power of capital and to convert capitalist property into public property by peaceful means, and the working class could achieve this only by revolutionary violence against the bourgeoisie, by a proletarian Revolution, by establishing its own political rule—the dictatorship of the proletariat—which must crush the resistance of the exploiters and create a new, classless, Communist Society."

This is the theory upon which the Russian dictatorship was established, and upon which, the Communists justify the total destruction of all rights of free speech, press, assemblage and religion in Russia.

Would Destroy Constitution.

Today we find the Communist termites in America demanding the right to use privileges guaranteed by the American Constitution, in order to work for the destruction of our Constitution and the right that it gives all of us, to disagree at all times with our government, so long as we express our disagreement in a manner within the framework of the Constitution. The Communists yell loudly for their Constitutional rights. They completely ignore the fact that exercise of these rights necessarily places upon one the duty of defending the Constitution, and the American Government, against its enemies—both within and without the nation.

The Communists in Russia tolerate no difference of opinion and they would tolerate no difference here, if allowed to seize power. They justify such intolerance on the grounds that they know they are right. But our American form of government is based upon the tolerance of disagreements, that are expressed peaceably in campaigns calculated to win the support of a majority of the people. Those successful in attaining power in our government are nevertheless bound to defend the right of others to differ with them, so long as no forcible effort is made by those who disagree, to impose their will upon the majority in the manner advocated by the Communist Party.

In the official history, the following quotation illustrated the Communist attitude in Russia toward the liberties which they demand in America:

"In order to consolidate the Soviet power, the old, bourgeois State machine had to be shattered and destroyed and a new, Soviet State machine set up in its place. Further, it was necessary to destroy the survivals of this division of society into estates and the regime of national oppression, to abolish the privileges of the church, to suppress the counter-revolutionary press, and counter-revolutionary organizations of all kinds, legal and illegal, and to dissolve the bourgeois constituent assembly."

In the above quotation, the term "counter-revolutionary," referred to the activity of those who opposed the Bolshevik Revolution.

Under Communist government where the State is everything, and the individual nothing, government is not restrained by the necessity of collecting taxes from the population in order to carry on its activities. There is no balance between public and private ownership.

There is no right to strike under Communist Government because strikes are considered acts against the government. This fact is completely ignored and concealed by the Communists who work within the American labor movement telling workers that a Communist Government would be beneficial to them. Political demonstrations such as those organized by Communists in this country would not be tolerated by a Communist Government. Such demonstrations would be classed as counter-revolutionary, and persons found engaging in them would be promptly and effectively liquidated.

Communist Hypocrisy.

These examples of the destruction of individual rights under the Communist Government of Russia, are set forth here to direct attention to the hypocrisy of the Communists and their accomplices in this country, who set themselves up as the guardians of American civil liberties and Constitutional rights. The framers of the Constitution never intended that it be interpreted, so as to grant a license to destroy the government, to tools of foreign aggressors. The right to rely on the Constitution for protection should include the obligation to use the privileges granted by it in good faith—and good faith—is something the Communists can not honestly claim.

The sugar-coated program of progressive reforms openly advocated by the Communist Party is simply a flypaper calculated to win support from the unwary in order to lead them down the road of desecration and destruction which is Communism. The same tactics were used in Russia by the Bolsheviks. Their official History says at one point,

"The petition was discussed at workers meetings where amendments were made. Bolsheviks spoke at these meetings without openly announcing themselves as such. Under their influence, the petition was supplemented by demands for freedom of press, free-

Vote of Speech: Freedom of association for workers • • • an 8-hour day • • •"

Of course these demands were made before the Communists seized control over the government and stamped out all of the rights of others which they had so recklessly demanded for themselves.

Fear of Reprisals.

Few persons who have left the Communist Party have had the courage to speak out against it. This results from fear of reprisals by the comrades who have no respect for law. This results also from the fact that persons who have left the Communist Party, are often so ashamed of ever having been part of it, that they fear exposure. In this regard it is interesting to note that the Communists themselves hold the threat of exposure over their members at all times as a matter of discipline. The Communist Constitution says on this point:

"• • • or members whose actions are detrimental to the Party and the working class shall be summarily dismissed from positions of responsibility, expelled from the Party and exposed before the general public."

Communists in the State Relief Administration have used as a strike weapon for their activities a CIO union called the State, County and Municipal Workers of America. Such use of legal organizations is an old tactic of the Communist Party. By hiding behind what appears to be a labor organization, and by using as "fronts" non-Communist led but such as organization, they are able to advance their activities. The Communists then endeavor to make it appear that attacks on them are attacks on a labor union.

Communists Control SCMWA

Your committee knows that the leadership of this SRA group is communist. In order to keep this fact, when questioned before the committee, these leaders would like to protect themselves. For this reason, they decided the strategy of listing witnesses to cover over other Communists or known sympathizers, who in attempting to represent the best interests of all members of the so-called union, made it clear to all of them that they should not answer questions relative to Communism. This meant that Communists and non-Communist alike who were members of the so-called union would refuse to answer questions relative to Communism. This saved the Communists from the necessity of being the only ones forced to refuse to answer in order to escape exposure or possible prosecution for perjury. The Communists were thus paid as a bonus.

The second device that your committee recently advised members of the Communist controlled organization, that if they were not Communists they should answer the questions freely and not be afraid the Communist leadership. But the typical Communist thereafter proceeded as well indicated into the attack of the members of the union. Instead, that said they had the courage to defy their leaders by stating on the committee that they were not Communists, and that they did not believe in Communism. These were all really were dismissed from the union for so doing. In answer to the address of the Communist members of this so-called union were all of the other witnesses who came before the committee, in every case without attorneys, and in every case with a willingness to answer questions put by the committee relative to Communism.

Sabotage Relief Bill.

Another example of Communist discipline of members of this so-called union was the order it issued to its members in San Francisco instructing them not to work overtime even though they were offered time off at a later date to make up for the extra hours. This order was carried out with the consent of the administrator in San Francisco who agreed not to take any action against the recalcitrants for their refusal to cooperate. The union stated as one of its reasons for ordering the members not to work overtime, that it did not want to help the reactionary Legislature of the State of California which it claimed was on the spot because of baggage of Senate Bill No. 81. In other words, the leaders of this so-called union who opposed Senate Bill No. 81 wanted to do everything they could to make it turn out badly in order to keep relief costs high in the State.

In San Francisco, the workers who were not members of this group worked exceedingly long hours to bring that district into compliance with Senate Bill No. 81 and to clean up the case load. During the period of readjustment members of the so-called union deliberately refused to aid in the program of readjustment. That the county administrator would agree not to hold such action against the recalcitrants seems incredible, but it is, nevertheless, true. Certainly in making evaluations or in compiling the ratings of members of the staff, this arbitrary refusal to cooperate should have been taken into consideration. But with the evaluations, or ratings, being made by those who sympathized with the so-called unions attitude, its members, quite naturally, had no fear of finding their inexcusable conduct detrimental.

Underground Tactics.

Use of legal organizations, such as the SCMWA to cover up illegal, or what the Communists call "underground" activity is a fundamental tactic of the Stalinists. This tactic is especially useful during periods when the attention of the people is directed toward the subversive character of their activities. This is the situation in America now and, as one would expect, the Communist Party is going "underground." In other words, fearing that it will soon be made illegal, it is preparing to combine illegal underground activity with work through controlled legal organizations like the SCMWA. In going underground the Communists also are breaking down their party units into small groups less apt to be detected. Such small groups, even if detected, will represent such a minute part of the party as to make the arrest of any one of them inconsequential to the party structure.

Describing such periods in their official history the Communists say:

"Lenin pointed out that at such moments revolutionary parties should perfect their knowledge. During the period of rise of the revolution they learned how to advance, during the period of reaction they should learn how to retreat properly, how to go underground, how to preserve and strengthen the illegal party, how to make use of legal opportunities, of all legally existing.

especially mass organizations in order to strengthen their connections with the masses * * *.

The Party had to reckon with a new situation. Offensive tactics had to be replaced by defensive tactics, the tactics of mustering forces, the tactics of withdrawing the cadres underground and of carrying on the work of the Party from underground, the tactics of combining illegal work with work in the legal working class organizations.

The surviving legal organizations served as a sort of screen for the underground organization of the Party and as a means of maintaining connections with the masses. In order to preserve their connections with the masses, the Bolsheviks made use of the trade unions and other legally existing public organizations, such as sick benefits societies, workers cooperative societies, clubs, educational societies and Peoples Houses * * *.

Thanks to a skillful combination of illegal and legal work, the Bolsheviks were able to become a serious force in the legal workers organization. This was revealed, incidentally, in the great influence which the Bolsheviks exercised on the workers groups at four legally held Congresses that took place at that period * * * a Congress of peoples universities, a women's Congress, a Congress of factory Physicians and a Temperance Congress."

Communist Infiltration.

This analysis of the Communist tactics employed in Russia when their status was comparable to their current status in the United States, explains the presence of Communists in so many American legal organizations formed to foster progressive reforms. This shows, also, that the interest of the Communists in these organizations is not an honest interest in the things for which the organizations stand, but rather, a desire to use the opportunity afforded by work within such groups, to establish contacts helpful in the dissemination of agitational propaganda, used by the Communists in preparation for the overthrow of our government.

In a further discussion of this tactic, the official history says:

"In this difficult period, the Bolsheviks set an example of how legal work should be combined with illegal work.

It is evident that that example is being followed by the Communist gangsters in the United States today through their activities in the SCMWA and similar groups."

The official history said further:

"The Bolsheviks wanted to create a new Party, a Bolshevik Party, which would serve as a model for all who wanted to have a real revolutionary Marxist Party."

It is also evident that this model is now being copied by the Stalinists in the United States. At another point in the official history in describing illegal activity the following appears:

"The conference noted that the most important rule of Bolshevik tactics in periods of retreat, namely, to combine illegal work with legal work within the various legally existing workers societies and unions, was being observed in all localities."

Communist Newspaper.

One of the important phases of Communist activity is the publication of a newspaper for purposes other than mere dissemination of news. The confidential Communist Party Guide issued from the state headquarters in California described the "People's World" as the Communist newspaper of California. The official history quotes Lenin as saying:

"A newspaper is not only a collective propagandist and collective agitator, but also a collective organizer."

In publishing the "People's World," the California Communists demonstrate once more the fact that they are simply following the pattern laid down by Lenin, and others, and successfully followed by the Bolsheviks in Russia. As a matter of agitation, the "People's World" often writes articles describing suicides by the unemployed. Of course, it always blames lack of work for these actions whether or not the actual facts so indicate. Just as you would expect, the official history in describing the work of the Bolshevik paper, "Pravda" said:

"Pravda often reported cases of suicide of unemployed and starving workers who had lost all hope of ever finding jobs again."

Another statement by the Communists in their official history showing the importance they attach to a newspaper and the uses they can make of it is very interesting:

"Pravda helped to organize the mass actions of the proletariat at the time of a big lock-out in St. Petersburg in the spring of 1914. When it was expedient to declare a mass strike, Pravda called upon the workers to resort to other forms of struggle such as mass meetings in the factories and demonstrations in the states. This could not be stated openly in the newspaper, but the cause was understood by class-conscious workers when they read an article by Lenin bearing the modest title, 'Forms of the Working Class Movement' and stating at the given moment, strikes should yield place to a higher form of working class-movement * * * which meant a call to organize meetings and demonstrations.

In this way, the illegal revolutionary activities of the Bolsheviks were combined with legal forms of agitation and organization of the masses of the workers through Pravda * * *.

Pravda stood in the center of the struggle for the Party principle, for the building up of a mass working class revolutionary party. Pravda rallied all the legally existing organizations around the illegal centers of the Bolshevik Party and directed the working-class movement towards one definite aim * * * preparation for revolution * * * in the Pravda editorial office was concentrated a large share of the organizational work of the Party, here meetings were arranged with representatives from Party nuclei; here reports were received of Party work in the mills and factories; and from here were transmitted the instructions of the St. Petersburg Committee and the Central Committee of the Party."

"Pravda" of California.

Evidence adduced before your committee together with an analysis of articles appearing in the "People's World" shows conclusively that this Communist propaganda organ is simply the "Pravda" of the California Communists. It is doing the identical work here that "Pravda" did in the preparation for the Russian Revolution. Communist Party members are constantly admonished to support and obtain subscriptions for this Communist propaganda paper.

The "People's World" was much in evidence around the offices of the State Relief Administration investigated by your committee. Members of the SRA Staff openly solicited subscriptions for it during working hours. It was posted on the bulletin board daily in some offices, and in others, copies were left on tables where they could be conveniently picked up by members of the staff.

During the hearings of your committee, this Communist paper printed scurrilous attacks upon members of the committee. It consistently distorted the facts and resorted to deliberate lies. The committee found that a large percentage of the members of the SRA Communist controlled union subscribed to this paper. Some of them testified before the committee that they considered it the "only truthful paper in California"—and this in spite of the fact that the "People's World" acclaimed the Russian invasion of Finland. It clumsily changed its policy to pro-Hitlerism when the Stalin-Hitler Alliance was made although before the Alliance it was loud in its condemnation of the Nazis.

Attack Preparedness.

The "People's World" has recently devoted much space to attacks on the American preparedness program and the work of J. Edgar Hoover. To find such a subversive newspaper openly and widely supported by members of the State Relief Administration staff affiliated with the SCMWA is shocking and disgusting. No one not sympathetic with the Communists could read this propaganda sheet without resenting the rank distortion to which it stoops. It is not a newspaper in the American sense, at all. It is the central organ in California of the international gangsters in the Communist Party.

Subversive organizations have been greatly aided in carrying out their international conspiracy in this country by the laxity of our laws, designed to curb treason and foreign espionage. Law-enforcement agencies are the hated enemy of subversive groups. They constantly carry on a campaign for the purpose of discrediting all agencies of government created to check on subversive groups.

The successful sabotage of European democracies by these international gangsters, has caused our national government to invoke the services of the G-Men in the Department of Justice, in order to ascertain the extent of plans for sabotage or overthrow of the American Government. The FBI under Mr. J. Edgar Hoover is a department of which every American is proud. Nothing could be more reassuring to patriotic Americans than knowing that the G-Men are on the trail of the international gangsters working here in America. On the other hand, nothing could strike more fear into the hearts of subversive elements than being cognizant of surveillance by Mr. Hoover's G-Men. In view of these facts, it is not surprising that in recent months, the Communists have embarked upon a scurrilous "smear" campaign, intended to discredit J. Edgar Hoover and the Department of Justice.

"Smear" Methods.

As is usual with these despicable vermin, they are not attacking Mr. Hoover on the grounds that he is checking on subversive activities, but rather they are pretending to see in his work an attack on labor unions. In other words, the subversive groups are once more attempting to hide behind American labor, once more proclaiming that their civil liberties are in jeopardy, once more screaming that constitutional rights are being violated, once more conducting a typical scheming, underhanded "smear" campaign, all of which is planned to do just one thing—that is to carry out the Communist program of "smearing" everyone, and every organization that conducts a fight against their subversive machinations.

Naturally the Communist-controlled SRA union has been called upon to do its part in the "smear Hoover" campaign. The fact that this campaign originated with the Communist Party is not open to doubt. Every piece of Communist literature published in recent months has carried analogous attacks on the FBI. For instance, a May Day pamphlet recently issued from the National Communist Party office in New York said:

" * * * The Bill of Rights is being trampled under foot by the Dies Committee and FBI. Attempts are made to curb and cripple the trade unions. Anti-war fighters, especially the Communists, are being persecuted and jailed."

Another Communist May Day pamphlet written by Lewis Budenz says:

" * * * In Detroit, the plug-uglies of J. Edgar Hoover—who learned his lessons from the strike-breaker and labor spy, William J. Burns—have shown their true, hideous faces."

Patterson Support.

A handbill recently issued by the People's World containing a subscription blank, and urging support of the Patterson slate of convention delegates, listed several reasons for dissatisfaction with the New Deal. One of the acts for which the New Deal was condemned was, "attacks on trade unions by the Department of Justice." The Communist-inspired Patterson slate, in its proposed program, sandwiched in a condemnation of the FBI with the usual sugar-coated proposals calculated to fool the masses of people into following Communist leadership. Another handbill advertising a meeting for the benefit of William Schneiderman, California head of the Communist Party against whom the government has recently taken action, listed as one of the topics of talk: "Are the recent activities of the FBI a menace to American Democracy?" Many other examples of this widespread Communist "smear" campaign, including attacks on the FBI in the People's World, could be cited. It is singular that one of the first to place the Communist "smear" machinery in operation against the FBI was the notorious Communist accomplice, Harry Bridges.

The so-called union to which the SRA staff belongs had done its part in the "smear Hoover" campaign through the bulletins published by it.

In one of these bulletins—along with the ever-recurrent attacks on your committee—the following language appears:

“ * * * California's open shoppers want to break the unions. The Yorty Committee has asked for a membership list of State, County, and Municipal Workers Union and is incensed at the idea that they might not be supplied. Naturally, if these unions give their membership lists to Yorty, they have opened the way to wholesale blacklisting and for the notorious snooping of the FBI. Once material is made available so that governmental agencies can regulate union activities, we are well onto the road to Fascism.”

Deceptive Propaganda.

This Communist propaganda demonstrates again the Communist tactic of hiding behind labor organizations. Both your committee and the FBI have exposed Communists. When these Communists happen to be found working within labor organizations, they always use deceptive propaganda designed to make attacks on their subversive activities appear to be attacks on labor. They always attempt to scare union members by threats of blacklisting, or something else. This is done to convince union members that they must rally to the defense of the subversive elements in order to defend themselves. Such is the Communist program for recruiting support for their policies from those who do not realize for what they are being used. In line with their policy of calling everything they don't like an attack on trade unions, one bulletin issued by this so-called union in the SRA carried the following choice propaganda:

“ * * * It was also brought out that the current drive for the reduction of relief budgets is part of a drive against trade unions. * * * ”

The same tactic was employed in a Communist May Day pamphlet which contained the following:

“ * * * On May Day, we can rally against these assaults on our trade unions. On our banner, we can proclaim: ‘Save the unions! Halt the attack on our organizations!’ In order to put the skids under the trade unions, Washington has carefully prepared the way through the persecution of Communists. * * * The Communists are persecuted for one reason above all: that they are unflinchingly opposed to American entry into this imperialistic war. They are persecuted, further, because thereby the Department of Justice can establish a precedent under which to lay waste the entire labor movement.”

False Peace Stand.

In recent months, the Communists have endeavored to maintain connections with the masses by setting themselves up as the champions for peace. Any thinking person should easily see through this smoke-screen. The Communists are yelling for peace because this offers a convenient method for carrying on propaganda against the Allies and in favor of the Hitler-Stalin Alliance.

They have hit upon a clever slogan, “The Yanks Are Not Coming.” This slogan is being publicized in practically all Communist literature just as is the attack on the FBI. Under the guise of a demand for peace, the Communists are fighting the American preparedness program which has the support of all informed and patriotic Americans. The subversive groups want to keep America weak. They would like to see us fall prey to the Hitler or Stalin war-machines. They would like to see us unable to defend ourselves if attacked by their international gangster cohorts. They would like to keep us unable to prevent sabotage perpetrated from the inside. They would like to see America make the same mistake, that many nations of Europe made, when they sought peace through unpreparedness.

Unfortunately many Americans are today being fooled by the fake peace propaganda of the Communists. As part of their program the Communists are carrying on a vicious attack against President Roosevelt in which they condemn him for being more friendly to the Allies than to Hitler. As usual, the Communists pretend to see in the realistic and necessary American preparedness program, an attack on labor unions. In fact, this subversive group, which has reduced lying and deception to a fine art, can be expected to find an attack on labor unions in most anything. So the "Yanks Are Not Coming" and "Stop Roosevelt's War Policies" are being added to the current slogans of the international gangsters.

In the People's World handbill favoring the Patterson slate referred to above, among the charges against the New Deal are the following:

"* * * Tremendous boost in war appropriations; sale of military secrets and airplanes to Allies; Roosevelt administration no longer neutral—assists Allies."

If Stalin and Hitler were being assisted they would not complain.

Cripple Legitimate Unions.

An official Communist May Day circular offers a fine example of propaganda condemning American aid to Finland, and showing the utilization of the slogan, "The Yanks Are Not Coming" by this group:

"* * * Under the hypocritical slogans of 'Neutrality' and 'Aid to the Democracies' by methods short of war, big business and the Roosevelt government have lifted the arms embargo, and turned America into an arms factory for the Allies, opposing the ending of war, and doing everything in their power to spread it. Through this and similar measures such as loans to Finland and the Scandinavian countries, through diplomatic intervention and other aid to the Finnish White Guards, American Imperialism has already taken a long step towards dragging the American people into war. * * * Attempts are being made to curb and cripple the trade unions. Anti-war fighters, especially the Communists, are being persecuted and jailed. * * * The workers organized in the CIO, AFL, and Railroad Brotherhoods, the young people through the American Youth Congress, the toiling farmers and the negro people through the militant organizations, are daily expressing their opposition to the war and hunger program. The slogan, "The Yanks Are Not Coming" has become the rallying cry of millions."

A strikingly similar combination of the slogan, "The Yanks Are Not Coming" with the anti-Finnish propaganda is contained in a SCMWA bulletin. This bulletin also contains the typical Communist propaganda against the Allies. It says:

"* * * 'The Yanks Are Not Coming' was the slogan selected by the 117 official delegates from 53 counties. * * * Britain and France's encouragement of the invasions of China, Ethiopia, Albania, Czechoslovakia, and Poland, and their nonintervention in Spain, indicates that the ruling classes are not particularly interested in maintaining Democracy. The recent great amount of propaganda about Finland and the contributions of Italy, England, and other nations of planes and credits to that nation, did not stem from love of Democracy but from the desire of capitalist nations to provoke a war against the Soviet Union, a socialist nation."

SRA Communists.

The Communist group in SRA has flooded the State offices with propaganda following the Communist Party line. In fact, the State Relief Administration has apparently become a spearhead of the entire Communist propaganda campaign in California. This phase of the so-called union's activity will be considered again below.

SECTION II.

The chameleonic Communist Party line oft-times results in a change of immediate policy, but the long time objective, namely, the setting up of a dictatorship, never changes. The necessity of making changes to coordinate with new policies of Soviet Russia is a great handicap to the Communist Party consistency. During the years when the Communists regarded the Nazis as enemies of Soviet Russia, they propagandized against the Nazis and organized groups such as the Hollywood Anti-Nazi League through which to carry on such activity. The "People's World" and other organs of the Party during this period could not think of vile enough names to call Adolph Hitler. In an official Los Angeles County Communist publication issued in commemoration of the Twentieth Anniversary of the Los Angeles County Communist organization, and written before the Hitler-Stalin Pact, the following statement appears:

"* * * In the name of the Communist Party of the United States, Earl Browder and William C. Foster, general secretary and chairman, respectively, have written to President Roosevelt and to all members of the Congress of the United States, pledging the Party support of President Roosevelt's peace policies as approved by the majority of the American people."

At another point in the same publication, it says:

"* * * In this period of war crisis, when Hitler and the Munichmen are spreading their hideous destruction, the military defense of our country becomes a key factor for national security."

The program of the Communists as set forth in this publication listed as its 12th plank the following:

"* * * Full official city and county support of President Roosevelt's Peace Policy of Collective Security, cooperation of all local law-enforcement bodies with Federal services for detection and prosecution of all agents and spies of Nazi, Japanese, and other Fascist governments in local aircraft and fishing industries."

The ink was hardly dry on this publication when the Hitler-Stalin Pact was signed. During their campaign against the Nazis, the Communists had believed that Soviet Russia would conclude a pact with the Allies against Hitler. When the world was stunned by the agreement between Hitler and Stalin, the Communists fumbled for several days without knowing how to explain the unexpected turn of events calling for the formulation of an entirely new party line.

Stalin Nazi Switch.

Stalin had given Hitler the assurance he needed against attacks from the East, in order to make it possible for him to start his campaign of destruction against the Scandinavian countries and the small republics to the West. In explaining their change of attitude toward the Nazis, after the pact was signed, the Communists reached the zenith of hypocrisy. The Russian Commissar of Foreign Affairs in addressing the Supreme Soviet of the USSR, said:

" * * * It is our duty to think of the interests of the Soviet people, the interests of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics * * *. Only when it became clear to us that the German government desired to change its foreign policy so as to secure an improvement in the relations with the USSR, was the basis found for the conclusion of a Soviet-German Non-Aggressive Pact. Everybody knows that during the last six years, ever since the Nationalist Socialists (Nazis) came into power, political relations between Germany and the USSR have been strained * * *. Exposing the hullabaloo raised in the British, French, and American press about Germany's plans for the seizure of the Soviet Ukraine, Stalin said, 'It looks as if the purpose of this suspicious hullabaloo was to incense the Soviet Union against Germany, to poison the atmosphere and to provoke a conflict with Germany without any visible ground.' * * * We have always stood for amity between the peoples of USSR and Germany for the growth and development of friendship between the peoples of the Soviet Union and the German people. * * * Is it really difficult to understand that the USSR is pursuing and will continue to pursue its own independent policy, based upon the interests of the peoples of the USSR and only their interests? * * * This Pact not only eliminates the menace of a war with Germany, narrows down the zone of possible hostilities in Europe, and serves thereby the cause of universal peace; it must open to us new possibilities of increasing our strength."

No greater batch of lies was ever concocted by the Stalinists than those used in their attempt to justify the Hitler-Stalin Pact, and the changes in their propaganda and policies, made necessary thereby. It is difficult to imagine such a brazen liar as was Stalin when he accused Americans of trying to provoke war between Russia and Germany. The fact of the matter was, that his gangsters in this country were busy conducting Nazi campaigns because they feared a possible plan of Adolph Hitler to drive to the East, which drive was described, by Hitler, in his book, "Mein Kampf," and which was most certainly not an invention of the American press, as claimed by Stalin.

Molotov's Lies.

Hypocrisy, Communist style, bristles also in Molotov's claim that the Communists always stood for friendship between Germany and Russia. Molotov told the truth when he mentioned the previously existing strained relations between Russia and Germany. It was obviously these strained relations that caused the Stalinists in this country to carry on an anti-Nazi campaign in the interests of the Soviet Union. It was the end of these strained relations, and the Hitler-Stalin Pact, that caused the Stalinists in America to completely change their position by commencing attacks against American preparedness measures, and also by condemning as "unneutral," those who continued to denounce Hitler, just as the Stalinists did before the pact. This change of policy on their part was brought about solely in the interest of the Stalinist dictatorship even though such interest is directly adverse to the national safety of this country. Molotov lied again when he said the pact was in the interest of universal peace. He knew that the real purpose of the pact was to give Hitler the protection he needed in the East, to permit him to turn his destructive efforts in another direction.

The awkward change of the Communist policy in this country brought about by the Hitler-Stalin Pact is also exemplified in their change of heart relative to Federal investigation of Nazi and Fascist spies. Since the pact has made the Communist and Nazi termites in this country part of the same "fifth column," they now stand together in a campaign to smear the counter-espionage work of the FBI which the Communists themselves advocated before the pact. All of these examples add to the abundance of evidence, showing that the allegiance of the Communist Party members is not to the United States. They demonstrate the danger and the foolishness involved in permitting such foreign directed agents to carry on their poison propaganda under the cloak of official positions in the State Relief Administration. They show the impossibility of relying upon their stated or pretended intentions in determining the real nature of their program.

Not long ago, the Communists carried on an extensive campaign in favor of lifting the embargo on the shipment of arms to Loyalist Spain, giving as their reason the fact that a small nation was being invaded by outside forces. But when the United States proposed to help Finland and to lift the embargo on shipments of arms to the Allies, the Communists scurried to form peace councils for the purpose of denouncing everyone as "unneutral" who advocated the same changes in the Statutes which the Communists advocated before the Hitler-Stalin pact.

Compulsory Military Training.

Another example of Communist hypocrisy is their attitude toward compulsory military training in the United States. In the official history of the party, referred to above, describing some of the measures taken by the Bolsheviks in Russia after they seized power, the following appears:

* * * * Therefore the Congress considered it the fundamental task of the Party (Communist) to adopt the most energetic and resolute measures to strengthen the self-discipline and discipline of the workers and peasants, to prepare the masses for self-sacrificing defense of the Socialist Country, to organize the Red Army and to introduce universal military training."

It is quite apparent that the Communists advocate military training for Russians because they want Russia to be strong. They denounce military training in America because they want America to be weak.

The Communists are now condemning American foreign policy as "imperialistic." The proposal of some United States Senators that we purchase certain islands near the Canal Zone is labeled "an imperialistic scheme" by the Stalinists. The sale of arms to the Allies is condemned as a program of the American Imperialists. The United States is placed on their list of hated imperialistic nations. As an indication of what might be expected from Communists in this country in case we were compelled to defend ourselves against Stalin or his pal, Hitler, one needs only to turn again to the official history of the Communist Party for a statement of its attitude toward what it terms, "an imperialistic country." It should also be borne in mind that the United States is classed as a bourgeois nation in Communist terminology.

The official history says:

"In opposition to the Menshevik and Socialist Revolutionary policy of defending the bourgeois fatherland, the Bolsheviks (Stalinists) advanced a policy of 'the defeat of one's own government in the imperialist war.' This meant voting against war credits, forming illegal revolutionary organizations in the armed forces, supporting fraternization among the soldiers at the Front, organizing revolutionary actions of the workers and peasants against the war, and turning these actions into an uprising against one's own imperialist government * * * Lenin held that the policy of working for the defeat of one's own imperialist government must be pursued not only by the Russian revolutionaries, but by the revolutionary parties of the working class in all the belligerent countries * * * The Bolshevik Party (Communist) was the only proletarian party which remained faithful to the cause of socialism and internationalism and which organized civil war against its own imperialist government."

Since the United States is now called Imperialistic, these quotations may be the basis for determining what the Communist policy might be in case this country faced a crisis. Along this line, the following quotation from the official history is also indicative:

"Lenin always taught that without a revolution of the working class, capitalism can not be overthrown; therefore, while defining imperialism as moribund capitalism, Lenin at the same time showed that 'Imperialism is the eve of the social revolution of the proletariat.' "

Let persons who scoff at and ridicule the fight against Communism in America consider well these expressions of policy recommended for Communists engaged in sabotaging their own nations. The Communists in America, with their dreams of themselves at the head of a Communist dictatorship in America, may be laughed at now by persons who fail to comprehend their insidiousness, but in case of a crisis in America, those who today ridicule anti-Communist activities will find that their apathy to duty has actually aided the activities of traitorous international gangsters.

Army, Navy Threatened.

It is well known that Stalinists in America are today attempting to extend vicious activity into our army and navy. Some of this terming is on the west coast. The Legislature will remember that William J. Plunkert was appointed by Governor Olson to a position as Deputy State Relief Administrator immediately after the Olson Administration came into power. Plunkert then commenced a Communist Program in the State Relief Administration and only a storm of protests caused the Governor to dismiss him from the State service. Almost immediately after this dismissal, Plunkert became field representative for an organization similar to the SRA union. It is called the United Federal Workers of America. Its purpose is to organize federal employees. In a bulletin issued by this organization on November 29, 1939, the Communist activities of Mr. Plunkert are made apparent under the heading "Field Representatives Report," where it is stated:

"W. J. Plunkert just came back from a trip to Oregon and Washington (State). In Oregon, the WPA State Administrator sent out official notices that he was in town and would speak. The same thing happened at Bonneville Dam and in Seattle. Organization is proceeding at Bremerton Navy Yard, where there are 7,000 federal employees."

Here we have a known Communist reporting on organizing work among our armed forces. This Stalinist, during the period he was with the State, was able to start much of the SRA infiltration that still exists. He offers a good example of the type of official that this administration had permitted to find a place in the State Relief Administration. The interest of this man in gaining a place in the SRA should be apparent from his present activities. Although he is gone, the SRA is still loaded with Bill Plunkerts. They are effectively carrying on the work in which he was so interested.

Communist Gangsters.

It cannot be emphasized too often that the Stalinists in America are a disciplined army of international gangsters. Their immediate policies change in accordance with desires of Dictator Stalin. Their plans do not call for actual seizure of power until they are prepared, and assured of a fair chance of success. This strategy also is outlined in the official history where they say:

"The Bolshevik Party was opposed to armed action at that time, for it considered that the revolutionary crisis had not yet matured, that the army and the provinces were not yet prepared to support an uprising in the capitol, and that an isolated and premature rising might only make it easier for the counter-revolutionaries to crush the vanguard of the revolution."

Let no one suppose that because the Communists are not uprising now, that they are not planning, preparing, and awaiting the opportune moment to strike at the foundations of American liberty.

An analysis of the changes in Communist strategy brought about by the Hitler-Stalin pact tends to explain some of the queer political maneuvering that has taken place recently in the United States and in California. It is clear that before the pact, the Stalinists were able to screen their activities quite well since their foreign policy seemed to favor the Allies, just as did the overwhelming majority of the people of the United States. Therefore, by supporting American foreign policy and joining in with all groups advocating economical reforms of any kind, the Stalinists were able to fool many people into believing them to be genuinely interested in progressive measures. Their strategy of joining with American progressive groups in a "united front" made them less obvious than they would be if engaged in advocating a program of their own. In the 1938 elections, the Communist Party stated its strategy in the following words:

"Wherever an honest progressive is running against a reactionary in the final elections, the Communist Party withdraws its candidates and works for the election of the progressive—but when the only candidate of the two major parties is an arch-reactionary—the Communist Party will keep its candidate in the field and will work toward the defeat of the reactionary."

This was the strategy being carried out by the Communists who, without invitation, proclaimed themselves supporters of candidates representing the so-called liberal wing of the Democratic Party. By this strategy, they hoped to legitimate themselves to a degree and to gain influence in liberal circles, preparatory to use of the entire liberal movement as a shield against attacks upon them. This strategy worked very well before the Hitler-Stalin Pact and is successful in some degree even today. But the pact did place the Communists in an embarrassing position. They were forced to attempt to justify it while the American liberals with whom they had joined were condemning it, and as if that were not enough, they were soon forced to justify the Russian invasion in Finland, while the President of the United States and the liberals with whom they had joined were denouncing it. Then on top of it all, they were forced to lend encouragement to foreign marauders by fighting a preparedness program calculated to give the United States sufficient strength to resist any possible foreign aggression.

At the same time, their resolutions favoring the third term for Roosevelt had to be hurriedly rescinded because of his condemnation of both the Russian and German aggressions. The Communists who had called everybody a reactionary who opposed the third term, had to start calling everybody a reactionary who favored it. All of these political gymnastics served to expose the international aspect of their program and to lose for them the respect they had built up during the period of the operation of their successful "united front" traps.

"United Front" Traps.

In striving to drag the non-Communist elements among the "united front" groups over to the changed Communist policy, they cracked the "united front" wide open, and gradually isolated, and exposed themselves, to a greater and greater degree. Now, unable to work harmoniously with either the Republican Party or the Democratic Party, the Stalinists face the necessity of forming a new party which they can manipulate while remaining in the background. Apparently they are trying desperately to use Labor's Non-Partisan League as the basis for such a Communist vehicle.

In the Communist Party Manual on Organization under the heading "Allies of the Proletariat," appears the following:

"The chief strategic aim of our Party in the present period is to win the majority of the working class in their struggle against capitalism. This is an essential condition for victory over the bourgeoisie, and for preparing the workers for the decisive battles for the dictatorship of the proletariat.

The revolutionary overthrow of the capitalist system is the historical mission of the working class but the workers cannot fulfill their mission if they fail to win over the wide sections of the toiling masses. It is essential that the proletariat wins to its cause all its allies without whom there cannot be a successful revolution.

Who are the allies of the working class? The open letter adopted by the Central Committee in July, 1933, very clearly answers this question: * * * The main task of the Party in its work among the agrarian toilers is above all, the organization of the agricultural wage workers, organizing them into the trade unions and the Party, organizing and leading strikes of the agricultural workers for better wages and working conditions. Such strikes in many places have played an important part in the development of the farmer's movement. * * * The other important ally of the American proletariat is the mass of 13,000,000 negro people. * * * The Party can stand at the head of the national revolutionary struggle of the negro masses against American Imperialism only if it energetically carries through the following tasks: The Party must mobilize the masses for the struggle for equal rights of the negroes and for the right of self-determination for the negroes in the black belt."

Communist utilization of youth groups is described in the official history in the following words:

"The Congress Communist adopted a resolution on the youth leagues, which, at that time, frequently sprang up spontaneously. As a result of the Party's subsequent efforts, it succeeded in definitely securing the adherence of these youth organizations, which became a reserve of the party."

Little need be said to informed Americans about success of Communists in taking advantage of the depression to indoctrinate American youth.

Lewis Involved.

In view of the above plan of Communist strategy, it is interesting to note that John L. Lewis recently took the lead in threatening to form a third party with its initial membership based upon a uniting of the very groups listed by the Communists as their potential allies in the movement toward revolution. Lewis announced that he had obtained the support of the National Negro Congress. Shortly thereafter, the President of the National Negro Congress refused to stand for reelection. He gave as his reason, the fact that the National Negro Congress was accepting contributions from the Communist Party and that he felt such contributions would cause the Communists to dominate the organization. Lewis also announced that he had obtained the support of certain of the youth groups for his plan. These are the youth groups that so openly disclosed their Communist sympathies in a recent convention.

One should not overlook the fact that the Communist-controlled Workers Alliance is already affiliated with Labor's Non-Partisan League, and is therefore, part of the basis for the third party which Mr. Lewis has threatened to form. The agricultural workers, described by the Communists as their necessary allies, remain to be organized and recruited. To do this job in California is the task of the Communists in the State Relief Administration who, under the cloak of SRA, have found their way into communities all over California. Intense propaganda work is being carried on by these State employees who form a part of the Stalin army of international termites.

Professional Revolutionists.

The Communists call the more advanced comrades professional revolutionists. They are described in the party manual in the following language:

"Comrade Lenin in his writings always stressed the necessity of developing a core of comrades from among the best tested, mass leaders, to such a point that they would be able to serve the proletariat as trained, skilled revolutionary leaders. There is a misconception in the ranks of the Party as to what a professional revolutionist, in the Leninist sense, is. Some are of the opinion that a professional revolutionist is a comrade whom the Party takes out of the factory and assigns as a full-time functionary; in other words, that the Party organization supports him while he spends all his time on Party work. This notion is wrong.

The professional revolutionist is a highly developed comrade, trained in revolutionary theory and practice, tested in struggles, who gives his whole life to the fight for the interests of his class. A professional revolutionist is ready to go whenever and wherever the Party sends him. Today, he may be working in a mine, organizing the Party, the trade unions, leading struggles; tomorrow, if the Party so decides, he may be in a steel mill; the day after tomorrow, he may be a leader and organizer of the unemployed."

The day after tomorrow has arrived for many of the professional revolutionists working in the outlying areas of California, ostensibly as employees of the State Relief Administration but in reality, as part of the disciplined Stalinist army of agitation, determined to capture the support of agricultural workers for the Communist conspiracy against American liberty. The parts of the plan fit together perfectly. The present movement for a third party based upon the Communist outline, is summed up in a Communist May Day pamphlet which says:

"The time is rotten ripe for an independent political expression of the common people through the initiative of progressive labor. Earl Browder, General Secretary of the Communist Party, has said—and said correctly: 'The issue before the American masses today is not the third term, but the third party.'"

The Communists are today finding themselves exposed by their necessary fidelity to the rapidly changing whims of Comrade Stalin, Czar of all the Communists. In California, upon finding themselves in this position, and thus unable to continue to work as Democrats, they were recently forced to arrange for the filing of an independent slate of Democratic Convention delegates, nominally pledged to Lieutenant Governor Ellis E. Patterson—a slate which used as its slogan one borrowed directly and totally from an official Communist May Day pamphlet which said in part:

“We, the working people, must promote the building of a new mass party of the people—a broad peace party that will fight for us—only through such an anti-imperialist people’s front and party—can we best advance our fight for JOBS, SECURITY, DEMOCRACY, AND PEACE.”

Communist May Day circular also said:

“Not a man, not a cent, not a gun for the imperialist war and military preparations.”

The Patterson slate throw-away sheet said under the heading of “Peace, Not War”:

“More men, no arms—no loans to foreign powers. Stop intrigue leading us into war.”

Many similar statements used by the Patterson slate can be traced directly to Communist propaganda. The overwhelming rebuke given the Patterson group by the people of California may cause the California strategists to endeavor to work out some policy to substitute for the “independent action” plan which proved so disastrous from the standpoint of votes. But even at that, the Communists need not feel too down-hearted. Their slate did get some 50,000 votes in the State. As a speaker on the “People’s World” radio program put it:

“Our slate may have been defeated but we proved we had 50,000 loyal and socially conscious voters in California.”

Dangerous “Fifth Column.”

Every Californian should ponder this consoling statement addressed to California’s fifth column, 50,000 termites, or even 25,000 could succeed in doing an inconceivable amount of sabotage if this country were attacked. Of course, all persons who voted for the Patterson slate were not Communists. Many were, no doubt, fooled into voting for it. But one thing is certain, all of Mr. Stalin’s army of Communists in California did vote for the Patterson slate since it was a direct reflection of their change to a third party strategy.

The Stalinists working in the SRA and operating through the so-called union are a valuable bulwark of the party. Headed by Comrade Jeffery, they have lost no time in starting to employ the usual Communist tactics of lies, deception, and constant agitation. Their bulletins have fed a stream of Communist propaganda to the entire SRA staff. Their infiltration in all parts of California has given them contact with the unemployed all over the State.

In usual Communist fashion, they have never hesitated to show their contempt for the government of California. With great bravado, they have threatened the Olson administration and forced it to back-water on occasion after occasion. Like all Communist-led groups, their word is worth nothing. For example, in a pamphlet issued by the Washington headquarters of this so-called union, the "State, County, Municipal Workers of America affiliated with the CIO" under a program listing the aims of the union, appears the following:

"These aims shall be accomplished by means of legislation, negotiation, and education. Strikes and picketing shall be deemed a violation of the policies of this organization."

But this statement of policies was like all Communist statements—no more reliable than those who made it. Everyone now knows that this so-called union resorted to picketing of the State Building and SRA offices in typical Communist fashion the moment it had a grievance against the State. To further make a sheer mockery of the statement of the policy of the national organization of which it is a part, the so-called union even made a motion picture of its own demonstrations which it named, "Picket" and described as a picture of "the largest white-collar picket line in San Francisco's labor history."

Rowdy SRA Staffs.

Of course, all Communist-led demonstrations called for the use of songs, so the members of the relief administration staff were called upon to sing songs while demonstrating outside of State offices. Some of these songs were the same as those sung by Communist-controlled Workers Alliance gangs that marched on the State Capitol this year. Some of these songs typifying the rowdy attitude of staff members who follow the Communist Program are set forth below:

SING IT PRETTY:

Tie a Can to Politicians.

(Solidarity Forever)

Oh, they're passing out the gravy
To the phonies and the finks;
If you want our frank opinion,
Confidentially, it stinks.
They're filling key positions
With a gang of missing links
To wreck the SRA.

Chorus—

Tie a can to politicians,
Tie a can to politicians,
Tie a can to politicians,
And save the SRA.

Oh, they're shooting craps with Phillips,
And they're cutting cards with Call;
They are drinking Yorty's whiskey
And they're calling Hoover "Pal";
The Associated Farmers
Are invited to the ball
To wreck the SRA.

Chorus—

Send a wire to Governor Olson,
Drop a line to Walter Chambers,
Help us stop the politicians,
For a decent SRA.

Come Join the Song.

(Come Join Our Band)

Come join the song
If you're a union member strong;
Let the whole world see
That we have solidarity.
Together we stand,
The strongest union in the land.
One for all and all for one,
We'll stand together
Till our fight is won.

Solidarity Forever.

When the Union's inspiration through the workers' blood shall run,
There can be no power greater anywhere beneath the sun;
Yet what force on earth is weaker than the feeble strength of one?

But the Union makes us strong.

Solidarity forever!

Solidarity forever!

Solidarity forever!

The Union makes us strong.

In our hands is placed a power greater than the hoarded gold,
Greater than the might of armies magnified a thousand-fold.

We can bring to birth the new world with the ashes of the old.

For the Union makes us strong.

Chambers Is Having a Heck of a Time.

(Mademoiselle of Armentieres)

Chambers is having a heck of a time,

Parley Vous;

Chambers is having a heck of a time,

Parley Vous;

Chambers is having a heck of a time,

Trying to break our picket line,

Hinky Dinky Parley Vous.

Chambers gave us a run-around,

Parley Vous;

Chambers gave us a run-around,

Parley Vous;

Chambers gave us a run-around,

But we got off and went to town,

Hinky Dinky Parley Vous.

SRA Unionists Arrogant.

No State administration with the slightest regard for maintenance of the dignity of government would have tolerated for a minute the insubordinate and arrogant attitude of the leaders of the so-called SRA union. No administration, not forced by unseen fetters to tolerate the threats of this pressure gang, could conceivably have permitted them to openly defy it. As an example of how this gang was permitted to carry on ridiculous activities within the SRA, the following random quotations are taken from some of their bulletins:

DAY OF RECKONING IMMINENT.

Meanwhile the State CIO and LNPL (Labor Non-Partisan League) are completing plans for a showdown with Governor Olson on immediate adjustment of our grievances; the rescinding of layoffs and the reinstatement of dismissed union members.

HERE WE GO AGAIN.

The Governor of the State of California has demonstrated his bad faith with 3,000 members of the SCMWA, the entire labor movement, and the people who elected him to office, it was stated here today by members of the District Executive Board of SCMWA * * * If the word of the Chief Executive is no good, then upon whom can we depend? The union's program supplies the answer—WE CAN DEPEND ONLY UPON THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE AND WE MUST REACH THEM.

KEEP IN MIND THAT THE RECENT ACTION OF THE ECONOMY-MINDED LEGISLATURE HAS THREATENED MANY OF OUR HARD-FOUGHT GAINS. IT REQUIRES THE UNITED AND VIGOROUS SUPPORT OF EACH AND EVERY MEMBER OF OUR LOCAL TO HOLD FAST TO OUR ACHIEVEMENTS.

THE UNIONS DEMAND TO MEET WITH A RESPONSIBLE SRA REPRESENTATIVE:

Mr. Chambers agreed to meet with the union members on a weekly basis until the authority and functions of the SRA Board of Personnel Standards and Appeals has been further clarified * * * The more than detailed plans are under way for a campaign of pressure, including a systematic series of news releases being compiled by the Newspaper Guild, a law suit in preparation by CIO attorneys, and a series of radio programs.

IT SHOULD BE CLEAR TO ALL SRA WORKERS THAT THE SCMWA CAN, AND WILL, CARRY ON AN EFFECTIVE FIGHT FOR THE PROTECTION AND RIGHTS OF SRA WORKERS.

The following bulletin of this so-called union is so typical of its attitude that it is reproduced here in its entirety:

SCMWA Carried Layoff Fight To—GOVERNOR OLSON
Bulletin To All SCMWA Locals.

Everything's in good faith, said the Gov to the press, so SCMWA is laughing up its sleeve. Not that it's so funny. It just means that the Union has (apparently) got the runaround again and this time it's a real fancy high-type runaround from the highest official in the State, Governor Culbert L. Olson, the man we fought for and campaigned for and saw elected on a progressive people's platform in 1938—remember?

OKAY, GOV, YOUR DEAL.

The Governor got into Los Angeles yesterday from his Palm Springs hideout and immediately announced that he would be happy to meet with SCMWA and discuss our problems. So we went in good faith to arrange for an audience. But the Governor wasn't the same man today that made expansive statements to the press yesterday. Ho, ho, said the Gov, meet with a negotiating committee? That's a laugh. I might as well be the administrator. Tell you what I'll do boys, I'll come out and give a speech to your whole picket line.

OUR DEAL, GOV, TRUTH IS TRUMPS.

Sure, we said, that'll be dandy. Then you can tell the press and the people on the street, and the whole world what a swell liberal you are and how busy you are carrying out the program (like telling the Legislature the SRA absolutely, positively, needed 95 million but you'd settle for 66 million—which meant you'd settle for a helluva lot less than 66 million—didn't it, Gov?) anyhow you're happy to entertain any grievances any time, any place, anyhow, but not just now, SCMWA.

THE ONLY ANSWER IS NO.

No soap, Gov. we said. We demand that we negotiate with you as a serious body attempting to get justice for our members out of a situation that is completely devoid of justice. You can save the speeches for the National Convention. We are only concerned with the bread and butter of 6,000 clerical and professional workers in SRA. We are not interested in politics. We are only interested in sane and just SRA personnel policy and procedure.

WE DEMAND SOMETHING.

Your Administrator has proven himself incapable of administration. The SRA Board of Standards and Appeals to which you refer us is an evasive nonconvening body which, by its acts, proves that it has no intention of abiding by its word. We come to you only because we find no one in SRA with whom we can negotiate as a final authority.

SUMMING UP.

So that's the Governor's offer and that's SCMWA's rejection. We demand that the Governor hear us or appoint someone who will. We will not accuse the Governor of bad faith until he, by his own actions and statements has made himself open to such charges. But we demand a place of final authority and we don't mean the SRA Board of Personnel S. and A. or the Relief Commission and we'll keep up our picket line until and unless we get such an audience.

SCMWA MEETS OLSON.

TUESDAY, MARCH 19, 1940.

Finally we get a meeting with Governor Olson. And what a meeting. At least it served as an eye-opener for some of the 150 SCMWA members who were there. The meeting opened with Chapman outlining why we were there. The Governor wanted to know what our grievances were that we couldn't get adjusted and we gave him a few examples. He actually opened his remarks by waving a big fat case record around and staging this was too much work and not related to determining whether a person was eligible for unemployment relief. Page: Elimination of Social Service. The Governor then went into a tirade about his liberalism and his "program" and how the administration must be staffed with people who were in "sympathy" with his program. Furthermore they must have people who were "loyal" to him and his program and he couldn't stand for any opposition. Stated that he would fire "every union member" if necessary. Anyone who opposes must be fired if he is a member of SCMWA or California State Employees Association or whatnot."

The meeting in toto was a complete verification of our charge that Chambers does not have authority to administer the program. At one point Chapman said "why, Chambers doesn't even have the authority to 'spit out the window'" and this was not denied by Olson. Of course, our main demand was that Olson instruct Chambers and the Board that we are to negotiate with Chambers and get answers from him. At the mention of "negotiate" Olson hit the ceiling. NEGOTIATE? "That's the wrong attitude." We should send in our "constructive suggestions" and allow the administrator to do what he saw fit with them. "He's the administrator, isn't he?"

When we told him that we didn't want to be shoved off onto this damn Board he wanted to know what we'd do if he decided that we should be to which we replied that we would continue to fight and take this thing to the public. "And support the recall?" demanded Olson, to which we gave no answer.

The Gov. obviously didn't understand what we were talking about. At one point we were reiterating and pointing out what good trade union points these were (after he had just tried to bait us into stating we spent more time on politics than anything else) which brought forth a tirade about what a great trade union man he is, and had been for years. He also wanted to know how many of those assembled had been taken on during the last year—to which question about one-third raised their hands. "That's pretty good," says the Gov. A member present made some statement about there not being the mess there is today if the Administration hadn't "been piddling for the last year." This, of course, riled the Governor.

At the end we made it very clear that we were not satisfied with the runaround that he was giving us, but that if we could get an answer immediately that would be O. K. We also agreed to get to him with the list of our grievances we desire to take up immediately. We issued press releases stating the meeting was wholly unsatisfactory, that the Governor was demanding "blind faith" and that he is motivated by the one desire (apparently) to have relief administered by good, needy Democrats.

WE'LL FIGHT IF IT TAKES ALL SUMMER.

SCMWA pickets and mass demonstrations in Los Angeles resulted in the audience with Governor Olson. Today (Wednesday) San Francisco SCM WA'ers start picketing. Tomorrow we hope to see Oakland hit the line.

WE WILL TAKE OUR FIGHT TO THE PEOPLE OF CALIFORNIA—

WE'RE FIGHTING.

SAN FRANCISCO NEWS (MARCH 20, 1940)

Los Angeles, March 20.—Governor Olson promised members of the State, County and Municipal Workers of America today that he would appoint a person or committee to negotiate with them on their demands for reinstatement of dismissed State Relief Administration employees.

Another bulletin describes how 250 persons descended upon Walter Chambers en masse in order to bring pressure to bear on him. It says under the heading "Who Did It":

"You can thank the SCMWA—as you probably know, we had a 'little' meeting with Walter Chambers Thursday noon—only 250 strong, members from all over Los Angeles County, come to see justice done, insisting that layoffs be made on a fair basis. What a thrill.

There were newspaper reporters there, and photographers, and stenographers, and division heads and us. We talked, the administration talked, and we wound up in a meeting a little later with a slightly smaller committee. We gained the points. Thursday night, we held a mass meeting at which 800 people yowled their support of our program in no uncertain terms. Friday, we met practically all day with the Administration, and the result—glance at these victories and quit worrying about being laid off without a sound reason.

The evaluations (which, incidentally, have been admitted as being worthless but which we agreed to use because of the shortage of time) will be grouped into 3 categories of efficiency * * *."

Another bulletin containing an attack on your committee also says under the heading, "SCMWA National President Wires Protest to Olson on Alameda Firings":

"President Flaxor last Thursday sent the following wire to Governor Olson: 'Outrageous dismissal of score of seasoned welfare workers from staff of Alameda County office of State Relief Administration who are leading members of our union violates your pledge to end political spoils manipulations and anti-union discrimination in SRA. By breaking pledge you have slapped in the face the clean politics and liberal movements of California. Only immediate re-instatement of these loyal and efficient employees and setting up of an impartial appeals board—which you promised at my meeting with you at your apartment three weeks ago, following earlier dismissals of hundreds of experienced SRA employees to make room for political hacks—can save your administration from the stigma of stabbing the merit system in the back and selling down the river the good government and progressive forces which elected you.'"

Exposure.

If ever the SRA Communists made their intention of building a pressure gang by a combination of relief administrators and clients into a Communist-dominated machine, they did so recently, when they issued a bulletin appealing directly to relief clients for support in their fight to remain on the State payroll. This bulletin also is important enough to warrant inclusion here in its entirety:

STATE, COUNTY AND MUNICIPAL WORKERS OF AMERICA—LOCAL 91
MAY 17, 1940

Mr. Relief Client:

How do you like being kicked around? You are in need and are entitled to speedy and adequate service. Are you getting it? The answer is no!

Alameda County SRA has reached an all time low in efficiency and consideration for the needs of unemployed people. Many needy applicants are being refused help without any good reason. Many checks are late, or short or never come at all. People are forced to wait for weeks before getting their first checks. WPA certifications are delayed.

WHY?

The answer is clear. On April 23rd, a new director, Mr. D. C. Willford, came into Alameda County. In the name of "efficiency" he laid off 30 employees (out of a staff of 275). They included clerks, stenographers, social workers, and most of the supervisors. This brought the total of recently laid off people to nearly 200—out of a staff of 450.

The lay-off of the 30 people not only was done with no regard for what would happen to the relief clients and their families but was also a clear-cut union-busting move. All but one of the thirty were members of the SCMWA Local 91. It included most of the executive board of the union. All were efficient and had years of service.

The reason for this is a plain one. Mr. Willford is acting for Governor Olson in his drive to lower relief standards and prepare for return of relief to the counties. Return of relief to the counties means control of relief by the Associated Farmers and the Republican party. The SCMWA opposes both schemes. Our union has always fought for better—more adequate—more efficient relief, and will continue to do so. Therefore Governor Olson decided to get it out of the way so there would be no opposition to his relief cuts.

Busting our union today means relief cuts for you tomorrow.

We are with you in your fight for adequate relief.

We have been laid off because of this. We ask you to support us in our fight to return to our jobs.

Send cards and letters to Governor Olson, B. C. Willford, Walter Chambers.

Hoodwink the Public.

This bulletin shows clearly the deliberate, planned, intention of the Communists in the State Relief Administration to court the favor of relief clients; to hoodwink them into following the Communist program calling for ever greater demands from the taxpayers; and to eventually cause a breakdown of relief agencies. Nothing could better demonstrate the obvious fact that these SRA Stalinists have no regard for the welfare of the State of California. Instead of doing their jobs, they are using official positions to carry out an organizing campaign directed by the Communist Party. Their attitude toward their work, and the State Government, has caused the shattering of the morale in every office in which they have gained a foothold.

The committee has evidence to show that members of this so-called union were told to slow down, lest by doing too much work, they might keep other persons out of work. This slow-down policy was pursued in spite of the fact that it meant more excessive overhead and consequently less money for the relief clients, for whom the Communists constantly shed crocodile tears.

San Diego an Example.

One of the best examples of the effect of this motley crowd on a relief office was the situation in San Diego County. Director Roe of that county told the chairman of this committee that after getting rid of the Stalinist gang, he felt that he was doing a better job with 70 employees than he had formerly been able to do with 150 employees.

San Diego County is not an isolated example of the effect of Communists on the efficiency and morale of the State Relief Administration. Wherever their so-called union has gained a foothold, the staff has been split into two camps.

In all of the counties where your committee has conducted an investigation, the so-called union crowd have definitely held the upper hand. They have carried on an underhanded campaign to eliminate from the relief administration those who do not approve of their policies. In typical Communist style, the SRA Communists have publicly condemned politics in relief while using every possible political trick to influence relief policies and personnel procedures. In one of their bulletins they, themselves, outline the politics employed by them to keep friendly directors in office. The said bulletin under the heading of "SCMWA Fights Political Intrigue in SRA":

"In cooperation with the CIO and the LNPL, SCMWA has been successful in organizing community pressure to thwart reactionary political forces in the attempt to remove progressive SRA county directors in four counties. Further action to combat these removals was taken by the SCMWA District Council when resolutions were adopted, protesting the proposed changes in Tulare, Fresno, and San Joaquin Counties * * * The Legislative Committee was instructed to prepare educational material on the issue of politics in relief for the use of LNPL and the State CIO. The council condemned any move to replace Directors McGrath, LeFevre and Halloran."

Two of these directors which the SCMWA was so interested in having retained were questioned by your committee. One of them, Mr. LeFevre, had absolutely no social welfare experience; was a director purely and solely because of political connections; and was definitely sympathetic to the Communists. The other one, Mr. McGrath, was proved to be a staunch defender and active accomplice of the Communists working under him in his county. Thus, while using every manner of politics to keep their accomplices in office, the Communist-controlled SCMWA had the unadulterated gall to pretend to oppose politics in relief. In other words, these perpetrators of a despicable political conspiracy to control the State Relief Administration announced themselves as opposed to all politics in relief, when in reality, the only politics they opposed were those that ran counter to their revolutionary machinations.

Pressure Gang Effective.

It goes without saying that, in the face of this political pressure, the administration did actually back down and retain in power the directors defended by the SCMWA. In view of this, how could anyone expect these directors to refrain from juggling evaluations so as to keep the Communists on the pay roll while firing others. After such a demonstration of devotion to them by their comrades, the directors would naturally be expected to reciprocate.

The bulletin quoted above was issued in December, 1939. The so-called union was, at that time, laying the groundwork for its fight against the ouster of Communists working for the State Relief Administration. The strategy of this fight was to confuse non-Communists by leading them to believe that an attack on the real Communists would be detrimental to all liberals whether Communists or not. This is another example of the old tactic employed by the Communists when they claimed that attacks on them were, in reality, attacks on the labor movement behind which they always hide. This same "anti-politics bulletin" says under the heading of "Dies 'Purge' List":

"Regarding this list, well-founded rumors indicate that the administration has obtained, through the Dies Committee, a list of so-called "Reds" in SRA. All union members know exactly what this means. Every liberal person, every trade-unionist, and, for that matter, every honest supporter of the New Deal and of the Governor's Relief Program will be a suspect! This is the blackest form of intimidation, and one which the union will fight to a standstill.

The committee requested either explicit confirmation or denial of the existence of such a list, and asked for a reaffirmation of circular letter No. 18 guaranteeing against discrimination because of political affiliations.

The Administration gave an evasive answer to this question."

It is evident that long before your committee was appointed by the Legislature, the Communists in SRA, through their controlled organization, were laying plans to fight for retention of their comrades in case of exposure. Incidentally, this same bulletin makes the usual complaint against understaffing. The complaint is raised by the SCMWA as part of its campaign to add comrades to the State Relief Administration payroll. Such comrades, by following the so-called "liberal" relief policies, can then justify their addition to the staff by adding to the relief rolls. In this manner both the cost of administration and the cost of relief are increased, and by this method is advanced the Communist policy of adding to relief costs in order to wreck the State Relief Administration.

SRA Wreckage Plan.

Only a professional revolutionist like John E. Jeffrey, well schooled in the art of subterfuge and deception, could have successfully steered the course of SRA wrecking which was plunging the State headlong toward bankruptcy when the Legislature wrested control from the weak and befuddled Olson Administration. In this connection, the Legislature should understand that Jeffrey's comrades who infiltrated into California communities through the SRA, did not confine their activities to that organization only. For instance, in Stockton, one of the Communists, Goodman Brudney, was instrumental in forming the "San Joaquin County Youth Council" through which much Communist activity has been carried on. Mr. Brudney also branched out from his base in Stockton to aid in the forming of a similar "Youth Council" in Sacramento. A great deal of Communist propaganda designed for America's youth is disseminated through groups formed in just this manner, and controlled through the energetic action of Communists, whether they represent the majority in such groups or not.

The Communists brought into Stockton through the State Relief Administration also attempted to capture control of the Young Democrat's organization in that area. Failing in this, they formed a new Young Democrat's club which affiliated with that branch of the Young Democratic clubs, recognized by everyone as being the object of a Communist drive—a drive which only recently has met resistance from many in the organization who were previously hoodwinked by the Communists. The whole plan which the Communists follow in the communities to which they find their way under the cloak of SRA, is so complete and effective and so cleverly screened as to appear almost fantastic to persons not familiar with the intricacy of their conspiracy.

The enthusiasm of the SRA Communists for forming "Youth Councils" was demonstrated in another locality by a lengthy report on such activities contained in a SCMWA bulletin published in Oakland, which said:

"A phenomena of this age is the rising tide of the youth movement in the United States. The fence-building attitude is striking harmonious chords for the young people leaving schools and colleges to find themselves lost in the chaos of other people's backyards. Too many young people are without jobs, are living in substandard homes, are without proper nourishment, find themselves discriminated against by racial or religious reasons. Confronted with problems of youth, left neglected by their elders, we young uns have taken the initiative and throughout the country are organizing to guarantee the security of the future.

The appearance in California of the Model Legislature heralded a wave of the movement which, in the last two years, has swept the State. Now the East Bay has joined in the formation of local youth councils which conducts the work in each community from Legislature to Legislature.

Meeting at the YMCA on November 5 was a group of delegates and visitors which formed itself into the permanent East Bay Youth Council. There were 184 present representing 58 different organizations. Delegates attended from AFL and CIO unions, political groups, church groups, and civil groups.

The program of the conference included a symposium on youth and peace. * * * It was felt by all present that the enthusiastic spirit and determination to carry their plans into definite action augured well for the success of the East Bay Council. * * * Affiliated with this excellent organization is the SCMWA Local No. 91 which has sent delegates, and made a financial contribution, and has continued to be active through representation of the executive committee."

Here, once again, we get a glimpse of the Communist-organizing policy being carried out in the various California communities by SRA members skilled in Communist organizing strategy; directed and disciplined on a state-wide scale by the State headquarters of the Communist party, itself in turn, taking direction from Comrade Stalin, (Zar of all the Communists in the world.

The Youth Legislature for which the SRA staff so energetically organized, was the one that recently held a state-wide meeting at which its sympathies for the Communist party were completely exposed.

The SRA Communists conducted a campaign of vicious lies against the restrictions on relief placed in effect by this session of the Legislature. They even went so far in San Francisco as to attempt to cause a breakdown of that agency when it was involved in adjusting its operations to the Relief Act. Hoping to cause a breakdown through their controlled union, they compelled all members to refrain from working overtime even though they were offered time off in return for such cooperation. They refused to work because, as one of their bulletins put it, they did not want to help "take the Reactionary Legislature off the spot." They obviously felt that a breakdown would reflect adversely upon the judgment of the Legislature.

Browbeat Cooley.

A meeting was arranged by them with the Administrator, Mr Cooley, after which they were able to announce that he had agreed to abolish compulsory overtime, and that he had guaranteed them that they would not be discriminated against for not engaging in overtime work on the special audit then being made. After this meeting, overtime was to be on a voluntary basis but the union ended even this by issuing a bulletin which said:

"Nevertheless, the union, by a majority vote, failed to see the necessity for overtime in this instance even on a volunteer basis.

* * * For this reason, the union decided that, for the protection of those members, it was necessary to take a uniform stand. • • • Union members therefore will not volunteer to work overtime in the current review."

As a result of this refusal to cooperate by the so-called union, the work thrown on the other members of the staff was very heavy. In spite of this, the special audit was completed. The people who completed it will receive no credit for their loyalty in their evaluation ratings since Mr. Cooley agreed with the so-called union not to discriminate against them as a result of their indefensible attitude.

Working through this so-called union, the Communists endeavored to arouse public protest against the restrictions on relief to aliens contained in the present Relief Act. They also sought public support in fighting the three-year residence clause. Naturally, these Communists want to protect the alien element since the aliens offer some of the best subjects for Communist indoctrination. Then, also, the most valuable Communist accomplice in California, Mr. Harry Bridges, happens to be an alien. They also oppose the three-year residence clause. This clause makes infiltration of Communists, desiring to organize here at the taxpayers' expense, more difficult. These restrictions also reduce the cost of relief and are, therefore, ruinous to the Communist's plan of increasing relief cost; so as to bring about eventual bankruptcy and breakdown.

This so-called union showed no regard for the organized workers of California in its attitude toward the Relief Act. It is obvious, that a continued influx of aliens and paupers from other States, would be certain to create an army of unemployed persons, likely to break down labor standards in California, through intense competition for available jobs. Since this influx is desired by the Communists but not by bona fide labor unions, it is obvious that the so-called SRA union was adopting the Communist attitude toward the Relief Act rather than that of a bona fide labor union.

Attack Relief Act.

The SRA Communists also viciously attacked the clean politics provisions of the present Relief Act. These provisions were enacted to restrict pernicious political activity and protect relief recipients against intimidation or coercion by those administering relief. The provisions, however, did more than that. They became an obstacle to the energetic political activity being carried on by the Communists, who had infiltrated into the various parts of the State in order to set up their propaganda organizations. It is interesting to see who the union turned to when it wanted a speaker to discuss the clean politics provisions at one of its meetings. Their own bulletin tells the story. It says:

"Herbert Resner, San Francisco labor attorney and Labor's Non-Partisan League spokesman, Monday evening addressed the regular meeting of the SCMWA, discussing the implications of the little Hatch Bill (clean politics provisions) and the relief measures before the Legislature.

He warned of the danger involved in any attempt to curtail the political liberties of State employees and cautioned his listeners to be on guard against restrictions against their civil and political rights. Labor's Non-Partisan League aims to carry the fight against such discriminatory measures to the highest courts,' declared the labor attorney."

This so-called labor attorney is a notorious accomplice of the Stalinists. He is one of the attorneys that the committee was forced to oust from the hearings in Alameda, where he was directing the defiant demeanor of members of the so-called SRA union, who were summoned before your committee. The stand taken by this Communist-controlled group against the "clean politics" provisions of the relief act demonstrates the utter hypocrisy of their public statements condemning politics in relief.

Communist Direct Strategy.

The Communist-devised strategy followed by members of the so-called union who appeared before your committee and refused to testify, placed them in a very definite class by themselves. All other SRA employees appeared before the committee without counsel; made no complaints about the questions asked by the committee; and all answered the questions frankly and easily. In some cases the Communists failed to tell those whom they influenced, that refusal to testify constituted a crime under the California Penal Code. In cases where they did so advise their group, they assured them that the committee would never cause any of the recalcitrants to be prosecuted. But the Communists were wrong in this. After enduring the defiance of the Communist-influenced staff members with patience through an entire hearing in Alameda, only to find the same defiance in Visalia, the committee felt compelled to take action. Your committee felt called upon to defend the dignity of government against this typical Communist tactic of displaying contempt for that which they would destroy. Charges were brought against one of the SRA Communists in Tulare County. They were based upon his refusal to produce records of the Communist group when ordered to do so by the committee. The committee had evidence that outside money had been obtained to subsidize the activities of the SRA Communists who formed the so-called union in order to screen their activities. The financial records of this group might show the extent to which outside subversive groups contributed to its support. For this reason, the records were subpoenaed by the committee. The Communist financial secretary of the Tulare local of the Senda union was convicted on the charges brought against him by a jury in Visalia. His case is now on appeal. Other charges are pending in Stockton and more will probably be brought in the near future.

The committee feels, that it is necessary, to deal firmly with the Communists and their followers in the SRA, in order to uphold the laws of the State of California and also to force these subversive gangsters to respect the government which they despise. Since the prosecution in Visalia, the SRA Communists have apparently decided to revert to the strategy they first employed in testifying before your committee, namely, that which called for the denying of all Communist affiliations, even in the face of incontrovertible evidence.

Gangsters in Workers Alliance.

Proof of same as previously pointed out, this Communist group has not limited its propaganda activities to the SRA offices. It is carrying its poison propaganda to the unemployed in accordance with directions of the International Gangsters seeking destruction of American Democracy. There is much evidence to show that the Communist staff members cooperate with the Communist-controlled Workers Alliance by encouraging relief applicants to join the alliance. Sometimes this was done openly and sometimes by the dropping of an easily understood hint. The agents of Joe Stalin, Czar of all the Communists, have constructed a propaganda network reaching out to the unfortunate and discontented throughout California, reaching out for the purpose of luring them into Communist organizations where the Communists hope to influence them to follow revolutionary leadership. As an example of the propaganda fed to the unemployed by the Communists, the following quotation from a widely distributed Communist pamphlet is notable. Under the heading, "What Will a Worker's Revolution Achieve?", a glowing picture is painted in these words:

"With the overthrow of capitalism and the introduction of a new social system, a classless society, there would be tremendous changes and almost unlimited possibilities for advancing the welfare of all. While we can not give details in advance of this development, the approximate results would be as follows: (1) The abolition of poverty. (2) The abolition of the mass murder known as war. (3) Tremendous expansion of production through the removal of the obstruction of profit making, the workers having the opportunity of consuming the bulk of what they produce. (4) The disappearance of pauper and unemployment, as in the event of overproduction, the people would simply cut working hours, or take a holiday until consumption overtook production, at least until the surplus was greatly reduced. (5) The elimination of the costs of armies and navies (the burden now paid by the capitalists out of the surplus values exploited from the workers). (6) Enormous reduction in crime through the removal of its main cause, poverty, and consequently a reduction or elimination of police, judges, jails, and other present expenditure. (7) Reduction in general waste such as competitive advertising and other nonessentials."

These are but a part of the many promises held out by Communist agents to the people whom they hope to recruit into their army of destruction. The fact that these promises would never be kept is unimportant to the international gangsters who make them, since once they have seized power, they can proceed as they have in Russia, to stamp out all of the liberties of the people, and to liquidate anyone who dares to object to their tyranny. Americans are unwise who laugh at such promises, underestimating their effect on those who find themselves in unfortunate circumstances, due either to inability or economic conditions. It is foolish to fail to recognize the ability of Communists to attract the discontented, by holding out to them promises which they would never attempt to fulfill even if given the opportunity, by such promises followers are gained. As the Communists themselves say in their 20th Anniversary Booklet:

"* * * The Communist Party of the United States, although a relative small minority party * * * exerts an influence upon public thought far beyond the confines of its membership."

In this publication they described some of their activity in Los Angeles in the following words:

"By 1929, the Party had gained a great deal of experience in various forms of mass work. In 1930, in the midst of the crisis, the party, together with the trade union unity league, organized a huge mass meeting of over 40,000 people at the City Hall on the question of adequate aid to the unemployed. The demonstrators carrying slogans demanding 'Work or Wages' were met by more than the usual array of police and although the demonstration was finally broken up, the prestige of the Party was lifted immeasurably in the eyes of the working people of Los Angeles."

This latter statement bears testimony to the ability of the Communists to take advantage of a crisis in order to enflame masses of people, and to induce them to follow Communist leadership, even though in most cases, the followers do not know who they are following.

Trained to Smear.

Communists are trained in the uses of propaganda. They are experts at "smear" campaigns. In attacking an individual, no lie is too vicious if it serves their purpose. Their "smear" campaign against J. Edgar Hoover; their "smear" campaign against Martin Dies; their "smear" campaign against the members of your committee—all of these and others serve to reveal the web of powerful propaganda contacts which they have spun throughout the United States by a series of steps following the identical pattern now being used in the State Relief Administration.

The SRA rules and procedures are contained in a manual which staff members are instructed to follow. This manual, of course, must be interpreted. Evidence adduced before your committee proves that the number of persons declared eligible for relief can be greatly affected by the particular interpretation placed upon the rules set forth in the manual. The Communist group in the SRA follow what they call a "liberal" policy. In effect, all this means is that they interpret the manual so as to make an applicant eligible for relief if it is possible to do so. Case histories examined by your committee showed lax investigation on the part of those committed to the so-called "liberal" relief policy.

The fact that no rules can be formulated that are not subject to some interpretation, makes it imperative that the administering staff, be composed of persons with an understanding of the relation between the needs of the unemployed, and the ability of the taxpayers to pay the cost of relief. The Communist-influenced group have no appreciation of the burden being borne by the taxpayers of California in order to provide relief to the needy. They completely disregard the fact that many persons paying the cost of relief are, themselves, undergoing almost unbearable privation in order to keep from becoming public charges. The communists condone chiseling. They make no effort to understand that the proper function of relief agency, is to attempt to help people to help themselves, rather than to make them permanently dependent. The effect of the Communist intake policy in execution was well demonstrated in Alameda County where the relief administration was found to be completely dominated by the Communist element. The State Controller's office reported that over-payments to relief clients and chiseling were more extensive in this county than in any other county in Northern California.

Dovetail Moves.

The Communist activity in the SRA "dovetails in" with the Communist program carried out through the Workers Alliance. These two Communist-dominated organizations represent the main organizing and propaganda machines of the Communists in the phase of their work relating to agitation among the unemployed. The State head of the Workers Alliance, Alexander Noral, who directed the recent Workers Alliance march on the Capitol, admitted to the committee as previously stated that he was a member of the Communist Party. According to Communist definitions, Noral would be classed as a professional revolutionary. It is obvious that Noral and Jeffrey, one directing the Communist Program from outside the SRA and the other from the inside, are a pair of professional revolutionaries executing important assignments for the Communist Party. As would be expected the local Workers Alliance Directors in all three of the counties visited by the committee, where Workers Alliance directors were interrogated, turned out to be Communists. These counties were Alameda, San Joaquin, and Tulare. In all of these counties, Communists directed the so-called "grievance committees" which were used to place pressure on the SRA staff to obtain special consideration for members of the Alliance. In some cases, Workers Alliance representatives took relief applicants to the SRA offices and answered all necessary questions for them.

In the SRA offices investigated, Workers Alliance representatives were permitted to assume a certain amount of authority in the arranging of interviews and other SRA work. In Alameda County, Workers Alliance members obtained appointments by telephone through their organization and were interviewed immediately upon arrival at the SRA office at the same time as others who had stood in line all day and were given appointments far in advance. In this particular county, the application form was marked in the upper right-hand corner with a cross mark and the letters W.A. so that the social worker would know he was dealing with a Workers Alliance member. One non-Communist SRA employee testified that Workers Alliance members were treated like honored guests when they called at the SRA office. Naturally, such favoritism was advertised by the Workers Alliance in their drive for members. In this the Communists in the staff cooperated with the Communists in the Workers Alliance to help build that organization.

Money was raised in the State SRA office in Los Angeles to help finance the recent Communist march on the Capitol. Members of the staff in the Alameda office joined in this march, leaving their work to do so. Testimony showed that even the sister of Lieutenant Governor Patterson, a member of the Alameda staff, cooperated in arranging the march to Sacramento. The songs rendered by the Communist-led group that marched on the Capitol were the same as those sung by the SRA staff in their demonstrations. Incidentally, demonstrations by staff members were joined by their Workers Alliance comrades.

The evidence shows that the Workers Alliance, in many cases, arranged to have its members out of town and ahead of other persons. In Tulare, the Communist Workers Alliance representative on one occasion actually walked in and closed the SRA office reception windows; announced that no more applications would be accepted that day; and finally had to be persuaded to leave one window open to care for emergency medical cases. Word has been spread among relief recipients all over California that, if you join the Workers Alliance, you will get what you want. Innumerable examples could be cited showing that Communist staff members have cooperated with the Workers Alliance to lend truth to this assertion.

Admitted Pressure Group.

The State head of the Workers Alliance testified that it was a "pressure" group. He admitted that it collected some $88,000 a year from relief clients in the State. This figure was considerably smaller than the one estimated by the head of the Workers Alliance which was closer to $250,000 a year. Even accepting the figures of Mr. Noral, $88,000 a year from relief clients in the State, this figure was considerably smaller than the one estimated by the head of the Workers Alliance in Tulare, who thought that the income for the Workers Alliance was closer to $250,000 a year. Even accepting the figures of Mr. Noral $88,000 a year, exclusive of outside contributions, is still a sizeable sum with which the Communists can finance a campaign of agitation among the unemployed. The Workers Alliance and the SCMWA are both affiliated with the principal Communist-controlled political group in California, Labor's Non-Partisan League. The unity of purpose between the Communists in the Workers Alliance and the Communists in the SRA staff is evidenced by their joining together in a common political arm, Labor's Non-Partisan League. In the Los Angeles County Communist Anniversary book, is the following statement:

"In 1937, we saw the birth of Labor's Conference for independent political action in which Communists took active part. This was the immediate predecessor of the Labor's Non-Partisan League, founded here in 1938."

The Communist Party guide obtained by your committee also shows clearly the Communist coordination with Labor's Non-Partisan League in this State. In fact, this organization is the spearhead of the Communist activities in the political field. During its early stages, many non-Communists were fooled into joining it, but since the Hitler-Stalin Pact, the changing Communist Party line has caused most of the non-Communists to withdraw any support they may have previously given the organization.

Non-Partisan League.

Labor's Non-Partisan League was one of the leaders in the third term movement until the Communists turned against Roosevelt. When this happened, it hurriedly rescinded its endorsement of the third term, denounced Roosevelt, termed his supporters reactionaries, and placed itself squarely behind the Patterson slate of Democratic Convention delegates. Use of Labor's Non-Partisan League for the launching of a third party based upon a coalition of groups recommended by the Communist Party, is described in another section of this report.

Of the counties investigated by your committee since the Los Angeles hearing, Alameda County was the worse. In this county, even the directors showed such unmistakable sympathies for the Communists as to make it apparent that he was either a Communist himself, or so closely allied with them as to make him indistinguishable from the other Communists. When asked by the committee if he thought it was proper to have Communists working in the State Relief Administration and taking their orders from Communists on the outside, he actually replied: "I could find no fault with it."

This director had no experience in relief administration whatsoever. When he took office, a known Communist, Leonard Fels, was sent in to teach him to perform his duties. He, himself, testified that since the appointment of a relief director in his county was to be political, he felt he was as well qualified to do the job as any other person active in politics in the county.

This director is a good example of the political depths to which the present State administration has stooped in its attempts to use the SRA for politics. To allow this man to administer the SRA office and to countenance the deplorable Communist activity carried on there, constitutes an offense against both the people of Alameda County and the people of the State of California. No more motley crowd of incompetents and Communist hoodlums could be found anywhere than was exposed by your committee in the Alameda SRA office.

Control of SRA Intake.

The Communists always make a special effort to control the "Intake Department" of the SRA office. This is where they can make the most effective contact with the unemployed while carrying out their plan to build up the relief costs with the hope of bankrupting the State and fostering a governmental crisis. In Alameda, Communist control of "Intake" was complete. That Director Gallagher's incompetence was known to the Administration long ago, is evidenced by the fact that he was once actually discharged, but was able at that time to exert enough political pressure to have his discharge countermanded.

In Tulare County, the Director, Harold McGrath, was an experienced social worker, definitely sympathetic to, and an accomplice of, the Communists. He pretended to know nothing whatever about Communism, couldn't say whether it was good or bad, and used a rather poorly feigned ignorance to hide his views from the committee. In the case of McGrath, as in the case of Gallagher, the Administration can not claim that it was unaware of his activities since he, too, was once about to be discharged, but was retained as a result of political pressure, credit for which was taken by the Workers Alliance and the SCMWA. Under McGrath, many Communists were brought into Tulare County from outside. A letter from the personnel files in his office addressed to him by one of the Communist gang, asked him for a position in his county on the grounds that the applicant wanted to work in the vicinity of the farm labor camp. McGrath shows favoritism to the Communist group to such an extent that the non-Communists are made to feel like unwanted outsiders in his office. He has deliberately caused the changing of ratings of his employees in order to fire non-Communists while retaining incompetent Communist hoodlums. The Intake Supervisor in that county is a personal friend of McGrath's whom he has advanced rapidly to that position, thus following directly the Communist strategy for capturing control of "Intake." The "Intake" Supervisor has proven himself incompetent as a social worker but he has the one qualification demanded for the job by the Tulare SRA director, namely, the approval of the Communist Party.

Stockton Condition Deplorable.

Conditions in Stockton present a shocking picture of Communist infiltration. Director Le Fevre was another one of those who feigned ignorance and was unable to say whether Communism was good or bad. Of course, he subscribed to the "People's World" but he couldn't tell from reading it that it was a Communist organ. His testimony clearly showed his sympathies to the Communists. Under his directorship, the County SRA has been made the object of a veritable Communist "blitzkrieg." A group of young Reds, many of them from New York, have become the dominant force in this office while non-Communist members are being ousted. In this office, too, the non-Communists are made to feel that they have no contact with the Director.

It appears that the successful infiltration into Stockton started with the transfer to Stockton of an SRA worker named Mellineoff. This transfer was apparently engineered by Bill Plunkert. Some of the political activities of the Stockton Communists have been described elsewhere. Their attitude toward your committee was one of extreme defiance. The investigation showed very clearly that these persons were not interested in the State of California, except as an object of Communist activities. The evidence showed that on due occasion, the State Administration tried to transfer a non-Communist employee to Stockton to replace one of the Communist gang. But the Workers Alliance demonstrated against the replacement in front of the Stockton SRA office. Director Le Fevre then refused to assign any duties to the non-Communist and used his political influence to have the transfer cancelled.

Le Fevre is another director who has been retained by the Administration in spite of repeated protests from the people in San Joaquin County. His appointment to office was purely political. He testified that he had no previous social welfare experience. He has been retained because of his political influence, although the Administration has been aware for some time of his friendship with the Communists. In fact, it is inconceivable that the flagrant Communist activity in Stockton could be carried on without knowledge of it on the part of the Administration. The supervisor of intake under Mr. Le Fevre is one of the top leaders in the Communist movement within the California State Relief Administration. In spite of his exposure, he is still carrying on his duties in Stockton. Every American patriot has a right to be incensed to see a State Administration permit known and exposed Communists to continue to carry out their treacherous subversive schemes while being supported out of tax funds.

Charges have been preferred against those witnesses who defied your committee by refusing to answer its questions during the Stockton inquiry. In referring to this, a SCMWA bulletin issued May 10th, demonstrates the same old strategy of the Communists who can always be counted upon to yell "persecution" and to see their lie factories in motion the minute their activities run afoul of the law. The bulletin says:

"Like a tiger who has tasted blood, the Yorty Committee caused the arrests of 19 Stockton union members on charges of contempt of a legislative committee. They were paraded through the waiting room and promptly whisked away in the 'Black Maria' to the local Bastille, where they were held pending bail. During the 24 hours required to raise bail, eight of the men were held in the infamous 'Tank No. 1', forced to sleep on the floor because of lack of beds and denied the right to receive visitors or receive food and smokes sent in by friends.

Within one half-hour of this incident, the State Office of the SRA fired every member cited. The local director, Fred Le Fevre, promptly re-hired them. Needless to say, the heat on him has increased as a result of this courageous action.

* * * The notorious labor-hating police judge, E. E. Breitenbucher, asked the total bail of $9,500 cash or $36,000 property bail.

Due to intense intimidation by the American Legion, it took some time to raise this fabulous sum. * * * The city of Stockton is preparing to spend thousands of dollars for individual persecution of each union member by jury trial."

Once again in this bulletin, the old Communist gag of hiding behind union membership is in evidence. The fact that the persons who violated the law were members of the Communist-controlled union is used by the Communists to claim that a union is being persecuted. The plain fact of the matter is that a section of the Penal Code is being invoked against all those who violated it without any regard to their membership or nonmembership in any labor union.

The Reds and their accomplices now cry for sympathy although they deliberately, by planned organized action, conspired to commit the crime with which they stand charged. One thing is certain, persons opposed to Communism would receive little sympathy from these would-be Commisars if the Communists were in control of the machinery of government. If this were the case persons who offended the laws would not be tried by a jury as these defendants will be; instead, the violators would be more effectively liquidated, and without any delay. The American Government is more kind to its enemies. The defendants are being given the privilege of remaining free on bail pending trial. They will be tried by a jury of citizens and will have the right to appeal and to have the verdict set aside if there is a miscarriage of justice in their trial. All of these privileges are guaranteed them by the government which they have defied, and which some of them desire to destroy.

False Claims.

Certainly, they are in poor grace in yelling "persecution." Their attempt to make union membership an issue in the trials is nothing more than the usual insidious Communist subterfuge. The same bulletin quoted above also carries a heading describing the Zukas trial in Visalia as one being marked by KKK threats, and as being held "in an atmosphere of vigilante intimidation" and threats of overt violence. No greater batch of lies was ever concocted. The fact of the matter is, the trial court used scrupulous care to protect every right of the defendant Zukas. Furthermore, although the defendant, Zukas, was known to be a Communist conspirator, this fact was never mentioned during the trial by the prosecution. Of course, every time a Communist violates the law, the same old claim of frame-up and persecution is thrown up as a smokescreen. It is all part of their book of classic tactics.

SECTION III.

In San Francisco, your committee found that after the passage of the present Relief Act, an effort was made to effect a face-saving, clean-up of the county SRA. This clean-up was conducted under the threat of legislative investigation. There is no other apparent reason why it was not undertaken long before. During the clean-up, non-Communist employees of the staff worked overtime on a special social audit. Members of the Communist-controlled group refused to work overtime. They refused with the consent of the director, Edwin James Cooley.

Evidence proved that San Francisco County SRA was loaded with an excessive number of employees for long periods of time. During some periods, over 100 unnecessary employees were carried on the pay roll, according to the testimony of Director Cooley. The county director first endeavored to place the blame for this condition on Mr. C. C. Alexander who worked in the San Francisco County office for a short time as personnel supervisor. But when investigation by your committee proved that these claims of Mr. Cooley contained no element of truth, Mr. Cooley then placed the blame on Walter Chambers, State Relief Administrator.

Communists Favored.

The evidence showed that members of the Communist-controlled union held a favored position with the director. This situation may have resulted partially from the fact that this director was in office when the present administration assumed power. Since the Communist-controlled group was openly favored by the Olson Administration, Mr. Cooley may have felt it politically expedient to make friends with them. This he did very successfully. At one time, he actually agreed to a tentative personnel plan which provided that the Communist-controlled group would be the "sole bargaining agency" for all of the employees in the San Francisco County SRA office. An example of the intimidation of non-Communists by the Communist-controlled group in the San Francisco County SRA was the trial of one of the non-Communists conducted in that office. Charges were filed by the Communist-controlled union. The trial was set by Mr. Cooley who acted as judge. The SCMWA acted as prosecutor. The charges included an allegation that the defendant had walked into a picket line to patronize a cafe that turned out to have been closed at the time the offense was supposed to have been committed. Other trumped-up charges, similar to this one, formed the basis for the SCMWA complaint. Even though they could not establish the truth of their charges, the SCMWA had to be appeased so Mr. Cooley transferred the defendant to a different department.

Another example of the attitude of Mr. Cooley and his chief lieutenants toward anti-Communist employees is shown by the following letter which is reproduced in full because it sums up in adequate language the conclusions and opinions of many of the employees in Mr. Cooley's office:

SAN FRANCISCO, CALIFORNIA, May 22, 1940.

*Mr. Sam Yorty,
New Clayton Hotel,
San Francisco, California.*

DEAR SIR: Your SRA hearings seem to be effective everywhere but in San Francisco County. Why isn't something being done about this office? I was one of those who testified at the San Francisco hearing to the effect that I had lost my position because I wouldn't "play ball" with the SCMWA outfit.

I had heard that the San Francisco office was understaffed and some clerical help would be called back, so decided to go in and see Mr. Cooley and ask to be reinstated. A friend arranged the interview as Mr. Cooley's office is not very easy to get into. I entered the office expecting some courtesy and a discussion on job possibility and wasn't prepared for what happened. I was in a sweat chamber; I was an accused criminal who had to defend herself; I had dared to accuse Mr. Robert West, a district office manager of discriminating against me because I wasn't a member of the so-called union. Witnesses were brought in against me. Mr. Cooley said I would have to prove my statement. I told him this was a rather difficult thing to do, but I had worked for the organization for three and a half years and had never had any trouble before. I didn't know Mr. West before he was made office manager and he didn't know me; that there was no reason for his disliking me, but he most definitely did and made it "tough" for me every minute he was my superior.

You are acquainted with Mr. Cooley's methods of 'trying' people. Mr. Cooley asked me to return the next day, which I did. Mr. Cooley didn't see me, but Mr. Eddie did. He had written a two-page letter against me, addressed to Mr. Cooley. In this letter he stated he had contacted everyone who had worked with me and had embodied what they said in the letter. When he finished reading it I wasn't much of an employee, although it took them three and a half years to discover this.

I had said that Mr. Wilson, who was head unit clerk and my immediate superior, would testify that he had given me a high evaluation and was shocked when he saw the 86 per cent which Mr. West had given me and stated that he would back me in any fight against it. Mr. Wilson, who is still employed, was called and he denied that he had made such a statement and in his opinion I didn't rate more than 86 per cent. I answered that Mr. Wilson was a member of the CIO and was still working and he didn't dare do anything else because he would lose his job if he did. This made Mr. Eddie angry. I might add that this statement by Mr. Wilson was made in the presence of a witness. This witness is still employed, although not a member of the CIO—and I would hesitate to call her as I do not want to jeopardize her job.

I went into the SRA office looking for a job, but I came out fighting for a principle. I am not a disgruntled employee. I am a trained office worker, past 35 years of age and therefore having some difficulty finding work, but I'd scrub floors before I would return to work for the SRA while it is in the hands of the "fifth column."

I am a Catholic and an American and I like being those things and despise anything that threatens the security I have as such. Fighting the "red" group in the SRA is like fighting an invisible enemy in the dark. We know it's there, but those people organize and arm themselves while we sleep. Truth or principles mean nothing to them. There isn't much I can do alone to fight them because I am not very well armed, but I don't retreat easily and shall do all in my power and sincerely hope you are not giving up the good fight you are making.

Sincerely yours,

Signed: EVA M. KANE.

Cooley Unconvincing.

Mr. Cooley is an experienced social worker. His answers to questions propounded by your committee gave no indication that he had any sympathy for the Communists, but his actions have not been as convincing. During the recent clean-up, some of the Communists in the San Francisco office were eliminated. The case load was considerably reduced. As a result of these dismissals, Communist-inspired demonstrations were carried on outside of the SRA office. Members of the staff, still employed in San Francisco County, joined in these typically Communist demonstrations. The usual Communist songs, mentioned elsewhere in this report, were sung.

Mr. Cooley's answers to questions were, at times, very evasive. He was constantly forced to call upon his lieutenants to help him answer questions such as those relating to his proposed bargaining agreement with the SCMWA. He testified that, at the time of this agreement, he felt the SCMWA was a good union. He said that, in his opinion, it has now changed and has become a mere pressure group.

The committee is not certain whether the Communist infiltration into the San Francisco SRA was encouraged by Mr. Cooley willingly, or simply permitted by him for the purpose of gaining the advantage of their influence with the Olson Administration. Under the threat of legislative investigation, Mr. Cooley did throw some of the Communists out of the San Francisco SRA. If he has a sincere desire to rid his office of them, there are others whom he should discharge. The fact that he has not done this, leaves a doubt in the mind of your committee as to the "good faith" of Mr. Cooley in this connection. Mr. Cooley testified that he had not discussed the answers that were to be given to your committee with any of his lieutenants. The committee has information to the contrary. Your committee is in possession of affidavits, describing a meeting held at Mr. Cooley's house during the San Francisco investigation. The meeting was arranged and attended, according to the affidavits, by a Communist leader of the SRA group. This matter will be the subject of further investigation by your committee at a later date.

The exact extent to which Mr. Cooley's actions have been dictated by political pressure is not yet fully determined by your committee.

Members of the Communist-controlled group working in the San Francisco SRA office assumed their usual defiant attitude, by openly displaying their contempt for your committee, and refusing to answer its questions. When informed of this, Mr. Cooley was unwilling to say whether or not, in his opinion they should be discharged because of this conduct.

SECTION IV.

Lay-offs and separations by the SRA have been ostensibly based upon the "evaluation" or efficiency rating of the employees. Such ratings are spoken of as "evaluations." They are made by supervising employees. Everyone familiar with present methods knows that they are absolutely worthless, and subject to manipulation at the whim of the evaluator. Your committee found, throughout its investigation, that members of the Communist-controlled group and their friends in the SRA fixed evaluations so that loyal, efficient employees were laid off while the motley crowd of Communists were kept on the payroll. Good faith was completely lacking in most places, and the rankest kind of discrimination indulged in. Even County Directors, in some instances, admitted that their evaluations were, in reality, meaningless.

In some offices, final scores were completely out of relation to the average of the ratings given on the various points, although such points supposedly provided the basis for the final ratings. One of the points upon which workers were evaluated was "client relationships." Your committee found that, in some cases, a low score was given on this point because of complaints filed by the Workers Alliance against social workers not willing to submit to pressure by this Communist-controlled organization. The whole evaluation system now in use is simply a farce. In the counties investigated by your committee, this fine-sounding evaluation system turned out to be a racket, utilized to the fullest extent, by the Communists wherever they had control—utilized to hide the fact that layoffs were arranged to get the anti-Communists out of the SRA.

SECTION V.

A group of the most undesirable employees was recently discharged in Alameda County. They filed protests and were subsequently reinstated by order of the so-called SRA "Personnel Standards Board." This Board is comparable to the State Personnel Board except that it operates only in the SRA and serves at the pleasure of the Governor who created it by decree without any authority of law. It purports to give all of the SRA employees the protection of civil service rules, although no examinations have ever been taken by them, and the Legislature has never seen fit to place the SRA under civil service. Of course, the existence of such a Board furnished the administration with a convenient excuse for its failure to make a clean-cut clean up of Communism in the SRA. In other words, the Administration has created a Board, behind which it now hides by claiming that Board rules prevent it from firing employees on the ground that they are Communists. It is this kind of political buck-passing that has made the operations of the blundering Olson SRA Administration a ludicrous lullaby of lies and laughs. The Administration is still refusing to say publicly that it intends to oust Communists from the State Relief Administration. Wherever forced to oust them, it has avoided the issue by assigning other grounds as a reason for the discharges.

Before the recent split, when the Labor's Non-Partisan League gang was still demanding support of the third term movement, Governor Olson proved plainly that he was afraid to offend them. They were, of course, the first ones to complain to him whenever action against Communists was threatened. Then the switch in foreign policy of the Communists turned them against Roosevelt and caused the Communist-controlled League to change its stand. This apparently left the Governor in a bad political hole.

Olson Given Huge Fund.

It is well known that the Governor received a huge campaign contribution from Labor's Non-Partisan League. Therefore, he had to decide whether to go with the League and other Communist groups against Roosevelt, or try to rehabilitate himself somewhat in the Democratic Party, by grabbing Roosevelt's coat tail for one more ride. He chose to support the President. The Lieutenant Governor chose not to. In making his decision, the Governor was forced to get out from under the domination of Labor's Non-Partisan League to some degree. Now, the League and the Communist elements have begun to turn against the Governor in the political field. As a result the Administration has shown signs of increasing firmness in dealing with the SRA Communists, but it still refuses to issue a general order for their discharge.

Where it has made a gesture toward cleaning them out, it has never yet followed on through in a thorough manner.

The failure of the present State Relief Administration to rid the SRA of subversive groups, is undoubtedly due, to a large extent, to restraint from the Governor's Office, brought about by the former alliance of the Olson Administration with Communist-controlled organizations. Regardless of political buck-passing the Olson Administration can not escape responsibility for the fact that Communist termites are working throughout this State in the State Relief Administration. They are being permitted to carry on their underhanded campaigns of destruction. They constitute an army of foreign-directed termites supported out of California tax funds.

An administration not willing to face the facts, and to make a thorough check on the activities of these subversive groups, can not hope to cope with the problem which they create. When the Olson administration took office, the Communists in the State Relief Administration blossomed out in full glory, boastfully proclaiming their influence with the Administration. From then on, the infiltration process assumed rapid proportions. Today, only because of the action of the Legislature, and changing political winds, the infiltration process has slowed down. Future steps taken by the Legislature must include the complete elimination of subversive influences from the State Relief Administration. The present weak and vacillating attitude of the Olson Administration will have to be completely changed before this task can be undertaken by the Executive branch of our government. The picture would be more heartening if the SRA were the only department in which subversive elements had a foothold. But this is not the case.

McWilliams Hires Communist.

When the present Director of Immigration and Housing was appointed, his first official act was the employment of a known Communist as his secretary. His department should be watched carefully by the people of the State of California. The alliance of Director Carey McWilliams with Communists is too well known to warrant detailed discussion here. Mr. McWilliams was one of the delegates on the Communist-inspired "Patterson slate" which recently met such overwhelming defeat. Other known Communist accomplices and sympathizers have been appointed by this Administration to positions in various State departments. All in all, it is impossible for your committee to escape the conclusion that Governor Olson is either naively, or knowingly guilty of holding open the door to the "5th Column" in California. The danger to the State created by the "5th Column" remains the same, whether they are knowingly permitted to carry on their work, or whether they are able to fool and threaten the Governor into refusing to take a decisive stand against them.

SECTION VI.

One of the startling disclosures of your committee's investigation was the fact that a large percentage of the Communists working in the State Relief Administration were graduates of the State-supported University of California. That is not so surprising if one realizes that the Communists planned the capture of SRA departments some time ago. In keeping with their plan, recruiting has been effectively done on the campus of the University of California where many of the SRA social workers were trained. The extent of Communist influence with American youth groups is a matter of growing concern to all persons interested in preservation of American Democracy. The Legislature must soon turn its attention to this problem. The University of California should not, without any opposition, be subjected to contamination by the subversive groups which are giving so much attention to agitation among our young people. While the young people, on the whole, have a tendency to break away from subversive groups as time goes on, too many of them are not doing so today. We can not ignore the fact that persons who have joined the disciplined international army of Communist termites, are equally dangerous, whether they be young or old.

Broader Scope Necessary.

The scope of your committee's activities was necessarily limited by the fact that it was created at a special session under a "call" issued by the Governor. Your committee has therefore dealt primarily with only one phase of the Communist program in California. A more thorough investigation is needed for Los Angeles County, referred to heretofore, openly lists the names of over 100 Communist branches in that one county. The chart attached hereto, shows the plan of the Communist Party in Northern California during the year 1935 at which time it was obtained by an undercover operator. It is an exact copy of one which was then kept in the State office of the Communist Party in California. Those who are inclined to underestimate the influence and strength of the Communist Party would do well to study the chart. The committee respectfully depicts an SRA union affiliated with the Communist International through the "Workers International Relief" organization of the Communist Party. Under the heading "Sympathetic Organizations" the SRA union is again listed. Circles have been placed on the chart to draw attention to this fact.

This chart in itself is conclusive evidence of the stark reality of the "Fifth Column" in California. Americans have already delayed too long in facing the problem which these Fifth Columns have created. We must not continue to make the mistake of being apathetic and tolerant toward their treasonable activities. If we do, our inexcusable apathy and misguided tolerance, will eventually be discovered among the tools used to destroy our government, our Constitution, and our freedom.

The committee respectfully calls attention to the fact that the administration, with its power to place employees in the various State offices is in a much better position to obtain information from the inside, than is your committee or any other outside organization. In spite of this fact the administration has apparently made but slight attempts to check on the "Fifth Column" in State Government. It has never once, to this day, voluntarily exposed or stopped Communist activities in the State although the administration is well aware of the prevalence of subversive groups, and is in a position to obtain information concerning them. What gestures have been made toward the discharge of persons engaged in subversive activity, have all been made since the legislative investigations commenced. What might have happened to State Government in California if the Legislature had not intervened to stop the march of the "Fifth Column," is something not very pleasant to contemplate.

Liberties Threatened.

American liberties and freedom were won at the sacrifice of the lives of many of our forefathers. Subversive elements working in the United States today would destroy the liberties and freedom guaranteed by our Constitution. They would place us under the iron heel of dictatorship along with the other millions of human beings now suffering from oppression. To fight against this is the present duty of every American.

We must not permit ourselves to be fooled by the Communist Party, into thinking that it is anything else than a part of a lying, scheming, pernicious army of international gangsters, determined to destroy and desecrate human dignity and civilization. The American people have already been fed with so much propaganda, ridiculing and "smearing" those who have endeavored to expose the "Fifth Columns," that it is difficult for anyone to describe the unbelievable extent to which subversive activities have been carried on in this country without being accused by the uninformed of being either an alarmist, or guilty of exaggeration. But real, shocking facts of the situation must be brought home to the people of the United States. Only an aroused and patriotic America can in the last analysis, end the march of the "Fifth Column" through this nation. The fight against the "Fifth Column" must be carried on with firm and unswerving determination.

Your committee recommends:

1. That a thorough investigation of all subversive activities in California be undertaken as soon as possible.
2. That laws be enacted both by the United States and by the State to force the "Fifth Column" propagandists to march out in the open where their promises and proposals can be judged with full knowledge of what is back of them. Laws must also be enacted to strengthen our defense against those columns of the international army of gangsters, which are assigned to duties calling for actual physical sabotage.
3. That constant vigilance must be maintained to detect, expose, and bring an end to, every new phase of subversive activity devised by the marauding international gangsters.

4. That a complete analysis of our educational system be undertaken to determine the cause of its failure to inculcate students with a true appreciation of American Democracy.
5. That laws eliminating politics in the relief administration be strengthened, kept in effect, and vigorously enforced.
6. That laws be enacted to prevent transfers of employees by the State Relief Administration to counties where such employees are not known to the citizens. Local political subdivisions must be given a voice in the employment of relief personnel, in order to enable them to keep constant guard against infiltration by subversive groups under the cloak of official State positions.
7. And that most important of all, a sound constructive program of reemployment be determined upon and executed through the cooperation of Government, business and labor. This is a necessary defense measure. Subversive groups feed the fires of discontent created by economic break-down. Their lying propaganda and promises are doubled in effectiveness during periods of economic uncertainty. The combined intelligence and patriotism of all Americans must cause them to support whatever equitable economic adjustments are necessary to put an end to this scourge of unemployment. Doles are not the answer. Doles and demoralization go hand in hand. The great morale that has always characterized the American people must be safeguarded. The calamity howlers must be met by a deafening roar of American industrial activity.

WHEREAS, It appears equitable that the State and Federal governments should sustain a proportionate share of the cost of maintaining such Old Age Recipients during said ninety (90) day period and also during the period of necessary hospitalization; now, therefore, be it

Report of Assembly Investigating Committee on Interference With the Legislature.

To the Honorable Speaker and Members of the Assembly.

Your Assembly Investigating Committee on Interference with the Legislature, appointed under the terms of Assembly Resolution No. 46 and Assembly Resolution No. 49, submits herewith its report of its investigations.

This committee entered into its investigation aware of many rumors and reports that certain members of the Legislature, during the 1939 regular session, were being subjected to furtive watching, covert candid camera shots, and secret recordings of their conversations by listening devices and dictagraph plants. Repeated rumor had it that the victims of this surreptitious and gestapo prying were legislative members opposed to portions of the administration's policies and programs.

The rumors were rendered capable of belief by administration announcement of a "purge list" composed of members of the Assembly obnoxious to the administration because of their independence in voting for or against pending legislation in a matter contrary to administration desires. In some instances pre-election campaigns were instituted against these members. Included, and particularly marked by the administration, was Gordon H. Garland, member of the Assembly from the Thirty-eighth District, composed of Tulare and Kings Counties. It was the announced intention of the administration to see him defeated for reelection.

When the Legislature met in special session in January of this year, Gordon Garland, the administration purgee, was elected Speaker of the Assembly. Coincident with his election the ugly rumors of 1939 were revived and talk again filled Capitol corridors of spying tactics directed against members outside the pale of administration favor. These reports gained credibility by the unexplained presence, at State expense, of numerous SRA employees in the hotels of Sacramento continually contacting members of the Legislature and what was apparently a centrally directed harassment and attempted intimidation of Assemblymen and Senators by membership of left wing organizations.

These rumors and suspicions crystallized into fact on February 18th when the Speaker of the Assembly, Gordon Garland, discovered in the private rooms used by himself and his wife, a microphone. This microphone was attached to wires running to another room in the same hotel where a recording device was installed.

By reason of this disclosure the Assembly adopted, on February 21, 1940, House Resolution No. 46, creating a committee of five members with authority and directions to investigate any and all things connected with attempts to coerce officers and members of the Assembly in the performance of their legislative duties. This resolution was supplemented by House Resolution No. 49, adopted on February 22, 1940, increasing the membership of the committee from five to seven members.

At the outset of this report specific attention is called to the fact that of the seven members of the committee a majority, four, were Democrats, the party of the administration.

Obstruction of Committee.

This committee by its terms of resolution had the duty to investigate attempts to coerce officers and members of the Assembly in the performance of their legislative duties. Such authority should have enlisted whole-hearted support of every official and employee of the State to enable the committee to complete its duties. The wide publicity attending the creation of the committee made it a matter of common knowledge that the resolution had its impetus in violation of privacy of the Speaker and his wife.

Such loathsome tactics are so repugnant to the lowest ideal of democracy and so despicable to every standard of common decency, that it was natural to assume and expect that the committee would receive every possible cooperation in its endeavors. Particularly, such cooperation was to be anticipated from the heads and officials of our executive department.

The committee, however, regretfully reports that from the beginning its investigation was hampered by administration disapproval and deliberate withholding from the committee of information possessed by administration officials in office. Such testimony as the committee did obtain was given involuntarily and in many instances under the compulsions of warning that contumacious refusals would be punished.

The recalcitrant attitude of certain State officers can well be understood from the burden of guilt they carried. As to others, it may be explained that, in spite of press statements of the Governor advocating the purpose and trusting for a complete disclosure, there was a prevailing impression reflected in the attitude of witnesses and press statements of the Governor's secretaries, that the Governor was opposed to the investigation. This coincided with his veto of Assembly Bill No. 64 which appropriated the funds necessary for this committee to function. It was necessary to pass this bill over the Governor's veto to allow this committee to meet.

Now that the investigation of the committee is completed your committee reports that in its opinion the reluctance of the administration to assist was the knowledge of guilt and its silence was the silence of shame.

The office of the State Controller and the State Personnel Board are not included in this criticism. The officers and employees of these State agencies readily responded with their usual courtesy and efficiency to all requests made.

Responsible Parties.

The committee had broad powers of investigation. However, because of early efforts to sabotage its work it concluded that its prime duty was to fix responsibility for the placement of the microphone in the rooms of the Speaker.

The committee determined that if it established guilt for this atrocity the members of the Assembly and the public could form their own opinion as to the many other reputed violations of personal privacy and intimidating tactics.

Likewise, the efforts of this committee were necessarily restricted to ascertaining the facts of this one transaction because of the impediments placed in the way of the committee's investigation. There seemed to be a well conceived plan to discredit the committee's efforts. It is significant to note that the members of the administration who attempted to foul the work of the committee were themselves implicated and the leading conspirators in the plot. These specific details of individual responsibility will be later discussed.

The committee, however, reports that it is satisfied it has established guilt for the dictagraph incident. That the persons implicated directly or indirectly are:

Howard R. Philbrick,
Robert E. Voshell,
Paul H. Rowe,
M. Stanley Mosk,
Charles Henderson,
Governor Culbert L. Olson.

Howard R. Philbrick was, until approximately April 8th, the Director of Motor Vehicles of the State of California.

Robert E. Voshell was an investigator used by Philbrick for a period of two or three years. He was placed upon the State pay roll of the State Relief Administration on Philbrick's recommendation and suggestion.

Paul H. Rowe is the operator of an organization known as the Sound Laboratories of California. He was trained in Germany in the use of sound equipment and has operated for Philbrick over a period of years.

M. Stanley Mosk is the Governor's executive secretary and made the Governor's funds available to Rowe and Voshell on Philbrick's orders and directions.

Charles Henderson was an aide of the Governor with the title of lieutenant colonel, on the pay roll of the National Guard at a munificent salary of $491 a month with such duties as the Governor should assign.

The Governor of the State of California, Culbert L. Olson, also must share a burden of responsibility for tolerating his direct appointees, secretaries and aides, or persons being subsidized from funds appropriated for the support of his office to engage in such activities. If the Governor is ignorant of the activities of these employees, it constitutes extreme negligence upon his part to suffer them to use State moneys appropriated to him without knowledge for what purpose it is being used and to permit his appointees such extreme latitude in their pursuits.

The essential facts from which the committee draws these conclusions and inferences from the sworn testimony, follow.

Facts Relative to Dictagraph Placement.

The essential facts relative to the placing of the dictagraph in Speaker Garland's room may be summarized briefly from the sworn testimony before the committee, as follows:

During the months of January and February, 1940, Speaker Gordon H. Garland, member of the Assembly from the Thirty-eighth District, while in attendance at the session of the Legislature, had rooms at the Senator Hotel, which rooms, on the fourth floor, were used by himself and his wife as their private living quarters.

On Sunday, February 18th, he observed a light streaming through a hole in his bedroom door. Further examination disclosed a microphone cleverly hidden between the drapes and curtains of his room. Officers of the Sacramento police department were summoned and on investigation found the microphone attached to wires which ran outside the building to a room on the eighth floor occupied since February 2d by one Robert E. Voshell. In this room the police found, locked in the closet, a recording device which they removed on February 21st.

Robert E. Voshell has been intermittently associated in detective work since 1938 with Howard R. Philbrick.

Ever since this administration has been in office, including the time prior to September 12, 1939, when appointed Director of Motor Vehicles, Philbrick has been engaged in various investigations apparently financed by Governor's office funds. With his appointment as Director of Motor Vehicles his influence enabled him to have Voshell placed on the pay roll of the State.

From October 15, 1939, on the orders of Philbrick, Voshell was allowed $250 a month as a purported auditor, Grade 3, in the SRA. Voshell's actual appointment was not made final until late in November. Voshell's duties were not in any way connected with the administration of relief, but he was engaged under Philbrick's directions and supervision, for the purpose of discrediting the report of Senator Phillips of subversive influence in the State Relief Administration.

Another person who from time to time over a period of the last two years has done special service for Philbrick, is one Paul H. Rowe. Rowe trained in Germany in the use of sound equipment, and is Philbrick's expert on sound devices.

During the period November, 1939, to the end of January, 1940, both Rowe and Voshell testified that Rowe was working for Voshell. From February 1st on, Voshell was working for Rowe.

On February 2d, Voshell secured a room at the Senator Hotel. He registered alone. Later one of the clerks registered for his wife who occupied the room with him. His wife was a trained stenographer.

On February 2d Rowe had another employee of his, one Jack Morris, install the microphone in Speaker Garland's room, and connect the microphone with wires to the room on the eighth floor occupied by Voshell and his wife. In Voshell's room there was placed a recording device which was set up in the closet and the closet lock plugged by means of a special locking device.

In addition to this recording device Voshell admitted he had a listening device connected with the microphone in Speaker Garland's room. There was also another or a third device in this room which recorded conversations. This particular recording device was one which had been ordered in the month of October by Charles Henderson, acting for the Governor's office.

Henderson had made arrangements for the delivery to him of this recording device, microphones, and 116 aluminum discs by placing the order with George F. Cake, agent of the Federal Laboratories, Incorporated. He also at various times had placed orders for quantities of microphone cables of different colors, the purpose of the variety of colors in the microphone cable being to render detection difficult.

Henderson, on February 14th, contacted Cake and complained to him that the machine was not performing entirely satisfactorily. This conversation was in the Governor's office and Cake was advised that he could not inspect the machine at that time because it was in use and not in the Governor's office. The conversation in the Governor's office between Cake and Henderson was in the afternoon. Later on the same day Cake and Henderson contacted each other in the Senator Hotel and on Henderson's direction Cake went to Voshell's room, took out the recording device, brought it down the stairs from the 8th to the 5th floor, examined it, and advised that the machine had not functioned properly because an improper microphone was being used. At Henderson's further instructions Cake carried the machine to the Governor's office.

Voshell denied that he had ever used the machine purchased for the Governor's office in recording conversations in Garland's room. He did admit, however, that over a listening device he had listened to conversations in Garland's room from February 2d to February 18th.

However, during the entire period at his listening post, he discovered not one iota of evidence.

Early in the morning of February 21st, Voshell discovered that the police had removed the recording device from his closet. After discovery of the fact that the machine had been removed Voshell precipitately checked out of the hotel at 4 o'clock in the morning and after notifying Philbrick that he was "hot" and borrowing money from him fled to the State of Washington. From there he did not return until he was requested to do so by Philbrick and Rowe.

Of further vital importance to this investigation is the fact of how Rowe and Voshell were paid. Voshell, between the period October 15, 1939, and January 30, 1940, took from the relief funds, on a salary of $250 a month, the sum of approximately $887.10, in addition to $187.23 from the same funds for traveling expenses. In addition he was given a check by M. Stanley Mosk, secretary of the Governor, in the sum of approximately $236 which check was drawn on the Governor's secret or special fund; and he was also paid or loaned other money by both Rowe and Philbrick.

Rowe, for the period November, 1939, to the end of January, 1940, according to his testimony, worked for Voshell. Voshell, from February 1st on, during the Garland espionage, worked for Rowe. Rowe, for his services between November and the end of January, was paid approximately $1,500 from the Governor's secret or special fund. He asserted he had not yet billed for his February services but was looking to Philbrick for payment for himself and Voshell; that the basis of his pay was to be for expenses plus "results."

Checks from the secret fund, signed by M. Stanley Mosk, were issued on Philbrick's instructions. Mosk stated that he never drew a check for an individual, but a check was always drawn payable to a company.

The foregoing constitutes a brief resume of the facts developed before this committee. A narrative statement of the entire testimony received will be appended to this report as an exhibit. The specific relation of each individual named will be next developed.

Howard R. Philbrick.

Howard R. Philbrick is not unknown to espionage work in this State. With him it has been a business. For some years prior to September 12, 1939, he was a member of the detective firm of Atherton & Associates, of San Francisco. He has drawn thousands upon thousands of dollars from State funds for the purpose of investigations of a political nature, and in conducting such investigations he exhibited a ruthless disregard of the rights of privacy or character of individuals. In 1938 Governor Merriam conceived the idea of having an unlimited fund at his disposal for investigation by supplementing the annual $2,500 fund which had always been appropriated to the Governor. This was done by additions from the Emergency Fund to which there is normally appropriated approximately $1,000,000. By drawing on the Emergency Fund for replenishment of the secret fund, an entirely new device, Governor Merriam was able to employ Philbrick for the purpose of making an investigation during the political campaign of 1938.

This investigation covered every corner of the State.

With the close of the Sacramento County Grand Jury and the making of its final report, Philbrick remained unsatisfied with the official work of the jury and presented his own report to Governor Merriam. This report Governor Merriam refused to make public. The report, however, was publicized by Governor Olson.

This report, consisting of a maze of hearsays, suppositions, and implications, seeks to discredit many members of the Legislature.

As disclosed by his testimony before this committee for this service $36,000 of State funds were sent to Philbrick. Questioned about reimbursing Rowe for 1940 expenses, his testimony was as follows:

Q. He (Rowe) has already testified those expenses ran between $300 and $400.

A. That is not surprising. The expenses in the Merriam investigation ran around $36,000.

Q. I am not interested—

A. Well I am.

Q. That's your business. Mr. Williamson says you got most of it.

A. I got all of it.

Q. A pretty fair racket.

A. It's good if you can get it.

Q. They didn't pay for results on that one, did they?

A. Yes. That's—

Williamson: You must owe the State money.

A. That's your opinion.

Having thus learned the method of extracting money from the State of California without being on the State's payroll, Philbrick aligned himself with Governor Olson and continued to make private investigations during the year 1939 for which he apparently was paid from the Governor's fund in the same manner that he had been paid during the Merriam administration.

This witness attempted from the start to sabotage the investigation of this committee. A subpoena was served on him. Instead of appearing he sent a letter to the committee which, coming from an official occupying the high and responsible position that he did, is unique for its conceit, its trading upon his past association with the Federal Bureau of Investigation, and his calloused, sneering indifference for the violation of the right of privacy of Mr. and Mrs. Garland. The letter follows:

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, DEPARTMENT OF MOTOR VEHICLES,
OFFICE OF THE DIRECTOR, TWELFTH AND N STREETS,
SACRAMENTO, CALIFORNIA, March 4, 1940.

*Honorable Harrison W. Call, Member of the Legislature,
State Capitol, Sacramento, California.*

DEAR MR. CALL: The legality of the Call Investigating Committee has been challenged and until this question is determined, I can not be expected to testify before the committee.

However, because of the careless way in which my name has been used in this situation, I feel that I am entitled to place before the committee and the public a statement of my position.

Since my appointment as Director of Motor Vehicles, I have devoted my energies to reorganizing the Department on an economical basis. What Mr. Garland chooses to say in the privacy of his hotel rooms does not interest me.

Since September 12, economies amounting to $600,000 for the present fiscal year have been accomplished in the Motor Vehicle Department. In the next fiscal year these economies will amount to approximately one million dollars, and for the first time in years the department will be on a self-supporting, balanced budget basis. The establishment of proper business methods to accomplish such economies and a balanced budget is the problem which has interested me.

It is true that before I became Director of Motor Vehicles I had been an agent for the Department of Justice and a private investigator. And, it is equally true that the Department of Justice, Bureau of Investigation, the San Francisco Police graft investigators and other agencies concerned with law violations use this dictagraph equipment to obtain evidence of criminal activities. Consequently I suppose that it is natural, because of my previous work, to connect my name with any incident involving a dictagraph, regardless of the fact that the job I was appointed to do and have been doing is that of running the Motor Vehicle Department.

Purely as a personal observation, based on my previous experience investigating criminal activities, may I say that no one with Federal Bureau of Investigation or other adequate training would install a dictagraph with wires leading nowhere. This, I understand from press reports, is the fact in the case of Mr. Garland's harrowing experience. The entire Garland dictagraph incident has hippodrome aspects reminiscent of his recent pulling of an unconnected telephone from the Assembly Speaker's Rostrum for the benefit of newspaper cameramen.

The name of Mr. Voshell has been connected with the dictagraph that wasn't connected, and I would like to make clear my relationship with Mr. Voshell. I was asked to coordinate certain investigative activities within the SRA. This work, in so far as I was connected with it, was completed prior to February 1, 1940. Mr. Voshell was one of the investigators for the SRA and, consequently, he turned to me for advice. As stated above, my connection with that work terminated on February 1, and I, therefore, have had no interest in Mr. Voshell's activities since that date. Mr. Voshell, himself, would be the logical person to interrogate regarding his subsequent moves. In his absence, the next investigative step would be to trace the ownership of the equipment and to have that person interrogated.

My energies are being fully exercised in the performance of duties as Director of Motor Vehicles.

Very truly yours,

(Signed) HOWARD R. PHILBRICK, Director.

HRP:NV

At the time this letter was sent, Philbrick knew that Voshell had occupied room 825 at the Senator Hotel; Philbrick knew that Voshell was working under his supervision and direction; Philbrick knew that the Federal Bureau of Investigation would not countenance wire-tapping; Philbrick knew he was misstating when he said that he had no interest in the work of Mr. Voshell since February 1st.

The character of the investigation supervised by Philbrick is in accord only with an ideal of a dictator form of government. The Speaker of the Assembly, the victim, had committed no fault unless difference on principle with the Governor's office and steadfast holding to his own convictions be an offense. For these failures he was spied upon and the machinery of a highly organized espionage system was placed in use against him—not for anything he had done—but to “get something on him.”

Philbrick was the spearhead of this investigation. Apparently it was he who had the authority to make commitments from the Governor's secret fund with Mosk, the Governor's executive secretary, having no function to perform except merely sign the checks. While he disclaims knowledge of Voshell's and Rowe's precise acts in installing the dictagraph and listening in on conversations, it was to him that they were to report. Also, from the record it seems clear that they were pursuing a course used in previous investigations.

It was Philbrick who was to assume responsibility for the work and he did so. In the official performance of the duties confided to him by statute he had the opportunity to make and was making an enviable record. It is unfortunate that the opportunity for an excellent career of public service should have been marred and blemished by participation in any affair of the character in which he engaged.

Because of the intelligence he demonstrated in his conduct of the Department of Motor Vehicles the question arises: “What made him participate in the underhanded tactics of the type used?” To the committee two conjectures are open—either he has developed an uncontrolled passion for prying into others' affairs, or at the time of his appointment he was specifically ordered to continue the private work he had originated.

Upon Charles F. Henderson, a young man of thirty-two, there has been conferred all the glamor, insignia and excitement of official public life.

In 1935, section 141 of the Military and Veterans' Code was enacted which allowed the Governor to appoint five aides-de-camp to have the rank of lieutenant-colonel. The power of this appointment was never used until Henderson was appointed in 1939. In such position he testified he had a salary and allowance from the funds appropriated for the defense of the State based on a thirty-one day month amounting to $481 monthly plus traveling expenses. His duties were defined by him as doing anything he may be directed to do by the Governor.

Apparently he devoted no time whatsoever to the National Guard business of the State, and the salary paid him from National Guard moneys was a sinecure. His position, title and inclination made him assume all the insignia and benefits of high position, in the way of uniforms with Federal insignia, highway patrol cars with red lights and sirens chauffeured by members of the California Highway Patrol, and, until the Federal Government prohibited the use of National Guard airplanes (except for the purpose of National Guard or Federal business), he was able to commandeer for the purposes of completing his errands, the official airplane of the National Guard.

Before this committee he was an unwilling, hesitant, hostile and reluctant witness, and in the minds of the committee guilty of fabrication in his testimony. He testified before the committee only after Governor Olson, according to press releases, directed him to appear before the committee immediately and testify to any and all facts within his knowledge as to who placed a dictagraph in Mr. Garland's room.

It is to be observed that this witness purposefully and carefully observed the limitations as to the matters to which he was to testify and although the committee had broad powers of investigation he carefully limited his testimony "as to who placed a dictagraph in Mr. Garland's room."

From him, however, the committee was able to establish that ever since his entry into State employ he has been meddling with dictagraph machines and has been engaged in surreptitious pursuits.

This witness refused to answer questions touching upon his investigation activities as is revealed by the following statements from his testimony:

Q. Did you ever take any part whatsoever in any investigation since you assumed the position you now hold?

A. Not relating to any matters which this committee may be investigating, outside of a few things.

Q. Your answer, then, is that you participated in such investigations?

A. No. My answer is that I have not participated in anything having anything to do with the subject this committee is investigating.

Q. * * * Would you permit this committee to pass upon whether or not that was by telling us any fact connected with that investigation?

A. No. I don't answer any such questions.

Concerning the use of this machine at places other than the Senator Hotel, he was asked whether or not he had ever had any recordings made. He stated that he had never heard any records from the machine of conversations in Garland's room, answering:

A. The only records I know anything about or have heard are records I made myself on this machine.

Q. Where were those records made?

A. Various places.

Q. Where for instance?

A. I refuse to testify about them on the same ground that I stated before.

This witness also, while admitting that he had been in the town of Fresno at the time of the Friant Dam celebration in company with the Governor, set up the recording machine in the suite occupied by himself and the Governor, and while stating that no recordings of any kind had been made, refused to answer the purpose for which the machine had been set up although he admitted that at least one member of the Legislature had visited the room while he was there.

Likewise, he refused to answer as to whether or not the microphone, at the time of this episode, was so concealed that it would not be observed by a person coming into the room.

There is an absolute contradiction between a portion of the testimony of this witness and the testimony of George F. Cake.

Cake was the person with whom Henderson made the arrangements for buying the machine. At the time he was testifying Cake's bill had not yet been paid. Cake testified that in the Senator Hotel Henderson had instructed him to go up to Voshell's room and bring the machine down by the stairs and not in the elevator. Henderson denied that he had given such instruction. Also, Cake advised that after examining the machine he had informed Henderson that the reason the machine wasn't operating properly was because an improper microphone was being used. Relative to this testimony Henderson's testimony was, "If that's what he said it is not true."

Cake testified that when he saw Henderson in the Governor's office on February 14th, that Henderson, after making a phone call, had told him he could not examine the machine because it was in use. Henderson denied that he had such conversation.

Cake testified that Henderson, on the twenty-third day of February, had seen him in the lobby of the Senator Hotel. At that time Henderson asked him concerning some special wire which he had ordered for the machine. The conversation turned to whether Cake would be subpoenaed. Henderson advised him if he was, to testify that the purchase of the recording machine was a personal purchase by Henderson and was not made for the Governor's office. Cake testified Henderson had requested him to testify matters not in accord with the facts. Henderson denied that he had any conversation whatsoever relative to any testimony Cake might give before the committee.

The committee places no trust in Henderson's testimony; passing upon his credibility as opposed to that of Cake's, the committee unhesitatingly accepts Cake's testimony and rejects Henderson's.

The committee is advised Henderson has left the service of the State of California. By reason of his untruthful statements, his attempted suborning of Cake, and parasitic extraction of taxpayers' funds, the committee expresses the hope that his absence from the State service is to be complete and permanent.

M. Stanley Mosk.

M. Stanley Mosk is executive secretary to Governor Olson. Among other duties in the Governor's office he signs all checks on the Governor's support fund and also the special fund. On these funds he has carte blanche and in making withdrawals from the secret fund it is his explanation that he does so upon the direction of some department head without knowing the purposes of the investigation.

Although he had written checks for the Sound Laboratories and through him they were delivered to either Rowe or Voshell, he denied having any knowledge whatsoever as to any of the incidents of the investigation.

This witness' part in the actual placing of the dictagraph in the room of the Speaker would be excused by the committee with the statement that he was extremely negligent in the handling of State funds appropriated for State purposes; and paying out those funds without knowing the precise and exact purposes for which the funds are being used. It seems that any person having such authority should have positive knowledge of employment of the fund unless a deliberate scheme has been evolved whereby the writer of the check is to know nothing, except that he signed his signature.

The committee, however, calls the attention of the membership to the attempts of this witness to discredit the committee's work. He was first subpoenaed to testify before this committee on March 4th. Instead of appearing, like Philbrick he sent a letter to the committee, on the letterhead of the Governor's office, stating in substance he considered the committee illegal and until the committee's legality was established by a court of competent jurisdiction he would fail to appear.

Following this refusal, on March 6th he released to the State press a statement alleging that the dictagraph affair was a frame-up of the Governor's political enemies. He alleged that the planting of the dictagraph and the spying activities were known to anti-administration individuals a number of days before their discovery. His statement was so worded as to be susceptible to the construction that John Phillips, member of the Senate from Riverside County, was a party to the dictagraph plot in an attempt to discredit the administration.

Mosk attempted to implant in the public mind an idea that Voshell was not an agent of the administration but was directly allied with Senator Phillips. Linking Voshell's and Senator Phillips' names in his statement, he said: "It indicates a chain of suspicious circumstances all having a decidedly anti-administration flavor." Such a statement did not lie well in the mouth of the individual who had less than two months before passed a $236 check from the Governor's secret fund, payable to Sound Laboratories, to Voshell for Voshell.

This witness finally consented to appear, announcing his willingness to testify by sending a telegram addressed to the chairman of the committee reading as follows:

Honorable Harrison Call,

Eaton Drive, Redwood City, California.

I have heretofore questioned the legality of your committee. The press reports the Attorney General has rendered an opinion finding your group legal. While I retain my misgivings as to your right to pursue this partisan political inquiry at State expense and feel confident the courts would declare your activities null and void, it has been called to my attention that appeal to courts might take several months or longer than the duration of your investigation. I am unwilling to permit that ordinary delay to lead to an inference of concealment of facts or knowledge of any improper activities. Therefore I volunteer to appear before you and your six colleagues in Sacramento Tuesday or at any other time or place you may designate and to testify as to all matters relevant to your inquiry.

M. STANLEY MOSK,

Executive Secretary.

When he did appear relative to the implication of Senator Phillips he testified as follows:

Mr. Millington: At the very time you put that statement out that cast a stigma on Senator Phillips' name, all you had to do was to get Howard Philbrick and you could have found the whole truth of this thing, couldn't you?

A. I didn't have the truth of the situation.

Relative to his allegations in the telegram that the committee's work was a partisan political inquiry, he stated that the complexion of the committee led him to that conviction, testifying as follows:

Q. Have you got any evidence?

A. No, the complexion of the committee, I think——

Q. That's all. Other than that you had no such evidence?

A. No, that is true.

The committee is of the view that this witness testified truthfully. It observes, however, that a Governor's secretary is guilty of gross negligence if the duty of supervising funds is entrusted to him and he pays them out without knowledge of their use. The committee also observes that not excessive zeal or blind loyalty can excuse the rash indiscretion of publicly accusing an innocent person, as in the case of Senator Phillips, of subversive actions.

Robert E. Voshell.

Voshell's function as a listening post and his employment with the State have already been made clear. It is significant to observe that his work in the State Relief Administration was designed to offset the results of the investigation being conducted by Senator Phillips into abuses in the SRA. He was selected by Philbrick, apparently for the purpose of white-washing the administration of State relief and rendering nugatory Senator Phillips' work. It was an investigation of the administration, by the administration, and paid for by the administration.

From all his testimony it appears that this witness' employment by the SRA was in the nature of a stop-gap employment to keep him available for the purpose of investigating members of the Legislature as soon as the special session would convene. On this point he testified:

A. At the time that I went to work it was understood that my work was to cease at the time that the special session started, because then we expected all of these investigations to be aired and the recommendations adopted.

Q. Well, then it was your understanding as I——

A. If the Legislature had convened on January 9th instead of January 29th my work would have stopped then.

Q. If it had continued on up to April, May or June would you have gone right on?

A. I would have still gone right on.

This witness likewise was reluctant to testify and followed Henderson's lead by refusing to divulge matters relating to the investigations he had made except relative to the specific incident relating to Speaker Garland. The testimony as to his investigations for the period October 15th to February 1st is as follows:

Q. Where were your investigations carried on?

A. Wherever the nature of the investigation took me.

Q. Well, where did it take you?

A. Largely in Sacramento, San Francisco, and Los Angeles.

There was some investigation in Fresno, some in San Mateo County.

Q. And what was the nature of that investigation?

A. I came down here to testify and I am willing to establish my own background. I will answer any questions you like. But I don't like to take up everyone's time and I don't like to fill the record with extraneous matters.

Q. Well, I think we will determine if that is within your province. * * * Now, I will ask you did you make any investigation in the city of San Francisco?

A. I don't believe I am at liberty to tell this committee what I developed during my investigation.

Q. Well, I am not asking what you developed at all. Did you make an investigation?

A. Yes, sir, I did.

Q. Did you use sound equipment in making it?

A. I don't believe I will answer that question. That is not within the scope of this committee's investigation.

Q. Has anyone advised you that it was not within the scope?

A. I heard Colonel Henderson testify.

In spite of the fact that this witness was paid by the State Relief Administration his own testimony was that he rendered no service for the State Relief Administration.

Reference to the investigations he made of the SRA he said:

Q. Did you request Mr. Chambers * * *?

A. Mr. Chambers knew nothing of that investigation. * * *

And the Director of SRA did not know that the investigation * * * was being made.

Asked with reference to his use of the recording device found locked in his closet at the Senator Hotel which had been removed by the police, he refused to answer any questions concerning it. He testified that he had not used this listening device during the time it was installed in his room at the Senator Hotel.

He was then asked:

Q. Was it ever used by you when it was in your possession?

A. I am unable to answer that question.

Q. Why are you unable to answer it?

A. It doesn't bear on anything having to do with this investigation.

Q. Well, then you refuse to answer the question, is that right?

Am I to understand that?

A. Yes.

From all evidence given by this witness the committee concludes that he was a hired tool in the investigation, willing to perform services he did for the support it brought him.

The committee is of the opinion, however, that his employment with the SRA was so irregular that it may well constitute, both as to the time of his employment and the actual moneys paid to him, an illegal payment of State funds. In this respect it is recommended that the Attorney General conduct a further investigation.

Paul H. Rouse

This witness appearing before the committee seemed to take pride in his reputation as an expert on sound equipment machines. He was, however, extremely embarrassed by photographs taken of him and stated to the committee he saw no reason why he should be revealed to everybody and his brother.

He operates a concern in Los Angeles known as Sound Laboratories. It was on his specific direction that an employee of Rowe by the name of Jack Morris installed the microphone in Speaker Garland's hotel room. It was his recording machine that was found in the closet in Voshell's room.

He stated that he had been hired by Philbrick to continue the lobby investigation that had been commenced by Philbrick during the administration of Governor Merriam. His particular qualification for sleuthing and gestapo activity is his specialized training in sound work secured in Germany. Through him the committee established that working with Philbrick he had installed many dictagraphs in the State. He refused to testify relative to the amount he had been paid from the Governor's secret fund for investigation. (M. Stanley Mosk, the Governor's executive secretary, later supplied this information.)

As to his payment for his services on the Garland investigation he testified as follows:

Q. Oh, you have received no pay whatever for it?

A. That's right.

Q. You are referring to the recently conducted one?

A. That's right.

Q. But you expect to get that pay, don't you?

A. Yes.

Q. From whom?

A. I expect to get it through Howard Philbrick. I don't know who will eventually pay it.

Q. He's the man who hired you?

A. He is the one who directly is the one who hired me, yes.

Q. You expect, but you don't know whether it will come through him, or the State of California or from what funds?

A. I have no idea. I have never even given it a thought.

Q. Did you determine upon an amount of compensation?

A. Not as yet.

* * * * *

Q. Before the SRA investigation you were paid out of the—some fund of the Governor's office?

A. Out of the secret service fund.

As to the amount he was to be paid he testified:

Q. Do you on investigations charge by the day, on the investigation as a contract job, or by the work, or just how do you usually charge?

A. Well on a matter of this type it would be by the results.

This evidence as to manner and amount of payment seems in itself to be a method fostering corruption. Hired tools, whose definite objective attempts to secure information for sale, would be afflicted with the temptation to create it. A natural suspicion attaches to both Rowe and Voshell by reason of the testimony of their rapid changes between themselves as employee and employer. Apparently this method of operation was devised to attempt to clear Voshell of any responsibility for taking State funds from the SRA while doing other work. The fact that Rowe was continuously paid from the Governor's secret fund, whether investigating SRA or legislators, and that Rowe paid Voshell money rather than Voshell paying Rowe money, and the reluctance of both to testify as to their actual investigations of SRA, leads the committee to the conclusion that in actual fact there was no relationship of employee or employer between them; that both were working under the same supervision and looked to the Governor's fund for eventual payment.

As to the whole matter of payment from these Governor's funds the question has never been determined as to whether or not such payments can be legally made. It is recommended that this matter be investigated by the office of the Attorney General on the basis of the testimony had before this committee and a determination made as to whether or not State funds can be used as these funds were.

Conclusion.

This committee concludes its report by stating that the Governor in the public press denied any knowledge of this entire affair.

His denial stands.

His statements condemning the reprehensible activity of his appointees are agreed to by all the people of California. It is to be observed, however, that permitting investigations unless called for under extraordinary circumstances will always have the inevitable conclusion that this one had unless they lead to worse things, such as character assassination or blackmail.

The committee trusts that in the future the Governor's funds will be reserved for the peculiar purpose for which they have been appropriated—that is, essentially State use for which specific statutory authorization exists, that the secret fund be confined to the purpose for which it has been enacted—that is, situations of great or unusual emergency.

From its investigation the committee recommends:

First—That further and additional restrictions be placed upon the secret service fund of the Governor's office or it should be eliminated from the budget entirely.

Second—That the Attorney General investigate and render his opinion upon the use of the secret service fund for purely investigating purpose, including investigations of members of the Legislature, particularly in an instance where there is no probable reason to believe that the member has been guilty of any offense.

Third—That the Attorney General of the State investigate the payment to Robert E. Voshell of money from the funds appropriated for the State Relief Administration, and determine whether or not money was paid to him on false vouchers, and if so to proceed with proper action.

Fourth—That the Fifty-fourth Session of the Legislature enact appropriate legislation abolishing the use of dictagraphs and sound equipment for the purpose of secretly recording conversations except when approved by a court of competent jurisdiction on application of the Attorney General.

Respectfully submitted.

Report of Minority Members of the Assembly Investigating Committee on Interference with the Legislature.

The minority members certainly do not condone the invasion of the privacy of any member of the Assembly and we join the majority members of the committee in condemning the activities of the private investigators responsible for this incident. We had therefore hoped that there would be no need of two reports and that all members of the committee could unite upon a factual presentation to the honorable members of the Assembly.

However, candor requires recognition that politics played a major role throughout the entire incident. While the original planting of the dictagraph in the hotel suite of Speaker Garland must be attributed to over-zealous work of detectives investigating corrupt lobbying, the eagerness with which this investigation was pursued, the publicity attendant thereto, and the vindictiveness of the majority report must be considered partisan anti-administration politics.

The charge that politics have figured prominently in this investigation is not made loosely. The majority report itself refers to "many rumors and reports that certain members of the Legislature" were on so-called "purge lists" and that "re-election campaigns were instituted against these members," among them being Speaker Gordon H. Garland and other anti-administration personalities. These references to "ugly rumors" of a political character, which have no place in a legislative committee report, the transcript of testimony itself, and the zeal with which the majority members of this committee have wandered outside of the four corners of the transcript and have resorted to surmises and conjectures to establish apparently preconceived conclusions are all politically significant.

In the second place, it is significant that at no time were all of the members of this committee consulted on the procedure or objectives to be adopted, the witnesses to be called, the strategy proposed in questioning witnesses. A small clique within the committee pursued the matter gathered whatever evidence it saw fit to present, subpoenaed all witnesses, made press releases, planned the complete agenda, and merely presented the committee membership with a fait accompli.

The majority report contains a section entitled "Obstruction of Committee." We know of no such obstruction and can under no circumstances consider the misgivings of prospective witnesses concerning the legality of the committee to be "obstruction." In fact, at least one member of the committee itself had doubts of its power to investigate an invasion of the personal privacy of a member of the Legislature, in the belief that such an investigation was one for law enforcement authorities and that a public body can not properly be concerned with private or personal privacy. Although at least two witnesses indicated their doubts of the legality of the committee, it must be pointed out that after the Attorney General and the Legislative Counsel determined the validity of this committee's powers, the witnesses volunteered to appear and testify.

An analysis of the transcript of testimony indicates that Mr. Howard Philbrick, then Director of the Department of Motor Vehicles, employed a firm known as the Sound Laboratory, and owned by a Mr. Paul Rowe of Los Angeles, to continue the corrupt lobbying investigation formerly known as the Philbrick Investigation and which culminated in the "Philbrick Report." Mr. Rowe in turn employed a Mr. Robert Voshell, who supervised the planting of the dictagraph in the living room of Speaker Garland's suite in the Senator Hotel, frequented by lobbyists.

While Mr. Philbrick disclaimed any knowledge of the planting of a dictagraph in Mr. Garland's suite, he freely admitted that he had employed Mr. Rowe.

However, full credence must be given to the testimony of Mr. Philbrick that he did not know of the planting of this dictagraph, since he is thoroughly corroborated by the positive testimony under oath by Mr. Rowe and Mr. Voshell, and since not one statement of evidence was introduced by any witness to indicate any knowledge of it given to or received by Mr. Philbrick.

It was apparent on the day when the investigation was first authorized by legislative resolution that the goal of the small clique guiding the proceedings of the committee was to "get" Howard Philbrick. That the motive amounted almost to persecution is nowhere more clearly indicated than in House Resolution No. 104, introduced on May 23, 1940, by Mr. Call, chairman of this committee. Although Mr. Philbrick is now employed in private industry and has no connection whatsoever with State service, Mr. Call has introduced this resolution designed to investigate his present employment. When an individual is subjected to legislative investigation while engaged in business activities in no manner concerning this Legislature, we may look upon such investigation and investigators with suspicion of "gestapo prying," to use the very words of the majority members of this committee.

Aspersions are cast upon Colonel Charles F. Henderson, then military aide on the Governor's staff, because he purchased a recording machine from the Federal Laboratories through a Mr. George Cake, which, as he explained, was used for the purpose of recording the Governor's extemporaneous speeches. The evidence conclusively shows that the machine purchased by Colonel Henderson was not the dictagraph used by Mr. Voshell and seized by the police department of the city of Sacramento in Mr. Voshell's room. Colonel Henderson voluntarily produced his sound recorder in the Assembly hearing room in Los Angeles and it was contrasted with the Voshell machine introduced into evidence by police officers. Colonel Henderson testified that he had no knowledge of a dictagraph being placed in Mr. Garland's suite until so informed by Mr. Garland's public statement.

There is no justification for insinuations to the contrary in the fact that Colonel Henderson justifiably declined to testify concerning matters unrelated to this incident and beyond the scope of the committee's inquiry, which was necessarily limited to this dictagraph episode. The committee had no legal or moral right to condemn or criticize any witness for properly refusing to testify to matters outside the scope of this investigation.

M. Stanley Mosk, Executive Secretary to the Governor, was called relative to a check cashed by Voshell in the Senator Hotel, Sacramento, on January 3, 1940. Since on January 3d the Legislature was not in session and did not meet until January 29th, and there is no evidence that Mr. Garland was in Sacramento at that time, full credence must be given to his uncontroverted testimony that the check given to Mr. Rowe's company was for extraneous services rendered in SRA investigations in the months of October, November and December of 1939, and had no connection whatsoever with the dictagraph incident. The majority report concedes it "is of the view that this witness testified truthfully."

The majority committee members seek to raise an issue in their asserted belief that secret service funds were used in this matter. Yet in their own quotation from the testimony of Mr. Paul Rowe, they cite his testimony:

Q. "Oh, you have received no pay whatever for it?"

A. "That's right."

The testimony of Secretary Mosk establishes that the fund was at the disposal of all department heads in the Executive Department, and that expenditures therefrom were made by him upon the request of department heads. Simple analysis corroborates this, for it would be ridiculous to assume that the Legislature appropriated $15,000 to the Governor's office for the purpose of investigating the Governor's office; obviously the fund was created and the moneys appropriated for investigations to be conducted by and in the various executive departments, through individual department heads.

It must be realized that there is a force of twenty-five employees on the staff of the Governor, each with his individual responsibilities, duties and power to exercise reasonable discretion. There are also twenty-two department heads, each with his individual responsibilities and with even a wider latitude of discretion. To believe that each employee or even one of the members of his staff and each department head continually report their minute individual activities, extra-curricular political endeavors, and their efforts to promote public welfare, is to ignore reality. It is not difficult under our complicated governmental structure to believe that each acts upon his own initiative in countless routine and discretionary operations every day in the week.

The majority members of the committee infer that the Governor and his staff maintained a recalcitrant attitude toward this investigation and infer that the Governor's veto of Assembly Bill 64, which appropriated necessary funds, was the result of this attitude. This is obviously misrepresentation, for Assembly Bill 64 was vetoed by the Governor for entirely different reasons and his veto was signed prior to the introduction of the resolution creating this committee.

We adopt in our report the conclusion of the majority members that "this committee concludes its report by stating that the Governor in the public press denied any knowledge of this entire affair. His denial stands." No other conclusion would be possible by even the most partisan anti-administration individual after reading the complete transcript of testimony taken.

We must refuse to join in the conclusions of the majority members of the committee, particularly in regard to its call for additional restrictions to be placed upon the secret service fund of the Governor's office. Nowhere in the transcript of testimony is there one line of evidence to indicate that any of the parties responsible for the dictagraph incident were paid out of the secret service funds. We can not, therefore, permit the hysteria created and politically fostered to be the basis for any far reaching legislative enactments. We have no quarrel, however, with the fourth conclusion, providing that such legislation will not hamper law enforcement authorities in their normal duties.

We feel that some good came from this investigation, and have every reason to doubt that there shall be any similar incident in the future wherein it could be interpreted as "interference with the Legislature" or not. On the other hand, our effect on lobbying interference with the Legislature, a scope scrupulously avoided by this committee, will doubtless be negligible.

Respectfully submitted.

F. RAY BENNETT.

Reply to Minority Report.

In view of the shocking inaccurate statements made in the Minority Report, incidentally signed by only one member out of seven, the majority submit this supplementary report. Politics played no part in this investigation. The committee of seven was as evenly divided as could be done without cutting a member in half. There were four Democrats and three Republicans, and everyone with the single exception of the dissenter signed the majority report.

The statement that rumors of purges had no part in the report, is a conclusion that is hardly justified after the Governor's repeated public statements that he will "purge every member of the Legislature who differs with him." As to the "objection of the committee," every effort was made by high officials of the administration to prevent the learning of the truth. Philbrick, Mosk and Henderson, who ultimately confessed, refused to testify until after Voshell had exposed them. The reference to the living room of Speaker Garland being frequented by lobbyists is a contemptible misstatement on the record, for Voshell, the man who spent two weeks snooping on the private conversations of the Speaker and his wife admitted that they drew a blank. The statement that the goal of a small clique was to get Howard Philbrick is a deliberate misstatement. In connection with this investigation no one had the slightest idea of the person or persons who were responsible for this outrage. So far as "getting Mr. Philbrick," he confessed his full responsibility. So far as Charles F. Henderson's statements are concerned, Mr. George Cake, a thoroughly disinterested person, would indicate Henderson's connection with this was thoroughly reprehensible. The statement that the Governor's veto of the bill to provide funds for this investigation was done prior to the introduction of the resolution creating this investigation, is a deliberate misstatement. That is proven untrue by the clock. The resolution was introduced at 11 o'clock in the morning, the Governor vetoed the bill at 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

We submit this correction of the misstatements briefly and in temperate language, being restricted from the use of the appropriate language by legislative courtesies, which the minority certainly has forfeited.

Mr. Bennett, also makes reference to a resolution introduced by the chairman concerning Philbrick's recent new appointment, and states that the introduction of the resolution was proven "persecution" of Philbrick, because it requested an investigation of Philbrick's appointment. This statement is equally false as most of the minority report. The record will show that the resolution referred to did not request an investigation; did not even criticise Philbrick's appointment, nor the motion picture industry for employing him. It merely condemned publicity incident to the appointment to the effect that the appointment was made because of meritorious services to the State.

Motion to Print Communications in Journal.

On motion of Mr. Poulson, the following communications were ordered printed in the Journal.

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, DEPARTMENT OF FINANCE,
SACRAMENTO, May 23, 1940.

*To the Assembly of the State of California,
Sacramento, California.*

GENTLEMEN: We have reviewed the report submitted on May 7, 1940, by Price-Waterhouse & Company to the Joint Senate-Assembly Legislative Fact-Finding Committee and printed on pages 499 to 521 of the Assembly Journal of May 16, 1940, (first extraordinary session) and submit herein our observations relative thereto:

The comments contained on page 499, especially those concerned with the necessity for making assumptions because of existing accounting methods, are casual and lack a fundamental appreciation of the magnitude of operations. They represent a veiled attempt to relate recording procedures generally adapted to the needs of a corner grocery to those of an establishment which has been disbursing over one hundred thousand dollars daily under specific legal and fiscal regulations.

The differences between the position as at February 15, 1940, reported by the Department of Finance to the Assembly and that established by Price-Waterhouse & Company were explained by accountants of the Department of Finance at an executive meeting of the joint committees of the Legislative Fact-Finding Committee. For purpose of record we desire to reiterate our contentions by a restatement of the reconciling factors which appear on page 502 of the Journal.

Item I. Reversion of unliquidated encumbrances $1,179,423.

It will be well to bear in mind that the estimates which represent this aggregate were in existence and in evidence at close of business February 15. The Legislature had not as yet enacted any provisions with respect to reduced appropriations and limitations of activity. Without any expression of legislative intent, the encumbrances were valid and in line with a continuation of the existing program and prognostication of the relief load. The reversions made by the Relief Administration subsequent to February 15, 1940, were the direct result of curtailed operations enjoined upon it by law.

The note referring to an error of $264,817 and "explained" on page five of the report presents a conclusion which is basically incorrect and due to a reprehensible failure of Price-Waterhouse & Company auditors to establish the actual facts. The amount of $1,077,849 reported by the Department of Finance as unliquidated encumbrances for salaries and wages was entirely correct. The distribution of the amount between February and preceding periods was entered on information hastily secured by teletype. The designation actually appearing on the report prepared by the Department of Finance was "Wages and salaries to February 29, inclusive." Since the amount was correct in total as stated, it was not considered essential to rectify the explanatory designation after the resolution had been printed in the Journal. The Price-Waterhouse auditors obtained from some source a detail of one of the component items and, without verifying the aggregate, arrived at an unwarranted conclusion.

Item II. Exclusion of encumbrances relating to other periods $720,102.

This deals obviously with numerous outstanding estimates covered in some instances by purchase orders for items not yet delivered to warehouses. Provisions for payment had to be reserved without opportunity to utilize the corresponding funds for relief. It must be understood in this connection that Price-Waterhouse accountants also had erroneously excluded from consideration the second half of February with regard to payroll and contractual obligations which had to be reserved even if the Relief Administration had closed its doors on February 15.

Item III. Exclusion of "back log" of emergency relief orders $170,000.

The reasoning for such exclusion as developed on pages 503 and 504 is faulty and again demonstrates a misunderstanding of actualities. The referrals represent inchoate obligations which can not readily be converted into recordable figures. Obviously, no posting could be made of amounts until the values of professional services were later ascertained. Since the medical program was heavily curtailed upon the effective date of the new legislation, the fact that only $10,000 of such referrals were reported outstanding as of March 31, 1940, has absolutely no bearing on the situation as at February 15.

Item IV. Material and supplies on hand $506,000.

In a development of the cash position it would seem that an inventory of supplies on hand has no place whatsoever. Inventories do not fluctuate to any great extent and government accounting, generally, removes such inventories from cash consideration, on the assumption that they are practically the same at the beginning and at the end of a fiscal period.

The considerations which govern our discussion of the Price-Waterhouse statement with respect to the position as at February 15, apply with even greater force to the statement of position as of March 31, reflected on page 503 of the report. Your attention is invited to the reconciliation appearing herewith:

Reconciliation of SRA Records to Price-Waterhouse Audit Report for Available Balance at March 31, 1940.

Appropriation available to March 31, 1940		$42,100,000 00
Chap. 608 Stats. 1939	$35,000,000 00
Chap. 5 Stats. 1940	1,600,000 00
Chap. 12 Stats. 1940	5,500,000 00
Expenditures as of March 31, 1940		40,261,643 45
Actual of record	$38,361,189 83
Abatements filed in April applicable to preceding month	90,546 38
Net expenditures	$38,270,643 45
Unliquidated encumbrances	1,991,000 00
Salaries and wages	$658,000 00
Service and expense	249,000 00
Materials and supplies	690,000 00
Emergency orders outstanding	165,000 00
Property and equipment	67,000 00
Reserve for retirement reduction	162,000 00
Cash balance available March 31, 1940		$1,838,356 55
Corresponding balance Price-Waterhouse Report		2,856,000 00
Difference to be reconciled in thousands		$1,018,000 00
Materials and supplies on hand disregarded by SRA	$527,000 00
Property and Equipment disregarded by PW	67,000 00
Retirement deduction reservation disregarded by PW	162,000 00
Service and expense underestimated by PW	4,000 00
Purchases not delivered disregarded by PW	348,000 00
Total	$1,108,000 00
Less abatements applicable to March disregarded by PW	90,000 00

Please note in particular that Price-Waterhouse accountants excluded from consideration any reservation for retirement deductions which on ruling of the Attorney General is a rather "live" commitment and entirely overlooked the asset represented by abatements filed in April but applicable in March. These two items aggregating in excess of a quarter of a million dollars, are cited, not in disparagement of the effort exerted by the Price-Waterhouse accountants. We are pointing out, however, that the magnitude of the task is such that many pertinent factors escape the attention of the best of technicians who can not be expected to be as conversant with the situation as accountants of the Department of Finance who are charged with the duty of keeping in continuous touch with State activities.

In this connection it appears pertinent to express some comment on that portion of the report of the Joint Legislative Fact-Finding Committee which appears in the Assembly Journal of May 14, 1940, under Item J since it touches on the sincerity in meeting provisions of Chapter 12, Statutes of 1940.

The tabulation appearing hereunder shows that the reductions made by the administration which as of March 31, 1940, resulted in a cash balance of $1,838,000 were made possible only because of the budget cuts.

Statement of Comparison Between Original Budget and Revised Budget as at March 31, 1940.

	Original budget	Actual and estimated	Increase or decrease (-)
State -----	$626,600 00	$493,965 03	$-132,634 97
Local -----	2,486,500 00	1,945,899 30	-540,600 70
Total administration-----	$3,113,100 00	$2,439,864 33	$-673,235 67

SRA work projects-----	133,100 00	34,992 82	-98,107 18
Total work program-----	$554,800 00	$153,468 83	$-401,331 37
Additions and betterments-----	$257,115 00	$4,065 65	$-253,019 35
Contributions to employees' retire- ment system-----		$57,719 92	$57,719 92
Total -----	$19,696,036 00	$14,229,479 62	$-5,466,556 38

As evidenced by the foregoing, the amount of $5,466,556.38 represents the aggregate reduction in State Relief Administration expenditures from those originally contemplated. Items contributing to the reduction are segregated as follows:

Unanticipated reduction in case load-----	$2,146,000	39.26%
Budget cuts-----	1,335,000	24.42%
Property and equipment-----	253,000	4.63%
SRA work programs-----	98,000	1.79%
Advances to cooperatives-----	304,000	5.56%
Contributions to WPA-----	4,000	.07%
Surplus commodity distribution-----	274,000	5.01%
Medical Program-----	43,000	.79%
Single men's camps-----	394,000	7.21%
Administration -----	673,000	12.31%
Less increase in provision for retirement deduction-----	(58,000)	(1.05%)

Total ----- $5,466,000 100.00%

It will be noted that the budget cuts amounted to less than a quarter of the reductions effected. Furthermore, were it not for the unanticipated reduction in load, the State Relief Administration would have operated as of March 31, 1940, with a deficit exceeding $300,000, even after institution of all economies established under legislative pressure. Before the trend of the relief load could be observed, the budget cuts authorized under section 3a of Chapter 12, Statutes of 1940, appeared then as the only available means to meet the situation and would have so appeared to any intelligent executive not endowed with the gift of prophecy.

Very truly yours,

JOHN R. RICHARDS,
Director of Finance
May 24, 1940.

*Hon. John R. Richards, Director, Department of Finance,
State Capitol, Sacramento, California.*

DEAR MR. RICHARDS: As chairman of the Sub-Auditing Committee of the Joint-Senate-Assembly Legislative Fact-Finding Committee, I think it necessary to make a few brief comments upon your letter of May 23, addressed to the Assembly and the Senate.

In my opinion, the letter is a smoke-screen attempting to challenge the statement of Price-Waterhouse & Company on the basis that you refer to them as good accountants who know nothing about State financing and infer that they would be better equipped to audit the corner grocery than they would to audit the State Relief Administration. I am surprised that you, in plain English, accuse them of not knowing what they were doing.

There is no necessity for me to defend Price-Waterhouse but I will state that they are definitely recognized as one of the leading accounting firms of the Nation and also recognized internationally. They audit businesses so much larger than that which your Department of Finance audits that I again state that I am surprised to note that someone like yourself would suggest such a type of argument in defending your position.

If you will refer to the report which our committee issued, you will note that this is by no means the only misstatement made by the Department of Finance under the signature of the Director of Budgets and Accounts.

I wish to again make this statement as to your accounting procedure. The Department of Finance in establishing its system of accounting for SRA has endeavored to pattern the operating procedure after that of the accounting procedure instead of using the accounting procedure to record that of the operations. In other words, they are making the tail wag the dog.

Very truly yours,

NP:BP

NORRIS POULSON.

On motion of Mr. Poulson, the following communication was ordered printed in the Journal.

CALIFORNIA STATE RELIEF ADMINISTRATION,
ROOM 126, STATE CAPITOL BUILDING,
SACRAMENTO, CALIFORNIA, May 23, 1940.

Mr. Norris Poulson, Chairman, Subcommittee on Auditing,

Assembly Chambers, State Capitol Building, Sacramento, California.

DEAR MR. POULSON: There appears a statement in the Senate Journal of May 16, 1940, page 454 to the effect that your Audit Committee examined documents for purchases of typewriters made in the last two years by the State Relief Administration, and by such audit you "were able definitely to ascertain the numbers of the twenty-two typewriters purchased in the last two years which are not included in the inventory given by the State Relief Administration."

You will recall that you furnished me with the serial numbers of the typewriters mentioned, and I wish to report to you that a further examination on the part of your Audit Committee would have revealed that each of the twenty-two typewriters was correctly accounted for on the books of the State Relief Administration as per the enclosed schedule.

A summary of this schedule shows the following:

(1) Eight of the typewriters were actually shown on inventories or supplemental inventories or letters of explanation attached to inventories submitted to your committee as of March 31, 1940. Several of these typewriters were incorrectly reported as to serial number, but were later corrected and copy of correction letters were sent to your committee.

(2) Four of the typewriters had been returned to the vendors as defective and were replaced by new equipment of different serial numbers. This can be confirmed by correspondence with the vendors involved.

(3) Three of the typewriters have been reported as stolen. In such cases we have filed police reports in the location from which they were stolen and survey reports with the State Department of Finance.

(4) Two of the typewriters were destroyed by fire which razed the Imperial County State Relief Administration office in the latter part of last year. Survey reports have been filed with the State Department of Finance on both of these items.

(5) Five of the typewriters were contributions in lieu of cash to WPA sponsored projects.

I shall be glad to furnish your committee copies of all documents pertaining to and supporting the above statements should you so request.

Yours truly,

E. A. SERAFINO,
Chief Accounting Officer.

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, OFFICE OF THE CONTROLLER,
SACRAMENTO, May 24, 1940.

*Assemblyman Norris Poulson,
State Capitol, Sacramento, California.*

DEAR MR. POULSON: Conforming to your request relative to reconciling the explanation forwarded to you by Mr. E. A. Serafino, Chief Accounting Officer of the State Relief Administration concerning the typewriter inventory report, which disclosed that 22 typewriters purchased by the SRA during the period from January 1, 1938, to March 31, 1940, as missing, we are using the report as submitted to clarify our deductions as follows:

Each item of typewriters as listed will be referred to as numbered from 1 to 22, inclusive.

- (1) Underwood No. 3987574—Erroneously reported on SRA inventory as No. 3857574.
- (2) Remington No. 424923—This machine was found to be listed on the inventory as claimed.
- (3) Remington No. 432068—Erroneously reported on SRA inventory as No. 432065.
- (4) Woodstock No. 535055—A copy of letter which was sent to the Lassen County SRA office is attached to the inventory. This letter was sent by Mr. Serafino inquiring about this discrepancy in serial numbers with the request that the discrepancy be confirmed. This copy of the letter is a request and no actual confirmation was attached or received by the Controller's office. Therefore such a letter can not be considered as sufficient authority to change the officially certified copy of inventory as submitted.
- (5) Woodstock No. 535087—No letter received as confirmation to change the serial number of this machine.
- (6) Woodstock No. 535109—Inquiry letter attached but no confirmation received. Same reason for not changing official records as outlined in No. 4.
- (7) Woodstock No. 535146—No confirmation received to officially change the number of this machine on the official inventory.
- (8) Woodstock No. 536461—No supplementary inventory received relative to this machine.
- (9) Royal No. 2328799—Controller's records were compiled from paid invoices and claims, therefore any machine which was exchanged for another machine after purchase was effected would not be a record of the Controller's office. Machine No. 2321757 which was exchanged for the original purchase does appear on the SRA inventory as submitted.

- (10) Royal No. 2329933—This machine was exchanged for No. 2322529 and appears on the SRA inventory as submitted. The reason for reporting this machine as missing is the same as in No. 9.
- (11) Royal No. 2342674—This machine was exchanged for No. 2361254 and appears on the SRA inventory as submitted. The reason for reporting this machine as missing is the same as No. 9.
- (12) Remington No. 432085—This machine was exchanged for No. 432520 and appears on the SRA inventory as submitted. The reason for reporting this machine as missing is the same as No. 9.
- (13)—(14)—(15) Mr. Serafino reports that these machines were actually stolen and police reports have been filed accordingly, which accounts for them being reported as missing.
- (16)—(17) Mr. Serafino reports that these machines were destroyed by fire in Imperial County, which accounts for them being reported as missing.
- (18)—(19)—(20)—(21)—(22) Mr. Serafino reports that these machines were charged to "Materials for WPA" which accounts for them being reported as missing.

Respectfully submitted.

HARRY B. RILEY, State Controller.

By CLARENCE H. SMITH, Deputy State Controller.

CHS/mh.

May 24, 1940.

Mr. E. A. Serafino, Chief Accounting Officer.

State Relief Administration, Sacramento, California.

DEAR MR. SERAFINO: I acknowledge receipt of your letter of May 23, and in turn will present the answer to your letter by a statement from the Controller's office.

Your personal ability has never been questioned but the system under which you are operating is certainly the basis of criticism. I further realize that this system is prescribed by the Department of Finance.

You will note that you furnished the inventories which had the incorrect serial numbers listed.

Also note that you do not challenge the statement of approximately 3,000 typewriters on hand, or one typewriter for every two employees, including truck drivers.

Yours truly,

NORRIS POULSON.

On motion of Mr. Call, the following argument by Mr. Schneiderman, in opposition to Assembly Bill No. 1, Fifty-third (Fourth Extraordinary) Session, outlawing the Communist Party in California, was ordered printed in the Journal:

Argument by Mr. Schneiderman.

The Congress of this United States has not found us guilty of these charges and neither has the Legislature of any State of the Union. If I had the time I would present you with legal opinions, however, I have to speak extemporaneously. The Attorney General of the State of Texas is an old fashioned American who believes that the Constitution means what it says and denied that the Communist Party be ruled off the ballot. The State of Kentucky likewise ruled that the Communist Party has the right to express their opinions other than the prevailing political groups. At this session you will vote to wipe out the party for defense. It is neither defense by a legislative body which denies these rights to a political minority, and the kind of a legislative body that exists under Fascist dictatorships.

I would like to quote to you from the Constitution of our party, the official document upon which our program is based, in order to indicate that the wording of this bill does not apply to our party, and that, if this bill is passed and is applied, it will be unjustly so.

From the Preamble of the Communist Party * * * is a working class political party carrying forward today the traditions of Jefferson, Jackson, Lincoln and the Declaration of Independence. It is similar to the United States Constitution against its reactionary enemies who would destroy all popular liberties. It is devoted to the immediate interests of all toilers, and the preparation for the working class to unite and lead the American people to extend these Democratic principles * * *.

From Article 6, Rights and Duties of Members of the Communist Party of the United States: "Support the democratic achievements of the American people. It opposes with all its power any circle, group, clique or party which acts to subvert or undermine or overthrow American Democracy, where the American people have maintained power to control their own destiny. The Communist Party, standing unqualified, will fight with all its strength against any and every effort, whether it comes from abroad or within, to impose upon our people the arbitrary view of any party, clique." * * *.

A few years ago it was not fashionable to say anything against Hitler and Fascism. * * * At that time we were fighting Fascism both here and abroad. Today it is fashionable for everybody to attempt to subvert American Democracy under the guise of national defense, of a national emergency, against the threat of foreign invasion, and it is precisely these people who are pointing the finger at us that we are the danger to the country.

I am proud to say that our party has for many years been carrying on the fight against Fascist element within the country and from abroad. The only party in Germany today that is fighting Hitler and Fascism is the Communist Party of Germany, and the same is true of every country where Fascist dictatorship has established itself.

Article 8. The supreme authority of the Communist Party is the National Convention. In other words, there is no other body inside or outside that has the authority to dictate to our party its policies, regardless of what you may say or what you may believe from press propaganda.

Article 11. The Communist Party is affiliated with the Communist Internationale. Resolutions and decisions of international congresses shall be considered and acted upon by the supreme authority, the Communist Party of the U. S. A.

Now one final quote. I can't find it so I will quote it from memory. Our Constitution provides that any advocate of methods of terrorism or violence is subject to immediate expulsion from our party. Only a few months ago we expelled Mr. Humphreys of Oakland because he advocated carrying on tactics of force and violence. We believe only provocateurs injected into the party by alien elements can be responsible for such tactics.

I see that I have only a few minutes left. I think that you gentlemen should consider well what you are voting on tonight, because when you vote to outlaw the Communist Party with as little political, legal or constitutional basis as you have in this bill, you are voting to scrap the Bill of Rights and to ignore the State and Federal Constitutions. I do not believe this bill can stand up in the courts or the United States Supreme Court, and I base this on my legal opinions.

I would like to call to your attention—to those of you who think, perhaps sincerely, that you are striking a blow for Democracy when you are taking this action. Let me remind you of Hitler whose first job was to suppress the Communist Party, and then the Socialist Party, the Catholic Party, the trade unions and the people as well. The favorite technique of Fascism is to strike first at the Communists and strike then at the other factions.

I would like to say that there are members in this Assembly, and high officials in this State, who met with leaders in the Communist Party only two years ago at election time to discuss with us the question of supporting them for election. They did not think we were subversive or un-American then. And I would like to name none other than the Governor of this State.

(Speaker: No demonstrations.)

They wanted the support of workers who took our advice in trade unions or other organizations. We haven't changed our colors, but it looks like the Governor and certain other former Liberals have changed. I do not think that they represent the people of the State or of their districts. Some of them have been defeated and repudiated. One of them, the gentleman who made the motion to introduce me here tonight, may recall that when he started a campaign against Communists his own union voted him out of office.

You can not outlaw an idea by passing a motion if it has validity and support among the people. You are not voting to outlaw the ideals of Communism, but the American constitutional rights for political minorities.

Many people who are not Communists will nevertheless support our right to have our say and to have candidates on the ballot and to speak our piece under the laws of this land. Once that Constitution is violated you are on the road to Fascism which all your talk will not prevent.

We Communists are 100 per cent for the defense of this country. We will fight against any Fascist or foreign invasion. The people of France were betrayed not by the Communists but by—

(Point of order taken. Suggestion to give speaker five minutes longer. Seconded, and unanimous consent.)

May I remind you that the leaders of France also used patriotic slogans and spoke about defense of France, but they betrayed the people because they suppressed and outlawed Communists and trade unions.

If we are to go down that road, let us not forget that we can not fight for Democracy by suppressing Communists.

We are fighting for certain social and labor legislation and for the rights of the unemployed. We are not fighting for Socialism. We do not think Socialism can be established in America until a majority of the people vote for it. We don't intend to do more in the meantime but to carry on our educational work. We are a large group of people active in trade unions and the political life of the country. When you aim to suppress us, you aim at those who are fighting for the unemployed and the under-privileged. The time will come when those of you who vote the way you plan to do will have to reckon with the people.

Let me quote from Victor Hugo: "There is something mightier than an army, and that is an idea whose time has come."

Reassembled.

At five o'clock and fifteen minutes p.m., the Assembly reconvened. Hon. Gordon H. Garland, Speaker of the Assembly, in the chair.

Motion to Print Report of the Joint Fact-finding Committee on Employment in the Journal.

On motion of Mrs. Daley, the following Report of the Joint Fact-Finding Committee on Employment was ordered printed in the Journal:

Report of Chairman of Subcommittee on Employment Service.

Adopted by Legislative Advisory Committee on Defense and Employment.

Mobilization for Employment.

In the Report of the Joint Legislative Fact-Finding Committee on Employment, it was pointed out that "The major factor in solving California's relief problem must be a 'Mobilization for Employment'." And that "in this the State, which hitherto has done little or nothing, must become an aggressive leader. Business must be made to understand the choice between cooperation and taxation; between mobilization to meet an emergency as serious as war, and moral and financial bankruptcy." It then comments on the plan developed in Pennsylvania and continues "The committee recommends that the Legislature keep constantly in touch with the Pennsylvania mobilization."

It is the purpose, therefore, of this report (1) to give an account of the Pennsylvania Plan; (2) to report on the unemployment problem in California; and (3) to recommend a plan of mobilization for employment to be carried out in the State.

The Pennsylvania Plan.

History—When the Pennsylvania Plan was introduced, relief costs in that State had risen from $7,500,000 for the year 1931-1932 to $132,000,000 for the year 1938-1939. By mid-September of 1939, more than 273,129 cases were on relief (828,195 persons were included in this number).

At this point the Joint State Government Commission, a non-partisan board of State Legislators, agreed that the relief burden must be reduced and that EMPLOYMENT was the soundest method.

This Legislative Commission and the Governor (Arthur H. James), and members of the Governor's Cabinet agreed the responsibility of any reemployment effort should rest upon those best fitted to know about the subject, to wit: The businessmen of the State. They, therefore, proceeded to take the following steps:

A subcommittee of the State Legislature called on Mr. Walter D. Fuller, President of the Curtis Publishing Company, and urged him to organize and head a reemployment movement. This was agreed to on the three following conditions:

- 1—That the "grass roots" methods be applied and the solution found in the local knowledge and responsibility of unemployment, relief and taxation.
- 2—That business be encouraged and stimulated in every proper way so as to create jobs in private business in contrast to temporary expedients such as "give-a-job" pleas or high-pressure ballyhoo.
- 3—That no one be misled into expecting a miracle, but that the campaign be an honest and hopeful effort to do as much good as possible, in view of the business recession and other handicaps.

The following is a copy of letter dated September 12, 1940, from Mr. Walter D. Fuller, explaining the exact organization of the Mobilization Plan:

"This is in reply to your recent letter relative to the Pennsylvania Job Mobilization Movement.

"This particular activity was not created by act of the Legislature, nor did we have any appropriation to meet the cost. It was started by a so-called 'Joint Legislative Committee of the House and Senate,' who asked me to form a committee to see what could be done about reemployment. The Governor joined with the Joint Legislative Committee in this connection.

"A very large organization was then built up and it became quickly evident that we must have money. About $12,000 was raised among businessmen by a Finance Committee which I established. This paid the salaries of the director and of certain of his most active assistants, that is, a publicity man, radio specialist, statistician, etc. It also covered my traveling expenses and a few other items of this nature.

"We secured a loan of employees from the Department of Public Assistance and a further loan from the Labor Department, which controls the employment offices of the State. These people were loaned to us and the Department of Public Assistance paid the bills for printed matter, office equipment, postage, etc. Altogether, about $44,000 of the State's money was spent, this money being part of the appropriations of these two departments, and in addition we spent the $12,000 which we raised. Since the matter was handled in this fashion, there were no legislative enactments of any kind.

"Thank you very much for the kind things you say about the Pennsylvania effort. It was really remarkably successful—far more so than any of us thought possible when we began."

Result of Pennsylvania Plan—Five months' work resulted in at least 100,000 new jobs in private industry. "That the effect on the relief situation of this movement, which benefited all types of unemployed, was great is indicated by the fact that at the end of the first four months of 1940 there were 51,508 fewer cases, or 154,240 fewer persons on the State's general assistance rolls than for the same period of 1939, and the monthly cost was $1,483,325 lower. The net reduction in relief expenditure during these four months in 1940 compared with the same period a year ago amounted to $5,722,331."

It was found that although there were more than a million unemployed in the State, 12,000 job opportunities could not be filled as no qualified workers were available through the State Employment Service. Studies indicated a definite shortage of skilled workers in Pennsylvania in approximately 300 occupational classifications. Vocational training was stimulated—a little-known plan in use in Williamsport was brought to light and followed in other districts.

The Pennsylvania Committee found that the State was in great need of "a more complete placement service in the local or county offices of the Department of Public Assistance to supplement the work of the State Employment Service." They recommended, too, that such employees be given "a merit rating on the basis of placements made." "And that stress should be placed on securing employment for the relief recipient rather than focussing major attention on the purely administrative detail of disbursing assistance funds."

They also stressed vocational training, and because of the over-supply of teachers in that State, suggested that from three to six of the teachers' colleges be turned into junior vocational colleges.

They recommended that the Department of Labor should inaugurate a field service to facilitate and expand the Pennsylvania Apprenticeship Council and to encourage the reopening of apprenticeship training opportunities in industry.

They asked for a complete retraining study of employables on relief and a study of so-called "unemployables" to determine who among them might be rehabilitated for employment.

They advocated a State Employment Council composed of Secretaries of Labor, Commerce, Public Assistance and Public Instruction which Council would have under it local councils made up of private citizens and representatives of public departments to serve as a clearing house for all matters relating to employment and relief.

The California Problem.

A plan such as that put into effect in Pennsylvania could be somewhat modified to meet present needs in California where the problems are in some respects simpler and in others far more complex than they were in Pennsylvania last November.

Due to the increased employment and industrial expansion going on at this time, the program as it relates to industry would be far easier here today as actual jobs would not have to be created as they were in Pennsylvania. The program would, therefore, consist of an educational campaign among employers to employ persons on relief in this State wherever possible. This could be done by an explanation of the tax and social problems which will be created if, under this vast defense program which will require such heavy taxation, the relief costs are not reduced to a minimum, and if thousands of our citizens remain idle. It appears that industry in this State has been allergic to persons on relief—probably with good reasons when the slack eligibility rules allowed people to be supported with no effort made to get them to work and when relief costs always rose, no matter what industry did.

A program also would have to be instituted within the SRA, vigorously to place relief recipients in private employment, through the California State Employment Service and through other means. At present the SRA has little or no reemployment program, and while it is true that relief recipients are registered with the Employment Service, it is generally believed that they are not frequently offered the available jobs since the applicants who are more eager to get work are deemed better suited to employment. Out-of-state people, therefore, not yet eligible to relief, often get jobs instead of State residents.

There is no need in this report to prove that the relief problem in California is one which is in dire need of a solution. The very excellent and comprehensive report of the Legislative Fact-Finding Committee shows that the Legislature is keenly aware of the evils in the present system, many of which the Legislature has already taken steps to correct. It appears, however, that a program of this kind is greatly needed to shift the emphasis from relief to work and to introduce into the program a new philosophy of work and self-reliance.

The principal problem is one of how the securing of private employment can best be accomplished and in this regard I submit the following recommendations:

- (1) That the Joint Legislative Committee appoint an outstanding California industrialist to head a mobilization for employment campaign and, with his approval, a group of competent men and women representing various activities such as organized labor, education, business, etc., to serve with him;

- (2) That the SRA and the State Department of Employment be asked to cooperate in this plan and wherever necessary to assign certain workers to carry it out;

- (3) That local committees be formed to develop the program to suit the local communities under supervision of the State group;

- (4) That such State committee report its findings to this committee in December so that changes in the Employment Service and the SRA can be recommended to the Legislature in 1941.

Statement by Mr. O'Donnell.

The following statement by Mr. O'Donnell was received, read, and ordered printed in the Journal:

To Jack Carl Greenburg, Chief Clerk of the Assembly:

The message hereto attached was delivered to me on June 4, 1940, the date on which it was written.

SEPTEMBER 22, 1940.
JOHN H. O'DONNELL.

Member of the Assembly, Third District,
STATE OF CALIFORNIA, GOVERNOR'S OFFICE,
SACRAMENTO, JUNE 4, 1940.

To the Members of the Assembly of the State of California.

GREETINGS: I am returning herewith, without my signature, Assembly Bill No. 132, entitled: "An act to amend the title and to add sections 1e, 1f, 1g and 1h to an act entitled 'An act to provide for the acquisition, installation, construction, reconstruction, extension, repair and maintenance of works and improvements mentioned in the Improvement Act of 1911 and of public utilities and other public works by municipalities, cities and counties, counties, unincorporated territory, and by any district or political corporation authorized by law to construct such public improvements, or by combination thereof; for the assessment of the cost and expenses thereof upon the property benefited; and for the issuance of bonds to represent such assessments,' approved June 6, 1913, Statutes of 1913, Chapter 247, as amended by Statutes of 1940, Chapter 35, approved February 29, 1940, relating to districts, political corporations, public corporations and unincorporated territory or any combination thereof, authorized by law to construct such public improvements; relating to the acquiring of legislative jurisdiction thereof; providing that such proceedings shall be subject to the Special Assessment Investigation, Limitation and Majority Protest Act of 1931; and providing that this act shall take effect immediately."

My objections to this bill are as follows: This bill unduly restricts the use of the Municipal Improvement Act of 1913 by requiring that before adopting a resolution of intention thereunder all proceedings must be had, all reports prepared, all hearings conducted, and all limitations complied with under the Special Assessment Investigation, Limitation and Majority Protest Act of 1931, even though a district just created may have just completed proceedings under the District Investigation Act of 1933 for the same project. In its application of the 1931 Act the bill denies the property owners the right to waive such investigation proceedings under section 13 of the 1931 Act and denies the legislative body conducting the proceeding the right to waive the assessment limitation provision under section 10 of the 1931 Act. It also denies such legislative bodies the right to assess not to exceed 10 per cent in excess of the investigation study, as authorized by the 1931 Act, without the consent of the legislative bodies having jurisdiction over the property where the improvements are located.

It appears that one reason for the introduction of this bill was the fear that county sanitation districts might finance the construction of sewers by the levying of special assessments upon property owners within such a sanitation district, without limit.

If it is desirable to impose limitations of the Special Assessment, Investigation, Limitation and Majority Protest Act of 1931 upon sanitation districts, it would appear that this could best be done by an amendment of the 1931 Act to bring sanitation districts within its scope.

I feel that this bill should have more studied consideration at the next session of the Legislature before it becomes law.

Respectfully submitted,

CULBERT L. OLSON,
Governor of California.

Report of Assembly Relief Investigating Committee.

*Hon. Gordon Garland, Speaker,
State Assembly,
Woodlake, California.*

DEAR MR. GARLAND: In reply to your recent request for periodical reports from legislative committees, permit me to advise you that investigation by the Assembly Relief Investigating Committee is continuing although no public hearings are scheduled at this time.

From a study of Communist documents, the committee has been able to uncover more of the plan for "Fifth Column" propaganda operations in California. Information in possession of the committee shows clearly that the plan is being successfully executed by Communists, and their accomplices, appointed by the Olson Administration to positions which have strategic value to the Red "Agitational Propaganda" Department.

The SRA Communists are working among the distressed unemployed. Committee exposures have stopped much of this part of the program but it is still being executed on a smaller scale and in a very guarded manner.

In reaching rural California, the subversive forces in SRA have the support of two other State departments. Carey McWilliams, the State Director of Immigration and Housing, under the guise of camp inspection, is in a position to propagandize farm labor. Harold Sawyer, Secretary to the Farm Debt Adjustment Commission, is in a position to propagandize among distressed, debt burdened farmers while going through the motions of supervising mortgage adjustments.

This is a presently operative plan for stretching the tentacles of poison propaganda to all parts of California. It is being carried out while Governor Olson, who is making it possible, pretends to show concern over "Fifth Columns" in this State. If Olson had any sincere desire to protect the welfare of the citizens of California, he would most certainly forget his political ties and clean house of the Subversive Propagandists whose activities he pretends not to see.

The Governor would do well to postpone his "Purge" of legislators who refused to let him establish a "Dictatorship of Reds" in California until he has cleaned up his blundering administration. There is a reason why no legislator is on the "Purge" list who voted against investigating subversive activities in this State.

Sincerely yours,

(Signed) SAM YORTY,
Chairman Assembly Relief Investigating Committee.

*Hon. Gordon Garland,
Speaker of the Assembly,
Woodlake, California.*

DEAR MR. SPEAKER: Information recently obtained by your Assembly Relief Investigating Committee makes it advisable that the first interim report recently submitted to you be supplemented at this time. The matter brought to your attention here would seem to indicate a need for immediate action by you, both as Speaker of the Assembly, and as a member of the Board of Regents of the University of California.

During the Stockton SRA investigation eighteen employees defiantly refused to tell the committee whether or not they were members of the Communist Party. Some of these employees are known by the committee to be actively engaged in subversive activities. Their refusal to testify before the committee was made the basis of criminal complaints under which three have been convicted. The others are awaiting trial.

Some of these defendants are graduates of the University of California. An attempt has been and is being made by the university to interfere with the administration of justice in these Stockton cases.

Whether authorized to do so, or not, Professor Max Radin, used official university stationery in addressing communications to attorneys in Stockton. In these communications he tearfully described the plight of the defendants and requested that contact be made with the judge before whom they are being tried for the purpose of inducing the court to impose a "light sentence" upon any of them convicted of the offense charged. Mr. Radin also personally contacted attorneys in Stockton in order to further his desire in this matter.

Such use of contacts with attorneys gained through his position at the university is certainly improper conduct on the part of Mr. Radin.

Why is he so concerned over the fate of these Communists who have attempted to undermine the Government of the State of California?

Why does he request special consideration for these particular violators of our State laws?

Mr. Radin's activity in these cases tends to corroborate testimony previously adduced before your committee in which he was named as a "Campus Contact" of the subversive groups. To what extent he has, on other occasions, used his influence as a law professor to interfere with the courts on behalf of subversive groups has not yet been fully determined. Such activity should be immediately stopped.

Respectfully submitted.

(Signed) SAM YORTY.

Committee.

*The Honorable Raymond Dunne,
City Attorney,
Stockton, California.*

DEAR RAY: I understand that the trials of some of the SRA employees for refusal to answer questions of the Yorty Committee will begin tomorrow. You may remember that I spoke to you about them. I feel that they have been rather hardly dealt with. They are all young people and they have, it seems to me, been misled and, I venture to think, not wisely advised. It does not seem to me that they are dangerous or wicked persons.

Further, they have already been severely punished. They have been dismissed from their positions. They were arrested and taken in a police van to the county jail. Some of them were compelled to spend the night in jail. Although they are quite poor people, they were subjected to rather heavy bail. Even if their offense had been one involving moral turpitude it would seem that the punishment inflicted for such young persons is already quite adequate, assuming them to be guilty of a violation of the Penal Code.

If they should be found guilty, I wonder if it would not be proper for you to suggest to the judge that a nominal fine or a suspended sentence would fully meet the needs of justice in the premises. I might call your attention to the fact that in the other counties only one or two persons were selected to be prosecuted, although the difficulties created in those other counties were apparently greater than those in Stockton.

Very sincerely yours,

Max
MAX RADIN.

*Mr. Irving Neumiller,
Stockton, California.*

DEAR DUTCH: I have just written a letter to Ray Dunne to try to soften the blow that I am afraid will be delivered at the poor youngsters in the SRA who have recently been indicted for refusing to answer the questions of the Yorty Committee. These young people are for the most part college graduates. They have been treated pretty harshly. A Black Maria was backed against the office and they were pushed into it. They were put into the Stockton jail which—I say it with all necessary caution—is a notoriously bad one, so bad that the Federal and State authorities have spoken very vigorously about the conditions there. Some of them were kept over night. A vastly too great bail—considering the situation and the extreme unlikelihood that they would fail to appear—was imposed.

Further than that, they have already been severely punished in the fact that they have been summarily dismissed. They are obviously blacklisted and will not be able to get jobs. Even in Tulare County, where the excitement ran high, only one man was selected for prosecution and he was not arrested but received a summons. This in spite of the fact that the feeling in Tulare was extremely high.

I am assuming that they will be convicted. If they are, I wonder whether you could not speak a word for a light sentence to the judge. In fact, anything more than a nominal fine would be extremely severe. I have been told that the judge was formerly in your office. That may or may not facilitate your contact with him.

At any rate, I hope you feel that you can properly do something about it.

Very sincerely yours,

(Signed) Max
MAX RADIN.

MR:C

AUGUST 23, 1940.

*Hon. Gordon Garland,
Speaker of the Assembly,
Woodlake, California.*

DEAR MR. SPEAKER: This third interim report will serve to summarize in a brief way the result of recent hearings held by the Assembly Relief Investigating Committee and a Subcommittee thereof.

In Los Angeles your committee heard the present Relief Administrator, Mr. S. G. Rubinow, who frankly stated that he found the SRA in a deplorable condition when he became head of same. He described a demoralized staff made inefficient by political favoritism and interference. Mr. Rubinow was the first Administrator to state definitely that he felt Communists should be prevented from carrying out their nefarious campaign to mislead the unemployed, bankrupt the State, and wreck the SRA, while acting under the cloak of official positions in the SRA. For the first time an administration spokesman candidly admitted the truth of charges made against the SRA by the Legislature. This, of course, places the Governor in an embarrassing position since he is now endeavoring to "purge" members of the Legislature who insisted that the SRA needed cleaning up. Now that the Governor's own appointee has admitted this fact, it would seem that the Governor should apologize to the men he condemned for forcing his administration to execute its duties in a manner commensurate with the welfare of all of the people of California. If a "purge" is needed, the people should purge those who strove to conceal the unpleasant facts about conditions in the SRA.

The SRA is now requiring members of the staff to make sworn statements that they are not members of subversive organizations. These statements are a fraud on the people of California. They simply require the affiant to say that he is not now a member of any such group. This means that the Communists need only ask leave to withdraw from the Communist Party so as to discontinue their affiliation with same in the technical sense. Then they can sign the statement and continue carrying out the Communist program. These statements, to be of any use, should require signers to state whether or not they have ever been Communists or Nazis, and if so, when and for how long. In their present form they are nothing more than a gesture, apt to fool the citizens into thinking that more effective action is being taken to eliminate Communists and Nazis from the SRA. Mr. Rubinow favors changing the statements to meet the above objections. Whether the Governor will permit him to do so is a matter yet to be decided.

Your committee found that in Los Angeles, a Communist-led Workers Alliance mob of several hundred, forced their way into the offices of the SRA and held three relief officials imprisoned incommunicado, while they harangued them. At the request of your committee, criminal proceedings are now contemplated against the Communist leaders of this demonstration. From its study of Communist tactics your committee sees more in such an occurrence than would appear to the public. Such demonstrations are considered by Communists to be revolutionary training for their followers. Such demonstrations serve to convince these followers that they can safely employ violence in an ever increasing scale against representatives of the government so long as they have enough strength to protect themselves by exerting political pressure on those charged with law enforcement. It is a matter of regret that under the present Los Angeles regime, the police department has been forced to overlook increasing Communist effrontery against government that should never be permitted to go unchecked. After engaging in rowdy demonstrations outside the homes of Anti-Communist members of the Legislature, without police restraint, it is only a short step to imprisonment of relief administrators, and eventually step by step the Communist-led mobs are prepared for the revolution and setting up of a Communist dictatorship. To prevent this, constant vigilance is necessary. Communists must be made to respect the laws of an orderly society. For this reason the committee requested the Relief Administrator to take prompt action against the leaders of the mob that invaded the SRA offices to intimidate the administrators. To wink at illegal mob action is to violate ones oath to uphold the Constitution of the United States, and will pave the way for destruction of democracy.

Your committee found that the same political clique, closely connected with the Governor, who interfered with other relief administrators, were busy attempting to undermine Mr. Rubinow because of his firm stand against political manipulation of SRA. This group is led by the Governor's Secretary, Walter Ballou, who openly charged Mr. Rubinow with sabotaging the Governor's Administration. Ballou apparently considers attempts to properly administer relief for the benefit of the needy and not the politicians, as constituting "sabotage." The SRA would be better off if he would refrain from interfering with it.

Your committee found that the Communists still have too much influence in the SRA but it believes Mr. Rubinow will make a sincere attempt to eliminate such influence if he is permitted to do so.

In San Francisco, five SRA employees who formerly refused to answer questions relative to subversive activities, volunteered to answer such questions if given the opportunity to do so. Three were heard publicly and two presented affidavits. These witnesses frankly admitted that they were duped into protecting the Communist leadership of the CIO Union of relief officials, known as the State, County, and Municipal Workers of America. These witnesses stated they now realize they were urged and instructed not to answer such questions, so as to make it difficult for the committee to distinguish them from the real Communist leaders in this so-called union, who thus endeavored to use the union members as a screen for their subversive activities.

The attorney for the union, according to sworn testimony, actually told these dupes for the Communists that if they told the committee they were not Communists, other witnesses would say they were, and they would be prosecuted for perjury. Thus, he intimidated these employees into committing contempt for no purpose except to protect the Communists who dared not answer the questions put by the committee. There is no doubt that under the guise of giving legal advice, this lawyer frightened employees into following out Communist strategy. This man, Harold Sawyer of San Francisco, was retained by the so-called union by action of the Communist President of said union, John E. Jeffery. Together they apparently executed a conspiracy to interfere with the investigation by your committee. As one of the duped witnesses testified, their chief purpose seemed to be "to thwart the committee." Instead of giving legal advice, this attorney was actually executing an insidious Communist scheme. Your committee requests that you transmit a copy of this report to the California State Bar Association so that it may deal with him in whatever manner seems proper under the circumstances.

No further meetings are scheduled now but your committee has agreed to meet at the call of the chairman.

Respectfully submitted,

SAMUEL WM. YORTY,
Chairman, Assembly Relief Investigating Committee.

Communication.

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC WORKS.

SACRAMENTO, December 1, 1940.

To the Honorable Members of the Assembly of the State of California.

State Capital, Sacramento, California.

GENTLEMEN: Pursuant to the provisions of Assembly Concurrent Resolution No. 5, 1939 Session, I have the honor and pleasure to transmit herewith the report of a survey and study made of the best possible and feasible routings for traffic in the following described area, with and along to the limits of Los Angeles, viz:

The Arroyo Seco and adjacent areas from State Highway Route 205 in and near the northern city limits of the city of Los Angeles to State Highway Route 9 in the general vicinity of Devils Gate Reservoir.

Comments and recommendations may be summarized as follows:

It is quite obvious to our opinion from studies made there is a manifest lack of any definite indication as to what or precisely what, for an extension of Arroyo Seco

Parkway up the Arroyo Bottom to Devils Gate Reservoir. As a matter of fact the data accumulated seems to conclusively prove that neither now, nor for many years to come, will such an expensive improvement be justified.

In direct answer to the wording of the Assembly Concurrent Resolution No. 5 "to study and report on the best possible and feasible route for traffic in Arroyo Seco and adjacent areas from State highway Route 205 in and near the northerly city limits of Los Angeles to State Highway Route 9 in the general vicinity of Devils Gate Reservoir," it is submitted that the best and most feasible solution consistent with good engineering judgment and the economic factors involved, is to use the present existing streets and highways, with the proviso that the present State highway and street system in this area is in need of improvement at many points, and should be improved as soon as funds are available for such purpose.

Very sincerely yours.

FRANK W. CLARK,
Director of Public Works.

The above communication ordered printed in the Journal.

Messages from the Governor.

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, GOVERNOR'S OFFICE.
SACRAMENTO, February 28, 1940.

To the Honorable Members of the Assembly, State of California, Sacramento, California.

GREETINGS: I am returning herewith without my signature, Assembly Bill No. 82, entitled "An act to amend section 27 of the Bank and Corporation Franchise Tax Act, relating to taxes on banks and corporations, and to provide that this act shall take effect immediately."

My objections to this bill are as follows:

This bill simply adds the following to the Bank and Corporation Franchise Tax Act:

"Any tax, interest or penalty erroneously or illegally levied or assessed shall be canceled by the commissioner. The provisions of this particular paragraph are expressly made retroactive to apply to taxable years commencing after June 30, 1938."

This addition is apparently made because the following language appearing in the act prior to the 1939 amendment was apparently left out through an error:

"In the event that a tax has been illegally levied against a taxpayer the commissioner shall certify such fact to the State Board of Control and said board shall authorize the cancellation of the tax upon the records of the commissioner."

As I have before indicated in several messages to you, I believe that it is unwise for an agency which has the power to assess taxes to also have the power to grant refunds or cancellations without a check on such cancellations or refunds by an independent agency, such as the Board of Control. A bill providing such a safeguard may be introduced at the continuation of the special session of the Legislature.

Respectfully submitted.

CULBERT L. OLSON,
Governor of California.

CLO:a

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, GOVERNOR'S OFFICE.
SACRAMENTO, February 28, 1940.

To the Honorable Members of the Assembly, State of California, Sacramento, California.

GREETINGS: I am returning herewith without my signature, Assembly Bill No. 81, entitled "An act to amend section 6.4 of the Alcoholic Beverage Control Act and to add section 54.1 thereto, relating to alcoholic beverages."

My objections to this bill are as follows:

This bill exempts the Exposition Corporation and commissioners of foreign governments from provisions of laws requiring liquor importer's licenses, and relaxes restrictions relating to "on-sale" licenses for the sale of liquor on Treasure Island.

Inasmuch as the bill contains no urgency clause, the effective date of the act would be so late as to make the bill practically inoperative during the 1940 Fair on Treasure Island. A bill with an urgency clause may be introduced at the continuation of the special session of the Legislature.

Respectfully submitted.

CULBERT L. OLSON,
Governor of California

CLO:es

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, GOVERNOR'S OFFICE,
SACRAMENTO, February 29, 1940.

*To the Honorable Members of the Assembly,
Sacramento, California.*

GREETINGS: I am returning herewith without my signature Assembly Bill No. 62, entitled "An act to submit to the people at the general election in November, 1940, amendments proposed to the Constitution of the State of California by the extraordinary session of the Legislature, to take effect immediately."

My objections to this bill are as follows:

This bill provides that constitutional amendments proposed by the Legislature and adopted at the extraordinary session of the Legislature shall be submitted to the people at the general election to be held November 5, 1940. The provisions that the arguments should be filed with the Secretary of State within sixty days after the final adjournment of the special session of the Legislature do not take into consideration the possibility of a late adjournment of the Legislature, and it would seem that the time for submission of a constitutional amendment should not depend upon the date of the adjournment of the Legislature, but should depend upon some other event. A separate bill for each amendment adopted might provide a more definite means of fixing the time for filing of arguments. As to the amendment relating to old age assistance liens which has already been adopted, for instance, it would be easy to fix a date.

A further important objection to this bill is that it makes no provisions for the filing of arguments in the event of the failure of the designated members of the Legislature to file the arguments. In so serious a matter as the submission of an amendment to the Constitution of the State of California, it is important that the fullest opportunity be given for the expression of views both for and against the adoption of the amendment.

Respectfully submitted.

CULBERT L. OLSON,
Governor of California.

Motion to Print Report in Journal.

On motion of Mr. Weber, the following report was ordered printed in the Journal:

Final Report of Assembly Committee on Legislative Procedure.

In pursuance of the duties imposed upon it by Assembly Resolution No. 78, your Committee on Legislative Procedure respectfully begs leave to report that it has completed its study of the problem of introducing uniformity of procedure, style and form in legislative printing, including bills, journals, histories, and other legislative publications.

Your committee congratulates itself upon having secured the services of Paul Mason, Esq., as its secretary. He has been of invaluable assistance in coordinating the studies of your committee with those of the committee established by Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 17 to secure uniformity of legislative printing.

A Style Book and standard forms for use in both Assembly and Senate publications have been prepared and presented to this honorable body.

Your committee also begs to report that it has terminated its consideration of the Joint Rules of the Senate and Assembly, a subject confided to its care by the Assembly in the resolution authorizing your committee's creation.

Your committee has recommended the adoption of a new Joint Rule No. 35 to facilitate the creation of investigating committees of the Legislature.

This rule is intended to vest in all such committees the powers which experience has demonstrated are necessary for their proper functioning, instead of granting such authority separately in each resolution creating such a committee.

The powers granted in the Rule include authority to employ a secretary and other assistants, to issue subpoenas and examine witnesses, to call upon State officers for aid, and to expend the funds provided for the use of a committee.

None of the appropriation of $100 made to the committee has up to this date been expended.

Respectfully submitted.

CHARLES M. WEBER, Chairman.
CHARLES W. LYON.
SETH MILLINGTON.

Report.

Report of Senator J. I. Wagy, on hearings held by a Congressional Committee on National Migratory problems; in San Francisco, September 24th and 25th, and continued in Los Angeles on September 28, 1940.

Personnel of the Committee:

Honorable John H. Tolan, Chairman, California;
Claude W. Parsons, Illinois;
John J. Sparkman, Alabama;
Frank C. Osmer, Jr., New Jersey;
Carl T. Curtis, Nebraska.

The committee had sent out special field investigators who seemed to have covered midwestern and Pacific Coast States pretty thoroughly and brought in some thirty-four witnesses from various parts of the territory covered, who testified as to why they came to California. The great majority of these migrants were farmers or farm workers who stated that on account of drought, and other economic factors in their locality, they just starved out and had to go somewhere else or starve to death where they were. Many of them migrated to other States before coming to California, while others admitted they came directly to California as they had been informed by friends and relatives residing here that wages were much better in California.

One man stated that he received 45¢ per hundred pounds more for picking cotton in California than he received at home and that he could pick nearly double the amount of pounds of cotton here per day, and remarked, "Why should I not come to California when I could do so much better here in earning sufficient money to take care of my family?" None of the witnesses would admit that the easier and higher relief checks in California influenced them to come here; however, it was very apparent that the field investigators had picked their witnesses and did not bring any of the professional relievers, to testify before the committee. None of the witnesses had seen or heard of any "help wanted" advertisements from California.

There were a number of prominent people that appeared and testified before the committee and they were all agreed on one phase of the subject, namely, that the migratory problem was a national one and could not be considered as a local problem, but were very much divided as to method of solving the problem.

Governor Olson presented his ideas on the subject and made the following recommendations:

- I. A unified legislative program to be organized through cooperation of the 11 western States or those affected by migration.
- II. Planned resettlement through Farm Security Administration, using the U. S. Housing Authority to do away with the slums and prevent the spread of the slum evils.
- III. Investigate the private employment services and labor contractors.
- IV. Inclusion of agricultural labor under proper legislation through wages and hours, social security and the National Labor Relations Act.
- V. Maintenance of border stations to check the flow of migrants from east to west through affected States.
- VI. Uniform provisions as to residence requirements and relief standards.
- VII. Works program jointly by the States and Federal Government.

PHILIP FERNANDEZ, a licensed labor contractor for cannerys, stated that he usually employed migrant help and found them very satisfactory when not dominated by agitators; that general run of migrant help was not easily influenced in joining the agitator group, but were afraid of them and often left their work through fear of bodily harm for themselves and members of their family.

VARDEN FULLER, expert from the Bureau of Agricultural Economics of Berkeley, stated that the migrant to California was merely the latest stage of a westward migration.

WILLIAM S. HOPKINS, Associate Professor of Economics, Stanford University, stated that the migratory labor problem we now have is directly related to the disorganized labor market, and also stated that agricultural labor should have the right to organize as industrial labor.

HELEN GAHAGAN, wife of movie actor Melvyn Douglas, gave quite a lengthy discourse on migratory labor and its problems which dealt with the problem more from a sentimental or Utopian aspect, than from a business or practical standpoint.

JOHN S. WATSON, President of Associated Farmers of California, criticized further encouragement of the bureaucratic method of administration of Federal aids, such as the Farm Security Administration and migrant camps, claiming that the migrants are set apart from the community, with no chance of assimilation and that the camps are placed in communities without consulting the residents and that these camps become a rendezvous for radical and subversive elements. Mr. Watson also stated that California farmers are not opposed to assimilating these migrants but that we can not assimilate them fast enough under present economic conditions.

Mrs. WALTER KNAPP, of the California Congress of Parents and Teachers, pointed out the educational responsibility to the migrant children.

WILLIAM P. SHEPARD, western chief of the American Public Health Association, claimed that the migrants' living conditions created the greatest health problem.

R. B. ROBERTSON, associate director of industrial relations for Lockheed Aircraft Corporation, Burbank, stated that from 35 to 50 per cent of job applicants are out of State people and that 75 per cent of these people are unemployable and that the company is compelled to recruit the majority of its skilled workers from eastern centers.

DEAN CLAUDE B. HUTCHISON of the University of California College of Agriculture, stated that it was useless to split up California's huge industrial farms into family size farms to aid in solving the migrant problem, stating that family sized farms can not succeed in California if the State continues to grow specialized crops.

ROY T. PIKE, a practiced farmer on a large scale, takes issue with Dean Hutchison and stated positively and emphatically that the family sized farms succeed and compete with the large industrialized farms especially in times like the present as the family can grow practically the greater portion of their food supplies and by doing their own work their overhead costs are practically nil.

There were many statements filed with the committee by individuals and organizations giving their views on various aspects of the subject and I was able to procure a copy of a portion of them which I attach hereto and make a part of this report.

STATEMENT OF S. G. RUBINOW, the problem of interstate migration as it affects the California State Relief Administration.

Statement of the migrant situation by Thomas W. McManus.

Statement of the Farm Security Administration by Dwain Pearson.

Statement relative to the effect of interstate migration on California community life by Rev. Clarence Wagner.

Statement by California State Chamber of Commerce.

Respectfully submitted.

(signed) J. I. WAGY, Chairman Subcommittee of the Legislative Fact-finding Committee.

By Messrs. Cassidy, Johnson, Miller, George P., Sheridan, Phillips, Carlson, Meehan.
